UNSEASONABLE SPLASH

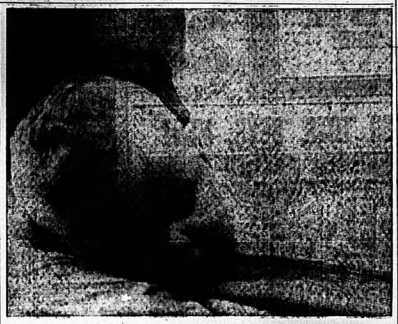
SEEK RED CROSS SUPPORT

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet and Communist East German Red Cross organizations Monday night urged the Red Cross throughout the world to join them in calling for a ban on nuclear bomb tests. A joint declaration issued in Dresden said it would be helpful if the British and American Red Cross joined the move because "the governments of these two countries have not yet agreed to discontinue tests or mass destruction weapons."



HIGH SUICIDE RATE

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese police today erected more than 100 signs reading 'photo mate" (wait a minute) on Mount Ikoma, Western Japan, to discourage potential suicides. Police, noting that there already have been 12 suicides and 12 unsuccessful attempts on the mountain this year, said many a young romantic couple "had been frightened to death" by stumbling over the skeleton or decomposed body of a suicide victim.

Woman Pro Takes Over Golf Job

She is Mrs. Cathan Shoniker, 30, who becomes assistant pro to her father, Bill MacWilliams.

MacWilliams has coached his daughter for the last two years and is enthusiastic about her abilities.

"There is no reason why she shouldn't make a success of it," he said. "Cathan knows the game well enough to teach and should be fine, especially with beginners."

Mrs. Shoniker has already filed her application for membership in the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association and anticipates no trouble.

"This is a little unusual," said Bill Kerr of Montreal, national head of the CPGA. "Still I don't see why it shouldn't be accepted."

Mrs. Shoniker is the first woman golf pro in Canada since the late Ada Newton was pro at Windsor and the Muskoka Lakes district.

Newk Finds Aaron Problem

MILWAUKEE (UP) — In the fifth inning of Tuesday's Milwaukee-Brooklyn game — won 8-3 by Milwaukee — Braves' Henry Aaron belied a changeup pitch by lobber Don Newcombe to the centrefield fence for a double. It was his second hit off Newk.

With time still "in" the bulking Newcombe ambled off the mound to within about 10 feet of the bag where Aaron was standing.

"Oh, oh," said the boys in the press box, "looks like the dust-ups will be flying now."

"Naw," said Aaron afterward.

"All he said to me was 'What's your wife feeding you?' I said 'steak' and he said 'How does she fix it?' With onions, I said."

Was that all that was said?

"Aw, no," Aaron added, "he said, 'Where do I get to pitch you Henry, under the plate'?"

Controversial Questions Freely Discussed on Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—That was a fairly hair-raiser of television when Mike Wallace interviewed Philip Wylie on his ABC-TV Sunday evening program.

It was, to begin with, a good idea to select as the subject for Monday's Day that excellent American writer who 15 years ago belabored the most obnoxious form of Mom in execution of "Opera.

Why Wylie was willing to go under the scorching lights is understandable. He's a courageous guy, ever willing to tilt a windmill when no knight in armor is around.

COMPLEX SUBJECT

Why Wallace was willing to tackle Wylie is less understandable. Writers make difficult interviews. They're complex people, inclined to be dilatory. The better they are, the more complex they are—and Wylie is the best.

In any event, it was a good bout. Wallace, who has demonstrated that he is not opposed to cant and hypocrisy as Wylie, found himself either on the side of the angels.

To keep his program moving he was reduced to that old Inquisitor-trick:

AT THE BELLE — Elizabeth Taylor romances with Rock Hudson in "Giant", WarnerColor presentation, from the novel by Edna Ferber. The late James Dean is seen as the ambitious Jett Rink, and Carroll Baker as Luz Benedict II. "Giant" is offering three hours and twenty-one minutes of drama, romance and action in a George Stevens production, also continuing at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY — Duty Calls. Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum in a poignant scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's distinguished film "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison", now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. In this scene, the two recognize their respective calls to service, despite the unusual circumstances that have marooned them on a lonely island behind enemy lines in World War II.

Patterson Will Defend Title Says Manager

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson — he's the heavyweight champion in case the name sounds unfamiliar—finally is being taken off the shelf and will defend his title.

The details won't be known until later today because Gus D'Amato, his manager, is a mysterious fellow except when he is blasting the International Boxing Club. In fact, the only thing certain is that the IBC won't promote the bout.

In calling a press conference D'Amato said only: "I will make an announcement regarding the promotion of the next heavyweight championship fight and Patterson's first defence of his title."

Patterson's opponent?

Probably Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, if it isn't Jackson, the collective eyebrows of the boxing crowd will be raised, mostly because there is no one else around who appears ready to tackle the champion.

Umpire Files False Report; Gets $100 Fine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Leslie O'Connor of the Pacific Coast League has fined umpire John Nenezich $100 for filing a false report against manager Clay Bryant of Los Angeles Angels.

O'Connor ruled Tuesday that when Nenezich thumbed Bryant from the field during a game at Sacramento April 23, he had "merely surmised" the Angel manager had made "abusive, insulting and very objectionable remarks."

Nenezich's report of the incident, said O'Connor, "directly, positively and unequivocally" attributed to Bryant the uncomplimentary remarks made by someone on the Los Angeles bench. The manager was subsequently fined on the basis of the report. The fine was revoked.

Frank Questions Answered With Candor by Errol Flynn

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — This is the era of the tough interview, so I decided to try one out on Errol Flynn.

If magazine, radio and television interviewers can get away with asking barbed questions, why shouldn't I? Especially with such a likely target as Flynn, who has gone darning of the scandal sheets.

There was only one trouble. Flynn was too darned charming. He barred my thrusts with the same ease as when he was parrying buckles for Warner Brothers. As dashing and fit as ever, Flynn was sipping a rum and pineapple juice drink called a Franco ("no political significance") at the Mexico City Country Club. He was finishing his last day's work on the film Also Rises at the nearby Churubusco studios.

SCANDAL DIDN'T HURT

I tossed him a dilly: Did the scandal of his sex-ridden trial hurt his career?

"Not at all," he said genially. "The reason that it didn't is that most of the public saw nothing wrong. Any normal person accepted the same way in the same circumstances.

"The whole thing was so normal that in France they couldn't figure out what all the fuss was about."

(A Monte Carlo judge cleared Flynn of a rape charge in connection with the alleged visit of a 15-year-old French girl aboard his yacht in August, 1946.)

I cried another tack. With Flynn here and his wife, Patricia Wymore, in Spain, the gossip columnists have reported they are separated for more than a year.

"Dear me, I suppose they have to write about somebody," he commented airily. "I'm not going to knock their racket.

"As a matter of fact, I just sent Pat a Mother's Day cable last night. I wish I could remember what I said. I was out on the town and I'm afraid the message was a bit hazy."

How about this: Is he still in the red?

"Oddly enough, no," he said. "By a strange set of circumstances, I am in the black. The last picture I made with Warners was cleaned up a couple of years ago. I didn't receive a penny from the Whittier Tell fiasco, which cost me a pile, and was never finished. My yacht and estate in Jamaica is a bother, really, when I try to dispose of Pat on a purchase, she'll say, 'Sonny Jim, I know you're in the black'."

His trouble always was that as soon as I made a lot of money, I started to spend it, I gather I should have paid more attention in school so I could read the books.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

According to the report of the Arena Commission to city council Monday night the McFarland senior hockey club emerged with some eight thousand dollars on the right side of the ledger, in addition the club has equipment to the value of some $5,600 paid for.

This no doubt will come as a surprise to not only the members of the eastern circuit but those of the western and northern associations as well.

The Pembroke Lumber Kings operated at a seasonal loss of over $5,000 according to a newspaper report from the northern town. Manager Ray Miron of the Cornwall Chevies stated publicly "We have made money this season, the first in a number of years." Ray had no statistics available at the time.

It is not known how the Kingston CKLC's wound up. This will probably come to light at the Eastern League's spring meeting being held in Kingston Thursday evening. Whithy? Nuff said.

The North Bay Trappers are reported to have lost $10,000 last winter despite a $7,500 subsidy and a club that went to the Eastern Canada senior finals, In Michigan, the Soo Indians financial statement for the 1956-57 campaign shows a net loss of $10,430. This comes after a subsidy of $12,000.

The reaction of city and district fans to senior hockey here is seen in the commission's figures of an average attendance of 1,749 for 56 home games and an average of $3285 for five playoff tilts. The average schedule "take" was $1,875 and the playoffs $3,062.

The total income, the report stated, was $73,085.85 of which $61,427.65 was gate receipts. The balance accrued from donations, program, pool money (an estimate), insurance claims, draws etc. Total expenses for the club amounted to $65,006.82 of which $47,067.20 went to players salaries.

While some sceptics will probably take the above figures with tongue in cheeck, there is no reason to believe they are not correct. There is a big difference in community-sponsored clubs and those 'fathered' by private interests, individual or otherwise. It is true that private sponsors get a percentage of the box office take while the receipts in their entirety go to the sponsoring community organization whether it be an arena commission or another civic body.

Whether a private sponsor would have made money with the McFarlands last season depends entirely on what percentage arrangements he or they would have made with the arena commission. Percentages differ in various centres. For instance the Pembroke Community Centre Committee offered a private sponsor an 40-20 percentage. This is a high figure and it is doubtful if it is in vogue in any other part of the province.

However, the report submitted to the council was vastly different to that shown last year when the hockey team operated in the senior "B" classification. As was mentioned before, fandom took senior "A" hockey to its hearts and there is every reason to believe that next year will be bigger and better than the inaugural season. Efforts are now under way to form a booster club, in fact the organization of this association was suggested by fans themselves.

As Manager Drury Denyes mentioned in an interview with this department a short time ago, the entering of a Belleville club in senior hockey last fall was a "gamble." This city's representatives at a senior "A" league meeting provided the only dissenting vote to a motion to turn senior "A". Pressure was brought to bear and with no private sponsor willing to take up the cudgels, the arena commission, rather than have hockey die here, decided to throw in its lot. The die was cast — and the gamble paid off. The city profited, for council was told that without hockey, the arena would have operated at a loss of $9,500.

WRESTLING

Gene Kiniski, the bellowing Western grappler, may have talked himself into a situation that he'll not be able to handle. The voluble Edmonton matman insists that he can defeat any grappler in the world. Friday night at the Belleville Arena Kiniski may have to eat that boisterous statement for he has been matched with Prince Maiava, the bushy haired Samoan. Maiava isn't just a run-of-the-mill wrestler. The Prince has met the best in the game and more than held his own You can be sure that his unorthodox tactics will cause Kiniski plenty of trouble.

The amusing antics of the midgets will be featured in a tag team bout. The high-flying twosome of Roger Littlebrook and The Brown Panther will go against the newly formed alliance of Sky Low Low and Ivan The Terrible. The opening match will have Pat Flanagan meeting Honolulu ace, Jack Walker.

SIGNS WITH LIONS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Topsy Lunn, quarterback on Georgia Tech's Gator Bowl football team, has signed to play football for British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Lunn was the top passer on the Tech football team last fall.

New Whiz Kids Show Power With Seven Victories in 10; Tigers' Maas Stops Red Sox

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A new generation of "Whiz Kids" appears to have emerged upon the Philadelphia horizon. They promise to haunt the Phillies back into the National League spotlight after six years of frustration and disappointment.

Some of the original "Whiz Kids," like Richie Ashburn, Granny Hamner, Willie Jones, Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons are still on the scene but they've been forced into the background by such youngsters as Ed Bouchee, Harry Anderson, Bob Bowman, Jack Sanford, Don Cardwell and Jack Farrell. This sextet has been largely responsible for the Phils' current streak which has produced seven victories in the last 10 games.

Three of the six were instrumental in Philadelphia's 10-3 victory over Cincinnati Tuesday night which snapped the Redlegs' 12-game winning streak and knocked them out of a first place tie with Milwaukee. The victory also boosted the Phillies and Brooklyn into third place in the tight pennant race.

The three were outfielder Anderson, first baseman Bouchee and pitcher Cardwell. Anderson walloped a home run and single, drove in two runs and scored two. Bouchee also hit a home run and single, drove in two runs and scored one. Farrell, coming in the assistance of Cardwell after Cincinnati had scored 5-4 in the fifth inning, retired five straight batters before giving way to a pinch hitter. He got credit for his second victory.

Cardwell substituted possession of first place, with a 3-2 victory over Dodgers, who dropped into a tie with Braves and Reds. Both games off the pace.

In other games, New York Giants defeated St. Louis 5-3 and Pittsburgh outslugged Chicago Cubs 8-6.

A pair of old Dodger killers—Joe Adcock and Bob Buhl—did it again. Adcock, who hammered 13 homers off Brooklyn pitchers last year, drove in triple but it drove in one of Milwaukee's two runs off Don Newcombe in the first inning. Adcock carried over the second run himself on an infield single by Chuck Tanner. Billy Bruton drove in Milwaukee's final run with a sixth inning triple.

Buhl, who whipped the Dodgers eight times last year, was the winner although he needed help from Ernie Johnson with two out in the eighth.

Cincinnati used 19 players, including five pitchers in a vain attempt to better its modern league record of 18 straight, established in 1939 and repeated this season.

A two-run homer by pinch hitter Bob Thurman gave them a temporary lead in the fifth but the Phils roared back with four runs in the seventh on four hits and added two more on Bouchee's ninth inning homer to offset Cincinnati's desperate two-run bid in its half of the ninth.

A pair of home runs by Hank Sauer helped Giante defeat Cards. Ruben Gomez yielded seven hits to register his fifth triumph but it took a sterling relief performance by Allen Worthington to clinch it. Worthington relieved the Puerto Rican righthander with one out and two on in the ninth and disposed of the next two batters on pop fouls to the catcher.

Frank Thomas banged a home run, two doubles and a single, drove in two runs and scored two as Pirates downed Cubs to climb within a half game of the seventh-place Cubs.

The victory went to Luis Arroyo, who relieved starter Ronnie Kline with Dee Isaacs loaded in the fourth. He struck out Walt Moryn and went on to fan nine in five innings.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duane (Duke) Maas, Detroit's slender righthander turned out during his last trip to Boston, reigned today as one of the top hurlers in the American League.

"It feels much better coming to Boston this time," Maas said Tuesday after posting his fifth triumph by blanking the Red Sox, 2-0, on a masterful five-hitter.

"I just didn't have control and the Tigers sent me to Charleston in the American Association on my last trip here last July," Maas said. "I guess they couldn't do much else with my 0-7 mark."

Maas, manager Jack Tighe and pitching coach Wilis Hudlin all have the same answer for the former Utica, Mich., fairyman's success this season—control.

Maas dazzled the Red Sox in hurling his fifth victory since losing in relief to Kansas City early this season. All the hits off him were singles and he allowed only one runner to advance as far as second base.

OTHERS RAINED OUT

It was the only game played as rain forced postponement of scheduled games between Detroit and New York, Cleveland and Baltimore and Chicago and Washington.

Maas' well-distributed possession of first place, with a 3-2 victory over Dodgers, who dropped into a tie with Braves and Reds. Both games off the pace.

In other games, New York Giants defeated St. Louis 5-3 and Pittsburgh outslugged Chicago Cubs 8-6.

A pair of old Dodger killers—Joe Adcock and Bob Buhl—did it again. Adcock, who hammered 13 homers off Brooklyn pitchers last year, drove in triple but it drove in one of Milwaukee's two runs off Don Newcombe in the first inning. Sell Radio, TV Grey Cup Game For $131,000

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Rugby Union has sold the television and radio rights for the 1957 Grey Cup game here in November for a guaranteed $131,000, it was reported Tuesday.

The total amount for the CRU could be increased by another $44,000 by expansion of TV and radio facilities across Canada.

A Montreal brewery has obtained the TV rights for a basic $101,000 and if the CBC network is extended to Edmonton and Calgary by the date of the game, Nov. 30, so those cities can receive the game live, the CRU will get another $24,000.

The basic radio rights, obtained by a Toronto advertising agency, are sold for $30,000 and should the radio facilities be expanded an additional $20,000 will go to the CRU.

The deal involves a total possible maximum of $125,000 for the TV rights and a maximum of $50,000 for radio.

$10,000 IN 1932

In 1932, the first year the game was televised, the CBC bought the rights for $10,000. The price went up to $25,000 in 1953, $45,000 in 1954 and $55,000 in 1955 and it nearly doubled to $101,000 last year when the rights were bought by the same brewery which has the TV rights this year.

The possible $175,000 maximum for the TV and radio rights this year would bring revenue from the game to a record of more than $400,000.

The previous record high was $250,000 in 1956 obtained from gate receipts, television, movie and program revenue.

As it did last year, the Montreal brewery will sponsor the game on the TV in Quebec, where beer advertising on TV and radio is legal. It is expected to sell the rights for the rest of Canada to another sponsor.

Quebec Beaten By Barbarians

MONTREAL (CP) — Britain's Barbarian rugger club cleaned up a six-game series in Canada Tuesday night with a 41-3 victory over Quebec All-Stars in a rain-spattered match.

With hand-picked players from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, the Barbarians ended their Canadian tour with a total score of 227 points, allowing only 24 against them.

The British team will fly to New York Thursday, and have a few hours of sightseeing before leaving by air Friday for Britain.

Don't Want Harvey

No-Cut Contract Separates Ron Knox From Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Ronnie Knox says the only thing separating him and Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football union is his demand for a no-cut contract.

But Argo managing director Lew Hayman said Tuesday night he would sign with his decision to give no player such a contract in 1957.

"I pointed that out to Harvey (Ronnie's step - father) when I talked to him on the 'phone," said Hayman. "I may be wrong in principle, but for this year at least, that's the way it'll be."

From Los Angeles Harvey said Tuesday Ronnie was "standing" toward Argos and the only thing delaying his signature was a no-cut guarantee.

"They'd better get on the ball," Harvey said. "If they aren't going to agree to this clause the least they could do is drop him from their negotiation list."

MAYBE LIONS

He said there was a possibility British Columbia Lions would be interested if he wasn't on the Toronto list. Hayman said he has no intention of dropping Ronnie.

Harvey said he has been conferring with Chicago Bears of the National Football League, who have the U.S. draft rights to Ronnie, but he admitted Canada was still ahead. "Money talks. It never hurt anyone."

Ronnie is not expected to be out of the U.S. National Guard until Sept. 5.

"By that time," said Hayman, "he would have ruined our exhibition games and the first four league games. We have to direct our thinking accordingly."

Hayman has said if Argos sign Ronnie they will expect him to come to Toronto without step-father Harvey.

"Ronnie alone can be a great player for us," said Hayman. "But we don't want to get involved with Harvey."

In line with their new contract policy Argos had the option on quarterback Tor Dublinski expire. Dublinski was signed to a $17,000 no-cut contract two years ago by Harry Sonshine, then the club's general manager.

He led Argos to the Big Four finals in 1955 but last year injured his knee in an exhibition game and sat out the season, as Argos finished in last place.

Hayman hopes to sign Dublinski again, but not on a no-cut basis.

The Knox family broke into Canadian football in 1950 when Hamilton Tiger-Cats hired him for a reported $1,000 per game. He injured second-string quarter behind Nobby Wirkowski and was used mainly in the defensive safety spot.

Midway through the season he left Hamilton when Harvey quarrelled with coach Jim Trimble over his refusal to play Ronnie on offense.

He finished the season with the last-place Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, taking over from injured quarterback Don Klosterman.

TO COACH REDMEN

MONTREAL (CP)—Ray Cicia, former guard with Montreal Alouettes has been taken on as line coach for the McGill University Redmen, it was announced Tuesday.

Cicia, unable to play for most of last season because of an injury spent five years with the Alouettes after coming up from Wake Forest University, North Carolina.

Bantam Champ Whips American

HOUSTON (AP) — Pat Supple, 119, the Canadian bantamweight champion from Montreal, scored a lopsided 10-round decision over Art Sentlor, 120, Los Angeles here Tuesday night before a crowd of 1,800.

Sentlor absorbed terrific punishment throughout the fight but never went down, although he was on the ropes in the third and sixth rounds. It was Supple's 28th straight pro victory without loss. He has 14 knockouts.

Leafs Defeat Red Wings 10-4; Marlins Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Eddie Lopat's Richmond Virginians, second division finishers ever since they entered the International League three seasons ago, are still in first place today. But it is thanks to fireballing Jackie Brown, rookie pitcher of the sixth-place Columbus Jets.

Brown, 24, allowed second-place Miami three hits and struck out 11 Tuesday night as Jets won their second straight over Marlins 3-0. The loss prevented Miami from moving into a virtual tie for first with the Vees, who ended a six-game victory string with a 5-1 loss to last-place Havana. Richmond holds the league by one game.

JOE POWERS LEAPS

In other action, Stan Jok hit a grand slam home run and a double to power Toronto Maple Leafs to a 10-4 victory over Rochester Red Wings. Toronto moved within a game and a half of first place. Montreal at Buffalo was rained out.

Brown did not permit a hit after Miami first inning and went three for three at the plate as he earned his first decision.

Columbus scored its first run on singles by Johnny Lipon and Russ Bullock and a Miami error. Jets' other run came in the second on Dick Barone's double and Brown's single.

Pat Scantlebury allowed Richmond six hits as he won his third game in seven decisions. The lefty walked one and struck out five.

WILD THROW

Richmond scored first, but Don Morejon's double in the fourth drove in the tying run. A wild throw by second baseman Bob Kline allowed Havana's second run in the sixth. Wylly Quintana hit a home run for Havana in the seventh.

Jok's sixth home run made him league leader in roundtrippers and highlighted the Maple Leafs' nine-run second inning. Jack Daniels homered for Toronto in the eighth.

Duke Markell, the Rochester starter, lost his second game. He has won three. Don Johnson was the winner, his third triumph. He has lost once.

Rain stopped play for 45 minutes in the fifth inning. Johnson finished the inning when play resumed, but left in the sixth when his arm stiffened. Jack Crimian relieved him.

On the Tracks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Charging up fast in the home stretch, Mrs. Connie Ring's Market Basket won the $17,150 Goose Girl Stakes for three-year-old fillies by five lengths at Hollywood Park Tuesday.

Jockey George Taniguchi's winning filly lacked speed in the early part of the six-furlong feature but gained in the final drive to whip the betting favorite, Tourbillonette, with Inquisitor third in the field of 12.

The time was 1:10 1-5 over a dry track.

Peter Fuller's Challefont won the $10,000 Bill McAuley Memorial Handicap before a crowd of 2,886 at Lincoln Downs, Lincoln, R.I.

The three-year-old colt finished a length in front of Stymies Dream and then withstood a claim of foul from jockey George Gibb, rider of Zolt, who finished third. His time for the seven furlongs was 1:22.

Open Races In Italy Are Suspended

ROME (AP)—Italy's automobile and motorcycle federations Tuesday night announced the suspension of all open road races for the rest of the year as a result of the 13 deaths in Sunday's Mille Miglia.

The two federations informed the government of their decision 24 hours after a half dozen drivers and amateurs had said they would demand a parliamentary ban on such races.

Three drivers and ten spectators, including five children, were killed in Sunday's 1,000-mile classic—last of the big European open road races.

The decision by the automobile and motorcycle federations affects half a dozen regional road races scheduled for the rest of the year.

Giants Buy Sandy Consuegra

ST. LOUIS (AP) — New York Giants Tuesday night announced the purchase from Baltimore Orioles of right-hander Sandy Consuegra.

The Giants said he will be used exclusively in the bullpen, a sore spot so far with manager Bill Rigney's forces.

Consuegra, 36, had an 0-0 record with Baltimore this year. He pitched five innings in relief, allowed one run and four hits.

Durelle Will Fight Wallace On May 30

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation has sanctioned a championship bout between Canadian light-heavyweight titleholder Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, Que., and Gordon Wallace of Brantford, federation commissioner Gene Letourneau said Tuesday night.

The 15-round fight will be held in Moncton, N.B., May 30.

At the same time, another 15-round fight will be held to fill the vacant flyweight title. First-ranked Gaston Bisson of Quebec City will meet second - ranked Lloyd Gordon of Saint John, N.B.

Wallace is British Empire lightheavyweight champ but that title will not be at issue, Mr. Letourneau said. Empire titles are sanctioned only by the British Boxing Board of Control and must be bi-rounders.

"It has been done that national and Empire titles have gone on the line in the same fight," Mr. Letourneau said, "but it will not be the case in the Moncton fight."

MISSES MAGIC MARK

OXFORD, England (AP)—Four minute miler Derek Ibbotson Tuesday tuned up for the Coliseum Relays at Los Angeles with a 4:06.2 mile at an Oxford track and field meet.

The 25-year-old Briton held off a strong challenge by Derek Johnson, 1956 Olympic Games silver medal winner in the 800-metres, and won by 25 yards. Johnson came second in 4:06.

Small Field Shapes up For Preakness

BALTIMORE AP)—One of the smallest fields in years shaped up today for Saturday's $100,000-added Preakness, with Calumet Farm's Iron Liege expected to have only three youngsters in a bid for his second big victory of the spring.

The Kentucky Derby winner, who dramatically assumed No. 1 status in his stable with the untimely injury to highly heralded Gen. Duke, would strengthen his claim to the three-year-old championship with a repeat in the 31st running of the event.

NOT HEARD FROM

Pimlico officials had hoped until late Tuesday at least seven might go, but they acknowledged the field would probably total no more than a half dozen after failure to hear from Cain Hoy Stable, owner of One-Eyed King.

Calumet closed the list of probables to Iron Liege; Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, the 6-5 favorite who finished fourth in the Derby; Clifford Lussky's Federal Hill, the early leader and 22nd finisher in the Derby, and three fillies whose form fared well against tougher opposition.

Aces' Tessier Takes Trophy

OTTAWA (CP)—Right Winger Orval Tessier of Quebec Aces, Quebec Hockey League champions Tuesday night was awarded the Gil O. Julien Memorial Trophy as the best French-speaking athlete in Ontario and western Quebec.

Tessier, 23, who helped Aces win the Edinburgh Trophy, emblematic of Canadian minor professional supremacy, qualified for the award in a game of the fans he was born in Cornwall.

The trophy is offered annually by Ottawa French newspaper Le Droit in memory of the late Gilbert Ovila Julien, the daily's sports editor for 25 years. It was first awarded in 1942.

Tessier received the trophy from Rev. Modeste Mestquit, director of the University of Ottawa's institute of physical education, during a television broadcast from the newspaper's offices over CFOFT, the CBC's local French station.

WELLINGTON CRESCENT

ALMOST DESIRABLE AREA — here we have found that there are no sold signs within a very few days of being listed. Now we have a delightful four - bedroom home that is in spotless condition. Let us show you around and see if it is not exactly to which you will agree when you inspect it. Here is a beautiful new and the interior decorating is complete. You will find that there are storms, screens, and awnings on the windows, and the grounds are nicely landscaped, as well as a third bedroom that could be fitted for a guest or for the owners' use if you need the room. There is an oil furnace. Drive around—have a look—you will see our sign and then call for an appointment. We feel sure you think you would like it.

SOUTHVIEW AVE.

A NICE LITTLE BRICK AND CAPE COD HOME that had only one owner since brand new. This one is just over the line from the city limits and the taxes are only $70 with city services. Five rooms in all, with a lovely kitchen and bath. Let us show you this home that would make you feel right at $13,490, with terms.

STOREY & HALF

BARGAIN

MUST BE SOLD and ready to go at $8,500. Three bedrooms all in all with a living and dining area. Modern kitchen, well planned out all on level ground on a good lot. These homes are hard to find at this price. $12,500. You may see it anytime.

A MONEY MAKER

NOT JUST ONE HOME, BUT TWO and all in one solid brick building with a store in front and 3 from front St. There are four bedrooms on each side, each with a living and dining room also a kitchen and bath. Let us explain at the price of $11,700.

$2,000. DOWN

DO COME DOWN AND HAVE A LOOK AT THIS HOME with three bedrooms, 4 really large living rooms, dining room, a dat, a kitchen, a bath, plus a basement all under one roof. Steel furnace, steel basement walls. Let us show you over this home at the price $11,500. It would be a pleasure to show you this one any time at your convenience.

Put on Probation

STRATFORD CP)—Mrs. Vera Landers, 37, of the Tavistack area convicted last Wednesday of intent to conceal birth, was placed on three years' probation Tuesday.

She was also ordered to pay court costs and to post a $5,000 peace bond.

The charge arose from the death of an infant female born to Mrs. Landers March 27. The child died of ...loth and was later buried in

At St. Thomas, Laber-Minister Wicks of B.C's Social Credit government promised that a national government will help build a road up a housing construction department specializing in low-cost interest rates to individual home buyers, with the interest deductible from income tax.

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton said a provincial party in Alberta will be formed to "put the province on a prosperity basis." A Liberal candidate in Edmonton East, Alex Ross, made similar noises at a rally in support of the three Hamilton Liberal candidates.

In Montreal, ten of the four Progressive Conservative members of the last Parliament from Quebec called for a return to the "true meaning of the British North America Act," and for measures to ward off the campaigns of party candidates on Montreal Island.

William Hamilton, member for Montreal Notre - Dame - de - Grace, and W. J. (Jack) Dalvesco, member for Quebec West, attacked the federal government for encroaching on provincial rights.

Stanley Knowles said exploitation of Canada's new industrialists" is a key issue in the June 10 federal election.

The veteran CCF campaigner, member for Winnipeg North Centre in the last Parliament, told a Victoria, B.C., election meeting Liberals and Conservatives here Monday night that the main issues can be reduced to one question: "Is Canada to be exploited by a few industrialists for private profit or is it to be developed for the

Captain Alan Clarke, 25, his copilot, stewardess and 19 passengers died on a stormy Sunday night when the westbound North Star crumpled up against the peak in the Cascade range of southern British Columbia.

LONG A MYSTERY

Far more than five months, the plane's disappearance was a mystery. It was known that it was returning to Vancouver after reporting trouble in the No. 2 engine when only an hour out.

It was known also that the pilot had asked and been given permission to drop down—he was apparently steadily losing altitude — in the 8,000-foot level from 14,000. The RCAF said its radar track showed the returning airliner was flying on the extreme south or left edge of the 10-mile radio beam which marks the airway. This is regular flying procedure.

The radar track ended at 8,500-foot Silvertip Mountain, 100 miles east of Vancouver and this became the main search area in December.

The TCA plane, however, continued west another 20 miles. It went about five miles south of its former radar track and, apparently losing altitude, struck the southeast face of one of Mount Gesse's peaks at 7,600-feet.

The wreckage was embedded in a niche about 150 feet from the giant spire which has a precipice of gaunt, vertical granite 2,000 feet high.

Viewers of the peak estimate that if the pilot had gone only 30 or 40 feet to right-or left he would have cleared the mountain and, if he had maintained his altitude, had a clear flight home.

The search party had been asked to be on the look-out for money in large denominations.

D. D. Murphy, transport department official, said: "A Chinese passenger was carrying $80,000 in a money belt strapped to his body according to his relatives."

Harry Sherman said only one quarter and two cents were found. They did not disturb the bodies to look for personal effects.

Probe Wounding

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police are investigating the wounding of a woman golfer at the ninth tee of the Hillsdale golf club here, 20 miles north of Montreal.

Mrs. Molly Abelson, 34, of Montreal was shot Sunday as she waited at the tee with three women companions.

Police said the bullet struck Mrs. Abelson under the arm and travelled down into the stomach and intestines. She was taken to hospital in Montreal where her condition was reported good.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, May 16, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't insert new. Others will pass you by if you wait for opportunity. Avoid embarrassing situations, heated discussions, gossip. Keep a clear head.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Whether your tempo is fast or moderate, depending on requirements, be calmly analytical. Avoid anxiety.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Review old obligations, unfinished work or business before embarking on the new. It can be a smooth, productive period with a give-and-take attitude.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your choice of action should be dictated by personal, family and community needs. Finish important tasks early to allow for comfort and quiet in leisure hours.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Virgo offers some excellent opportunities if you will analyze and follow through intelligently. You might take on an unusual and far-reaching project if it has merit.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Patience, accuracy and moderation are the "big three" to heed now. And all three are possible. Familiar matters favored, more than new ventures.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You may be offered proposals which seem vague, questionable. Don't accept. Some excellent influences for familiar duties.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A special day that calls for special treatment. You have the ability to produce; do not fail yourself. Choose associates who appreciate your abilities, spur your ambitions. Good cheer!

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — The right attitude is important. You must will to win and then back your will with sustained, capable effort. Make the best possible use of your talents.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Don't wait for the competition to catch up or it may pass you. But don't strain. If irritated or slowed by fatigue, take steps to recuperate physically and mentally.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — A new idea, a new twist can enhance your productiveness. Superiors are always looking for fresh angles. Be sure to think well before acting, however.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Calmly help loved ones, friends over rough spots when time is available. You will be amply repaid for your efforts. Fine aspects! The gratitude of others will be measured in terms of money.

You born today are an active thinker and a constant do - er. You can dream, too. But you strive so eagerly for attainment that you cannot be classed with those who are solely dreamers. You love the peace and comfort of a good home, also delight in travel, making friends, in outdoor activities. Many noted athletes were born in Taurus, also musicians, sculptors, poets, religious, landscape artists, engineers. Your talents are suited to building, renovation, fashions, humorous interests, literature. You get along well with children. Curb the appetites, pray daily and you can have a tremendously useful life. Birthdate: William Seward, Amer. Statesman, Secretary of State under Lincoln.

Answer To Previous Puzzle

Prime Minister Answers Critics On Wheat Plan

GUELPH (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says Canadians would not "take kindly" to any plan to set up in Canada any wheat "give-away" program similar to that existing in the United States.

Canada, he told a political rally Tuesday night, is selling a lot of wheat, the equivalent of "more than an average crop each year," but because of the bumper prairie crops, "we still have had carryovers from one year to another."

The American wheat give-away program under which U.S. wheat was sold through long-term credit or for local currencies, had further complicated the Canadian situation.

"This, while very troublesome should be a temporary problem only. These surpluses will in time disappear because the U.S. is not naturally a wheat-exporting nation and the U.S. authorities are showing signs of returning to more orthodox wheat policies.

"And here I might say that Canadians think so little of this giveaway technique that they will not take kindly to the institution in this country of partial give-away programs for our wheat.

"There should always be a large demand for Canadian wheat, because Canada still produces the best bread wheat in the world, and produces it efficiently."

IVANHOE

W.I. Hears Talk on C.A.S. Work

The May meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Howard Cooke, with an attendance of 19 members and seven visitors.

The president opened the meeting in the usual manner and presided over the business. It was decided to have a short course on "Salads" later on. The W.I. visited Bannockburn and Eldorado W.I. on May 14th at the home of Mrs. Russell Empey. Plans were made to attend the district annual at Cooper on June 7th.

Mrs. George Wood gave a splendid paper on the motto, Be present, be punctual, be prepared to do your bit."

Mrs. Reg. Haggerty gave Current Events.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. John McInroy introduced the guest speaker, Miss Brant, of the Children's Aid. She is a "home finder" and finds her work most interesting. She said in part: "Every child has a right to have a happy home, love, sympathy and understanding."

The local society is responsible for child welfare in Belleville, Trenton and Hastings County. There are eight officers doing field work.

Miss Brant's talk was interesting and informative.

Mrs. Burton Haggerty thanked her on behalf of the members and presented her with a small gift.

Mrs. French conducted a song naming contest which was won by Jaye Gay.

Miss Jayne Gay gave some notes on "First Aid," and Mrs. McInroy demonstrated on making bandages and how to use them.

Mrs. Cooke and her assistant hostesses served refreshments.

Have Your Daughter Make A Dress At Singer's.

TRAIL TO WRECKAGE

It was no collision that piled these three cars in this position, but a wall of water that descended on the town of Lampasas, Texas. The wall was 10 feet high and it hit the town without warning, lifting entire buildings from their foundations and damaging 90 per cent of all structures. The cars were lifted off the ground by the rushing water and, when the water passed by, they were found as shown here.

MOIRA

Victory Class Marks 12th Anniversary

MOIRA — Moira Victory Class celebrated its 12th anniversary on Wednesday evening at Moira United Church, which was decorated with spring blossoms. A basket with 12 red roses was placed in the centre of the church in commemoration of the occasion. These were later given to Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson, eldest members of the class who entertained the "Kum-Double Club" of Halloway, the Endeavors Class of West Huntingdon and members of the United Church and Presbyterian Church at Fuller.

The Rev. J. Dyson was master of ceremonies for the evening, and opened the meeting with the theme song and prayer.

Mr. Milton Vandewater gave a brief outline of the past year's executives and also introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Kenneth Steward, Lakefield formerly of Moira who took for his subject, "Bringing Others to Jesus," which was most inspiring.

The program consisted of a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foster; a reading by Mrs. Emsley Hough, Halloway; a duet by Mrs. Coleman Townsend and Mrs. Gordon Roth, accompanied by Mrs. Elmerson on the piano; duets by Mrs. Earle Wannamaker and Miss Mary Thompson, of Fuller, and by Mr. and Mrs. Lainon, accompanied by Mrs. Grant; a reading by Mr. Mac Searles; duet by Mr. and Mrs. Dyson and a solo by Mrs. Grant.

Mrs. Milton Vandewater, president of the class, moved a vote of thanks to everyone for making the anniversary so successful. Refreshments were served by the ladies consisting of sandwiches, cookies, anniversary cake, ice cream and tea.

Mrs. Edward Emerson voiced thanks for the invitation and Mr. Clayton Wright moved his appreciation for each and everyone.

Members were present from Belleville and Foxboro.

REJECT JAPANESE PLEA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Monday politely but firmly rejected Japan's request that it call off atomic tests scheduled in Nevada this month. The rejection was made in a formal note signed by State Secretary Dulles, which expressed sympathy for Japan's fears that continued nuclear tests may harm humanity by raising the world's radiation level.

10,000 Farmers Wielding Knives Blockade City

Prevent Food Supplies Reaching Haiti's Capital

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti's political turmoil grew more violent today as some 10,000 farmers armed with knives blockaded the road to this capital to keep out food supplies.

Arson and sabotage were increasing. The government said troops and police were battling armed demonstrators in many communities to put down "a state of terror."

Army headquarters said the situation was critical, but the capital itself remained comparatively quiet.

The seven-man executive council, which is supposed to be arranging for elections June 16, had a marathon day of speech and muzzled the press, radio and judiciary in a desperate attempt to restore order.

PLEDGES ELECTION

The council, an interim government until a president can be elected, pledged again that free elections would be held, but said it was forced to abrogate the constitution's guarantees of liberty of expression because the republic's future was at stake.

Dr. Francois Duvalier, one of the leading candidates of the 10 probable presidency, claims that the council has rigged the voting in favor of his two chief opponents, Louis Bejole and Daniel Fignole. The leading presidential candidates named representatives to the council to run the government after riotous demonstrations ousted President Paul Magloire last December and two provisional governments fell.

Duvalier broke with the other candidates recently and pulled his representatives off the council.

WORLD'S FINEST ATOMIC REACTOR NEARLY READY

Chalk River Project Best Research Plant

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will complete construction within the next few weeks of what is regarded by nuclear scientists as the world's finest atomic research reactor.

Officials of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., say they expect the construction job—a six-year, $50,000,000 effort—will be finished by the end of the month. However, the powerful reactor, known by the name NRU, will not go into operation until it has been tested for at least two months.

The officials also said it is expected that operation of Canada's first atomic power plant, to be built near the Chalk River, Ont., federal research project, will take at least six months. Construction of the plant was suspended temporarily April 14 to enable scientists to incorporate important new technological advances in its design.

If no hitches develop, NRU which will have a power of 200,000 kilowatts, will be tested during summer. It will be officially opened by a ceiling ceremony likely will take place in October.

The reactor, housed in a 145-foot structure equivalent to a 13-storey building, will give Canada research and experimental facilities which can't be topped in the Western world. The reactor will produce substantial quantities of plutonium, used in atomic bombs to be sold under contract to the United States Atomic Energy Commission, and large quantities of radioactive isotopes, notably cobalt 60.

Increased Canadian production of cobalt 60 will enable Canada to vastly increase output of beam therapy units for treatment of cancer. The cobalt 60 shoots off gamma rays which attack cancer growths.

At present Canada must rely on cobalt 60 produced in the famed NRX reactor at Chalk River. However, NRX production is limited because it takes from 12 to 18 months to produce the isotope after ordinary cobalt metal has been inserted in the reactor and subjected to radioactive bombardment.

NRU will produce more cobalt 60 than the rest of the world's largest and its power rating will be nearly five times as great.

Construction of the electricity plant, known as Nuclear Power Demonstration, will be carried out by the joint builders—Atomic Energy of Canada, Ontario Hydro and Canadair Power Commission and Canadian General Electric.

Canadair will design changes which will raise the cost of the plant somewhat above the original estimate of $4,500,000. The new target date for its completion now is mid-1960 instead of mid-1959.

The plant is going up three miles south of Ontario Hydro's huge power plant on the Ottawa River near the village of Deep Rapids. It is 90 miles northwest of Ottawa. It is on the Ontario side of the river 20 miles north of the Chalk River atomic project.

Plan Distinctive Tolls Setup On Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States plan a distinctive St. Lawrence seaway navigation tolls setup that will be based partly on cargoes hauled by ships and partly on their carrying capacity.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority announced this here Wednesday but did not mention the big question of how long the two countries figure it will take to have the tolls wipe out their investment of about $500,000,000 in the seaway's shipping facilities.

The announcement was made simultaneously here by the Canadian authority and in Washington by the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

The official statement emphasized the idea of a joint cargo-tonnage capacity basis and said the studies for "a system within the limit of structure are still being studied by Canada-U.S. committees."

Armed Youths Secure $380 From Motel

KINGSTON (CP) — Two armed youths wearing white handkerchiefs over their faces Wednesday night held up the Motel Motel two miles from here and escaped with about $380 from the cashbox and the wallets of six guests.

They ripped out the phone in the lobby, then fired a shot into the floor when the guests and owner Mrs. Helen Scott and her husband did not immediately lie on the floor as ordered.

Surrenders Self In Accident Case

Police said Kennedy surrendered to police at Malton airport, after alighting from an aircraft arriving from Chicago.

Thomas Szczetanik, 35, was killed and two other Toronto Transit Commission workers were injured when a car crashed through a TTC streetcar's barrier in downtown Toronto.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The thrust of very cold air cleared skies through Ontario late Wednesday, but it also caused frost in all of Northern Ontario and in much of the south as well.

Skies will remain clear throughout the province until cloud moves into southwestern regions late Friday. Temperatures this morning ranged from 35 in the south to about 15 in the north. Frost may be expected tonight through most of the province.

MASS BURIAL ON MOUNTAIN PEAK PROPOSED

Airlifted to the scene of the crash of the TCA airliner on Mount Slesse, B.C., amateur mountain climbers Elfrida Pigou, Jack Russell, Joe Hutton and Paddy Sherman say that it will likely be impossible to remove the bodies of the crash victims until summer. H. W. Seaglim of Montreal, TCA vice-president, told a public hearing at Chilliwack, B.C. that he has "serious doubts of the crash victims until endeavoring even at a later date" to remove the remains because of the dangers involved and suggested a mid-summer mass burial service as "the most practical approach to a most difficult and most thoroughly examined problem." A cairn will probably be erected here.

Mid-Summer Mass Burial For Plane Victims Planned

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—The victims of Canada's worst air disaster, for five months lost without a trace, were destined for a mass burial service as unidentified human remains.

A cairn will probably be erected near the site where 62 lives were lost Dec. 9 on craggy Mount Slesse in the Cascade range of southern British Columbia.

This "difficult and most-thoroughly examined" decision was announced Wednesday night following a coroner's inquiry in this Fraser Valley city, 20 miles northwest of the crash.

The public hearing was attended by representatives of everyone vitally concerned with the search for the Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star.

There was the helicopter pilot who Monday discovered the shiny pieces of the human cargo imbedded in the crumbling ledge near the top of one of Mount Slesse's peaks. A mountaineer party on a routine hike Sunday had stumbled upon plane fragments which set off the helicopter search.

There were mountaineers who Tuesday ascended Mount Slesse's perilous eastern ridge to the 7,600-foot level. They were the only ones to actually set foot on the treacherous, rock-slide-threatening pocket in the sheer vertical face where the main portion of the plane and crash victims were scattered.

There were relatives of the victims, officials of the RCAF, the RCMP, transport department, the TCMP and TCA.

Mr. Seagrim of Montreal, TCA operations vice-president, told the inquiry into the disaster: "Some bodies or human remains" from the crash site "would be premature at this time."

The hazarous conditions of Mount Slesse's slopes and deep crevasses prevented the safe removal of the remains.

Mr. Seagrim said he has "serious doubts of endeavoring even at a later date" to remove the remains because of the dangers involved.

Debris of Pipeline Blast Still Falling in Campaign

By CP STAFF WRITER

At the time, it was considered one of Parliament's most explosive periods. And during the last year's Commons pipeline debate is failing yet.

Put there was more than the Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline discussed in Wednesday's campaign for the June 10 federal election.

Continuing his political pilgrimage through Central Ontario, Prime Minister St. Laurent told an Owen Sound audience "the biggest, the most complicated and the most important problem" Canadians have to face in our domestic affairs" is federal-provincial sharing of taxes. Over a CBC television broadcast, Finance Minister Harris agreed.

Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker brought up the pipeline debate with a suggestion in Carman, Man., that the Commons Speaker be appointed permanently. At present, the Speaker and his deputy are appointed every Parliament by the prime minister from ranks of the party elected to government.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, in a CBC television broadcast from Toronto, criticized Mr. St. Laurent's Liberal government for granting tax concessions to "wealthy and privileged groups." He charges no income tax on capital gains and permits deduction from income tax of 25 per cent of dividends earned from Canadian companies.

Mr. Coldwell said a CCF government would impose a capital gains tax on profits earned by speculation and abolish the dividend deduction.

On the pipeline, Mr. St. Laurent said it is not true that the government has taken or will take advantage of parliamentary rules in putting through legislation last spring to lend federal money for a construction start on the line.

Mr. St. Laurent declared persistently tried to abuse the rules and thereby prevent the majority in Parliament from putting through legislation wanted by the people.

Works Minister Winters at Broad Bay, N.S., said the federal proposal to build steam power units in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick to produce electricity at cost will save Nova Scotia $1,000,000 in borrowing interest rates alone.

George Hees, former president of the national PC Association, speaking re-election in Toronto Broadview, told a Toronto meeting the Liberal government's tight money policy is to blame for what he termed an increasingly critical housing shortage.

TORNADO RIPS TOWN IN TEXAS KILLING NINETEEN

Hits Without Warning Out of Rainy Night

SILVERTON, Tex. (AP) — A tornado ripped through this little west Texas town Wednesday night and killed 19 persons by state police count. At least six were children.

"We got no warning at all," said Elvert Stephens. "It came down on Silverton out of the rainy night without warning. People died without even knowing what happened. In one family, seven are dead.

NUMB WITH SHOCK

This stricken community is in the Texas Panhandle, 65 miles southeast of Amarillo.

"The people are numb with shock and terror," said Sheriff Darrell Smith. "They can't seem to realize what has happened."

Lack of power, a torrential rain that continued for hours after the twister struck and washed roads hampered rescue work in this town of 827 population.

In addition to the family of seven who were killed another family was wiped out by the twister. They were Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Rivas and their five children. Mrs. Rivas was an expectant mother.

The body of an infant was picked up in the middle of a debris-strewn street.

The roar of the twister awoke many of the residents but struck before they could get to storm cellars.

Shellie Tumlin, whose house was two blocks from the twister's path said: "I got my children and rushed out. There were bodies in the street. One woman lay moaning. Tornado driven pieces of glass through her leg."

MORE VICTIMS EXPECTED

Mrs. Nettie Smith, wife of the county sheriff at Tulia, said "all of our hospitals are full and they are still bringing out injured in Silverton."

The department of public safety said more victims were expected as rescuers dug through the rubble.

More than 20 tornadoes lashed through Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas and the Silverton tornado climaxed the 24th straight day of violent weather in the state.

Torrential downpours and violent hailstorms accompanied the tornadoes and sent streams running over highways and into lowlands.

3 Constables Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — The city executive committee Wednesday formally dismissed three police constables charged with beating up a messenger boy, molesting several prostitutes, drinking in public and refusing to obey an officer.

Two had resigned April 24.

William Bernacki, Edward Strathmann and Gerard Pelletier were alleged to have taken part in an off-duty drinking spree while still in uniform.

H-Bomb Test Seen Restoring Independence

Britons Rejoice at News Their Fusion Bomb Works

LONDON (CP) — Britain's first hydrogen bomb test was hailed at home today as having restored the independence of the United States and increased her stature as a world power.

In Asia, however, opposition was expressed over the blast, exploded Wednesday in the Christmas Island area of the Pacific, U.S. officials, on the other hand, welcomed the news as contributing to allied strength by making Britain the world's third full-fledged nuclear power.

Reports from Washington said, however, that the British H-blast is considered certain to result in new pressure on both the British and American governments to call for future atomic weapons tests. American and British policy to date has been firm in resisting all pressures, whether from the Soviet Union or from friendly powers or groups within their own populations. They contend that the tests must continue to assure free world strength, unless and until Russia agrees to some solid system of disarmament.

Demands to call off future tests were renewed at once in Japan and Ceylon, where government officials called it regrettable that Britain had gone ahead with the tests in the face of widespread opposition.

ASSUMES SUCCESS

The British press generally has assumed that the test was successful, although a terse announcement from the ministry of supply Wednesday night said merely that the "first explosion of a nuclear device in the present series took place." The ministry added that scientific records are being collected "for accurate evaluation" and that a "further statement will be made in due course."

The announcement gave no details and did not pinpoint the site of the explosion in the Christmas Island area 1,400 miles south of Honolulu, saying only that the device was exploded at a "high altitude."

Other authoritative sources said the device tested was an H-bomb that could be dropped from a bomber and give it a strong role in future world disarmament conferences.

NOW A-POWER

"Now she (Britain) is a nuclear power," declares The Daily Mail. "She not only possesses the bomb, but she knows that it works. So do other countries. This is the extraordinary satisfaction of the moment."

Dozens of Cabs Damaged by Roving Gangs of Men Swinging Bats, Axes

MONTREAL (CP)—A wave of violence spread today through the divided ranks of Montreal's taxi industry, with police reporting dozens of cabs damaged by roving gangs of men swinging baseball bats and axes.

Carried out during early morning hours, the campaign of violence was too widespread to be anything but organized thuggery.

Main targets of the gangs were the windshields and windows of unattended cabs.

Police said the trouble stemmed from a bitter jurisdictional fee dispute between the city and the provincial government.

One police spokesman said the violence was carried out by "thugs attempting to force owner-drivers to join the taxi drivers union." However, he added, one cab belonging to a union member was damaged.

The Herald says an unidentified man called the newspaper about 2 a.m. and said "non-union employers are going to get it."

The Herald reported that shortly after two men were injured and one died of a heart attack during a city-housing strike at a meeting of several thousand drivers and owners protesting a government decree regulating their business.

The decree established a parity committee to which drivers and owners would be assessed 25 cents a week each to pay for the parity committee's operation, and to which drivers can put the first $50 they earn in fares.

Police said they have not yet a full report on the number of cabs damaged by the vandals but said early estimates indicated there were 30 or 40 in various parts of the city.

Cornwall to Get Cocktail Bars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Ontario communities voted in favor of liquor outlets in plebiscites held Wednesday.

Cornwall, 45 miles southeast of Montreal, voters from the 8,115 population approved retail liquor outlets and beer licences.

About half of Cornwall's 22,680 population cast ballots. A 60-per-cent affirmative vote was required to pass the two issues.

The final figures were:

Dining lounges: Yes 6,346, no 4,168; 60.35 per cent in favor.

Cocktail bars: Yes 6,417; no 4,185; 60.54 per cent in favor.

In Midland, 70 per cent of the town's eligible voters went to the polls for the first liquor vote since 1916.

Sixty-two per cent voted in favor of a liquor store and 61.9 per cent voted for a retail beer store.

Graham Thinks New York Crusade Could Start Fire Igniting World

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham's New York crusade has got off to a rousing start. He said it could be the "beginning of a spiritual fire that will sweep this nation and ignite the world."

A crowd of 18,500 swarmed into Madison Square Garden Wednesday night and sat as if spellbound, without a whisper, as Graham drummed at the "moral sickness" he said is loose in the land, and pleaded for a return to God.

"We have lost God," he declared, his voice rising, "we have lost our anchorage, our moorings, our moral discretion, our spiritual sensibilities."

At the end of his sermon, when Graham appealed for those who would "give your life to Christ" to come forward, 485 people came, young and old, men and women.

He said it was "the largest decision night ever for ever seen from the pulpit in America."

They filled up the aisles, and

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today that the local fall-out from Britain's first hydrogen bomb test Wednesday was "almost negligible" according to first indications.

In reply to questions in the House of Commons, Macmillan said that the new British series of tests would put Britain "in a very much better bargaining position" in discussing nuclear control of disarmament.

First reports of the test in the Central Pacific, he said, indicated it had "proceeded as planned" at a high altitude.

Macmillan described the test as "a nuclear explosion" but did not confirm questioners who referred to it as a hydrogen bomb.

The prime minister served notice that Britain would continue the current series of test despite the protests raised against them from Japan.

He said: "The first explosion of a nuclear device in the present series took place yesterday in the central Pacific at a high altitude.

"First indications are that the operation proceeded as planned.

"Scientific records are being collected for more evaluation.

"When these have been received I will then consider what further information I can give to the House."

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor opposition, asked the prime minister if he had seen press reports that in August the effects of the explosion were said to be as great as the American H-bomb explosion of a hydrogen bomb, and more prolonged.

Macmillan replied: "I have nothing to add to what I have stated except that first indications are that the local fall-out was almost negligible, the explosion was at a very high altitude, and any further details must await the scientific report."

Director of Nursing Presents Fine Report at Graduation

"It is my privilege to present the annual report of the Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing to you.

"The year 1956 is an impressionable date in the history of your hospital. The opening of the lovely new wing has offered the opportunity to provide increased bed accommodation and improved facilities to the community, for the care of the sick. This has only been accomplished through the interest and generosity of the citizens of Belleville and the County of Hastings. It has been a privilege and thrill for the nursing staff, to have participated in this major project.

"In November 1956, the School of Nursing was visited and evaluated by Miss Dorothy Riddell, Senior Inspector for Schools of Nursing for the Province of Ontario. You will remember that Miss Riddell indicated that the School of Nursing was meeting the requirements of the curriculum for Schools of Nursing for the Province of Ontario, most adequately and satisfactorily.

"Miss Riddell commended us for the progress we have made in the past few years, and encouraged us in speaking to you, 'this step is one for which you will cherish for the years to come.' The professional challenge which is presented to us today, is a challenge to experience. Although we recognize the necessity for many changes, the basic principles of nursing remains unchanged. Service to mankind is the primary function of nurses, and the reason for the existence of the nursing profession. The need for nursing service is universal.'

"We feel confident that we shall uphold the standards of nursing service set forth month by month by your School of Nursing. The contribution that you individually can make to the community and to your country, as a citizen, are lying ahead for you.

"It is with sincere pride, that I extend congratulations to you from the nursing staff. We wish each of you every happiness for the future.

"To leave these words of James Russell Lowell with you, 'Let us make the kind of world one carries about within one's soul,' is the important thing, and the world outside takes all its grace, color and value from that."

Miss H. Kuglin Valedictorian At Graduation

Members of the School of Nursing graduating class and guests heard Miss Dorothy Kuglin deliver her valedictory address during graduation exercises last night.

"For the opportunity of becoming Graduate Nurses, we are sincerely grateful to a great many.

"To Miss Peart, we turn with sincere pride and appreciation, for the privilege of being received from her. Also, to the Instructresses, the doctors and the staff, who have been ever ready to assist us in trials and tribulations, with the encouraging ways, wisdom and patience.

"To our parents, we owe more than we can express, for all they have helped us by being always present in the background.

"My classmates, over the three arduous years, have found that the work was not all study. The new day brings its troops of new duties. We can never sit down and feel that all the burdens have fallen from us.

"If the work were good all past us, neither do the opportunities, if there are new duties to perform every day, as are there new hopes and new ambitions. There is no reason why we should not keep on learning new things and attacking new propositions, because graduation is really not an ending, but a beginning.

"On the other hand, we can so easily let ourselves grow dull and self-centred, as if there were no opportunities left, but there are, many of them.

"Only when we look back at the long course of our student life, with its joys and sadnesses, can we see the why and wherefore of it all. A thousand things become clear, which were formerly obscure, and we gain a satisfying feeling of definites overcome.

"May we be kept from pettiness, let us be large in thought, word and deed. May we put away all pretense and be genuinely and life face to face, without self-pity and without prejudice.

"May we never be hasty in judgment. Let us take time for all things and remain calm, serene and gentle.

"May we learn to put into action, our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

"And may we strive to touch, and to know, the great common having the co-operation and sincere interest of the various departments within our hospital. To the departmental heads, thank you.

"I wish to gratefully thank the members of the nursing staff, the nursing office staff, supervisors, head nurses, the instructors of the School of Nursing, and graduate nurses, for the loyalty and co-operation which they have indicated during the past years. There are many, many things I would like to acknowledge to you at this time. You have executed your duties competently and efficiently, in the best interests of the patient, the hospital and of the School of Nursing.

"To the members of the graduating class of 1957, it is our privilege to participate in the ceremony with you, this evening. You are aware of the many who have contributed to your education, but we can undoubtedly aware of those who have made the greatest contribution, your parents. Looking back, this proverb is applicable to your achievement, 'Behind the good we do today, becomes the happiness of tomorrow.' You have chosen the most major step as a part of the nursing profession. You are now speaking to you,'this step is one for which you will cherish for the years to come. The professional challenge which is presented to you today, is a challenge to experience. Although we recognize the necessity many changes, the basic principles of nursing remains unchanged, Service to mankind is the primary function of nurses, and the reason for the existence of the nursing profession. The need for nursing service is universal.'

"We feel confident that you shall uphold the standards of nursing service set forth month by month by your School of Nursing. The contribution that you individually can make to the community and to your country, as a citizen, are lying ahead for you.

"I extend congratulations to you from the nursing staff. We wish each of you every happiness for the future.

"To leave these words of James Russell Lowell with you, 'Let us make the kind of world one carries about within one's soul,' is the important thing, and the world outside takes all its grace, color and value from that."

Legion News

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

The monthly regular meeting of the Canadian Legion was held on Tuesday, May 14th, in the hall, which was filled to capacity.

Eight new members were initiated at this meeting. Deputy District Commander Leo Taylor was the presiding officer, assisted by members from the Trenton Branch. When Leo Taylor takes over, the job is in competent hands. He is well versed with their knowledge and experience made it a very inspiring ceremony.

We are grateful to the Tweed Legion Branch president — Oscar Thurston, Ollie Miller, Ray Woolley, Clarence Bert Thompson, Jim Harton and Bud Price, for their services and hope to accept their kind offer to be with us again, soon.

Still members desiring to attend the District Rally, which will be held in Oshawa on May 26th, please get in touch with the transportation committee. Please use transportation and registration. President Bill Heasman would like a good attendance to be at this meeting.

ZONE MEETING IN CITY

The Zone meeting will be here in Belleville on Friday, June 21st. All members should make it a point to attend.

F. Daniels reported two patients in the hospital, Jack Hall and C. Boomhour.

Dominion Bureau officer George Ellarby has had several interviews during the past month and will continue to be a monthly meeting in the Legion Hall. Any veteran wanting advice may call Mr. Ellarby at WO 8-6082.

According to Len Taylor the 1956 membership figure has been passed, but there is room for a few dozen. The "Round Robin" cribbage is now in full swing. Ernest Reed is inviting names of members to enter the "School of Robin" darts competition. Clarence will form a rifle team for shooting competitions. He is the sports chairman of your branch.

Big meetings mean a big lift to your executive. Let's all be at the next meeting on Tuesday, June 11th. The hall looks good with all the seats occupied.

Technical Squadron Holds Mess Dinner

On Wednesday evening the officers of 27 Technical Squadron, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, under CSgt. K. D. Whitcher, C.E.M., held the first formal mess dinner held by the unit. The guests were the R.S.M. of the Mess, Belleville Armouries, with the kind permission of Lt.-Col. O. C. Picton, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Dinner arrangements were under the supervision of Lt. W. Glendinning and a very tasty meal was provided by the Canteen Manager, Mr. Lavery in Picton.

Following the dinner the officers retired to the anti-room where games and a social evening were enjoyed by all.

Out - of - town guests included Major E. Hall, Toronto; Command and E.M.E., Toronto; Major T. E. Harvey Ares E.M.E., Kingston; Capt. D. R. Cumming, O. C. 3 Coy R.C.E.M.E., Kingston and Captain R. Clark, O.C. 210 Workshop R.C.E.M.E., Picton.

Boy Snatched From Path Of Train by Truck Driver

Quick thinking and quicker acting on the part of a city delivery truck driver saved the life of a two unidentified youngster at the CNR bridge at the East Moira crossing.

Leaning on the handlebars of his bicycle with the front wheel inside the near tracks, was the youngster, watching the oncoming freight and oblivious to the passenger train approaching him.

The engine crew let continuous blasts out of the locomotive's whistle. The brakes were slammed on, both engineer and fireman on guard at the scene in case something approaching horror. They sensed the inevitable.

A City Cleaners' delivery truck was parked at the crossing. At the wheel was driver Tommy Tugnette. Suddenly he noticed the youngster standing on the bridge. Then saw the approaching passenger train.

Tugnette sounded his truck horn in prolonged blasts but the youngster was oblivious to all warnings.

Then Tugnette acted. He leaped from the truck, ran to the near track, grasped the rear wheel of the bike and jerked. He brought the bike and boy to safety seconds before the train roared past.

The youngster picked himself up from the roadbed. Then he turned and smiled at the man who had saved his life.

"Thanks, mister" he said cheerily and, mounting his bike, rode off.

Obituary

PAUL DOUGLAS FERGUSON
Glen Miller

The funeral of seven-year-old Paul Douglas Ferguson, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ferguson (Thelma Lawrence), Glen Miller, was held in Trinity Anglican Church, Frankford, on Wednesday afternoon, with the Rev. H. C. Secker of Stirling, officiating.

Bearers were Boyd Ferguson, Charles Collier, Lloyd Sullivan, Robert Morrison, Clarence Morey and Charles Shepard.

The floral tributes were numerous and many friends attended the service.

Interment was in Frankford cemetery.

Kaladar Iron Ore Co. Formed

An exploratory program will get under way next month on a potential iron field at Kaladar township. Acreage of the field is 2,337 and 840 acres of it has already been staked, with the remainder under option.

President of the company which staked the claims and is carrying out the exploration is F. Carl Boulak, of Stirling. Mr. F. J. (Ted) Courneyea, of Picton, mine operator of the hotel at Northbrook is vice-president. Mr. Courneyea was at one time owner of Kaladar Lumber Co.

Lawrence Shaw, of Kaladar, is secretary-treasurer and directors are J. Valchar of Stirling and Edward Armstrong of Madoc. The firm is known as the Kaladar Iron Mines and has head offices in Toronto.

The newly formed company is capitalized at 1,000,000 shares of a $1 par value of which 900,-000 shares are issued and $10,000 are pooled. Acreage covered is west of Kaladar village and south of No. 7 Highway.

3 Landmarks In This City Being Torn Down

Three local landmarks which have been a familiar sight to Bellevillians for many years, have disappeared within the past week or so under the wreckers' hammer.

On the site of one of the landmarks, a new bank building with rise on Front Street, while the other two structures, on the old Belleville Lock Company factory on Pinnacle Street, and the old foundry building on Station street, have been razed to make way for parking lots.

The last bricks of the Walker Stores building on Front street came down this week and shortly a new Imperial Bank building will be constructed on. The pinnacle street the site of the lock company buildings will be turned into a municipal parking lot, while the site of the foundry building on Station street has been turned into a parking area for Brewers' Warehousing Company for their new distributing warehouse and retail store.

Still another residential landmark on Church street is also fast disappearing and will be turned into increased parking space for Loblaw's Groceteria.

Martin Hopes Hospital Plan To Start in '58

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) Health Minister Martin says he hopes the proposed national hospital plan will be in operation by January, 1958.

"I was disappointed to hear that Premier Frost does not expect the plan can go into operation in Ontario before January of 1959," he said Wednesday night. "But I can understand the terrific amount of spadework and planning to bring such a plan into actual being.

"With the co-operation of the federal government I hope the plan can be brought into effect sooner than Mr. Frost anticipates."

Mr. Martin's speech in this town 23 miles east of Peterborough was on behalf of Dr. Fred G. Robertson, parliamentary assistant to the health minister, in the Liberal candidate for re-election in Northumberland riding.

He said the hospital plan is "probably the most important piece of legislation introduced in the history of the Canadian government."

NO MECHANICAL TROUBLE

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—It irritated Mrs. Olympia Greigo, 22, she sat on the front porch, when the radio in the living room went dead in the middle of a program. But she was more irritated a few moments later when she found the radio missing from its shelf. A thief had made off with it through the back door.

IN MEMORIAM

DENYAW. — In loving memory of Mary Ann Denyaw, who died suddenly and was drowned May 16th, 1953.
Sweet memories, dear wife, are all I have
We recall happy memories of glad days gone by
When your presence so dear,
Made life worth while.
Were a blessing untold
And a joy worthwhile.
At last, too soon, came that sad day
When God called you away.
Never forgotten, dear lovely years
Of fly
Dear, how it is to meet you
In the sweet by and by.
Sadly missed and greatly remembered by mother, brothers and sisters.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils continued their upward climb during moderate morning trading by day but the rest of the stock market gave ground in light profit-taking.

The western oil index climbed nearly one point and was less than three points away from an all-time high, established last August. Industrials lost nearly one-half point while base metals were off more than one-quarter of a point.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,094,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 1,321,000 at the same time.

New British Dominion, one of 15 key issues used to compile the western oil index, led the section with a 5 cent gain to 82.85 in active trading. Pacific Pete, also an index stock, gained 1½ points at 25½. Canadian Atlantic was up 20 cents to $8.40.

For the fourth straight session, Trans Mountain Pipe Line featured industrials, climbing two points to 144. Ogilvie was up 1¼ at 36½ but other gains were fractional. Canada Packers A lost 1¼ points at 36⅝ in light trading. Other losers were confined to 1/8 point or less.

Base metals were mixed with gains narrowly lower and juniors mixed.

MACMILLAN

Reginald Paget, Labor, asked: "Do you feel that, when, like the Russians, we have had our tests, we shall then be in a position to resume moral leadership of the world."

The prime minister said: "I am bound to say that in discussing matters of nuclear disarmament or control of tests in the United Nations disarmament sub-committee, we shall now be in a very much better bargaining position."

John Strachey, former Labor minister, asked: "Now that the ability of this country to detonate a hydrogen weapon has been proved, can you tell us what remaining obstacle there is to our agreeing wholeheartedly . . . to suspend further tests?"

Macmillan said: "We shall, of course, continue the series of tests."

Earlier, Laborite Arthur Henderson, asked whether the government intended to tell the United Nations Security Council of the number and types of nuclear explosions to take place in the Pacific.

SIAMESE TWINS DIE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Siamese twin boys, joined at the head, died on the operating table Wednesday as surgeons tried to separate them. The three-month-old infants, Terry and Larry Pennell, died in surgery nearly five hours. Surgeons found the twins had common brain tissue.

Health Minister Reviews Social Legislation

PICTON — A review of social legislation introduced by the Liberal government featured the address of Hon. Paul Martin, QC, Minister for National Health and Welfare, at a meeting in the Parish hall here Tuesday night. He contrasted conditions at the time of the Bennett government with those of today. "The Liberal government has developed a great program of health and welfare. This government introduced family allowances and I am proud to say that 880,000 people receive old age pensions from the government of Canada".

"The great tragedy of the Conservative party is that it seems to have no conservative policy. It calls itself conservative but has no policy as such. It now says it is in favor of hospitalization and baby bonuses".

Hon. Mr. Martin expressed surprise that Emerson Tustin, P.C. member for Prince Edward-Lennox for 21 years, had not again been given the nomination. "What happened to Mr. Tustin who as Leader of the Liberal Opposition and was the second most important man in the Opposition?"

Urging support of the Liberal candidate, Clinton Green, Mr. Martin said, "Vote for him and you vote for the party which has led us through difficult years. Let us have four or five more years of good government in a nation that is the most envied nation on earth".

CANDIDATE HEARD

The candidate, Clinton Green, spoke briefly to welcome around one hundred persons at the meeting. J. Donald Hatter, ex-MPP, was chairman.

Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton enumerated assistance which he said he had been able to secure for the riding while it had a member in opposition. Included was the army camp and training range, grant to the town's waterworks system which also supplies the army camp.

At the noon hour, Mr. Martin was speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon. His task is to make a contribution to the preservation of peace throughout the world. They are men of small mind who oppose the idea of financial assistance to less-favored nations," he said.

"We are at a critical time in our history and the function of government is to interpret, spread and uphold our concept of freedom and democracy. Canada's role in the great British commonwealth of Nations is to act as a linch-pin, binding the nations together in understanding and co-operation.

"The progress of Canada's great future can only be overcome by global war."

Mr. Martin referred to his 40,000-mile trip visiting 16 countries as an interpreter of the Canadian viewpoint. "Requiring 62 days, the trip," he said, "is evidence of the contracted character of the world in which we live. Our prosperity and well-being depends upon improvement in the economic and social life of less favored nations".

Mr. Martin was presented with a Prince Edward cheese as a memento of the occasion.

TV FOR RAILROAD

ALBANY, N.Y (AP)—The Delaware and Hudson Railroad received state permission today to use closed-circuit television to protect a grade crossing in nearby Cohoes, N.Y A TV camera will be focused on a side track and will send a picture of switching operations near the crossing to a tower some distance away. He will monitor the operations and use protective devices when necessary.

Crown Ventures Show Profit

HAMILTON (CP) — CCF Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan says crown corporations set up by his government showed a profit before of 14.8 per cent on investments last year.

Speaking to a Hamilton Labor Council audience at a testimonial dinner for former Hamilton mayor Sam Lawrence, Mr. Douglas said Wednesday night that opponents often used the failure of a government tannery, woolen mill and shoe factory as propaganda.

He said the province represented only four-fifths of one per cent of his government's investments in such corporations.

"The failures, which we are not denying, didn't cost Saskatchewan taxpayers five cents. The losses were absorbed by the profits of other corporations."

MID-SUMMER

He suggested that in mid-summer a mass burial service "be considered as the most practical approach to a mass difficult when most thoroughly examined problem."

Coroner Glen McDonald of Vancouver agreed, along with another recommendation that a 300-square-mile area surrounding Mount Slesse be closed to the public to prevent looting or tampering with the wreckage.

One of the five Chinese aboard the plane, it is claimed by his relatives, was carrying a money belt containing $80,000.

Waldemar Brods, Vancouver architectural draftsman and a veteran Austrian Alpinist, said that treacherous snow mountain would present made it impossible to probe the 70-foot deep crevasses for bodies.

He was one of the four-man party which climbed to the crash site and investigated the scene for bodies.

The cause of the disaster is as much in doubt as ever and a TCA official says "We may never know."

The plane was returning to Vancouver after Captain Alan Clarke, 33, of Montreal and Vancouver reported by radio he had cut off his No. 2 engine when a fire warning light showed. He was an hour out and down by ice on its wings.

"We conclude something beyond control of the pilot must have brought him down to less than 8,000-feet," said Mr. Searle. "He shouldn't have been at less than 10,000 feet."

There has been speculation that the plane, operating on only three of its four engines, may have been forced down by ice on its wings.

BRISCOE ENDS TOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—The Jewish lord mayor of Dublin has ended a two-month visit to the United States and Canada. Mayor Robert Briscoe took off for home Wednesday night on a KLM Dutch skiliner co-piloted by his son, Abraham. Briscoe made at least three speeches every day in his tour of 45 U.S. cities—except in Boston, where he gave 36 talks in two days. He also visited Toronto.

"She has regained her independence. Up to yesterday she occupied a position of inferiority. She was, let us now admit it, a nuclear satellite of the United States."

The announcement of the first test caught British newspapers by surprise. The Daily Express says it was deliberately timed to fool the Japanese and foil the mounting campaign against carrying out the program.

Japan has been in the forefront of the drive to get the tests called off, maintaining that radioactive fall-out from nuclear explosions in the Pacific threatens its fisheries and the health of its population.

The Japanese foreign ministry today issued a statement expressing "strong regret" at the first blast and repeating that Japan reserves the right to demand compensation for damage to persons or property.

In Colombo, Premier Solomon Bandaranaike told reporters:

"If they have exploded a bomb in the teeth of so much opposition from a large part of the world, I have nothing to say other than to express my grave regret. I hope that Western countries will decide to halt future explosions at least."

Moscow Radio, in its morning broadcast, carried a one-sentence news report saying: "The British ministry of supply has announced that a test was carried out yesterday of a British nuclear weapon in the central part of the Pacific."

GRAHAM

For his sermon, Graham took an Old Testament text, Isaiah 1:1-20, which goes in part:

"Ah sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity. . . . They have forsaken the Lord, they have provoked the Holy One of Israel into anger, they are gone backward." In one verse—"Hear the word of the Lord, ye rulers of Sodom; give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah."—Graham substituted "New York" for Sodom and Gomorrah.

"The times in which we live are parallel to the times that Isaiah lived in," Graham declared.

"We have done away with the Ten Commandments, with the Sermon on the Mount. . . . Now we are reaping the harvest in dishonesty, lying, cover-up and hypocrisy."

He said millions of people, frustrated and disillusioned by trying to live without God, are resorting to alcohol and tranquillizing pills and "running up one blind alley after another."

"Psychiatrists are so nervous that they are now going to each other for help," he said.

"The response was overwhelming," Graham later told a packed roomful of more than 100 reporters. "It was beyond anything I had anticipated."

Two-Year-Old Falls 16 Feet

John Tracey, aged 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tracey, 88 Station street, suffered severe head injuries Wednesday when he fell 16 feet from a second storey balcony at his home. The lad was taken to Belleville General Hospital where he is under the care of Dr. R. S. Gibson. Hospital authorities said the lad's condition seemed improved today.

Mr. Hees said the decline was caused by federal government credit restrictions and that the policy had forced many small builders into bankruptcy, adding thousands to the unemployed and curtailing the operations of homebuilders.

A Liberal government will continue to bring Hungarian refugees to Canada "as long as it is economically possible," federal Immigration Minister Pickersgill said in Delhi.

The minister said re-education programs for refugees is difficult after they had been living under Communist rule. Refugees in the Delhi area, he said, were fortunate to have many of their countrymen to assist them.

Canada Trying To Sell Wheat In Red Lands

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe says Canada is negotiating with other Communist countries, besides Russia and Poland, for further wheat export sales.

Addressing a political rally Wednesday night, Mr. Howe said agreement "hereby Poland agreed to take 150,000 tons of wheat in the next crop year "is only one of several credit transactions we intend to put through with Iron Curtain countries in the next few weeks."

He told reporters later he could give no further details.

It has been estimated that the cost of furnishing a room in the new residence is $300.00. We have now received special donations to furnish four rooms. Any individual, or business, or organization interested in furnishing a room is asked to contact either Mr. Franklin or Dr. MacKenzie at the College, (WO 8-9686). Suitable name plates will be placed on the door of each room so furnished.

The Roadbuilders . . .

The construction of new and improved roads promises to be an area of major economic activity in Canada for many years to come. A number of public companies will benefit from this activity, both directly and indirectly, and their securities offer an interesting outlet for investment funds at this time.

Our Monthly Bulletin for May discusses the roadbuilding industry, and contains a review of Standard Paving & Materials Limited.

We will be glad to mail a copy to investors without obligation. Simply complete and mail the accompanying coupon.

FUN BEHIND PRISON WALLS

"We've come about that application you made for a cocktail-lounge license," reads the caption under a Winnipeg Free Press cartoon which depicts three sober-faced gentlemen climbing out of a cab labelled "Government Liquor Control Commission" and talking to the guard at the gate of a penitentiary.

This is becoming a familiar story.

From San Francisco the past few days have come stories on the tribulations of two fugitives from the Kansas State Penitentiary, who met in that institution and fled it in order that their baby might be born outside prison walls. They now say that convicts in the penitentiary have clandestine affairs, drink prison-distilled liquor and smoke marijuana cigarets.

About the marijuana cigarets and their use by convicts there is only one possible opinion, amongst reasonable people. They are out.

Cupid, though, is an accepted visitor, although not an inmate, to penal institutions in some countries. Men without women, and women without men, are exposed to the dangers of perversions. In some countries married couples are permitted to see each other in privacy at regular intervals during the incarceration of one of the partners.

As for liquor in a prison, sober thought may suggest that this is not so simple a matter as it would at first appear. Much depends on one's attitude towards the purpose of penal institutions. Are they designed to reform or to punish? If the former, and if inmates are to be permitted to enjoy themselves, by reading, by playing baseball or cards, by seeing movies and staging dramatic shows — well, what's so different about permitting a man to have a glass of beer occasionally?

CAUSES OF DEATH

Many interesting facts can be gleaned from a study of a report by the division of medical statistics of the Ontario Department of Health on the chief causes of death in Ontario.

For instance, we suspect that few people are aware that, with the exception of two age groups, under one year and one to four years, cancer is the second ranking cause of death at all ages. This does not mean that as high a proportion of cancer deaths occur amongst teenagers, for instance, as amongst those over 75, (quite the reverse is true), but it does mean that cancer is the second most deadly enemy of both age groups. Deaths per 100 population from cancer rise from 10.8 for the 1 to 4 year age group to 1,275 for those over 75.

Accidents rank first as killers in all age groups except under one year, up to that for 35 to 44 years of age, then diseases of the heart take over as the leading killers. Once again, this does not mean that the accident toll declines sharply when one reaches 35, (in fact more accidental deaths occur amongst those 75 and over than in any other of the eleven age groups), but it does mean that heart diseases take a bigger toll than do accidents.

The death rate from accidents per 100,000 population reaches a peak at 3813.6 for those 1 year old, the second highest rate, 138 per 100,000 live births, being for the age group under one year. Daring youth escapes relatively lightly, there are only 49.3 deaths for every 100,000 youngsters between the ages of 15 and 19, but amongst the 55 to 64 age group the rate is 61.7 deaths per 100,000.

REFUSE TO WORK WITH REFUGEES

Three hundred Welsh coal miners walked off their jobs on Monday when 16 Hungarian refugees were brought to the mines on motor trucks. The Welshmen will not work with Hungarians.

One would like to know more about the reason for such action. Welsh miners were among the greatest sufferers during the depression, many living on the dole year after year. Still, one would have supposed that the intervening years, during which coal has been in brisk demand, would have erased memories of those days of insecurity. Surely the well-organized miners have no valid reason to fear competition from a handful of refugees? Or was their walkout prompted not by fear of economic security but by unreasoning racial prejudice?

The action of the Welsh miners is in sharp contrast to the manner in which Hungarian refugees have been received by the majority of Canadians. Perhaps we have greater reason to be proud of our country than we sometimes realize. Most of us have taken it for granted that these refugees would receive a warm welcome wherever they went in lands on this side of the Iron Curtain.

No State Dog for Maine

By John Gould, writing from Lisbon Falls, Maine, in the Christian Science Monitor

A jaded world, surfeited with international affairs, may want to know that Maine will not have an official state dog. The Legislature acted it down, and the proposal is a lost cause. I am glad. Maine has had a straightforward recital of the facts will probably prove as edifying as anything might make up. Political scientists may wonder if the very life and of democracy; if our cultures is collapsing from within and is the denial of man's best friend will become a burning issue.

Down this small bit lives a man who keeps, grows, and sells a dog known as a Chinook. He is a Chinook by a fine animal, and with the idea of making the Chinook the official State of Maine dog. Pursuant to this idea, he succeeded in getting the local legislator to introduce a bill to that effect. Nobody paid much attention at first, because Maine legislators are always putting in crazy bills, and we throw fifteen or twenty of them ever, get enacted.

But we have a Pater Anchises citizen, a former Governor who is now serving as Senator, well-one Percival P. Baxter whose above scholes. He is a man of reproach—and Mr. Baxter viewed this proposed dimly. Mr. Baxter, himself, has always been a dog's best friend, and throughout his career has a fine understanding of canine problems. When he was Governor he had a setter bird dog that sat at his side, and slept under the gubernatorial desk, and it was said that this dog knew more state secrets than anybody.

The Chinook bill now gently chided the Chinook, and said if Maine were to have a state dog it should be a red setter, because historically his own red setter had been the only Maine dog ever to achieve any notoriety of qualifying sort. The newspapers printed this and the issue was joined. The Chinook, however, had only one parliamentary advantage — his name was on the bill.

The first effective attack on the Chinook was made by an upstate lover of dogs who pointed out that Maine already has a fish that drifts tail-first down the Columbia River, and he invited him back if he didn't want a fish for a state dog. This more or less settled the fate of the subsequent controversy, and at no time did anybody question the constitutional competence of a legislature's real purpose.

Then the Chinook kept trying to elevate the thing into the plane of serious discussion, but never quite made it. The red setter, running well, was eliminated when it was pointed out that they frequently get mistaken for red foxes, and are shot, too, by rear-sighted sportsmen.

After that the thing degenerated into one of these emotional debates in which everybody gets his own vote. A case was made out for the Maine hen, running-mill mongrel—the faithful family dog who sleeps on the horse's bed, is always on the wrong side of the door, and chases the mail man as far as possible. Some people wanted a working dog—a curious gerundive used. Maine conditions; some wanted a sporting dog, because of Maine's recreational advantages; some thought a house dog would be fine.

Practically every story of a dog's loyalty and devotion was brought out and dusted off. Letters to the editor were outspoken. One man wrote in and suggested they choose a state cat, too; and a woman replied that she already have too many cats. One dog, duly nominated by the proud owner, was referred to by a careless reporter as "he", whereas the opposite is true, and the outraged owner promptly "set the record straight." It was a fine furore.

In the meantime the Legislature proceeded with full deliberation. Its bill was assigned for committee hearing, and the state treasurer drew bills ready to pay for the legal notices. On the appointed day a quiet committee of the committee filed in and took their places, looking as if they had been caught at the cookie jar, and the opponents and proponents crowded in after them.

The sponsor of the bill explained what the Chinook really is, which enlightened a lot of people. He said he was a fine dog with all the best features, and insisted he would add dignity to the fair and just glorious state. After that the opponents took turns. They objected that a dog, if elected, wouldn't even get into the social register of dogs, and couldn't be a virgin with. The Chinook, it turned out, was everybody's second choice.

I would estimate that the total wordage in newspapers and over the air concerning this story is over a half million words, and the wordage on public utilities, Japanese relations, highways, agriculture, and fisheries combined, by at least 800 words.

The committee now saw that the issue was overwhelming. Somehow, the high dignity enjoyed by other major bills had secreted itself from this one. It should be a red setter, because historically his own red setter had been the only Maine dog ever to achieve any notoriety of qualifying sort. The newspapers printed this and the issue was joined. The Chinook, however, had only one parliamentary advantage — his name was on the bill.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

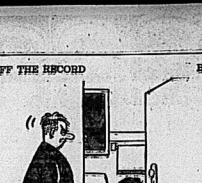
With spring cleaning under way, the missions and social service depots are receiving the usual flow of used clothing, cast off furniture and household equipment of every sort. And despite good times, it is welcome as ever. I asked the manager of one of the missions what particular item he liked best to see coming in.

"Neckties," he replied promptly. "A good fresh necktie on a down-and-out is the greatest boost I know. Before I bring a man up the rounds job-hunting, I try to fit him out in the best clothing I can find in the place. And a nice attractive necktie can do wonders for a fellow's self-esteem and even a slightly soiled shirt.

"There are lots of men who haven't worn a necktie in twenty years. I don't mean these young fellows in the Salvation Army who wear sport shirts and tieless open collars. I am thinking of the hard luck types we get in the missions. And I tell you a necktie does something more than spruce up a man's appearance. It has some sort of psychological effect on the man himself. He sees himself in the mirror, and you can actually see him straighten up.

"I can tell you of dozens of cases of men who were refused jobs all over town, and then, when I gave them a smart necktie, they got a job next day.

"I'm going to get as many neckties as my friends can spare me. Some people think that a fresh coat of whitewash gives a house a new appearance, but I think a good fresh necktie will do more than that for the average man. Especially if it's a red one."



Now that the spring housecleaning season is on, I suppose a good many housewives this spring would hold a sort of necktie party and send us down a good many of their husbands' cast-off ties.

He took me into the store room of the mission, and showed me the rack of ties on hand. There were about fifteen, pretty sad, colorless specimens.

"Could you mention this in the papers?" he asked. "Tell them to send us especially those Christmas ties from Christmases long past. They're the better. A Christmas tie often fulfils its true destiny down here."

Broadway's Longest Runs

Saturday Review

Have you ever wondered what plays of modern vintage enjoyed the longest runs on Broadway? "Life with Father", according to Variety, tops the list with a whopping record of 2,224 consecutive performances. Next comes Laurette Taylor's "Tobacco Road" with 2,182. "Abie's Irish Rose" is a close third with 2,327. (Incidentally, both "Tobacco Road" and "Abie" were murdered by the critics, and did practically no business for their first weeks. They were saved by producers who simply would not concede defeat.)

Rodgers and Hammerstein nail down fourth and fifth spots with "Oklahoma!" (2,248) and "South Pacific" (1,925).

Brantford Expositor

A report from Montreal tells of a most charming man of 55 who gets away not with murder but with $1,000.

In the last three months, police state, he has passed a dozen bogus cheques ranging in the tune of about $1,000 but, though in hospital, for a spell of jail, he possesses so captivating a personality that none of his victims will lay a charge against him. It is a confession faith that he will soon see the error of his wicked ways and return to the straight and narrow path of rectitude.

Surely a fellow like this is wasting a remarkable talent. With his gifts he could do anything from putting half of India's snake-charmers out of business to becoming a Dominion election single-handed.

By the way, he strongly reminds us—as to manner, not looks—of a celebrated local female of bygone years who, possessed of astonishing physical charms and magnetism, also had extremely taking ways.

The Tired and Peaked Child

Carefully controlled experiments indicate that pure vitamin B 13, the "amazing" red vitamin, is less effective in the treatment of anemia than various other familiar old remedies. But combine B 13 with another vitamin or vitamin — like substance like folic acid, and you have something.

Folic acid occurs in green leaves, and cooking always most of it. Another good reason why a green salad is an indispensable course in an adequate dinner. Folic acid occurs also in animal tissues, especially liver and kidney, and in yeast and mushrooms. Only infinitesimal amounts of it are present in such foods, and apparently only infinitesimal amounts of it are required to maintain good nutrition.

The combination of folic acid and the red vitamin seems to be more effective than B 13 alone in preventing and relieving chronic fatigue and failure to gain weight in slow gain children who should be growing but don't and fill of life.

Supplement the folic acid diet of a chronically tired and peaked child with an infinitesimal quantity of vitamin B 13 and there's good chance that within a week or so the child will be asking for second helpings and begin to gain weight steadily.

At the same time, the tired, inactive child will show distinct improvement in vigor, alertness, and general behavior.

Straight Talk

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HE LOVED THEORY

There was a great theologian in this country some years ago who profoundly influenced the thought of thousands of people. Only a few however, were aware of the fact that in addition to being a great theologian he was one of the best informed men in the United States on baseball. But the extent of his pect of the matter was this— he never attended baseball games. Theoretically, he knew all about the game. He could give the batting averages of all the big league star players, keep a box-score, prophesy with accuracy regarding the outcome of the World Series. But he would not have crossed the street to see the most exciting game on record. The few games he had witnessed years ago had killed any desire for a repetition. But baseball as a scientific study was a different matter.

Now curiously enough those who knew him well realized that his attitude the learned professor maintained toward baseball was symptomatic of his whole attained toward theology. To him theology was a science. He had studied it and in his relation bore to life. He loved to discuss theology, to spin theories, to dwell on distinctions without a difference. But he was frankly bored by the theology with which the average folk that religion should make a difference in the way they lived. It made little difference in the way he lived. He had many interesting ideas, but he was selfish, vain, and implacable toward his enemies. He was lacerated by Christianity as a sound theory. He was impatient with those who insisted earnestly that the theory must be applied.

TODAY'S TALK

BUILDING BOY SPIRIT

There is a community in New Jersey that has set an example that should spread. Citizens raised the money, purchased land, and built a fine grandstand, and mapped out a baseball park that would be a blessing to all the young boys in their town. They chose this way so as to give a healthful sport to restless boys and keep them off the streets and away from mischief.

In this town not only the young boys and girls but all the people will be entertained and benefitted. Wouldn't help but all the people have been brought up in such a place where the civic spirit seems to be so high.

Most of the boys and girls that get into trouble are not bad. They just have an excess of "animal" spirits, and need to be trained to a like a healthy sport. There has to a game anywhere that can give as much thrill and excitement, and so many as a baseball park, established for the joy of all. Such an enterprise as that Jersey town can't help but be an investment that will pay spiritual dividends for the money a prayer will begrab a ball or present goes to child hood hospitals.

Millions of people glory in this national game, both in the United States and Canada. I hope the day will come when there will be baseball diamonds in all parts of the world, so that there may be a final series that will be called "The World Series!" Baseball is a grand game, and the players can't be much finer. They are good citizens as well as wonderful performers.

Twenty-one student nurses from Belleville General Hospital received their pins and diplomas Wednesday night at the School of Nursing graduation exercises in Belleville Collegiate Institute.

In his chairman's remarks Mr. F. Domenico, chairman of the board of governors, congratulated the graduating class and spoke briefly of the recent improvements to the hospital.

The school choir, under the direction of Mr. A. Evans, sang "You'll Never Walk Alone", "Twenty-Third Psalm" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the evening.

Greetings to the graduating class were extended by Mayor Jane Forrester, on behalf of the city; Dr. J. Loynes, president of the medical staff, on behalf of the Medical Staff Association, and Mrs. M. Hoskings, president of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, District No. 6 Registered Nursing Association of Ontario, speaking for her organization.

Addressing the 1957 graduating class was Miss E. Dick, director of the nursing branch of the Ontario Department of Health. She was introduced by Warden L. McLaren.

Miss Dick opened her remarks by congratulating the trustees of the hospital and all others who made the graduation possible.

She described the accommodations of the nursing school, despite the shortage of accommodations for students. The quality of the educational program that exists in Belleville General Hospital is evidenced by the number of university graduates who come here for postgraduate observations, she remarked.

OUTLINES PROGRESS

Speaking of the men and women who worked at the hospital in its earlier years, she mentioned many by name, and those days the hospital had six doctors on the staff and the School of Nursing had 25 students enrolled. In describing the changes that have taken place up to the present time, she said "it is a story of growth and progress over the past 30 years."

Miss Dick said it was hard to properly describe "this thing called nursing". She described it as one of the helping professions, adding that the kinds of help a nurse will give her patient are diverse. "When a nurse can carry out a technical procedure and at the same time show interest in her patient — that is nursing," she stated. "When all is said, it is the sum total of how each nurse expresses it; Each nurse must seek the truth of this matter and when she does, live by it."

The speaker told of the need for more nurses in the province. Quoting Ontario Hospital Association findings she mentioned that 108 hospitals in Ontario need 4500 nurses at once to bring their numbers up adequately. She described nursing service as being at a premium.

"An individual nurse can sense the need and do her best," Miss Dick said. "Do your best and no one can ask you to do more", she suggested.

She advised the nurses to "do some hard, clear thinking in your relationships with other people."

In her closing remarks the graduates took on the meaning of ethics. She described the day she graduated 30 years ago. Each graduate was presented with a book in which the following inscription was written: "It is my hope that you carry on in the spirit expressed here that you may be truly successful."

Miss Dick told the graduates it is their duty to be loyal to the school from which they graduate; to be loyal to their community; to respect their superiors; and to treat their patients with attention and kindness.

PINS, DIPLOMAS GIVEN

Following the address the graduates went forward to receive their pins and diplomas. Mrs. W. Finkle, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, assisted by Miss Peart and Mrs. W. Donaldson, made the presentations.

Medals and prizes were awarded next. The gold proficiency medal was awarded to Miss Joan Vance by Mr. F. Domenico.

Dr. J. Loynes, on behalf of the Medical Staff Association, presented the following awards: medal proficiency medal, Miss Martha Maguire; medical-surgical bedside nursing, Miss Vila Kazaks; obstetrical nursing, Miss Marion Robinson; and operating room nursing, Miss Joyce Inch.

Miss H. Collier presented the head nurse award "to the nurse who has made the most progress during the three year nursing course". The award went to Miss June Backus.

Mrs. Finkle, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston, presented the tuberculosis nursing award to Miss Martha Maguire.

After the awards Mrs. W. Finkle, on behalf of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, presented each graduate with a gift.

Miss Helen Kuglin presented her valedictory address, remembering the good and hard times she and her classmates lived through during the past three years, and thanking all who helped in anyway.

The program closed with the recessional. A reception was then held at the Masonic Temple.

Following are the members of the 1957 graduating class:

Christ Church P.G. Enjoys Travelogue

Members and friends of the Parish Hall Guild, of Christ Church, were taken on a holiday trip by proxy at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Cleo Colling showed beautiful pictures of Mexico, its cities, people and countryside, accompanying the showing with a most interesting commentary.

Guest soloist was Mrs. J. Demeza who delighted her audience with the selections, "Think on Me", and "Be the best of whatever you are". Mrs. Demeza was accompanied by Mrs. K. M. Bird. Thanks to Mrs. Demeza, Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Colling were expressed by the president.

The business portion of the meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby, who welcomed the large gathering. A number of guests were present, including members of St. George's Guild. The Regulation hymn "Lord, in Thy Name they servants plead" opened the meeting, followed by Guild prayers. Minutes and correspondence were read by Miss Dorothy Colbourne, and a most satisfactory financial report was given by treasurer, Ann Watson. Reports were given by Mrs. Kempston for remembrance and Mrs. Fullwell for cent-a-meal collections. Mrs. Lazier reported for the wedding committee.

Mrs. Wonnacott, convener of the June "Blossom Tea", introduced the ladies in charge of the various booths and outlined plans for this important event.

A substantial cheque will be forwarded to the church wardens at the close of the spring session.

Mrs. E. Hickey extended a kind invitation to Guild members to attend a pot-luck luncheon at her cottage on Consecon Lake in June.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the afternoon; Mrs. C. Ling, Mrs. W. Kempston and Mrs. L. Hall.

Opportunity Shop Staff Enjoys Party

Mrs. Gilbert Scott, who for many years has been staff convenyr of the Opportunity Shop was a charming hostess on Wednesday afternoon, at her home on Trent Road, when she entertained the members of the staff at a genteel party.

Mrs. W. C. Gault opened the door to approximately 50 guests who were received by their hostess and by Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Mrs. F. Beebee.

Mrs. Scott was living room vere: Mrs. W. W. Shand and Mrs. Irvine Dickey.

The beautifully appointed table, at which Mrs. J. C. Young and Mrs. Harold Arnott presided, featured a centre of white lilacs and colorful tulips flanked by tall white tapers. Here many luxurious and appetizing desserts awaited the guests.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Scott expressed her appreciation to the staff for their loyalty and untiring efforts.

Greetings were brought by Mrs. John Haig from radio station C. J. B. Q. and by Mrs. Finkle president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Beebee, shop supervisor, was given the opportunity to brief the staff on policy and procedure.

It was disclosed that the shop has had a most encouraging season which was due to the cooperation and generosity of many merchants and individual citizens.

PROPAGANDA ROCKET

HAMBURG (Reuters)—A loud bang Tuesday night interrupted a speech by Chancellor Adenauer—and hundreds of Communist leaflets showered his audience. Police said a "leaflet rocket" had been fixed to the ceiling of the assembly hall where Adenauer was addressing a West German Christian Democratic rally. The chancellor continued his speech undismayed, caused.

French Dolls, Demi-Puppets To Be Displayed

The local Association of Girl Guides have been fortunate in securing a collection of historical demi-puppets and dolls in authentic period costume.

This collection, when in Toronto, was highly approved by the Art Gallery, as it is absolutely authentic in every historical and period detail.

The Association hopes the general public will avail themselves of the opportunity of viewing this collection which will be on display in St. Thomas' parish house, on May 29th.

The proceeds of this will be used for the entertainment of non-Canadian Guides who will be entertained by Belleville guides prior to attending the Centenary Camp at Doe Lake, in August.

PERILOUS JOB

PARIS (Reuters)— Ahome-made fire bomb was hurled at a tax collector's office in Paris Wednesday—about 12 hours after the government disclosed plans for new taxes. No serious damage was caused.

Dr. Williamson Talks on 'Normal Child Problems'

A pleasant and profitable time was spent Monday night in the Church Hall of St. Margarets-on-the-Hill when the mothers of two organizations, Little Helpers and Junior Auxiliary, met for a "Mother's Day" party.

To begin the evening a clever planned contest to acquaint the ladies with one another was conducted by Mrs. R. Davis. Mrs. L. A. Coles was the successful participant.

Mrs. George Mountford, secretary of Little Helpers, called meeting to order and introduced Mrs. William Todd, who acted as chairman. Mrs. J. Bennett, president of the W. A. welcomed the ladies and explained that this senior organization sponsored the Little Helpers and Juniors.

The highlights of the evening was an address by Dr. Evelyn Williamson, who spoke on the "Problems of the Normal child." In a charming manner, Dr. Williamson dealt with the different phases of a child's life from infancy to adolescence. She explained that most of the problems were results of emotional disturbance experienced by the child sometime during his earlier years.

The speaker stressed the fact that these problems can be corrected. And overcome, by instilling in the child a greater sense of security. This can be accomplished by more love, more understanding and more patience by the mother, and other members of the family.

Dr. Williamson concluded her remarks by stating, "There are no problem children, just problem parents."

The presentation of so much material for thought provoked an interesting discussion among the ladies.

Dr. Williamson was introduced by Mrs. William Paradis and thanked by Mrs. Arthur Elliott and Mrs. Todd.

A brief but inspiring talk was given by Mrs. A. Watson, who emphasized the importance of Christian education in the home. While a child may be given money, and cultural opportunities, without the basic religious truths, he has nothing on which to cling when he has to confront the real tests in life.

Mrs. Watson reminded her listeners what an important role the mother had to play to bring about harmony, order and peace in the home, nation, and world.

Special prayers for family and children were said in unison, and the meeting was closed by the Rev. L. A. Page.

Mrs. Walter Sabin conducted a musical contest after which refreshments were served by the members of the W. A.

A vote of thanks was tendered to these ladies by Mrs. Davis.

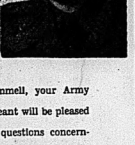
Postal Service Topic at W.I.

The May meeting of the Canniton-Corbyville W. I. was held in the town hall with a good attendance. Visitors were present from Carmel, Plainfield and Empy Hill.

The president Mrs. William Latchford opened the meeting in the usual manner. The secretary, Mrs. Bill Latchford read the minutes which were approved. Thank you cards and correspondence were also read.

Mrs. A. Denville, Mrs. William Latchford and Mrs. F. Windsor were appointed delegates to the district annual to be held at Melrose in June.

Mrs. George Shorey was the leader for the meeting and introduced Mr. Derochers Public Relations officer from the postal division at Ottawa, as guest speaker, who gave an interesting and helpful talk on the postal service followed by moving pictures from the first mail service to the present system.



Mrs. Latchford thanked Mr. Derochers on behalf of the Women Institute and the visitors present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

'Paddling With Explorers' Vividly Told at Canadian Club

Two centuries rolled away last evening in Bridge Street United Church for the Women's Canadian Club, in the space of approximately 80 minutes, as Eric Morse, M.A., National Director of Canadian Clubs, took the mixed assembly with him as he relinked, by word, map and pictures, the 3,000 mile trip, taken by the original fur traders across Canada's first "Trans-Canada' highway, by canoe.

Operation, "Paddling with the Explorers", stated the speaker, began at a cocktail party in Ottawa, when he and five others, including Blair Fraser, decided to retrace through the connecting waterways and portages the route of the Cours de Bois, and the Voyageurs, in their quest for furs, and to explore Canada's hinterland.

"Guided by maps, air photos, and early diaries, the group covered some 1600 miles of the principal route, and, in doing so, discovered that most of this has hardly changed since the white man first came." Even the portages can be identified.

The party set out in primitive style, and found that the Indians looked with surprise and sympathy on the white men with their birch bark canoes propelled by paddles, whereas they, the Indians, now use high-powered motor boats and long canoes with outboard motors. Their squaws no longer have the heavy load of labor, but ride in state; however, the country has not changed at all since those far off times.

HISTORICAL FACT IMPORTANT

The important fact is the historical fact, and all the explorers of long ago were in some way associated with the fur trade. The Cours de Boi were not in the same class as the Voyageurs because their chief interest, unlicensed, was to exploit the hinterland and get furs for a pittance; while the Voyageurs were really out to explore the country, travelling on a meagre portion of food, one quart of pea soup per man per day.

The fur trade was dependent on three main things, the beaver, the Cambrian Shield, and the birchbark canoe. In those days the beaver was abundant, and the pelts brought good prices, but as the beaver disappeared, the pelts became more and more expensive.

This was brought about by the use of the white man's traps and guns until the beaver was almost exterminated because of its defencelessness, and was driven beyond the ordinary waterways."

The Cambrian Shield, which was worn down by glaciers, made the country more accessable; and the extensive waterways, which go both to the Arctic and to the Pacific, make canoe travel possible in most of Canada, which possesses one-half of all fresh-water in the world, with all rivers flowing in a westward direction. All these waterways were linked some by lakes, others by rivers large and small, one with the others.

BIRCHBARK CANOE

The birchbark canoe also played its part in the fur trade, and was easy of contriction, some being capable of carrying three tons. The Voyageurs, who were small men, weighing about 150 pounds, were able by means of a carrying arrangements, to transport about 180 pounds of equipment over the portages, in packages of 90 pounds each. They were cheerful, docile, always singing as they paddled along, keeping time to the song by the strokes of their short paddles.

The Hudson Bay Company was composed of two groups, one situated at Montreal and the other at Hudson Bay. That at Montreal was composed of the Scots who, in turn, took over the fur trade, forming the Northwest Fur Company, and in 1881 saw the birday of the fur trade.

Because the chain of waterways was of different depths and levels, the heavier canoes were used at the eastern portion, and the lighter canoes on the western section, the two meeting at the Grand Portage, where the cargoes were exchanged. The large canoes were 40 feet long by 6 feet wide, and carried heavy cargoes. The Voyageurs began their day between two and three in the morning; paddled for two hours, then stopped for breakfast, and at eight o'clock went to bed, to arise again at two or three o'clock and begin another day. It took six weeks from Montreal to make the half way trip, where they exchanged their one quart of soup for one quart of corn meal per day, with the addition of buffalo pemican, a dried meat, which was known to keep for six to seven years.

HEROIC AGE

The fur trade is the heroic age in Canada; its boundaries were shaped by the fur trade; it was the first inter-continental highway. George the Third, in his concession to Quebec, kept Canada from becoming the 14th state in the Union. Mr. Morse believes it is one way of getting intergration of Canadian communities.

Following the address, the speaker showed some delightful coloured slides of his trip, which among others included: the Grand Portage which was three miles; Pigeon River showing the canoes being hauled up the rapids; Lake Superior with wooded hillsides; the Great Divide; the Dawson Trail; Sunset of the Lake of the Woods; Rainy Lake with its lonesome pine; Chaudiere Falls, and others.

The speaker was introduced by the president, Mrs. D. L. Hamilton, who also, on behalf of the audience, extended appreciative thanks for the delightful and instructive talk.

At this meeting was the last of the season, the business portion, which took place previously, resulted in the election of the new president of the club, Mrs. S. E. Fairman, and the rest of the executive. The retiring president, Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon, officially expressed her thanks to all who had been so faithful through the past two years in their assistance to her; to the secretary, and treasurer, and to the pianists for its kindly coverage. She also was presented with a past president's pin by Mrs. E. Hickey, a past president of the club, who extended gratitude thanks to Mrs. MacKinnon for her splendid term of office.

Coffee was served.

New AOTS Club Chartered at Eastminster

The regular meeting of the Bridge Street A.O.T.S. club this month took the form of a "Charter Night" for the new Eastminster club, on Wednesday evening of this week the two clubs met together for a pot-luck supper meeting at the Eastminster church. A group of ladies from Eastminster served an excellent meal in smorgasbord style.

The head table was made up from each club along with Dave Sherwood, the National President of A.O.T.S. Taylor Franklin, president of the Bridge Street club, was in charge of the meeting, assisted by Bryson Leslie, the extension chairman; Fred Taylor, secretary; Stewart Robb and Bill Deline.

In alternate positions were the members of the executive of the newly formed club, Linton Read, president, Douglas Mallory, vice president; G. E. Wannamaker, secretary, and Lorne Foley, treasurer.

THE PROGRAM

Jocular music, Alec Gordon style, proved to be a second dessert entertainment.

A brief but thought-provoking devotional period based on the parable of the Good Samaritan was led by Harold Mott.

Dave Sherwood, as guest speaker, outlined the aims and objectives of A.O.T.S., relating incidents from other Canada to show how a service club within a church can lead men towards bigger and better things for God.

An initiation ceremony, led by Taylor Franklin, brought those present from Eastminster into the fellowship and service of an A.O.T.S. club. A special rite conducted by Dave Sherwood installed the officers.

Their charter was presented to the new president by Bryson Leslie and the gavel of authority was handed from president to president.

The Bridge Street Club is looking forward in the near future to chartering a new club at Colin's Bay and to the annual club picnic to be held June 19 at Quin-Mo-Lac.

V.O.N. Sponsors Most Successful Spring Tea

The interior of Club Commodore, yesterday afternoon, presented a most appealing contrast to the brooding skies outside with its tall, white standards of lovely leaves and white lilacs which stood at attention round about making a bridge of fragrance for the pretty spring tea held under the auspices of the Victorian Order of Nurses. There were there were also baskets of these well-beloved old-fashioned shrubs on a slightly raised platform, background by white hangings and a life-size model of an attractive V.O.N. nurse, trim and neat in her blue uniform and cape and with immaculate white collar, and carrying her medical kit, ready for any emergency. On her left and on her right were more white and mauve lilacs in tall standards, and over all the massive and golden colored lights shedding a soft and gentle spring-like radiance.

LOVELY TEA TABLES

The twin tea tables, identical in their appointments of white damask, and lovely centre arrangements of white pom 'mums; pink sweetpeas; and sprays of purple larkspur, mingled with asparagus fern, flanked by tall white and blue candles in silver candelabra, and at either end, the silver tea services.

Those receiving the many guests and patrons were, Mrs. H. A. Parker, wife of the president, and Mrs. D. Jones, V.O.N. nurse, who extended a most cheerful welcome to one and all, while nearby was the treasurer for the afternoon, Mrs. J. F. Madill.

At the tea room entrance were the hostesses, Mrs. A. F. Miles; Mrs. M. E. Bulger; and in the tea room proper, Mrs. H. M. Fraser, Mrs. E. E. Follwell, Mrs. H. McCabe, and Miss B. Cortesi; gracious escorted the guests to the little guest tables, which were centred by blue vases of little white sprays of van Houtii spirea, and blue iris.

POURING TEA

Those who presided at the tea tables included: Mrs. W. S. Northcott and Mrs. H. M. Francis; Mrs. J. H. Forrester, and Mrs. D. Scott; Mrs. H. W. Herrman and Mrs. G. I. Tripp; Mrs. J. C. Punchard, and Mrs. C. E. James.

Those who served were the Misdames: A. N. Rots; P.G. Loder; J. D. Empson; J. E. Nelles; R. Bateman; L. B. Crook; E. R. Williamson; W. W. Ramsay; A. Walters; H. Williamson; H. S. Berry; J. B. Ross; D. Burr; L. Bunk; H. Williamson; G. Beaver; M. White; George Greatrix; T. B. Colt; F. L. Acton; M. Lincoln; D. McKillican; J. H. Lennox; P. Halloran; E. Parker; B. Guinn; Miss Joyce Miles, and Miss Bevelyn Fox.

Representing plates: Mrs. N. Williamson; Mrs. R. Hall; Mrs. A. Bowman, and Mrs. D. Hall.

Mrs. F. Miles, Mrs. W. Fox, and Mrs. H. Glenn had charge of the coffee urns and sugars.

Both the homebaking and that of the candies was well patronized with purchasers patiently waiting to be served. On the homebaking, convened by Mrs. H. Collins, Mrs. J. E. Boyd; Mrs. H. J. Andrews; Mrs. R. Pound and Mrs. Putnam, were delicious confections of many varieties of loaf and sponge cakes, pies, cookies, tarts, meringues, and jars of grape jelly and watermelon pickles. The candies included maple creams; chocolate fudge; divinity; cocoanut creams; peanut brittle; and others all artistically displayed in fancy cups, cellophane bags, and boxes.

QUEEN OF CAKES

A veritable queen of angel cakes sat in state on a damask covered table, hiding its angelic pale-pink beauty beneath a veil of coffee icing. In its deep indenture reposed a tiny vase of pale pink flowering almond roses, and the stems of fragrant lily-of-the-valley, which, around its base crept a wreath of delicate fern accented at the intervals by little clusters of flowering roses. This beauty would become the prized possession of the lucky ticket holder who was convened by Mrs. C. E. James and Mrs. J. M. Walcott. Two other articles would also be raffled, these were cosmetic kits, fully equipped.

The convener of the tea was Mrs. R. R. Brain, assisted by Mrs. A. E. Miles; Mrs. A. E. Miles; Mrs. W. Fox; Mrs. H. M. Francis; and Mrs. C. E. James. Those assistants were also convening the following sections: Mrs. J.R. Dunn, tea room; Mrs. A. E. Miles the homebaking and Mr. C. E. James, the decorating assisted by Mrs. James, and Mrs. T. Colling.

W.G. Leonard Addresses Queen's Alumni Dinner

"Canada is rapidly progressing from a predominantly agricultural nation to a highly industrialized country and in this new circumstance requires more trained leaders," W. G. Leonard, professor of economics at Queen's University told a meeting of Queen's Alumni in Belleville last night. "There never was a time when the future for university-trained men and women looked brighter" he said.

"Today, more than ever, knowledge is power" he continued, "and in fact without knowledge there is no power. It is nothing short of criminal if the young people of today do not obtain as much education as they can absorb."

The Ladies Guild of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill provided a turkey dinner for the Queen's people. As a result of other groups meeting the same evening the numbers were lower than usual. However Queen's people attended from Belleville, Bloomfield, Madoc, Picton and Trenton.

At the close of the meeting the following new executive members were elected for the coming year; past president, F.E. Moore, Belleville; president, R.J. Wilson, Belleville; first vice-president, McKinley Rankin, Belleville; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Frost, Trenton; secretary, Dr. Joan Bronskill, Belleville; treasurer, Miss Jean Scott, Belleville athletic director, J. H. Sisson, Belleville; executive committee representative, Mrs. J. H. Bateman, Belleville; representa-tives: Frankford — Dr. J. K. Beach, Frankford; Prince Edward, Dr. J. W. Wessinger, Picton and Hastings North, Miss Lamoine West, Madoc.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE FOOLISH TO BE ANGRY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Two weeks ago my boy friend had a birthday, and I bought him a pretty plaid shirt. It was also a very expensive shirt. Remember, money is no object.

Well, here's the problem: He says it is nice. Mother says it is nice, but she says when he first wore the shirt it was all right, but now it looks terrible. Should I ask him about it, and if so, could you tell me how to go about it? I don't want to hurt his feelings.

I'm very hurt that he hasn't told me that I also want him to know if I'm angry, because I am.

M.C.S.

Dear M.C.S.:

I think you're a very foolish girl to be angry about this, and especially to want your boy friend know you're angry.

I'm sure he didn't ask you to buy him a birthday present. It was undoubtedly your own idea, and I can see no reason for your getting so emotional about it.

There might be all sorts of reasons why he hasn't worn the shirt since. It may be wrong as to size. You can send special occasion, or perhaps it's just not his type of thing. It might have been a part of you to have put a little note with it when you gave it saying that if it wasn't quite the pattern and color he liked you would want to take it back and exchange it for something that would be more to his taste. It can often happen that, when people pick out as personal thing as a piece of wearing apparel for someone else, they don't always hit just the right style or color that most pleases the one for whom the gift is intended. So it's always wise, or make it clear that the gift can be exchanged with no hard feelings.

Be your age, now, and don't be such a poor sport. You really have no reason to be so upset and you can easily straighten the whole thing out by just saying, very lightly some day: "Going to show me you are in that birthday shirt soon? I'm dying to see how it looks!"

HAVE YOU TRIED ASKING YOUR MOTHER?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a fellow 18 years old and there is a girl the same age I'd like to take out on a date.

The trouble is that this girl's mother won't let her go, and gets mad every time I ask Kit if she will even go to the movies with me. Kit tells me she can't understand why her mother acts this way, because her mother once told her that when she was young, and her own mother wouldn't let her go with the boys, she used to climb out a window at night and sneak away. She laughed about it, and seemed to think she was real smart.

How can I solve this problem?

Pete

Dear Pete

It's certainly too bad Kit's mother doesn't seem to remember what she told her daughter about this, and what she did herself when her own mother refused her permission to go out. Unfortunately, many mothers take an entirely different view of things once they have daughters of their own.

Have you tried asking Kit directly when you want to invite Kit out, or have you just invited Kit and left it up to her to arrange things with her mother? If not, I suggest that you change your technique, and the next time you'd like to invite Kit on a date call her mother up, or go to the house and see her, and ask very politely if Kit may go with you. Say exactly where you wish to take her and that you'll have her home promptly at any time her mother says.

This approach seems to work very often with difficult mothers, and if you haven't used it already, it's worth a try.

Two New H-S Associations Organized

Two new Home and School Associations were organized on May 18 by Inspector of Public Instruction, Mr. A. W. Stephenson, of Dunnville.

Mr. K. Bird, principal, and parents of pupils at Bayside School, last month invited Mrs. Powell, president of the Central Council of Home and School Associations for Belleville and district, to outline the procedure required to form such an association.

Nominations resulted in the following elected to be the first officers of the Bayside Home and School Association: They were duly installed by Mrs. Stephenson at the meeting on May 6th, as follows: president, Mr. M. Wilson; vice-presidents, Mr. R. Millar and Mrs. M. Hunt; recording - corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. W. Wallis; treasurer, Mrs. E. Genereaux executive members: Mrs. P. Gryce, Mrs. R. Percival, Mrs. M. Moase; Mrs. Rhodenizer, teacher representatives, Miss Barker, Mrs. Bowers, Bayside and Mrs. Campbell, Quinte View School.

There were 47 charter members.

At a similar meeting held at the Bayview school, Mr. H. Darling, principal, and many interested parents met at a preorganization meeting to formulate plans for a Home and School meeting, with the aid of the Central Council.

The following were elected to be the first executive of the Bayview Home and School Association: president, Mr. G. Hudgeon; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. McLean, Mr. E. Whitfield and Mrs. R. Smith; recording - corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. Fry; treasurer, Mr. J. Rose; executive members: Mr. G. Faget, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Hanson and Mr. F. Henderson; teacher representatives, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. Hutchison and Mrs. Walton.

There were 66 charter members.

Mrs. A. W. Stephenson, the district organizer, and Mrs. C. G. Collins, past vice-president of Ontario Federation, installed the new officers.

At each meeting she gave instructions on the duties and responsibilities of the Home and School movement, and closed with the wish that each associa-

When we are getting me ready to make the trip, we both go slightly fey and when she waves good-bye, it is not "sweet sorrow" — she is so relieved to have me tion will have every success in the future.

Over the week-end I wanted to try about 6 different dishes so I would be ready with some tested and tasted dishes to pass on to you bright and early on Monday morning.

My two hands and the 24 hours at my disposal couldn't cope with the programming so Lillian took over and made up the Tongue, Cranberry Glaze and Jellied Tongue, I am suggesting these to you for Victoria Day because it is going to give you plenty of time to get it ready for serving. Tongue is cut in thick slices is fine advantage cold too. The Jellied Tongue may be prepared and held ready for those frequent occasions when drop-in company decides to have a picnic. The fresh tongue weighed 3¾ lbs. plus and cost $1.86 - 49c per lb.

TONGUE:

One fresh or pickled beef tongue, 10 to 12 cups hot water, 3 bay leaves, 1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices, 1 clove garlic cut, 1½ tablespoon pepper, ½ cup chopped onion, 1 cup sliced celery, ¾ cup sliced carrots, 1 tablespoon salt. Small unit if tongue is large is used). Wash and scrub tongue well. Soak pickled tongue in cold water for two hours, before cooking. Cover tongue with hot water, add spices and salt, cover and simmer till well done. Will be done when fork goes in easily and skin comes off easily. Remove skin, excess fat, glands and bones from thick end of tongue. Slice thick end, Shredd cooking liquid and return tongue to liquid to keep hot till served.

CRANBERRY GLAZE:

Combine in saucepan 2 tablespoons each brown sugar and vinegar, 1 tablespoon molasses, ½ cup water, ¼ teaspoon each cloves, 1¼ - inch stick cinnamon and 1 7-oz. tin whole cranberry sauce. Bring to boiling point and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Put mixture on baking dish and pour glaze over it and glaze in hot oven, 450 deg. F., for 15 min. Serve hot.

JELLIED TONGUE:

Strain and boil 1 to 4 cups of the cooking liquid down to 2 cups. Dissolve 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine in 1 cup cold water and add your hot liquid. Pour a little into bottom of mould to cover tongue. Let set. Arrange tongue slices in mould and pour over remaining liquid. Let set. Unmould on platter and garnish with parsley. Serve with mustard sauce. Tongue is boiled and then cooked in cup cold water. Chill. When thoroughly set, unmould. Cut in thin slices and serve.

This recipe is worth saving for those cold months ahead. It is a good way to use tongue left by one of those cold meats men love.

STOCK LIQUIDATER
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The owner of a downtown restaurant got a surprise when he went out of business. He found a shoe store next door looking for more than 1,000 pairs of shoes. Thinking he could get rid of several feet of stock, he bought the lot. Last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, he sold 1,000 pairs of shoes. Then he went out of business.

Millinery Magic

By ALICE ALDEN

Just how any female can resist the charms and flattery of a hat is beyond our comprehension, especially when even low-tag designs have distinction and beauty. Harry Sperling does a budget bonnet of lilac linen-type straw that is a joy to behold and to wear. The crown is flat and is surrounded by a wreath of delicate spring flowers. The body of the hat flares out slightly over the forehead and is broken at the sides by self-straw bands. A face veil falls from beneath the flower wreath.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SISTERS AND BROTHERS TO GIVE GOLDEN WEDDING PARTY FOR PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning an "Open House" for our parents' Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary this summer, on a Sunday in July, in the country. We are inviting relatives and close friends, about 150 guests. I have three sisters and two brothers, all married, and they will all help with the preparations. Do you advise that we send invitations or announce the "At Home" in the local newspaper? If invitations, what form do you suggest? — C.

Such a wonderful occasion as a Golden Wedding should, I think, be given the honor of very special invitations, to be featured, to be cherished. They may be written (or of course engraved, if cost is not important) on white double-sheet letter-paper, of good, heavy stock; the dates may be written at the top (1907-1957); and these dates, or indeed the entire invitation, may be written with gold ink.

Since I judge, you and your sisters and brothers are issuing the invitations, the following excellent form may be used:

1907 — 1957
In honor of
Mr. and Mrs. John Morris their sons and daughters request the pleasure of your company on Sunday, the seventh of July
(state hours)
(address)

R.s.v.p.
Mrs. David Brown
(address)

Or, if you wish to have the invitations in your parents' names:

1907 — 1957
Mr. and Mrs. John Morris
At Home
Sunday, the seventh of July from three until six o'clock
(address)

SHE'S RIGHT ABOUT THE PUNCH SERVED AT WEDDINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our daughter is to be married soon, and we are having the reception at home. We will serve wine for the toasts. Is it necessary to serve punch also? (I think that usually the punch served at weddings tastes like water!)

2. My husband and I will be host and hostess of the wedding. How should we stand in the receiving-line? — Constant Reader

1. You should serve some kind of non-alcoholic drink . . . but not necessarily punch. (And you are so right about the punch often served at weddings!)

2. You, the hostess, stand first. Your husband may stand next to you, or he may prefer to carry out his responsibilities as host by mingling with the guests, making introductions, seeing that the guests are directed to the room in which the refreshments are being served, and so forth.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

ARCHERY PROMOTES GRACE AND GOOD POSTURE

The skills needed to ply bow and arrow are health-giving, body-beautifying.

One of the reasons why so many women are retaining youthful appearance and slender figures well into middle age is their increasing interest in outdoor sports. We are quite used to seeing women on the golf courses, on tennis courts, on the bridle path and, of course, in pretty swim suits at the beaches and the pools.

It was quite a revelation to us, however, on a recent motor trip, to see how many women are to be found on the archery ranges. In fact, to be quite truthful, we did not know there were so many archery ranges in the country. If we ever thought about it at all, we considered it a hobby of somewhat limited scope. How wrong can one be! The saw ranges not only dotted over the countryside but at the beaches, too. One, especially elaborate in its equipment, was on a beach, with fifty targets lined up against a background of white bathing suit. And we were surprised to see how many of the competitors were women—veritable Dianas, steady of hand, strong of limb and so utterly graceful.

It was fun watching the girls as they aimed at their gaily colored targets. Arrows were poised, aimed, soared upward, curved downward, then plunged into the targets.

We couldn't help noticing their body movements—so alert and so vibrant. Their posture was perfect. Commenting on this fact, a "pro" explained to us that it had to be perfect. The target can't be hit if posture isn't just right. We learned, too, that there is no exercise more beneficial as a figure builder and corrective influence. The act of shooting the bow pulls upon the muscles of the arms, chest and mid-section. In walking back and forth between the targets and the firing line, legs, thighs and hips get a workout.

Archery is also a mental stimulant. There is the sporting element of competition which is lacking, of course, in the ordinary calisthenics which so many women find tiresome and boring. We think you'd like this outdoor sport. So why not see if there's a range in your neighborhood and see what you can do with a bow and arrow?

SUNBEAM M. B.

FRANKFORD — Sunbeam Mission Band of Frankford United Church was held recently in Rose Lowery Hall.

The meeting opened with the call to worship.

The Scripture, reading, Ephesians 6: 1-2 were read by Judy Carlisle.

Offering was received by Myra Sine while the members sang, "Father Bless -Thy Gifts We Bring Thee." President Donna Chase conducted the business with 20 members answering the roll call.

At the next meeting, clothes for needy children and used Christmas cards will be collected.

The primary story, "Ke Soonl" was told by Mrs. F. Chase and the junior story, "Illsunga Goes Into the City", was told by Mrs. R. Rowe.

Argyll Chapter IODE Makes Presentation

A special presentation was made to Mrs. E. Fairman, at the regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E., which was held at the Armouries on Monday. Mrs. A. Duffy, the Regent, presented a figurine to her and expressed the thanks of the members for her long service as Regent of the Chapter.

An invitation was received from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary to hear a special speaker on 'Mental Health' at their meeting on May 21st. A financial report was given on Tag Day, and the convener of services at Home and Abroad, Mrs. F. Lazier, reported she had shipped a large number of articles to Provincial Headquarters. Mrs. M. Davison reported on her attendance at the last Citizenship Court.

A letter was read from the Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment granting permission to the Chapter to extend their membership to include the wives of officers and ex-officers of the armed forces. Considerable discussion followed and this matter is to be voted on at the June meeting. It was also proposed that the by-laws should be received and compiled in proper form for submission to Provincial Headquarters for approval.

Mrs. F. Burtt, who, with the Regent, was a delegate to the convention held in Hamilton in April, gave a report on her impressions of the convention and the work accomplished by the Provincial Chapter during the past year. A white elephant auction raised funds for the flower fund.

The June meeting is to take the form of a pot-luck supper to be held at the home of Mrs. A. Duffy, on June 17th.

STIRLING

Disastrous Fires Caused Heavy Loss in Early Days

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — In June 1858, Stirling was incorporated as a village and next August, 1958, plans are being made to have a centennial celebration. Several times this year we have been asked to write about the two disastrous fires which occurred in the village in 1883, and 1908.

We are indebted to several folk for the material we have synopsized in order to bring this brief summary. Needless to say we did not know any of the particulars of either fire. We hope our account is authentic as it is based on printed reports which were published reasonably soon after each fire.

The first disastrous fire occurred on June 14, 1883, 25 years after Stirling became a village. The story states that the staff of the News-Argus quit work at 11.00 p.m. that Thursday evening and started homeward. While travelling up Front Street, an ominous sound as of a subdued explosion, was heard and a huge volume of flame and smoke was seen issuing from the "Exchange Hotel."

Mr. George S. Cryer also saw the fire as he came out the door of the Sterling House, so two alarms were given simultaneously on Front Street and Mill Street.

The fire engine was placed at the "Scott House" gate, but as it was a very heavy antiquated way of fighting a huge fire, it did very little to stem the leaping flames. Soon it became apparent that the ("Exchange") must go and firemen then directed their attention to the "Scott House" and stables.

POST OFFICE BLOCK BURNING

Meantime the owners and occupants of the brick blocks on the opposite of Front street from Parkers to Butlers, to the hardware store, tried to defend their property. The word was received that the post office block (Mrs. Judd's), was on fire and the villagers worked to save some of the contents.

The writer of those days said in part: "Such headway had the flames gained and with such velocity did they sweep on their destructive way, that the efforts to save the valuable property were, in many cases, entirely or almost unavailing.

The News Argus office being the next in its path, was soon a heap of ruins. Buried in which was $1,000 worth of type and presses.

Then came Mr. Thomas Scott's agricultural implement store, which was next door up North Street. Then Mrs. Wheeler's residence and, finally, Mr. Joseph Green's large stone store, vacant below and used as a Masonic Hall above. All of these were swept away in the blaze. The heavy stone walls of this latter place stayed the progress of the flames in that direction.

The contents of the residences of Dr. Boulter, Mr. Milne and Mr. Boldrick were carried to the street. The fire also destroyed Dr. Parker's block; Mrs. Judd's, and Mr. Milne's property that faced on Front Street. Very little contents were saved from these three.

The Boldrick block caught fire and here hard work and extraordinary exertions were put forth to save it and they were happily successful. The fire was extinguished after it burned part of the cornice and floors.

Mr. Calder and his wife, a newly married couple, were compelled to unceremoniously tear up their household belongings in this block and Mr. Calder also removed the contents of his jewellery store to a safer place.

FIRE BRANCHED OUT

The fire branched in different directions from the place where it originated and a clean sweep was made eastward along Front Street. This included Martin and Turner's (as they stood) Jones' blacksmith shop; Reed and Emmon's butcher shop; Wheeler wagon and blacksmith shops; T. W. Smith's jewellery shop and residence; Wheeler's paint shop and ware rooms, and the county bridge over Rawdon Creek. This latter was burnt from its fastenings and fell into the water below.

The brick store opposite Smith's on the "Point" owned by J. G. McKenzie and Company of Montreal, also burned. The building was occupied below by Dr. Youkes, and above by John Conley. Conley also had a store in this building for sewing machines and organs.

A row of stately poplar trees adjoining saved the frame buildings to the east along Mill St. The contents of these houses were removed and water freely applied.

This terrible destruction almost dazed the crowd of workers as they viewed the magnitude of the calamity. The total loss was $84,000 with approximately $34,000 in insurance; a net loss of $60,000; 33 individuals or firms were losers in the fire and many had no insurance.

SECOND BIG FIRE

Twenty-five years later on August 8, 1908, Stirling village witnessed another disastrous fire when 11 business places and two residences were destroyed. Six families were rendered homeless, and the loss of almost $100,000 took place with only one half of it covered with insurance.

The second fire started about 11.00 p.m. on a Saturday evening when an explosion of the acetylene gas plant at F. T. Wards store was responsible for the outbreak. The alarm was given and the clerks were able to remove a small portion of the stock. The flames sread to the wooden sheds and structures in the rear, and very soon Mr. J. W. Brown's shoe store on the west, and Mr. James Ralph's furniture store on the east were blazing.

The fire then spread to Mr. Hadley's jewellery store, and the Bank of Montreal on the west. The fire also spread east to the store of Cook and Fox; George E. Reynold's shoe store, and T. A. Eggleton's photograph gallery. All of these buildings were completely destroyed and the greater part of their contents as well. Mr. Hadley lost his books, papers and valuable stock as the entire contents of his vault, which was thought to be fireproof, were consumed in the blaze.

The dwelling occupied by Mr. F. T. Ward, North of the Bank of Montreal, and Mrs. M. S. Elliott's residence, the former Dr. Boulter property, were completely destroyed, s well as a portion of the contents. Mr. George Jenking, who occupied a part of the Elliott residence lost some of his household goods.

BUILDING SAVED

A determined and successful fight prevented the destruction of the buildings occupied by Mrs. Wheeler and the News-Argus. Mr. L. Meikiejohn suggested covering the front of these two places with sheets of galvanized iron from his hardware departments. With this protection and the heroic efforts of the fire-fighting citizens who kept roofs well drenched with water, these buildings were saved.

Wet blankets were hung over the doors and windows of G. S. McCutcheon's drug store and it was thus saved from igniting.

The hand engine and several men succeeded in stopping the fire at the John Shaw block. A solid brick wall checked the fire which had been raging four and one-half hours.

The business places destroyed were: Bank of Montreal over which were Dr. Wait's dental rooms; R. Rosebush's barber shop; James Boldrick's fur store; H. Hadley's jewellery store; J. W. Brown, boot and shoe store; F. T. Ward, clothing and gents' furnishings; James Ralph, furniture and undertaking with dwelling above; Cook and Fox general store and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sargent lived above the store; George E. Reynold's boot and shoe store, over which was Dr. Orick's office and T. A. Eggleton's photograph gallery and residence.

Mr. M. Lamptrie's block was damaged and the intense heat smashed all the large front plate glass windows.

Others who suffered loss in the fire were: Mr. W. S. Marin and the Hanna Brothers.

BUSINESS SET UP

Business on Monday was set up as follows: Mr. Fred T. Ward in the lower part of the Masonic Hall; Bank of Montreal in the east end of Moon's Hotel; Mr. Hadley and Mr. Reynolds in the Lanktree block; J. W. Brown in Mr. Montgomery's carriage shop; Mr. Ralph in the town hall; Mr. Eggleton in the upper flat of the T.H. McKee block; Dr. Zwick over the old post office building, and Dr. Walt at his residence, Front Street.

Some time after the fire was under control, an engine from Peterborough arrived and assisted in pouring water on the debris.

Following this fire, many up-to-date places of business were erected and thus Stirling village won a reputation for progress and continued success.

For almost 50 years the day-to-day routine has been carried on, and all of the business places have changed hands, with new proprietors. Many of the old pioneers have passed on, but it is hoped that in August 1958 a large number of the descendants will plan to pay the village of Stirling a visit and thus join in its celebrations.

Order Woman To Be Deported

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Interior Minister Eben Donges Tuesday accused a wealthy, white American woman of associating with the African National Congress and argued that she thus was not fit to remain in South Africa.

The woman, Mrs. Mary-Louise Hooper, was arrested March 10, jailed and ordered deported. She contends her arrest was illegal and has asked a halt to the deportation order.

Donges told t he Witwatersrand Supreme Court that before and since her arrival in South Africa as a permanent resident in September, 1956, Mrs. Hooper has actively associated with the African National Congress, a group opposed to the racial segregation policies of the South African government.

The minister said this was no known when she was granted permission to reside here.

Mrs. Hooper's activities "are not and cannot properly be said to be likely to promote true welfare of native African people of South Africa," Donges said, and her presence is not in the public interest.

The case is continuing.

Here's why! Dawn contains Deodorine, an exclusive new deodorant. When used regularly and exclusively, Dawn checks the action of odour-causing skin bacteria for a full 24 hours or more.

An underarm deodorant is not enough. Dawn bathes away the cause of perspiration odour—keeps you morning-fresh all over. And this is very important—because of course you perspire all over.

Diefenbaker Urges Changes In Parliament Organization With Permanent Speaker

CARMAN, Man. (CP) —Broad changes in the organization of Parliament have been proposed by John Diefenbaker, who said they are needed "to restore Parliament to something of its former greatness."

He has also promised that under a Progressive Conservative government no province would lose money under new federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements.

The Conservative leader dwelt on those two topics Wednesday night in a speech here to an overflow audience of 600, including more than 100 who were unable to get seats in the Memorial Hall Auditorium and listened to a loud-speaker in the basement.

TWO NEW POINTS

Mr. Diefenbaker's proposals on parliamentary change contained two points not previously stated in his campaign to date:

1. Appointment of a permanent Speaker of the House of Commons, in the British tradition, to remove him from "partisan politics."

2. Creation of an independent commission to carry out the decennial redistribution of federal constituencies "to avoid past abuses in this regard."

He also called for reform of the Senate so it would not "blindly follow the government's dictates," and strengthening of the power of parliamentary committees to obtain information.

On federal-provincial fiscal relations, he said a Conservative government, if elected June 10, would call a conference with the provinces to work out a new tax-sharing deal "in the spirit of Confederation."

REPLY TO LIBERALS

His statements on this point were in apparent reply to claims by Liberals that because of backing by Ontario's Premier Frost of the federal Conservative party, other provinces might suffer if the party came to power at Ottawa. He did not mention those claims specifically but said:

"They are trying to misinterpret me and say this party will be controlled by one or other premiers in this country.

"When a conference is called, we are going to aim at agreement by all the provinces . . . There will be no reduction in the amount now being paid to any of the provinces under the present system."

The Carman meeting capped a busy day in which he met about 185 persons at a morning coffee party in St. Boniface and spoke to some 200 in late afternoon at Steinbach, a largely Mennonite community some 75 miles east of here.

FLIES FLIN FLON

Today he was scheduled to fly to Flin Flon, 380 miles northwest of Winnipeg, for an afternoon meeting and return for a major evening speech at Minnedosa in Western Manitoba.

His proposals on parliamentary changes were made here as he renewed his criticism of government actions during last year's bitter Commons pipeline debate.

He said the government had made the Speaker "a party pawn" during the debate.

In the past the speakership had alternated in each Parliament between English- and French-speaking members.

"I believe that to preserve Parliament both races would agree to putting the Speaker above party politics."

Mr. Diefenbaker has charged in the past that Speaker Rene Beaudoin followed government orders in making rulings during the pipeline debate.

COMMENTS ON WHEAT

At Steinbach he said with sarcasm that it was "just a coincidence" that the Canadian wheat board Wednesday announced a final payment on the 1955 western wheat crop before the June 10 election.

Sixteen days before the Aug. 10, 1953 election the grain elevators had "opened up and farmers could sell almost all the wheat they could deliver." Four days after the election the elevators had closed down and farmers could not deliver wheat for months afterwards.

And in 1949 the Canadian wheat board had borrowed money to make an interim payment on wheat in April before the June election that year.

Whatever the payment might be this time, the fact was that Canada was losing her wheat markets under a Liberal government which refused to act.

HITS OTHER PARTIES

The Conservative leader criticized CCF and Social Credit parties who, he said, could promise the voters anything "because they realize they will never have to face the responsibility of office."

The CCF in the last session of Parliament had called for 100-per-cent parity price supports for agriculture.

"What nonsense!" he said. Did anyone believe that the people of Canada would permit the taxation necessary to give farmers their full pay regardless of production? That was what the CCF proposals amounted to. Since 1941 he had proposed in the Commons a system of flexible price supports to provide farm prices "on a reasonable level with the things a farmer has to buy."

All the Liberals in the Commons had voted against that and yet here and over again the Liberals asked to be returned to power.

After the voters had beef fooled three times there was no reason for them to give the government another chance.

TWEED

Many Friends Honor Departing Residents

TWEED — On Monday evening about 100 friends and neighbors gathered from from lodges at Farnsworth, Bethel and Chapman districts, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Mouck, and Mrs. Albert Mouck, Crookston Road, for a social time, before their departure for their new home in Stirling.

Graham had recently purchased the McGee hardware business in Stirling and took possession on May 1st.

The gathering was called to order by Mr. T. S. McCrea, who acted as chairman. Mrs. Don Palmateer read an address after which Bill Kwan, Percy Gaylord, Milton Elliott and Lorne Fleming presented the family with a chrome kitchen suite and Mr. Mouck Sr., with a chaise lounge chair.

They were all taken by surprise, but thanked everyone for their thoughtfulness and invited all to visit them in their new home in Stirling.

Music was arranged and dancing was enjoyed for some time. Refreshments were served.

TRAFFIC SOLUTION

Downtown Congestion One Of Major Traffic Problems Facing Canadian Cities

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Downtown traffic congestion is one of the major problems facing growing Canadian cities. It is an extensive and complex headache.

Jungles of signs and lights have been created to smooth the flow of traffic. Subways, expressways, traffic circles, one - way streets and off-street parking are the vogue.

Greater emphasis is being placed on improvement of public transportation to lure the motorist away from his car when travelling downtown.

PARKING A POSER

The trend is toward eliminating street parking in traffic-clogged downtown areas. Off-street parking space is a problem and parking costs were never higher.

Downtown congestion started to become acute after the Second World War and a survey by The Canadian Press shows the problem has not worsened.

Basically, the congestion is caused by too many motor vehicles moving in too small an area. There are other factors. Some cities are divided by rivers. Edmonton is a prime example. Others, like Montreal and Hamilton, have a mountain to contend with in their street system.

A motorist driving along Water street, main business street in St. John's, Nfld., follows a 16th-century winding trail along the harbor shore. One of Quebec's main streets, built when the city was founded is no wider than 20 feet.

The survey showed that most cities launched their initial attack by restricting street parking, instituting one-way streets and installing new light systems—all designed to speed the flow of traffic through downtown areas.

CANADA'S ONLY SUBWAY

There also have been more far-reaching moves. Toronto, Canada's second largest city, built a 4.5-mile north-south subway and plans are being made for an east-west subway. The subway is the only one in Canada.

The CP survey covered 14 major cities: St. John's, Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria.

Although oceans apart, officials of Victoria and St. John's spoke of their own situation in the same terms.

Said city engineer James Garnett of Victoria: "We have a potential problem. Our job is to fix it now for the future."

No downtown traffic experts' means have been tried but plans exist, said mayor Harry Mews of St. John's. "We're really late in ginning to tackle it."

Mr. Garnett said Victoria's traffic problem, largely a rush-hour commuter problem, "hasn't improved because we haven't done anything to improve it."

RAPID INCREASE

Traffic headache in St. John's are due chiefly to a rapid increase in motor vehicles since confederation in 1949. Then there were only 4,300 passenger cars and 1,345 commercial vehicles in the area. There are now more than 9,000 passenger cars and 4,741 commercial vehicles.

Slum clearance is expected to provide downtown parking space.

A lack of through arterial streets accounts for Ottawa's traffic problem. A contribution also is made by a lack of arterial bridges over the lacework of rivers, canals and ponds around which the city is built.

Most traffic, including all street cars, passes through the Confederation Square in the heart of the city. But peak-hour traffic now moves well, due to a no-stopping rule enforced on main routes. Commercial traffic poses no problem in a non-industrial Ottawa.

A four - lane Queensway for through traffic, costing $35,000,000, is projected. Also needed are additional bridge-type crossings over rivers and railways. Existing arterial streets need widening.

Ottawa traffic engineer W. W. Hankin said the city's peak-hour operation is better than it was but major construction will be needed to keep abreast. Generally, downtown merchants do not oppose one-way traffic in the area.

MONTREAL PROBLEMS

Montreal, surrounded by water and with a mountain in the middle, seeks parking space. "We need 20,000 more parking-space units," said traffic director Jean Lacoste.

"Secondly, we need expressways and more bridges. But, if you have a two-room apartment you don't invite 30 guests. Thus, we need parking space foremost."

Rush-hour parking and delivery is banned on all main streets. There is a growing number of one-way streets. The Montreal Transportation Commission hopes to replace all streetcars with buses by the end of next year.

The city set up an over-all planning authority nearly two years ago and Mr. Lacoste said downtown traffic now moves three miles an hour faster, averaging 11.7 miles an hour.

"We could spend $400,000,000 on the problem," Mr. Lacoste said. "Like most cities, we started too late."

Unlike Ottawa, one-way streets are the second biggest source of public opposition. Merchants offer the most opposition to parking bans.

RAISES BOTTLENECKS

Toronto is eliminating entrance bottlenecks. In addition, a by-pass has been constructed north of the city so that it now is possible to drive from Hamilton to Oshawa without entering the city.

The authority within three years has created 36 downtown parking lots with capacities for 50 to 500 cars at a cost running as high as $1,200 a car space. However, these lots make a substantial profit on the land originally plowed back into other projects. In addition, there are scores of private parking lots.

Yonge Street, principal north-south artery, has almost been cleared of parking zones. As soon as a parking lot is cleared parking is banned on all adjacent streets.

Officials believe the situation has improved but only to the extent that apparent congestion is no worse than it was at the end of the Second World War, during which time the car population has increased.

Opposition to parking bans comes mostly from merchants, but usually they are placated by the opening of parking lots which leave streets in a better position to handle through traffic and absorb customers at the same time.

OLD AGE A FACTOR

Traffic problem of Halifax are creased by old age, land shortage and increased motor vehicle registration. But few people believe the situation is critical because of the city's good public transportation system.

The city has two downtown parking lots, one operated with meters and the other on the attendant card system. The latter, with space of 95 cars, cost the city $125,000 to build in 1954.

Vancouver finds public transit in a state of decline. This is happening despite warnings from some experts the time is coming when motorists will have to leave cars on a civic parking lot outside the downtown area and transfer to buses.

James Plasket, executive secretary of the Vancouver Traffic and Safety Council, said: "More and more people are using private transportation and fighting for less space."

He said two developments in the last 10 years helped relieve the situation. One-way streets proved effective in speeding traffic and off-street parking helped.

Vancouver first tried to introduce one-way streets in 1948 but opposition developed and the matter was shelved until 1952. That year Seymour and Howe streets were made one way and next month a 120-block area will become a grid of alternating one-way streets. The area affected is the virtual heart of the city.

The roughly 20,000 downtown parking spaces represent an 80-per-cent increase since 1947. Off-street parking provides about three-quarters of the parking spaces available.

The city's technical planning board has advised city council that most land now used by private operators for off-street parking will be absorbed as building space. The board estimated at least $9,000,000 should be spent for sites in the next 20 years.

Calgary and Edmonton have a mutual problem—both cities are divided east-west by a river.

Calgary, which spends about $300,000 annually on traffic study, finds the situation has improved but city planning supervisor A.G. Martin said "as long as the city remains dynamic and expands, as long as people want to travel by car, cars will aggravate the problem."

In Edmonton, where the number of registered motor vehicles has increased to 86,000 from 10,000 in 1946, parking is regarded by city planner W. R. Brown as the No. 1 problem.

One thing that has helped to keep the problem from getting out of hand is attributed by Mr. Brown to luck. The city has many wide streets, some as wide as eight lanes, and few narrow ones.

Some attribute this to foresight of the city's founders, but Mr. Brown believes the wide streets occurred by accident or luck.

PROBLEMS NO WORSE

Edmonton, since 1946, has spent about $1,500,000 in seeking to solve traffic problems. The figure does not include capital expenditures. It is generally, held that the city's problem hasn't improved much but that it hasn't worsened a great deal either.

Winnipeg's main problems are caused by a lack of capacity at central intersections within the business district. Street layouts prevent an extensive one-way street plan in all directions and most bridges—crossing the Red, Assiniboine and Seine rivers and the CPR's large freight yards—are operating beyond their practical peak-period volume.

A north-south, one-way street system was launched in 1954, the same year parking on Portage and Main streets was banned during rush-hour periods.

The downtown businessmen's association favored a parking corporation in 1955 to operate for the city in a 166-car parking lot within the business district. Street cars were replaced by buses in 1954.

The Winnipeg Traffic Department has spent $5,794,000 on street widening, median divider strips, signal systems and other projects.

NEEDS WIDER STREETS

The narrowness of Quebec's principal traffic arteries is that city's main traffic problem.

Assistant Police Chief Gerard Grand, director of the municipal traffic bureau, said the problem is serious because it poses a danger to the city's future commerce.

The interests of those who face snarled rush-hour traffic on public transportation must also be considered, he said.

A report by traffic experts recommending that parking on main arteries be banned during rush-hour periods will be put into effect gradually. The report also recommended limiting as much as possible parking on secondary streets.

Windsor has a unique situation. Downtown traffic is not a real problem. The major headaches is caused by adjacent industrial plants. The situation becomes critical during shift changes.

Only a slight improvement has been noted in London's traffic situation. Increasing traffic on narrow streets in the core of the city make the problem a continuing matter.

One-way streets introduced in Hamilton in 1956 have helped speed u pmovement of traffic, except during rush-hour periods when jams are normal along King Street.

The city has only two main arteries carrying east-west traffic. Also, there is only one major mountain access road. The other is being improved but still is functioning on a half-pace basis.

SMASH PERONIST UNIT

BUENOS AIRES (AP) Police say a Peronist group which has been setting off bombs in Buenos Aires has been smashed with the rounding of 12 men. Chief Desiderio Fernandez Suarez said the gang hoped to stir up the population by planting bombs, distributing pamphlets and intimidating former Peronists who informed on followers of deposed president Juan D. Person.

Rhee Prepares To Receive Atomic Weapons

SEOUL (Reuters) — President Syngman Rhee of South Korea called his cabinet into session Wed. following Tuesday's Washington announcement that more effective weapons, believed to be atomic, may be supplied to the republic by the United States.

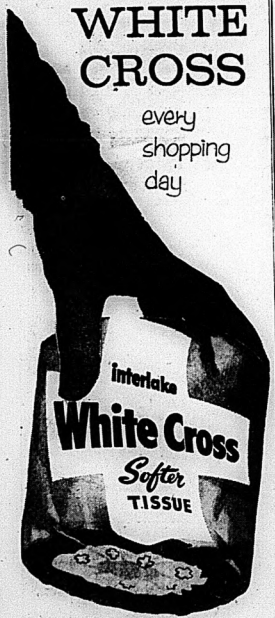
State Secretary Dulles told a press conference that the U.S. is considering the introduction of more modern weapons into Korea, as much of the equipment used by the South Koreans was no longer being produced by the U.S.

Defence Secretary Charles Wilson said weapons likely to be supplied to South Korea would be the same as those earmarked for Europe — Matador and Corporal guided missiles and Honest John rockets, all capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

An official U.S. Army spokesman said American and South Korean military officers in South Korea have received lectures on atomic warfare and the handling of nuclear weapons.

Unofficially, South Korean army officials are anticipating the early arrival of the new weapons, with atomic warheads for cannon and rockets expected first.

There have been long-standing complaints that the Communists in North Korea had broken the armistice agreement by giving their forces new weapons, building military airfields and putting into service jet planes that were not there when the war ended.



TO ORGANIZE TAXIS

TORONTO (CP)—More than 500 taxi cab owners and drivers Tuesday night took the first steps to organize their 4,000-man industry in the metropolitan Toronto area. Two 16-man committees were named at two meetings to direct organization of the man. Several drivers expressed opposition to a suggestion of joining the Teamsters Union.

Ontario Must Share Wealth For Strong Canada Says P.M.

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent says his government agrees there must be regard for enterprise but added that Ontario must be ready to share some of its wealth with other provinces if Canada is to survive as a strong and united country.

He said that ready to speak for Premier Frost that the government's federal special tax splitting plan provided that provinces with only marginally tax incomes and low industrial mix not take sufficient compliance of Ontario's financial needs.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking before an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 in the Owen Sound Collegiate Auditorium, said Wednesday night there will always be room for improvement in the system which saved "into effect this month, replacing old federal-provincial tax rental pacts.

"We will welcome any suggestion for improvement, wherever it comes from and whoever it comes from."

GREAT RESPONSIBILITIES

But the people of Ontario had to remember that the federal government had great responsibilities to all Canada; that there could be no unity unless all Canadians, wherever they lived, had they were getting fair treatment.

The government had to reconcile differences of race, religion and language; differences that still existed and "will go on existing as long as we can foresee the Canadian nation as continuing to exist."

Ontario was the wealthiest province, but part of its wealth was derived from markets in other parts of the country. Federal tax rates in Ontario were no different than in any other province. And even after paying provincial taxes, the average person in Ontario had more income left than the person in other regions.

The Liberal party was not trying to change that. Unlike the Socialists it believed it was the duty of government to work for a broad level of equality of income.

SOME SPREADING

But there had to be some spreading of wealth, to provide equality of opportunity for children in all provinces and to overcome any feeling that a person is to be penalized for living in one province rather than another.

This, Mr. St. Laurent's strongest defence of the tax agreements made by any spokesman for the federal party after an 85-mile, rain-and-fog-ridden tour of three ridings in Wellington-Huron, Grey-Bruce and Grey North. He made speeches at Fergus, Palmerston and Hanover.

At Hanover, he attended the nomination meeting of Finance Minister Harris who later, at the same Liberal rally, introduced Mr. St. Laurent as the "greatest Canadian of all time."

Mr. St. Laurent continued his Ontario swing, travelling by car and paddle-steamer to Wiarton, Penetanguishene, Elmvale, near Barrie, and London, a total distance of some 600 miles.

REPLIES TO PC

At his evening rally here, the 75-year-old Liberal leader replied to Progressive Conservative charges that the tax agreements would benefit all the tax agreements and the bitter 1956 pipeline debate.

John Diefenbaker, Conservative leader, had charged the government with running roughshod over the opposition in pushing through legislation to finance private construction of the trans-Canada natural gas line.

At Hanover, at Mr. Harris' nomination meeting, Immigration Minister Pickersgill referred the Tory charge. He said the opposition leader he never ran about the country crying that the Tories were the party of "sweet reason." It was best, had run roughshod over him.

Mr. St. Laurent, in his Owen Sound address, declared it was not true that the government had ignored the rules of Parliament; rather it was the opposition which had abused the rules in attempting to block pipeline legislation.

"The opposition has all too frequently been repetitious and boring in its assertions that what we were doing was right but that we were doing it in the wrong way. "SINCERITY CONCERN

"You cannot expect to get the public to share the concern you express about public affairs unless you create the impression that you are sincere in that concern; and sincerity about procedural wrangles whether in Parliament or at the United Nations never seems to go down very deep."

But Mr. St. Laurent's main concern was with the tax-sharing situation—"the biggest problem . . . the biggest problem . . . the most important problem we Canadians have to face in the domestic field at the same tax fields."

He said Mr. St. Laurent. "If all Canadians are going to be saving the same policy toward, in pursuit of Government services, they just have to be some contribution of revenue between provinces so there would not be any nation at all."

The opposition had maintained the Liberal administration had built up big treasury surpluses, but "we have not had huge surpluses" in relation to the total amounts we have had to raise in taxes.

Indeed, on the average, since Mr. Harris became minister of finance, his surpluses have been relatively small because there were two years when there were deficits instead of surpluses."

BID FOR OFFICE"

Mr. Pickersgill said that Mr. Diefenbaker's charge was the "flurries" feeble bid for office.

If there was any criticism of Mr. Harris' handling of the House leadership job, it was that he was too considerate of the opposition, that he leaned over backward to make sure opposition members got every proper opportunity to express themselves.

The pipeline debate continued for 16 days. The fact it was that length of time showed that the opposition could not make up its mind on the issue. It was another example of incompetence.

Gore

GORE — Mother's Day services were well attended in both Centre and Victoria churches on Sunday.

At Centre, in the forenoon, temperance awards were presented as well as awards for regular attendance.

At Victoria, in the afternoon, a reception service was held when three young people were received into the membership of the church. There was also a baptismal service when Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lebow; Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams, and Cheryl Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Howe, were presented for the rite of baptism.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. At both services Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dovey spoke of the Christian influence of his childhood home in British Columbia.

Special music featured both services.

Mrs. Ralph Redner returned to her home Saturday after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Zaboll and son, Chris, at Fenwick.

Mr. Humphrey and John, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Comerford, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pulver were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Pulver.

Miss O'Hara, Maynooth, spent the weekend with her brother, Mr. Vincent O'Hara, and Mrs. O'Hara.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs and children spent the Sunday supper time with her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. Mikel, Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brooks, Gilling, were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Morris Pulver.

Mr. Pulver and family, on Sunday.

Miss Sandra Green was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Zaboll on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. D. K. Redner attended a teachers' convention at the Winston Churchill School, in Belleville, on Saturday.

The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey was a dinner guest on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, and spent the supper hour with Mr. L. B. Erickson and Miss Autra.

Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Pulver called recently on Mr. and Mrs. L. Larsen, at the Bayside Rest Home.

Lawyers Clash Over Statement By Playwright

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers clashed in court Tuesday over whether playwright Arthur Miller, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, had denied ever having been a Communist.

The dispute provided a highlight in the first day of Miller's trial in Federal District Court on contempt of Congress charges.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hitz said the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities had information that Miller had been a member of the party from 1943 until at least 1947.

And, Hitz said, so far as he knows Miller has never denied past party membership "in so many words."

"Mr. Miller denied that he had ever been a member of the Communist party and Mr. Hitz knows it," protested Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., one of Miller's lawyers.

The two-count contempt indictment grew out of Miller's refusal to identify Communist writers with whom he said he attended five or six meetings in 1947 in New York.

Miller readily answered all questions concerning himself when he appeared before a sub-committee of the House committee last June 26, but balked at naming others.

Wooler

WOOLER — The W.M.S. held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elic Hubble, with the president, Mrs. Elgin McMaster, in the chair.

The secretary, Mrs. A. G. Austin, gave a report of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. C. McMaster, had a quilt to be quilted for the bale. It was decided to meet on the afternoon of May 21st in the church parlor to quilt and pack the bale for overseas; all gifts for the bale to be there that day.

Mrs. Percy Gooding conducted a temperance program and many took part in the discussion.

One of the members, Mrs. Beatrice McColl, celebrated her 87th birthday and received many cards, also a birthday cake with lighted candles. After the candles were blown out, she shared the cake with the ladies and they sang "Happy Birthday to Beatrice." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gooding and the hostess.

Mrs. Margaret Sharpe, of Brockville, spent Mother's Day with Mrs. C. Sharpe, and Mrs. H. Gainsforth.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wessels spent Sunday with Mrs. Mabel Jenners.

Mr. and Mrs. Redditt spent Tuesday in Peterborough.

Mrs. Herman Morrow attended the Federated Woman's Institute Convention in Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Calnan, of Campbellford, and David Bull of Campbellford, spent Sunday with Mrs. Bull.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sharpe are home for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant spent Tuesday afternoon at Marmora.

On Wednesday evening the W.I. held its regular meeting in the clubroom with Mrs. Neil Nelson, 2nd vice-president, in the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry McColl. The hostess, Mrs. Hillard Morrow, welcomed the 36 members as they came. Fees were paid by each member present.

After the business part of the meeting, the convener, Mrs. A. G. Austin, took over the program, with Mr. Austin showing slides for an hour which were much enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. McMaster, Mrs. L. Bryant, Mrs. Mack Anderson, Mrs. G. R. Putnam and the hostess.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE AND CONTENTS

On Wednesday morning fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Plumpton, with all the contents; also the barn which caught from the sparks from the house while the men all stood by. No water was close enough to be of any good.

Robert Read is convalescing in the Belleville General Hospital after an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stacey and children of Bloomfield, spent Sunday with their father-in-law, L. C. McColl and William Stacey.

Mrs. Alma Dawson of Trenton spent Mother's Day with her mother, Mrs. Clara Easterly.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson and John, of Presqu'ile Point, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. H. Steenburg.

Messrs. Alfred Gooding and William Gillings are busy getting the foundation ready for their new houses.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Putnam and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McMaster spent Wednesday in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ferguson and children, also Miss Cora Hubble of Peterborough, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Elic Hubble.

The Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. met on May 7th at the home of Mrs. Henry McColl, with a good number in attendance. The president, Mrs. N. Crosby, presided, and opened the meeting.

Business followed. Minutes and roll call were read by the secretary Mrs. H. McColl.

Mrs. Mac Anderson took charge of the worship, using Home Missions as the theme. The worship was opened with a prayer and hymn. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. P. Smith.

Readings from different missions were read by members of Mrs. Anderson's group.

Mrs. Newman favored with a solo.

Mrs. Anderson moved a vote of thanks to her group and Mrs. McColl. The June meeting will be held at Mrs. Carman Richard's.

A shower was given on Saturday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McMaster's home, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker, of Toronto.

In the United Church on Sunday morning the Rev. J. Newman baptized Dawn Melanie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Crosby; David William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mallery; Bruce Manley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fox; Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Damill. A large crowd attended the service.

The Rev. and Mrs. Newman attended the graduation of their son, Ralph, at Toronto University on Wednesday.

On Saturday the girls of the 4-H Club attended Achievement Day held at Brighton High School. Colleen Nichols received county honors; Ann Morrow, Doris Bently, Rosey Low, Diane Throwers, Carol Nelson, Linda Adams and Betty Mallery, received their certificates for the year's work.

Wake up chipper as a robin from the world's most refreshing sleep!

Get That Serta Feeling with the greatest mattress invention of all

1. Press Lightly...Feel TOP SOFTNESS

Patented Sertaliner Construction gives you permanent top softness in the innerspring construction—not just the upholstery. Press lightly, feel how responsive at body contact. It's permanent comfort!

2. Press Hard...Feel DEEP SUPPORT

At full body weight, ribbons of steel in Sertaliner Construction give firmness to the innersprings—distribute your body weight, as many doctors advise, for sag-free posture and refreshing sleep.

Serta "Perfect Sleeper"

You get the world's most refreshing sleep with Perfect Sleeper's patented Sertaliner Construction. For it's the only mattress invention that gives you top softness to relax every muscle and deep support for spine-level rest—both in one mattress!

You are cushioned in top softness, yet your full weight is floated over all the innersprings—because they "borrow" support from each other. They do not crush down from night-after-night pressure at shoulder, hip, knee—as in "independent coil" mattresses. You sleep on the Perfect Sleeper...not in it!

Compare the smooth tufiless beauty, the satiny look of luxury in Serta coverings. Make the easy 1-2 test at left. You'll see why Serta Perfect Sleeper will give you all the benefits of the world's most refreshing sleep...year in and year out!

Urges Dentists Forestall Move By 'Do-Gooders'

TORONTO (CP)—A civic health director has urged the dental profession to act now to forestall a move by "do-gooders" to bring dentists into a public health program.

Dr. L. W. C Sturgeon, director of the Welland district health unit, at the Ontario Dental Association's annual conference also denounced the forthcoming Dominion-provincial hospital plan as a step forward increased bureaucracy and costs.

Dr. Sturgeon told delegates Tuesday night he fears "that you will be gathered up into some plan promoted by professional do-gooders and those who would enjoy a greater measure of control over your activities."

He urged that action against the threat be taken by the Ontario Dental Association and the Canadian Dental Association.

As for the federal hospital plan, Dr. Sturgeon said care for the poor could best be met "if the provincial government assumed responsibility for paying the premiums on any of the approved hospital plans already in operation."

Dr. F Harold Shepherd of Toronto was elected president of the association, succeeding Dr. J. A Boyd of Stratford

Ted Williams' Temper Soars As Bat Average Nosedives

Cooled off at the plate after one of his greatest starts, Williams found his bat in the clubhouse Wednesday after getting only one hit in four times at bat in an 11-8 victory over Detroit.

Williams took out his anger on his pet choice — Boston baseball writers.

The writers were talking with rookie pitcher Harwood Sullivan, optioned to Miami of the International League, when Williams passed them.

"Watch out what you say to those guys, Sully," Williams said. "They'll twist it around somehow and make you look bad."

VIRTUALLY SILENCED

Since belting three homers in one game in Chicago last week, Williams has been virtually silenced in six games.

In 25 official trips to the plate, he has managed to collect only a double and two singles while watching his average plummet from a lofty .474 to .398—fourth among American League batsmen.

After his hitting spree in Chicago which boosted his home run total to nine, the 38-year-old veteran went hitless in eight times at bat before collecting two hits against Washington in the night- cap of a doubleheader Sunday.

NOW IT WILL BE TOLD

Tonight in Kingston the managements and other representatives of member clubs of the Eastern Senior "A" Division of the OHA will get first-hand the Horatio Alger-Cinderella story of the dramatic rise from rags to riches of the 1937 Allan Cup champions, the Whitby Dunlops.

The narrator will be none other than Wren Blair, manager, part-time coach, orator, swami and owner of numerous other cognomens of the champions. The scene will be the La Salle Hotel where the magnate of the division get together for the annual spring meeting under the mallet of the new OHA president Lorne Cook.

It should make good listening. And it is likely much will emanate when Blair turns on the tonsorial taps.

Blair, like the rest of us, has his faults. And some of them are good ones. Modesty is not one of them and on occasions his aggressiveness and ability to say the wrong things at the wrong times have brought him into warmish water.

But he had the guts to plunge or help plunge the eastern Ontario senior "B" league into the maelstrom of senior "A" because he felt the league was a notch above the "B" caliber and half-a-notch below the "A" type as she was being played in the western and northern divisions.

As a prognosticator he rates tops, accidental or otherwise. At a fall meeting last year when the senior "A" entry argument waxed hot and heavy he said jokingly that the eastern division would produce an Allan Cup winner this year. You know the rest. His persuasive powers are par excellence. He talked this league into senior "A". He oraled long and loud to his players about winning. He tonsiled former pros into playing for him, and clubs into selling them to him.

But the big test comes next week. On Wednesday, May 23 the CAHA meets in Edmonton It is not known whether Blair will be there but if he is five gets you ten the first voice heard in application for a team to represent Canada at the world hockey tournament in Oslo next February will be that of the Whitby Dunlops

And it will not be the fault of Blair if the cautious, canny CAHA turns down his request

He has at least one strike on the association Last year the CAHA turned down bids from the Vernon Canadians, the Allan Cup champions, and the Trail Smoke Eaters Because of the cost of sending a representative team overseas.

CAHA secretary George Dudley has stated it would take $30,000 to send a team to Europe. The club would have to be there at least two weeks in advance to acclimatize itself and become used to hockey as it is played continental fashion.

A news despatch a while back stated that a representative of the company that sponsors Whitby blinked at the figure but said the firm "was not disinterested" in the project.

Another thing; Blair has the solid support of the good burghers of Whitby and a large surrounding district and there is little doubt that, like before, they would come to his financial aid in an emergency.

Blair has discovered that while the spoils go to the victors, the winning of a national championship in any phase of sport has other reactions. In his case the Cleveland Barons have offered contracts to defencemen Ted O'Connor and Harry Sinden, while a strong rumor persists that the Hershey Bears are seeking the services of Alfie Treen.

Both O'Connor and Sinden met the Barons boss Jim Hendy in Toronto a few nights ago but nothing definite is known as to what happened. Sinden is quoted as saying: "It would have to be something mighty good to make me switch, but there is no harm in talking it over." And Dame Rumor has it that playing coach Bus Gagnon will not be with the Dunnies next season.

So tonight's confab in Kingston might clear up a lot of things. One of the most important items on the agenda is the cutting of the pool section. And there could be some argument when the McFarlands management demands the $1500 subsidy promised by the league prior to the start of the season.

Some light should be thrown on next season's operations, as entries will likely be made tonight. The rumor still persists, this time out of Oshawa, that Peterborough hockey people are interested. And the Pembroke Lumber Kings, who will be on hand for the pool loot, at least, may give the Dunnies something definite as to which association they will cast in their lot next season. The Kings new sponsor said he favored joining the northern group, but like a lot of other people we know, he has probably changed his mind after the Dunlops won the Allan Cup. Besides it was stated in northern circles the Kings would not be welcomed exactly with open arms up thataway.

Anyway, this newspaper will carry a full report of the "goings-on" in tomorrow's sport pages.

ATTENTION MINOR BASEBALL

Registration of midget and juvenile baseball players will be held, for sure, this evening (6.30) at the fair grounds. In case of rain it will be held under the grandstand. Better be there, fellas!

Wilson Blanks Senators 5-0 Bosox, Tribe, Yanks Win; 'Bums' Beat Brewers in 10th

By The Associated Press

Maybe Don Zimmer's hard luck days are over, at last.

The Brooklyn Dodger's gritty little infielder didn't think he'd play against Milwaukee Braves Wednesday because he had gone hitless in 14 trips.

But he did, and for the second time this season he belted a 10th inning home run to give the Dodgers a one-run victory.

Zimmer's first-pitch homer off reliefer Lew Burdette gave Clem Labine, also working in relief, the decision, 3-2. Last April 30, he took Chicago Cubs, 10-9, with a homer in the 10th.

HURLS FIVE-HITTER

In other National League games, Brooks Lawrence held Philadelphia to five hits as Cincinnati won 2-0 while St. Louis defeated New York Giants 6-5 in 14 innings when Hal Smith singled home Del Ennis from second. The Pittsburgh at Chicago game was postponed because of cold weather.

Zimmer's home run was his fourth of the season and despite the 0-for-14 string he is batting .274 and has batted in 10 runs. What is more important to him is the fact that he has played in 31 of the club's 34 games to date.

Gil Hodges also homered for Brooklyn, his fifth of the season. Labine belted the last three innings in relief of Don Drysdale who had given up only three hits in seven. It was Labine's third victory.

Lawrence fanned 11 Phillies as he finished his fourth game of the season and won his fourth against one loss.

George Crowe, subbing for the ailing Ted Kluszewski at first base drove in two runs with a pair of singles, but it was Smokey Burgess' second inning home run that put the Reds in front. Burgess was catching his first game of the season. The loser was rookie Jack Sanford, his first after four successive victories.

A three-up and three-down three inning relief effort earned Larry Jackson his fourth relief victory for the Cardinals. The Cards, after tying the score at 5-5 in the seventh on Al Dark's single scored the winning run, off Al Worthington, in the 14th when Ennis drew a walk, was sacrificed to second and crossed the plate on Smith's bloop hit over the infield.

By The Associated Press

Despite 23 victories, including a no-hit, no-run game, in the past three seasons, he was not only traded off by two clubs — Milwaukee and Baltimore—but actually waived out of the National League.

Wilson proved his effectiveness Wednesday as he pitched the White Sox to a 5-0 triumph over Washington Senators enabling Chicago to retain their first-place lead of half a game over New York Yankees in the American League. The 35-year-old right-hander yielded only four hits en route to his second successive shutout and third of the season. His record now is 4-1.

TRIBE WIN MARATHON

Tom Sturdivant's five - hitter featured the Yankees' 2-0 shutout over Kansas City. Cleveland hit five singles in the 10th inning off Mike Fornieles to score three times and defeat Baltimore 11- to-8 after blasting out 43-minute marathon that involved 28 players, including 11 pitchers. Boston's Red Sox unleashed a 16-hit attack, their heaviest barrage of the season, to outslug Detroit Tigers 11-4.

Walt Dropo, Chicago's part-time first baseman, was the big offensive gun as the White Sox won their fourth straight. Dropo's grand slammer his fourth homer in the sixth and singled across a run in the eighth. Wilson's mates also gave him a league leading earned-run average of 1.04. Tom Sullivan was charged with the wileas Chuck Stobbs, who now has lost seven.

Rocky Colavito drove in Gene Woodling with the tie-breaking run and the Indians added two more on singles by Chico Carrasquel and George Strickland to score three runs in the 10th. Cleveland had scored three runs in the 10th to break a 5-5 tie. Woodling roared back with three runs of their own to tie it up again. Cal McLish, Cleveland's ex - Cub pitcher and one of the 24 players used by manager Bobby Farrell, was credited with the victory.

ALL RUNS IN FIRST

All three Yankee runs were scored in the first inning. The victim was Ned Garver, who gave Yankees only three hits in six innings. Two of them, however, came in the first inning. That, together with three walks and a damaging error by Kansas City shortstop Joe DeMaestri, lost the game. A two-run double by Bill Skowron was the big blow.

Veteran first baseman Mickey Vernon drove in four runs and Jackie Jensen three in Boston's victory over Detroit. Vernon had a double and single and Jensen a pair of doubles and a single. George Susce, third Boston pitcher was the winner and Frank Lary, Detroit starter, lost his fourth against two victories.

Come, Come Mr. Selke, Sour Grapes?

OTTAWA (CP)—General manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night described Ottawa Junior Canadiens as "lambs led to the sacrificial altar in the year the West had to win the Memorial Cup."

He spoke at a dinner in honor of Canadiens, defeated by Flin Flon Bombers last week in the Memorial Cup finals. Officials of the baby hockey circuit strongly critical of officiating by western referees throughout the series, which was played at Flin Flon and Regina.

"This was the year Canadiens had to be defeated so somebody's ego in the West would be satisfied," Selke said.

He said he had learned that Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., Canadian Amateur Hockey Association vice-president, was critical of the sportsmanship displayed during the series by Sam Pollock, coach of the Montreal farm team.

POLLOCK A CREDIT

"Sam Pollock has brought nothing but credit to the Canadiens hockey club since he has been associated with them (it) . . ." he stated. He declined to say whether Canadiens, who moved here from Montreal last year, would play in Ottawa for another hockey season. He said if they did it would be under a different arrangement than the "ham-and-eggs" setup under which they played in both amateur and pro leagues.

This season they played against Ontario Hockey Association Junior A opposition in the Laurier Cup series and as an abbreviated Quebec Hockey League schedule.

More than 600 sports fans attended the dinner, sponsored by the city and civic groups.

Merchants contributed various personal gifts to the players and the city donated wrist watches to all 22 members of the team.

Major Leagues Down to Player Limit

By The Associated Press

All of the major league baseball clubs were down to the 25-player limit today but it took some scrambling by nine of them to reach the required figure by last midnight.

With only hours remaining the nine began disposing of their expendables through trades, sales, options and outright releases.

Some of the clubs, however, still carried more than the 25 because under the rules a team is permitted to carry an ex-serviceman for one year without affecting the player limit. Johnny Podres, ace of the Dodgers' mound staff, falls in this category. So does Frank Bolling of Detroit, whose service status expires May 28.

National League

Milwaukee—Sent outfielder Wes Covington and pitcher Bob Trowbridge to their Wichita farm in the Association on option.

Cincinnati—Took infielder Rocky Bridges off active list and asked waivers on him. Waiver expires today.

St. Louis — Optioned outfielder Jim King to Omaha in American Association.

American League

Washington — Purchased outfielder Bob Usher from Cleveland. Then sent outfielder Dick Tettelbach and pitcher Dick Brodowski to Indianapolis in American Association.

Pacific Coast League and optioned outfielder Neil Chrisley to Indianapolis and pitcher Garland Shifflett to Charlotte.

Cleveland — Optioned infielder Billy Harrell to San Diego in PCL and sold veteran first baseman Preston Ward to same club.

Driver Killed In Practice Run

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Keith Andrews, 36 - year - old Colorado Springs, Colo., garage owner, was killed Wednesday in practice for the annual 500-mile race May 30.

Andrews was driving the Italian-American car which was to have been driven in this year's race by Giuseppe Farina, former world racing champion from—Turin Italy.

It was the first fatality at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway since Bill Vukovich, the 1953 and 1954 winner, was killed in the 1955 race. It was the 13th accident in this year's practice.

Andrews lost control as he came into the straightaway out of a turn. tween the gasoline tank and the The car skidded 300 feet sideways, crwl of the east.

Andrews was checking the car for Farina. It was not learned immediately whether the car will be repaired in time for Farina to race...

Zany Actions of Big Four Show Some Signs of Reason

HAMILTON (CP) — At first glance, some of the doings around the Big Four Football Union may appear rather zany.

For example:

A team which received a quarterback on waivers last season but for whom it refused to play unless he was back in the original club which isn't certain whether he will.

A team given up its No. 1 college draft choice for 1958 to get a second club for the right to deal with a player tied up by a third team, and in another league.

A coach says he has high hopes of landing an all-American end because the guy wants to play pro basketball as well as football.

In the first case, the quarterback is Nobby Wirkowski, picked up by Ottawa Rough Riders last year after he was released by Toronto Argonauts. Because he had a teaching job in Toronto, he refused to go to Ottawa and demanded to be kept on basketball coach for Hamilton.

Then Norm Rauhaus traded him back to Hamilton for two implementation players, halfback Garry Williams and end Blake Ainsworth from Hamilton Panthers of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Tiger-Cats haven't indicated what use they'll make of Wirkowski, who ran quality as a Canadian after six years in the country. His chances of playing appear to be improved by the fact that he no longer need be classed as an import.

He said Wednesday night in Toronto he'd like to play.

In case No. 2, Hamilton disclosed it has reinstated its first college draft choice for next year to Montreal Alouettes for the right to negotiate with Harry Lampman, 240-pound offensive end and defensive tackle.

He graduated from Queen's University before the Western International Football Union entered the draft. Although Montreal-Hamilton, he made a deal to play with Saskatchewan Roughriders who haven't released him despite the fact he said he wanted to return to the East.

The Tiger-Cats got the right to negotiate with him from Montreal but they apparently won't get him until they make another arrangement with Saskatchewan.

Case No. 3 involves Ron Kramer, 24-year-old end with University of Michigan, who conferred Wednesday in Ann Arbor, Mich., with head coach Jim Trimble on the possibility of playing next season with Hamilton.

Iron Liege Not Gen. Dirk Says Hartack

BALTIMORE (AP)—Young Willie Hartack, a leading character in the race for Saturday's $100,000 added Preakness, brushed aside today a suggestion that Calumet's Iron Liege may be maturing into a better colt than stablemate Gen. Duke.

Hartack expressed confidence he would be able to ride Iron Liege with Bold Ruler again, as well as with the front-running Federal Hill, Clifford Lussky's fifth-place finisher in the Derby.

The Preakness field rose to a probable seven Wednesday with word that D-M Stable will send Race to 3 starts, most of them claiming and allowance events.

Also in the list of probables are Roslyn Farm's Inswept, Mrs. Jules Schwartz's Nah Hite and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land.

RACING RAINED OUT

MONTREAL (CP) — Harness racing at Blue Bonnets Raceway has been postponed Wednesday night because of rain. The program originally scheduled will be run tonight.

Old Woodbine Will Reopen On Saturday

TORONTO (CP)—Old Woodbine race course will reopen Saturday with the running of the $6,000 Ultimus Stakes in which Canadian Champ will carry top weight at 126 pounds. Old Woodbine has been closed since Monday's first race when it became evident that the track surface, undermined by heavy rains, would have to be repaired.

Ontario Jockey Club officials announced Canadian Champ, but track repairs are close to completion. A committee of jockeys also inspected the repair work and agreed that they will be ready to resume racing in time for Saturday. Horses trained over the racing strip this morning and afternoon said they were pleased by the improvements made.

Canadian Champ, which has earned more purse money than any Canadian-bred horse now in competition, will face his stiffest test of the season in the Ultimus when he must concede five pounds to Hartney, which holds the Canadian record for seven furlongs. The distance of the Ultimus is 6½ furlongs.

Bisons Bump Royals for Two; Nudge Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons are right on the heels of Richmond Virginians and Miami Marlins in the International League chiefly because of their ability to win doubleheaders.

While the front running Virginians were defeating Havana Sugar Kings 9-3 yesterday night and the second-place Marlins were keeping pace with a 10-8 decision over Columbus, Bisons chalked up two victories to move into third place.

Bisons turned back the slumping Montreal Royals 8-3 and 10-4 for their third sweep of as many doubleheads in 11 days. The victories sent them within 1½ games of the Yanks.

LEAFS RAINED OUT

Karl Drews and Mike Baxes combined to give Bisons the first game. Drews checked Royals with six hits while Baxes came up with two timely hits, one a double, and to run his hitting streak to 14 straight games. He drove in two runs.

Big Luke Easter wrapped up the second game and Bisons' fifth straight slam homer in the first inning. It was his eighth of the season.

NEEDED HELP

Bill Bethel chalked up his fourth victory in five decisions with a ninth-inning assist from Johnny James as Richmond remained a game in front of Miami.

Bethel hasn't had the best of luck with a lead but then Cubans picked up a run in the seventh and Ullan Alvarez led off the ninth with a homer, manager Eddie Lopat catapulted James. He retired the next three Cubans, striking out the last two.

Jets built a 4-0 lead when Marlins struck for six runs in the seventh. Jets came back with five tallies in the eighth on four singles, Johnny Lipon's double, a walk and an error. Don Rice Anderson and Ed Buritschy were unable to hold Marlins, who scored four runs in the ninth.

On the Tracks

BALTIMORE (AP)—Willie Hartack hustled Pillow Talk into an early lead and held it all the way in chalking up an easy victory over 13 starters in three-year-olds in the $24,600 Black-Eyes Susan stakes at Pimlico track Wednesday.

Hal Price Headley's leading juvenile finished two lengths ahead of Cain Hoy Stable's Jota Jota. Woodlaw, a 56-to-1 shot, was third.

Pillow Talk's victory added another $17,300 to the $18,000 already earned.

Mabel D. Lewis' Happy Principess won $23,600 Champlain Stakes at Jamaica, New York. WON BY A NOSE

The five-year-old scored a neck over Jet Girl, with Vasquith third. Happy Princess sprinted the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5 over a sloppy track.

Elmendorf's Oh Rich won the $15,000 Pennsylvania Stakes at Garden State Park, Camden, N.J., by a neck over Melody Mine. The time was :59.4 for the five furlongs. Dandy Blitzen was third.

Pit Boss won the $10,000 Laguna allowances feature at Hollywood Park, Inglewood, Calif., running the six furlongs in 1:09 2-5.

Pit Boss came around a span of five horses entering the stretch and opened a seven-length lead at the finish. The Chaplain was second and Captain Bam third.

Boyd Verdicts Willie Vaughn

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Boyd of Chicago, trying to regain high ranking in the middleweight bracket, Wednesday night flailed out a split 10-round decision over high-punching Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles.

Vaughn, 10th-rated middleweight contender, landed a pair of solid punches but lacked the power to get Boyd into trouble.

Boyd, once the No. 2 contender and now No. 8, also failed to show the kayo punch in his right that ended Vaughn's string of 14 straight ago and broke his jaw.

The victory was the third straight for 23-year-old Boyd since the Glardello fight. Not once did the heavy Vaughn in serious trouble although several times he landed solid right and left hooks.

Floyd Patterson Will Fight All and Sundry In Defence of His Crown

Emil Lence, former Brooklyn promoter, has been designated by Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, as the independent promoter to break the International Boxing Club's grip on the heavyweight throne.

D'Amato named Lence as the first of many independents who will be able to use Patterson as he made his formal break with the IBC.

"Patterson will not have one defence—but at least several and not in the New York area alone," said D'Amato Wednesday at a news conference.

Neither man he named as his "New York area" promoter nor the heavyweight champion was present.

TOUGH TO SIGN

There was more than a hint that Jackson, the No. 1 contender in both Ring and National Boxing Association ratings, would be tough to sign.

"No offer had been made," said Lippe Breitbart, Jackson's manager. "He was against the match, properly promoted, should do a million dollars, plus $50,000 for television. My fellow is the attraction. He'll draw the people. His end should be about $50,000 and we want some kind of a guarantee."

If Jackson is not available, D'Amato said he would "go down the list until we got an opponent." The ranking contenders behind Jackson are Eddie Machen, Harold Carter and Willie Pastrano.

Outlook Undoubtedly Tops In Field of Television Shows

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The weekly network television program which has improved most in the last year and now stands at top of its type undoubtedly is Outlook, the newsfeature show visible on NBC-TV each Sunday.

Intelligence and enterprise have combined to make it a consistently absorbing program. A typical example will be seen on the home screen Sunday when Outlook takes cognizance of the third anniversary of the United States Supreme Court school integration decision.

"What do you think of in connection with a supreme court decision?" asked Outlook director Jack Shugrue the other day. "You think of nine men in black robes sitting on a bench. But looking in the imagery of television, that means nothing, of course."

The important questions, Shugrue went on to say, are how did integration happen and what have been some of its results? But to encompass such complex issues in the span of a half-hour TV program and to make them both informative and absorbing is a difficult problem.

A word Shugrue frequently uses, and a journalistic trait Outlook constantly displays, is "focus," meaning concentration on the human and understandable results of large and complex issues. Thus on Sunday, Outlook i s achieving focus on the integration situation by concentrating on the five Negro plaintiffs whose cases were carried to the supreme court.

What has happened to them since? To find out, Outlook sent reporters and cameraman to Norfolk, Va., Topeka, Kan., Summerton, S.C., Wilmington, Del., and Washington. What they learned will be seen on the home screen Sunday.

EAGER FOR OPINION

Shugrue, who directs the weeknight NBC-TV news program with Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, as well as Outlook, believes in the camera closeup on a news commentator. "When you keep that camera up there, people can hear," he said. "And what's more important than that on a news program?"

Huntley, who is also the commentator of Outlook, with assists from Brinkley in Washington, remarked that "I believe the public is eager for more opinion than most responsible newsmen are willing to give on the air. If personal opinion will add anything to a broadcast I have no hesitation in giving it—but only as the opinion of one broadcaster, not as a pontificator who knows the answers to everything.

"You can be provocative without dishing out opinion. If you must give opinion, then give all the available ones."

At The McCarthy

'Allison' Holds

The reception for "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" at the McCarthy Theatre has been enthusiastic that it will be held over another three days. Moviegoers have found this strangely paradoxical film, which co-stars Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum, highly entertaining and the picture has set a new record for attendance at the theatre. John Huston's direction of Charles Shaw's story of a tough Marine and a gentle nun stranded on a South Pacific island behind enemy lines has received much critical praise all over the nation.

Joanne Dru Says Marrying An Actor Is Losing Game

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Last week Lana Turner said she'd never marry again. Now Joanne Dru says she'll never marry—another actor.

The lovely actress recently shed actor John Ireland. Before that she was wed to singer-actor Dick Haymes. She admitted that marrying actors is a losing game.

"It's seldom possible to be married successfully to an actor unless the wife completely subjects herself to his career," she reasoned. "I've known women who have devoted their lives entirely to their husbands' acting careers and have been happy. But to women who want some life of their own, it's difficult.

"Let's face it: Actors are egotists. They have to be; that's the nature of their work. They are constantly thinking about themselves and selling themselves. That can make them hard to live with."

ONE-TRACK MINDS

Actors also have one - track minds, she observed. She recalled how Haymes became intensely interested in horses and devoted his entire time to them for eight months. Then one day he came in from the stable and said he'd had it. He never went near the horses again.

The same thing happened with photography. He was so engrossed in his meters and lenses that she couldn't get a word with him. The hobby blew over and he gave all the equipment away.

Though Haymes has earned huge amounts of money, he has been behind in his support payments for their two children. Likewise the Ireland alliance ended in a financial bust, she indicated.

BUSINESSMAN NEXT TIME

"I want to get married again," she said, "but I want it to be happy this time. I owe it to my children.

"I think the best kind of husband would be a businessman, someone who is entirely divorced from the movie business. I try not even to date any actors. They can be so charming it's best to stay away from them."

What about being married to an actress? Doesn't that place strain on a marriage?

Joanne admitted that was true.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, May 17, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mercury and Saturn, in excellent aspect, favor mental alertness, business requiring thought, far-reaching plans, military maneuvers, vigorous activity generally. Do not be reckless or over-confident, however.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your work and other interests, study, research can be very satisfying now. Just remember to be temperate, reasonable. You will fare better. Hard work difficult problems can be easily handled.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Uranus and Venus, in auspicious, stress caution in complicated matters, dealings with others. Excellent Mercury rays encourage mental ability, personal matters.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — An auspicious period for sound matters — especially activities requiring skill, artistry. Keep emotions under stern control. Make new trys but take care in expenditures.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Day holds promise for useful lines of work, trade. Be willing to use inspiring brain or brawn. Extra care urged in finances.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Cheerful prospects for achievement, new performance will count, however. There is a warning not to go to extremes or be reckless with money, health. Improve the quality of your work.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) Take sufficient time to lay out day's duties, putting the most important ones first. Follow your program faithfully and you should have splendid returns.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You can increase your efficiency, artistry and mental capacity to great advantage this day. Be circumspect, ambitious and understanding. Don't dally; keep up with your schedule, but don't overdo.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Cooperation with associates will-bring extra benefits now. You need not forget your individuality to work for an organization's good. Be careful in legal matters.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Day may demand new action, new ideas for you to handle creatively. Take leadership in affairs that touch you personally; time to raise your credits.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — No unfriendly influences but you will have to exert yourself more and be choosy. Calculate well what to do first; allocate efforts wisely. Avoid delays, extremes.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — With a steady, moderately aggressive attitude in both business and personal affairs you have a fairly satisfactory day. New ideas and plans encouraged. You born today are versatile, adaptable, artistic and also practical children. You are characterized by bright, progressive ideas, a magnetic personality and an abundance of enthusiasm. You may tend to go from one project to another, not giving yourself enough time to attain success in any one, but you can drive relentlessly on to attainment, too. Cultivate patience, steady application. The companionship of intelligent persons is important to your happiness and advancement. You can do well in a profession or trade; can easily pursue an avocation too. Birthdate: Edw. Jenner, physicist, introduced vaccination.

Marsh Hill
MOTHER'S DAY

MARSH HILL — The service of Worship for Christian Family Day was held May 12th at Marsh Hill United Church, with the Sunday School pupils taking part.

The service, prepared by the Ontario Council of Christian Education, was followed by:

Miss Barbara Brown, who brought a few thoughts on the topic "Why Do We Have Mother's Day?"; Ralph Detlor read the Mother's Creed, and the pupils of the Sunday School sang a children's hymn as an anthem.

Miss Ann DeVries read, "Our Father in Gold," and Miss Elaine Lindenfield "Hope In The Gospel Of Christ."

The Rev. R. J. Darke brought a timely message on "The Christian Family."

Mr. and Mrs. David Hollinger were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Reid, at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Boulter Johnston and Janet Johnston, of Harold, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fickle.

TEST ATOM DIET ON FISH

"Educated" rainbow trout are fed individually on "spiked" minnows by Donald G. Waterfield, director of the fish-atomic plant in Richland, Wash. The minnows are spiked with radiophosphorus (P32) and the trout will show what effect a radioactive diet has on living tissues — theirs, anyhow. The trout had to be educated to eat at all, since they have a natural fear of feeding while separated from other fish.

SELWYN LLOYD MAY SOON QUIT FOREIGN OFFICE

Labor Censure Motion Beaten by 49 Votes

LONDON (CP)—Some political quarters suggested today that Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd may soon resign.

Their predictions followed a two-day House of Commons debate over British Suez policy, sparked by a government announcement Monday permitting British ships to use the Suez Canal. The government forces defeated an opposition censure motion at the end of the debate Thursday night by 308 votes to 259, a majority of 49.

Lloyd was booed by Labor opposition members during the debate. He was frequently booed under Sir Anthony Eden at the time of the Anglo-French intervention in Egypt last fall, and was expected by many observers to leave office when Eden resigned as prime minister in January.

PREDICTS RESIGNATION

Most outspoken of today's predictions of the future of the right-wing Daily Express, whose political correspondent says Lloyd is expected to resign "by early autumn" because his position has become "untenable."

But the right-wing tabloid, The Daily Sketch, says the reports of Lloyd's resignation are not true. Even if the foreign secretary offered his resignation, it says, Prime Minister Macmillan would not accept it.

The Liberal paper News Chronicle's report of the debate says that as Lloyd sat down after speaking, "few Tories cheered him and his colleagues near, sitting only a few inches away, ignored him."

"Few ministers have more clearly borne the mark of political death," the News Chronicle's correspondent adds.

ANNOUNCES SUPPORT

During the debate Lloyd announced Britain's support of a French request for a United Nations Security Council meeting to discuss the Suez problem. He said the British and French governments were in close touch on tactics and differed only "in regard to the timing of the next step in pending final settlement."

France, unlike Britain, has not ratified an unofficial boycott on the canal imposed on national shipping since the nation reopened for large ships last month.

Lloyd also said Britain will attempt to diminish Western dependence on the canal, so that "their asset may easily be a wasting one."

Macmillan wound up the debate by stating that the whole pattern in the Middle East is changing, and that the forces of order and anti-communism are recovering their strength.

Five-Per-Cent Increase Seen in Traffic Deaths

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic engineers and legislators across Canada are searching for methods of reducing what seems to be an inevitable yearly rise in fatalities.

A Canadian Press survey of provincial records shows a rise in fatalities this year of approximately five per cent over last year. So far more than 680 persons have been killed. (Figures for April are not available in some provinces.)

For the more than 4,000,000 motor vehicles registered in Canada in 1956, the cost in lives was 5,184 and 72,954 persons were injured. In 1955, 2,650 were killed.

Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and New Brunswick all reported records in both registration and accident fatalities in 1956, and all indications this year's figures are expected to be still higher.

More than 40 per cent of Canadian vehicles are registered in Ontario. The provinces had more than 1,710,000 registered vehicles in 1956 while 1,000 persons were killed on Ontario roads.

In most areas, the unprecedented rise in the number of fatalities for vehicles has so far outstripped the building of highways. Traffic engineers describe more than 40 per cent of the roads as "intolerable." Roads widening and improvement for reasons ranging from safety to the need for more traffic lanes are being made into limited access highways.

Nevertheless, fatalities in the province to the end of April were up almost 17 per cent over the first third of last year.

In the Maritime provinces, where car registration is lower than the rest of the provinces, fatalities were generally below record level.

Last year 152 persons died in Nova Scotia, 16 in Prince Edward Island and 49 in Newfoundland. New Brunswick's toll rose with 151 deaths compared with 137 the previous year. The registrar of motor vehicles in that province predicted "almost double" registration this year. However no new legislation is planned. The province already has the point system for convictions, a specified number of points leading to driver's licence suspension.

Quebec, with the second largest registration in the country, also has the second highest fatality rate. The 823 deaths last year set a record. During the first three months of this year 111 persons were killed compared with 105 last year.

No major new legislation or engineering plans have been made or passed this year.

On the Prairies, Manitoba has the driver control system which has attracted wide attention since 1956. It involves strict testing, and close discipline and continued education. Drivers under suspension for the first time must more than three per cent of the driving population.

Nevertheless, 1956, which increased registration, set a fatality record of 153 from the previous year. But the first three months of this year are not up from last year's 22.

Saskatchewan is going to go all out for a "safety" campaign with safety through new legislation and establishment of a provincial safety council.

The legislature for the first time has provision to allow policemen to make motorists to submit to breath tests when suspected of drunken driving.

In the first third of this year 27 persons died on the roads and 50 in 1957. Last year's record of 134 fatalities was only slightly up the previous year.

For Alberta, 1956 was a record year with 278 deaths compared with 209 in 1955.

So far this year's total of 300 deaths was a record. Fatalities to the end of April are up only one, to 68.

All authorities are agreed that the answer to the problem lies in by "driver control" through education and stricter enforcement of the existing laws.

PRIME MINISTER ESCAPES INJURY IN CAR COLLISION

Also Unhurt When Barricade Collapses

CAMP BORDEN (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has emerged uninjured from two mishaps, though one of them sent him into a ditch.

The 75-year-old Liberal leader was travelling in a police-led motorcade Thursday when his 1957-model car collided with another vehicle and landed upright in a drainage ditch four feet wide and four feet deep. It was the first time he had ever been involved in a car collision.

The accident occurred on Highway 90 about five miles east of this military camp where Mr. St. Laurent was to board a chartered TCA plane for a campaign appointment at London, Ont.

He emerged from his slightly-damaged vehicle, consoled both drivers, jumped into another vehicle and made his plane trip just an hour behind schedule.

Later at Penetanguishene, some 50 miles north of here, Mr. St. Laurent escaped a fall when a wooden barricade on which he wanted to seat nine-year-old Cathy Fauve for a photograph collapsed.

FELL BACKWARDS

Mr. St. Laurent fell backwards but managed to retain his hold on the youngster. There was no harm in falling. He got up quickly, laughed and reassured Cathy. Then the photograph was taken after his aides brushed off the dirt.

Driver of his car in the motorcade was Mrs. Pearl Payette of Midland, Ont., wife of a mayor.

Mr. St. Laurent said later of her:

"She was just as cool as a cucumber during and after the accident. She suffered no ill effects at all."

The accident occurred when Norman McGirr, 54-year-old district farmer, attempted to make a left-hand turn out of a side road and moved into the path of the prime minister's vehicle.

Mrs. Payette swerved and slid into the ditch.

In the vehicle besides the prime minister and Mrs. Payette were William Hamilton, MP for Simcoe East and deputy Commons Speaker in the last Parliament, and Pierre Asselin, the prime minister's private secretary.

Farmer McGirr was on his way to pick up his nine-year-old daughter. Linda, at school. He was not injured when his car hit the prime minister.

"Are you all right?" he asked Mr. St. Laurent who came over to talk to him.

"I've been worse scared," said Mr. St. Laurent. "I'm sorry this happened. You must have been more serious than the car damage. And I'm sorry that made more trouble at this busy time in this ever happens to you."

The front-end of Mr. McGirr's car was damaged and he was issued a ticket for part of the body of the car in which Mr. St. Laurent had travelled.

6,000 Aluminum Workers Strike At Arvida Plant

Want Master Agreement To Cover Quebec Prov.

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—The 6,000 workers at the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Arvida went on strike at 8 a.m. today. The strikers, members of the National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL), want the company to change their decision one hour before the walkout.

Early reports indicated the plant's night shift came off duty, but that the day shift did not turn out for work. Further details were not immediately available.

The strike action followed a breakdown of post-arbitration negotiations between the Aluminum Company and the union.

One of the main issues was a union demand for a master agreement to cover the workers in the company's nine Quebec Plants.

Picket lines were set up immediately after the strike was started but no incidents were reported.

Expectations were that workers at other company plants in Shawinigan Falls, Ile Maligne and Beauharnois, would follow suit. The company employs about 10,000 workers in the four plants.

The union said continuation of the talks would be meaningless since the company would not accept its demand for a master agreement to cover all provincial establishments.

It was reported workers were advised at 7:30 a.m. that the negotiations had broken down.

Federation President Adrien Plourde, who arrived here after the breakdown, broke down in Montreal Thursday, said the situation is calm.

A meeting has been called of aluminum workers living in the Arvida, Chicoutimi and Jonquiere districts. He said other workers will be included in the master agreement demand of the union are in sympathy with the strike.

He listed these as 1,000 steevedores working at the Saguenay Terminals, 1,000 pulp and paper mills are transferred from ships to trains, 150 railroad workers, 200 power plant employees and workers at the company's Shawinigan and Ile Maligne plants.

In addition to the master contract, the union sought an immediate 30-cent-an-hour across the board increase. The company refused the request in a three-quarter contract but in an offer Thursday night took its previous offer rates at the Shawinigan and Isle Maligne smelters with those of Arvida.

The company also offered a 47½-cent-an-hour increase over over three years. The company said the offer would bring the minimum hour rate at Arvida, by Nov. 16, 1958, to $1.85 from $1.50, and the maximum rate for trades work to $2.62 from $2.01.

Queen, Philip Start Journey To Denmark

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip leave tonight on the first stage of a journey to Denmark—their third state visit to the Continent this year.

The royal couple will be leaving almost to their departure. The Queen ended a heavy round of public engagements this morning with an audience at Buckingham Palace. The prince will appear on television this evening across a special children's programme describing a round-the-world trip he made on the royal yacht last winter.

The Queen and prince will travel by night train to the east coast port of Hull, where a civic reception awaits them. Saturday evening they will board the royal yacht Britannia and, escorted by a British warship, will cross the North Sea to Copenhagen.

FIRST IN 368 YEARS

Their visit will be the first by a British sovereign to Denmark in 368 years. In 1589 James VI of Scotland crossed the North Sea to collect his bride, Princess Anne of Denmark.

Fourteen years later he assumed the English crown on the death of his distant cousin Queen Elizabeth I, thus paving the way for union of England and Scotland.

A packed programme of 23 different engagements will keep the royal couple moving during their three-day visit.

Four Burned

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP) — Four crew members on a Great Lakes ore boat were burned Thursday, one of them critically, in a steam explosion during unloading operations here.

Thomas Mosley, an assistant engineer aboard the Niagara-Mohawk, was reported in critical condition from burns about the face. The blast occurred in the boiler of the ship, which is owned by the Pittsburgh-Duluth Steamship Line of Buffalo, N.Y.

New Decisions Predicted On U.S. Disarmament Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold E. Stassen was back in Washington today for conferences expected to bring important new decisions on United States policy in negotiations to end the atomic arms race.

One specific question likely to be decided in the next 10 days is the location and extent of a "safe area for the "open skies" inspection plan to which the U.S might be willing to agree. This would be contingent on agreement by Russia to take a definite first step toward a world-wide arms control program.

State Secretary Dulles suggested at a press conference Tuesday that such a zone might more easily be carved out in the Arctic regions of Alaska, Northern Canada and Siberia than in populous eastern Europe with all of its complicated political problems.

Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, was to report to Dulles this afternoon.

Officials said there is no doubt that he will consult with Eisenhower and officials of the defence department and other interested government agencies.

The consultations, it is understood, will be pointed toward decisions by the National Security Council next week on specific positions which Stassen may take when he returns to London for a resumption of disarmament negotiations in the United Nations subcommittee on May 27.

One of the gains in the current round of disarmament negotiations has been Russian acceptance of the principles of aerial inspection, and of a public agreement by the 30 Zorin introduced a Soviet proposal for aerial inspection over Eastern Europe, Alaska and the U.S.

American officials have said that as it stands the Soviet proposal is not acceptable, but that if the Russians were really serious in making it, some kind of acceptable agreement may be worked out by negotiation.

MADE WRONG PICK

WINTON, England (AP) — A purse-snatcher escaped Thursday by Ambassador Haruhiko Nishi expressing the "regret" of Japan's Tokyo government at the explosion of Britain's first hydrogen bomb in the Pacific Wednesday.

The Japanese note, handed to Cmdr. Alan Noble, minister of defence for foreign affairs, reserved the right of the Tokyo government to claim compensation if Japanese citizens suffer damages or loss.

Britain had rejected two earlier Japanese requests that the bomb tests be called off.

Britain contends that the tests are necessary in the defence of the free world and that there is no danger of radioactive fall-out affecting the Japanese home islands.

In Japan, meanwhile, thousands of students in more than 50 cities demonstrated against the British tests. Some 10,000 rallied in a Tokyo park and then paraded past the British Embassy, chanting "Stop the H-bomb" and "Britain—Pirate Kingdom."

Northern Plant In Toronto Has Bomb Scare

TORONTO CP)—A dozen policemen searched without success in the Northern Electric Company building in west-central Toronto early today after an anonymous caller said there was a bomb in the building.

A handful of night workers were evacuated from the four-storey building while police conducted the search.

Police said they received a telephone call from a man who said he was in the building and "there's a bomb here."

DIES AFTER FALL

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—A carpenter on the St. Lawrence power project died Thursday of injuries suffered in a fall from a scaffold which he was installing handrails to revent falls. Donald E. Canup, 58, of Augusta, Ga., fell 30 feet Wednesday.

Officials said there is no doubt that he will consult with Eisenhower and officials of the defence department and other interested government agencies.

The consultations, it is understood, will be pointed toward decisions by the National Security Council next week on specific positions which Stassen may take when he returns to London for a resumption of disarmament negotiations in the United Nations subcommittee on May 27.

Britain Rejects New Jap Protest Over H-Bomb But May Pay Losses

LONDON (AP) — Britain told Japan today that British nuclear tests in the Pacific will continue, but promised to weigh any claims for damages or losses caused by bomb blast.

The government replied immediately to a protest note delivered by Ambassador Haruhiko Nishi expressing the "regret" of Japan's Tokyo government at the explosion of Britain's first hydrogen bomb in the Pacific Wednesday.

Issues in Coming Election Now More Clearly Defined

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was just a bad day all around for Prime Minister St. Laurent. He fell over backwards and his car was driven into a ditch. But he escaped injury in both.

His automobile accident occurred Thursday as a police-led motorcade wheeled, thundering by Camp Borden, Ont., after a visit to Penetanguishene, Ont., and a campaign for the June 10 federal election.

The accident occurred when farmer Norman McGirr pulled out of a side road and his vehicle was in collision with the prime ministers.

Earlier, at Penetanguishene, a wooden barrier collapsed while the prime minister was setting nine-year-old Cathy Fauve up for photographers. Mr. St. Laurent fell backwards but held on to Cathy and neither was hurt. The pictures then were taken.

Back in the world of politics, Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, campaigning briskly through Manitoba, proposed a system of north-south highways to open the north.

He also told an audience of some 200 persons in Flin Flon, northern mining town, that Canada's rights to potential hydro power on the rivers running into Canada - United States boundary waters "will not be realize lost by any circumstances."

Meanwhile, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell was heading for Saskatoon by train from Toronto for a Saskatchewan night meeting for CCF Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan was busy promoting the party cause in Ontario.

Over a CBC radio broadcast, he criticized Conservative campaign statements by leaders of other parties in the campaign urging a return to the "old-time practices" of national politics. Canadians should not be misled by "this old-fashioned argument" that a vote for a CCF candidate would be a wasted vote.

The fact is that a small group of CCF members at Ottawa have always exercised an influence in national affairs out of all proportion to their relatively small numbers." And, he added:

"Certainly no vote could be more useless than one cast in support of a government which has for its huge majority to rubber-stamp policies of lethargic drift and complacent arrogance."

Equally wasteful would be a vote for any opposition party that has failed to present any realistic basic political philosophy from the past years."

Social Credit Leader Solon Low was quietly working his own northern Alberta riding of Peace River.

Mr. Diefenbaker, moving on to Saskatchewan, was taking time out from campaigning to meet with two members from CCF and Social Credit ranks will be elected in the forthcoming June 10.

But in Victoria, B.C., Attorney-General Bonner, chief organizer of Social Credit's Ottawa drive, said he was worried by the withdrawal of three party candidates from Vancouver ridings. The withdrawn Social Credit had 71 candidates; there were already 90 in this province. Bonner hoped for:

"A national election is no place for a vote of protest," he added.

George Hees, former national PC Association president seeking re-election in Toronto Broadview, told a Blind River, Ont., meeting that "the greatest opportunity this year is overtaxing the head of a five-member family by about $1,000."

Defence Construction Minister Pickersgill announced that a defence construction survey team will have a new look at estimated construction costs for the projected South Saskatchewan River power project "in the next month or a few weeks."

Canada's contribution to the defence of the free world would be more effective if Canadian farmers were encouraged to increase food production and the food used, to win over free and neutral peoples, Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, said at Kenora.

He said the CCF has long advocated "international economic assistance to underdeveloped countries rather than increases in the amount of armament defence expenditure as the "rest way to build a firm foundation for peace."

LOSE 100,000 HENS

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP) — More than 100,000 chickens and hens have been destroyed in the Joliette district in an effort to halt an epidemic of Newcastle disease. Four veterinarians from the provincial department of agriculture are supervising destruction of diseased flocks.

Workers Dig Frantically to Save Boy Trapped at Bottom of Well

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Rescue workers dug frantically today in an effort to save a seven-year-old boy trapped more than 12 hours at the bottom of a dry well. Sand slides impeded their efforts.

They were only a few feet from him.

Whether the boy, Banjamin Hooper Jr., was alive or dead was not known. But a doctor said he could have meant sleep—or suffocation.

The well shaft was too narrow—three feet in diameter at the top and tapering to a few inches at the bottom—for rescuers to be lowered or descend.

Workers were directed to digging a parallel shaft and then a horizontal connecting tunnel.

The boy tumbled feet first into the well only five minutes after his father, a truck driver, had finished digging it. There was no water in it.

"Oh, my God, what have I done to deserve this?" the father cried. Unable to reach the boy, he called help.

Before long, 400 persons had gathered. Fire departments in the area sent rescue equipment and ambulances.

The rescue operation went on through the night under searchlights and then on into the morning.

The father worked with the rescue workers until he collapsed.

The boy's mother learned by accident of the boy's plight.

She is a telephone operator in an office of the New York Telephone Co. She overheard a detective reporting the boy's fall to police headquarters in Mineola by special circuit. Friends drove her home.

She was given sedatives but could only hope her son was beside the well, and then in the house.

The father was reported to be hoping the boy could grab it and be pulled up. That failed.

Then, within a half hour, firemen lowered an oxygen hose to a point near the boy's face.

"Benny, can you hear me?" the father kept calling. "Move your hands."

For at least three hours, the boy answered his father's cries by talking or moving. Then he fell silent.

"If it's God's will, the little fellow is already asleep," the father said.

George Cydith of the Manorville fire department spent the night trying on his stomach and shining a flashlight into the well.

"I can't see the bottom," he said. "But I'm not afraid down there," Cydith explained.

COPPER WIRE TAKEN FROM VACANT HOUSE

A little extra effort seems to be no deterrent for the light fingered gentry when out to raise a bit of money through the sale of scrap metal.

Yesterday a Roslin district man reported to police that copper ground wire had been stripped from a vacant house and barn owned by him. To obtain the copper wire the thieves had to climb the roofs of both the house and barn, the wire being loosened from the lightning rods and carried away.

Value of the lightning rod wire was said to be in the neighborhood of $15. Provincial police from Belleville are investigating.

J. KENT PROMOTED TO ACTING DETECTIVE

The Belleville Police Department has announced the promotion of Plainclothesman Jack Kent to Acting Detective, effective May 15.

Mr. Kent has been with the force for five years, the past two and one-half years of which he has served as plainclothesman.

The local force now has two detectives, Kent and Harold Reid.

Both men take orders from, and report directly to, either Chief Constable Walter Probert or Inspector Clair Hayes.

Quinte Mixed Bowling League Holds Annual

Quinte Mixed Bowling League completed season activities at Pobe's County Garden Lanes last night with very successful turkey dinner, dance and presentations.

Honored guests of the evening were the Champs, playing up to the team name, the "Champs" captured all three section titles and were presented with fitting gifts. No playoffs were necessary because of the "Champs" two-section sweep.

Molly Diamond's 324 was the ladies' high single for the season while Bill Fraser had 366 to capture the gent's counterpart.

President Pat Foley presented bowler and Manager Dorothy Morris McLean and treasurer June Dymond Harry Hawkshaw made the presentation to president Foley on behalf of the league members.

Presentations were complete consisting of Jim Walker and each of the ladies captains presented the evening's culm for next season. Harry Hawkshaw was named president, Dorothy Morris secretary and Desmond treasurer. The league approved as a whole of the new executive.

Mess Dinner Much Enjoyed

A most enjoyable social evening was the result of the Sergeants' Mess dinner and their wives of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment held on Thursday evening in the Officers' Mess at the armouries. Brig. and Mrs. D. Carr of Port Hope and Major and Mrs. Pringle were guests of honor and rated guests.

Major Joe Black presided at the dinner catered by the staff at the School of Artillery in Trenton. Major Herb Fairman graciously responded. Brig. E. A. Snow, Area Commander, complimented the regiment on their splendid progress during the past year and hoped the same would continue for years to come. "We are very proud of our regiment in this area," said the Brigadier.

Kurt Pieper, Belleville, first year student of engineering won the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario Scholarship.

Hospitalization Bill Called Most Important in History

CAMPBELLFORD — The Hon. Paul Martin told a large audience at a Liberal rally in Campbellford on Wednesday night, that the proposed hospitalization plan, to be put forth by the federal government, was probably the most important piece of legislation ever presented to the House of Commons.

Speaking in support of Dr. Fred G. Robertson, parliamentary assistant to the health minister, and candidate in the election in Northumberland riding, Mr. Martin outlined a number of reasons why electors should return Dr. Robertson to parliament. He spoke of the social and economic benefits that had been brought to Canadians under the Liberal government.

Molly Diamond's 324 was the ladies' high single for the season while Bill Fraser had 366 to capture the gent's counterpart.

President Pat Foley presented bowler and Manager Dorothy Morris McLean and treasurer June Dymond Harry Hawkshaw made the presentation to president Foley on behalf of the league members.

Presentations were complete consisting of Jim Walker and each of the ladies captains presented the evening's culm for next season. Harry Hawkshaw was named president, Dorothy Morris secretary and Desmond treasurer. The league approved as a whole of the new executive.

Outlining the workings of the new hospitalization plan for Canada, Mr. Martin said it would cost the taxpayers of Ontario very little more than they are now paying and the plan would provide extended benefits, at a reduced individual cost.

The people of Ontario are at present paying $30 million to $35 million dollars per year for individual and collective plans for hospitalization. They will still pay this, but the money will go to the federal treasury, he told the company. The Ontario government is spending over $100 million annually to provide provincial hospital facilities and a further $30 million to provide municipalities with their hospitalization costs.

CANADA CONTRIBUTE TO PLAN

Total cost of the new hospitalization plan in the province of Ontario will be $135 million. Of this amount, the federal government will contribute 62 million dollars, the province will contribute 67 million. Mr. Martin claims that the 15 million dollars which is the federal government will be new found money, the province now pays in hospital grants. The service will be available for everyone, regardless of age, creed or color, and the federal government will be sharing in the care of indigent patients, and the contagious burden of the indigent patient will be greatly eased for the provinces of Ontario and the rest of the Canadian government, has there ever been a government so much to Canadians", he said.

Mr. Martin explained further that the plan is available as long as the province's percentage of contribution to the province of Ontario will receive from the federal government, about 48 per cent of the cost, while the province of Newfoundland, which is not in such a rosy economic condition as Ontario, will receive about 75 per cent of the cost. Other of the Maritime provinces will receive larger percentages than Ontario. Mr. Martin did not say what the government's contribution to the province of Quebec would be.

Premier Frost has said that he expects the plan to get into operation in Ontario by January of 1959, but Mr. Martin said he hopes, if the six provinces sign the agreement with the federal government, that the plan could be put into operation by January 1958.

WORKED YEARS FOR PLAN

The speaker said that he has spent ten years working to bring the hospitalization plan about. Although he claimed the Liberals were responsible for bringing the scheme about, others are claiming credit for it. He said he believes in giving credit where it was due, and if someone else thought of the scheme first, it was alright with him. All he was concerned with was getting the legislation on the statute books. He does not care who gets the credit for it. He criticized the Toronto Globe and Mail for taking him to task editorially for claiming credit for the scheme. "I am not seeking credit for the scheme. I am seeking only to bring it about."

Speaking of other accomplishments of the Liberal government, Mr. Martin said that the government was now spending 400 millions dollars a year for Old Age Security, compared to only 90 million in 1952. The foundation of the National Health Plan was laid in 1948, but of more recent years, the government has a program to raise hospital facilities in areas where necessary to carry out such a broad plan. The government, he claimed, is also responsible for the establishment of 72,000 hospital beds since then. At the present time the people of Canada spend about 400 million dollars a year on hospitalization.

Mr. Martin said also that the government was spending two-fifths of the total budget, or two billion dollars on defence. He said they did not want to do this, but said it was necessary to preserve our freedom and our way of life.

CANADA POWERFUL VOICE

He cautioned the electors to be careful in their selection of the men who would govern the country, and represent the country in world affairs at the United Nations and NATO. He said that Canada now has become a powerful voice in world affairs, and that we are respected among all the countries of the free world for her sound policies and principles.

He paid tribute to other party leaders and opponents in general for their efforts to make Canada a better country but said that the Liberals have experience and were in a better position to form the next government for the good of all concerned. He said Canada, with its great area and diversified industry, has difficult country to govern, but, the Liberals have proved they are the only ones who could do it to the benefit of all concerned. Mr. Martin paid tribute to the great majority for Dr. Robertson in the June 10 election that he had in 1953. "You could have no better man" he said.

Other speakers included Dr. Freg G. Robertson, the candidate himself, Mayor Ross of Campbellford, Duncan, public relations officer for the Bata Shoe Company, Arthur Wicket, a member of the Liberal Association; R. A. Hall, president of the Northumberland Young Liberal Association, Mrs. J. H. Smith, president of the Campbellford Women's Liberal Association presided for a period of entertainment prior to the business portion of the meeting.

876 Persons Now Receiving Jobless Benefits

Although the employment picture in the city and district has improved considerably during recent weeks, there are still 876 persons in the city and in the rural area served by the local unemployment insurance commission office receiving Jobless benefits.

Of the total 398 are from Belleville, including 220 male and 178 female; while in the rural area there are 478 claims and 99 women receiving benefits.

City Manager Guest of Club

City Manager Dennis Herring was an honored guest of the Y's Men's Club at the Y's Thursday and gave a brief comparative survey of the Council-City Manager system.

Dealing with the more obvious advantages of continuity of direction and single leadership in preference to a multiplicity of ever-changing committees of control, Mr. Herring proceeded to the considerable problems of long-range planning. He pointed out that the cost of adequate planning was negligible compared to the huge costs of neglected planning. A further advantage lay in central purchasing.

Mr. Herring was introduced to the Club by Aldermen Gerald Hyde and their appreciation was expressed by Y's man Gerry Smith.

Welcome guests of the Club were member-at-large Scott Denton and former Y's man Roy Mersey.

The forthcoming visit of a group of prospective Y's men from Oshawa was scheduled for May 22rd, and plans were finalized for a Club visit to the Kingston District spring conference.

Obituary

MISS MARGUERITE MILKULSKI
(Buffalo, N.Y.)

MADOC — Mrs. Will Stewart received word on Saturday of the death of Miss Marguerite Milkulski at Buffalo. To the older residents of Madoc, Miss Milkulski was well known having spent the summer months in and around Madoc, but of more recent years, the family had built a cottage at Barbers Lake, Hastings.

Miss Milkulski was a teacher in the city school in Buffalo until a serious illness some five years ago. She is the last of her family. Alice (Mrs. W. J. Hill), a sister, passed away last December. Funeral services and interment took place in Buffalo on Tuesday morning.

MRS. HARRY A. WICKETT (Foxboro)

Mrs. Harry Arthur Wickett, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Foxboro, died at her home in that village this morning, after an illness of a year's duration. News of her passing will evoke deep regret, for the only amongst her friends in the Foxboro area, where she had resided for the past 19 years, but also in Stirling, where she had formerly made her home.

Deceased was born 69 years ago in Rawdon Township, her maiden name being Mary Ann Esmeria MacMurray and she was the daughter of the late Joseph and Margaret Bamber MacMurray.

Mrs. Wickett is survived by her husband, Harry Arthur Wickett, by one son, Ronald Arthur Wickett of Foxboro, two grandchildren, two brothers, W. A. MacMurray and Leroy MacMurray, both of Foxboro, and one sister, Mrs. Albert Reid of Foxboro.

Mrs. Wickett was a member of St. John's Anglican Church in Stirling and of the Women's Guild of that church.

WILLIAM STORMS

The funeral of William Storms of this city was held on Thursday afternoon from the John R. Post Funeral Home to Belleville Cemetery, Archdeacon J. R. Creegan of Christ Church, officiated. Mr. Storms died at Blind River, Ont., on Monday. He had been working in that district for approximately a month and news of his death came as a great shock to his friends here, whose esteem he had gained during the years he resided in this city.

Surviving members of his family were shown by beautiful floral tributes.

Belleville Tops Chess League

Final standing of the Eastern Ontario Chess League, just released, shows that Belleville has piled the league in its first year of operation. The local club won 11 1/2 wins to 7 1/2 loses to nose out Cornwall, with a 15-10 mark. Cornwall, though, had the better record in matches won, losing only to Hull, while the Belleville club piled up five easy points from Hull by default. Standing of the other teams in this class B league was: Ottawa 14 1/2 - 10 1/2; Hull, 13-12; Brockville, 12 - 13 1/2; Renfrew, 3 1/2 - 21 1/2.

IN MEMORIAM

FASCOE. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother Harold (Slim) Fascoe, who passed away May 17th, 1956.
Sweet memories are all we have,
Dear Harold, to remember you by.
We shall remember then,
Sadly missed and mourned by father, mother, sisters and brothers.

SMITH. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Elizabeth Smith, who passed away May 17th, 1956.
Memory wanders as twilight shadows fall,
Back to days of happiness, days that were all.
And a vision comes to me,
Of the dearest face I ever see,
Of those loving lips are closed in sleep,
Of that heart that's ceased to beat.
Mother, dear mother, memory of mother, always and forever fresh and sweet.
—Edward Mersey.

I wish to thank everyone who remembered me with cards, flowers, food, and during my illness and sorrow in the loss of my husband, Albert Lee. Also Rev. Fetherstonhaugh and Rev. Hall for their kind care and kindness also Dr. Hubbard for his kind care. —Mrs. J. B. Creegan for their understanding and kindness.
—Mrs. Barbara Sanders.

Police Blotter

Shiny wheel discs and chrome trim on autos seem to have a definite attraction for different-minded people.

This morning in Chatham Street complained to police that four chrome wheel discs had been stolen from his 1957 model auto during the night, while a similar complaint stated that two chrome rear fender fins had been taken from his car, which was parked on the Armouries parking lot.

Police have been asked to assist in locating a 17-year-old Trenton girl, Georgina Turgeon, who is believed to have left home in company with another girl and a Belleville youth.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregularly higher today during moderate morning trading. Industrials were ahead on index but base metals and western oils sliped slightly.

Profit-taking made another appearance among industrials, especially in Trans Mountain Pipe Line, which lost 4¼ points at 139.

The industrial index was ahead nearly a point. Base metals lost a few decimal points and western oils one-quarter of a point. Golds were narrowly higher.

Volume at 11 a.m was 1,084,000 shares compared with 1,094,000 at the same time Thursday.

Algoma Steel helped the industrial index with a 2¼-point gain at 141½.

The mining list showed few outstanding price changes. Uraniums were mixed to lower. Pacific Pete gained ¾ to 25¾ among western oils while a few other stocks gained 10 cents.

PRODUCE MARKET

Butter print prices were reported unchanged.

The egg market was reported quiet with receipts in excess of light demand.

Brought Back From Prison To Stand Trial

George Coy, aged about 34, currently serving a term at the Kingston penitentiary for bank robbery, was brought to Belleville yesterday by Police Inspector J. C. Hayes, and detective Harold Reid, to stand trial for the armed robbery of Brown's Bread here about a year ago.

About $4,000 was taken by the holdup man who on a ruse had the bread company manager Louis Rump, come back to the warehouse after closing hours.

At the time of Coy's trial here he will be tried for safe-breaking job at Windsor.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

The group colors set the theme for the banquet tables at the 13th Holy Rosary annual banquet. Yellow candles in red apples and red and yellow flowers were placed on all tables. The effect was most pleasing and the turkey dinner the ladies served was delicious.

"Flag-break" was performed by the Scouts, Cubs gave the "Grand Howl" and then Father Michael said grace. There were seventy people sat down to dinner. It is difficult to express suitable appreciation to ladies who prepare so carefully and spend so much time making everything so good, Mr. Farrell, thanking Mrs. Thompson, did very well, but the happy faces of boys of all ages told the story in a more effective manner.

Bruce Thompson introduced the guests: Father Michael Eilaro, A.D.C. Phil Allcorn, Mrs. Waters, president of the Mothers' Association; Mr. J. Barrett, president P.T.A.; C. F. Leggat; Rev. Father McGee; Scout Gary Thompson; Mr. H. Brown, president school board; Rev. Father Michael; Field Com. Jackson; D.S.M. Harry Smith, and Scoutmaster Peter Green.

Cub Peperoni thanked the fathers for the interest they take in Cubs and Scouts. Mr. A. G. McAuley, replying, said that greater interest and more help would be given by fathers.

Mr. J. Barrett introduced the speaker, Rev. Father McGee. He was born in Stirling, received his B.A. at St Michael's; spent some years at St. John's, Kingston; took special courses at McMasters and graduated from the Ontario Teachers' College. He taught at the Cathedral School, Kingston, until appointed first assistant at St. Michael's Church in Belleville. Father McGee is a teacher at St. Michael's High School and is also a hockey player of renown. To be present a this banquet he sacrificed ar. important hockey game.

Father McGee said that following such a good speaker as Cub Peperoni, made him nervous, but he would do his best.

PURPOSES OUTLINED

The purpose of Scouting is far more than skills and attainments — it is making good citizens. Leaders are chiefly interested in the boy's character. Good leadership means willingness to take over when and where needed. Real leaders come from the volunteer ranks. In Scouting, as in life, the team is the important thing. Everybody should be given the opportunity to take part. Scouting teaches leadership and teamwork. Scouts learn to take rather than give — to accept difficulties and disappointments and strive for success next time. They learn to associate and agree with others and assume their share of responsibility. Educating a boy is making the whole man, bodily and spiritually. The speaker thanked the leaders for the time and experience they give to Scouting. He was particularly happy to see the interest taken by fathers in Cubs and Scouts. Some parents use leaders as unpaid baby-sitters, showing a very bad example to their children.

Fathers should think back, how their game improved when dad was there. It is important now as then, to show dad how good we are. Be very sure your son is your friend; boys are proud of their fathers. There is no substitution for father and son relationship.

The Scout Promise based on the two great commandments, "Duty to God" and Love Thy Neighbor," surely point to better understanding between men and nations. Scouts should dedicate themselves to this end. Worldwide Scouting would end wars and bring contentment and peace.

Mr. Herb Brown thanked Father McGee for his appropriate and helpful speech. We all thanked him for a brilliant address delivered in simple language and enjoyed by Cubs, Scouts and fathers alike.

District Commissioner Oliver Owen apologized for being late. He had to leave another Scout banquet, but we were pleased to see him. In a few brief remarks he pointed out that the example of the father is reflected in the son.

The Holy Rosary group should be proud of this wonderful evening in Cubbing and Scouting.

NOVEL WAY TO CHECK FOX MENACE

There was a time when long-haired furs were in style, when fox pelts brought good prices and when hunters kept down the fox population, to the peace of mind of the poultryman and the little red rooster.

Today, though, short-haired furs are the fashion, fox pelts bring next to nothing, the only hunting done is by those who like to hear a hound baying on a hot trail, foxes have multiplied and the chicken pen often has nocturnal visitors.

Some counties and townships have placed bounties on foxes, in an effort to stimulate hunting and trapping. It remained for imaginative Quebec authorities, though, to devise a novel method of combatting the menace. In the Temiskaming area they released 100 foxes, each with a tattoed ear and a $100 price on his head.

"That doesn't make sense to us," complains the St. Thomas Times-Journal in an editorial. "Having caught the foxes why not kill them there and then? If they are tagged and set free they could do a great amount of harm before they were caught again — and many might never be caught at all."

The brilliant reasoning behind the Quebec authorities novel action will only puzzle those who do not hunt foxes. The man who loves to stand on a hill while his hound bugles the story of the chase in the swamp below, the man whose heart lifts as he catches a fleeting glimpse of red streak along a fence and come bounding towards him, knows something about foxes that the St. Thomas editor has overlooked. You can't read the tattoo on the ear of a fox when he is galloping before a hound.

With $10,000 racing around the Temiskaming country on the back of foxes, there are going to be a lot of hunters gunning for Master Reynard. There are going to shoot a lot of foxes — and not until they have shot them are they going to know whether their quarry brings a stiff bill as a reward or just the excitement of a good hunt.

Really it is just a matter of arithmetic, whether or not the amount paid out in bounty will prove worthwhile will depend on the number of foxes in the Temiskaming area. If there are 900 foxes there, then the law of averages would indicate that every tenth fox shot would be a tattoed one, and that the province would, in effect, be paying a bounty of $10 per fox. If the fox population is 1,900, then the bounty would work out at $5 a fox.

Many more men, we suspect, will hunt foxes when they know they have the chance of bagging a $100 beauty than would take to the woods if the bounty were $5 a fox.

IS THIS WASTE?

"Is the school system extravagantly wasteful?" asked the Toronto Star in a recent editorial.

"Ontario taxpayers and parents, to say nothing of the pupils," it contended, "do not appear to be getting value for the $100,000,000 the provincial government is putting out this year and the 150 additional millions that all the school boards and municipal tax levies are requiring for public and secondary schools in this province."

Statistics appear to substantiate those who maintain that our school system is, indeed, extravagantly wasteful. Of an average 100 Canadian pupils in Grade 6, only four gain a university agree.

The Star says that in Ontario 19.6 of each 1,000 population go to university compared with only 4.94 of each 1,000 in Canada.

There are, though, top many variables to make such comparisons really helpful.

The wastage which occurs in the Ontario educational system is, we suspect, much the same as that which occurs in many other countries, with universal compulsion education.

Is there, then, something wrong with this system?

Before we jump to conclusions, let us look at the proof of the pudding. And the proof, we suggest, is not in the fact that only four out of 1,000 Grade 6 pupils eventually graduate from university, but in what those four, and the other 9,996 who do not complete a university course, accomplish.

And what has man accomplished in recent years? He has climbed from the mud to the skies, filled the air with words and pictures, eradicated diseases which have plagued mankind since the dawn of time, probed into the heart of the atom and released a genie which can provide him with an abundance of power. All this and much more.

Does this suggest that our educational system has failed?

But the wastage, the wastage, cry the critics.

Perhaps they have forgotten the way that Nature operates — how many millions of seeds are produced for so few plants, how many thousands of fish fry for one big fish. The mass production method works for Mother Nature. Perhaps, after all, it is the best method for producing an adequate supply of men and women not only talented but trained.

DIFFERENCE

This is an obvious fact I pen:
Women are different from men.

A woman can tell what the night before
Twenty-five other women wore.

But a man can't tell when an hour has gone
What any woman he's seen had on.

A man won't know though it's plain to view,
Was another man's headgear old or new.

A woman will quickly see such things
As bracelets new and engagement rings.

On Ice 2,500 Years

By Gerald Kloss in the Milwaukee Journal

Ossip Schumakhaf was a cautious man. When he spied a strange looking hump in the frozen ground one day in 1901, he tried to ignore it. But the following year, when he made another trip across the Siberian delta in Northern Siberia, he kept an eye out for the peculiar hummock in spite of himself.

This time he couldn't ignore it. The covering of the earth and snow had melted away enough to disclose a tusk and part of the body of a huge, frozen animal, covered with thick hair. Ossip quickly averted his eyes, for he knew that to look on even look at the carcass of this underworld beast was to invite death. A tribesman who had long meddled with another such carcass a few years before had died, and his family, too.

Caution fought a losing battle with greed in his mind over the next few years. Stories came that the tusks were ivory, and ivory was valuable. Finally, in the spring of 1804, however, did he get up courage to take the trip. He returned to the carcass, now fully revealed, cut off the curving tusks and sledded them for 50 rubles worth of goods.

News of Ossip's discovery reached the ears of a famous scientist, M. F. Adms who was travelling through Siberia in 1806. Adms immediately set out for the Lena delta to investigate.

When he got there he found a skeleton, for little of the tribesmen had fed much on the flesh of the dogs. But what remained, including a large patch of hairy hide was an extraordinary yet found of the extinct woolly mammoth. An examination of it said it was 25,000 years ago and had been preserved in frozen ground ever since.

Here was that rarest of paleontological discoveries, a specimen in which the "soft parts" (muscles, flesh and skin) had been preserved. It was the best that was a pity, of course, that a scientist had not been able to examine the creature before Ossip and his friends had stripped the carcass and crowded themselves with the thought that perhaps, some day, a scientific mion could reach a perfectly preserved mammoth in time.

Nothing like that happened, but it took another century of searching, enlivened by some hoaxes, before the great discovery was made. The story of that search, with its focus on the woolly mammoth, is told in a chapter of a fascinating new book on real and imaginary creatures of the past, "Mermaids and Monsters," by Richard Carrington.

As far back as the fourth century BC, the Chinese had written about the mammoth's existence. They thought it was earth living a long time, describing it as a huge animal with a curved neck and small eyes, mammoth-like in shape. Their name for it was "Fyn shu", meaning of all things, "self-concealing mouse".

That peculiar name referred to the fact that mammoths and other great creatures roamed underground, such as moles and other animals lived above ground. The underground theory was common and soon as they saw the light of day. This accounted for the mammoth carcasses that seemed to pop out of the earth every so often.

Arab traders in the 10th and 11th centuries carried mammoth ivory from the Siberian border to the Aral Sea, where it was carved into combs and ornaments at large profit. Starting in the 17th century, much of this ivory was exported to Europe, reaching an average of 50,000 pounds a year at the end of the 18th century. The tusks of at least 45,000 mammoths were sold in the three centuries that Russia occupied Siberia.

So there was an abundance of evidence that an equal-like creature had once roamed the bleak wastes of Siberia. In prehistoric times, as well as other areas of Europe where mammoth bones had been found. It was pretty well established, furthermore, that the beast differed from the modern Indian and African elephant in having a woolly coat of dark brown hair.

Ossip Schumakhaf's timorous discovery absolutely confirmed the fact. Russian naturalists alerted themselves to follow up quickly any report of other mammoth carcasses, but always, it seemed, they were too late. The remains were fragmentary by the time they got to the remote sites.

About the year 1900 a report came in to the Russian Academy of Sciences that a well preserved mammoth carcass had been discovered in the remote Beresovka section of Siberia, well north of the Arctic circle. Investigation by previous hoaxes, the academy despatched an expedition, which reached the site in September, 1901, after a supremely difficult journey across thawing tundra.

It was well worth the effort. In the exhausted scientists found an almost perfectly preserved specimen, partly exposed by a landslide on a hillside. Carefully the naturalists uncovered the rest of the carcass. It was intact, except for the trunk and some flesh on the face eaten by wolves or dogs.

Here indeed was a scientific prize. Traces of food were found in the mammoth's mouth. Its stomach contents were fresh enough to be subjected to chemical analysis. When the carcass was dismembered for examination, pieces of the 25,000 year-old flesh were thrown to the sledge dogs, and eagerly devoured.

The scientists even were able to reconstruct how the mammoth had died. It had been grazing on a disintegrating glacier, seamed with deep crevasses that were covered by a thin layer of soil and snow. The mammoth had fallen through this layer into a crevasse and died of the injuries. There it had been sealed for thousands of centuries, preserved in nature's own deep freeze.

The expedition took the skeleton back to Leningrad and made a reconstruction of it encased in the exact position that it was discovered. Visitors to the museum who have the two-legged fiend up in an attempt to slimb out of the pit.

It is writes Carrington, perhaps the most remarkable paleontological document in any museum, giving a picture both accurate and dramatic of this somone incident in the world of over 25,000 years ago."

Having rifled through the pages of a few dictionaries, we are not surprised that enumerators for the June 10 federal election have been warned to be careful in their testing against being designated on the voters list as "spinsters".

It's all very well for purists to say that a spinster is merely an unmarried woman who has gainful employment, and that it is no more opprobrious than calling a man who doesn't work a "gentleman". In the old days, a spinster was a woman who spun yarn — who spun yarn (and in no overthe-teacups sense, either) and the word was later adopted as the proper legal designation of one unmarried.

But the rub is that in modern usage, the word spinster has come to not only an unmarried woman, but one somewhat advanced in years — an "old maid". To have a spinster write a wrong, possibly, the dictionaries say that it may also be a spider or other insect that spins, or even a "woman of evil life". Under the letter, so-called from being forced to spin in a house of correction.

So all in all, Mr. Douglas B. Gordon, the returning officer in Hamilton West, has shown himself a politically wise man in declaring that unmarried ladies of some do not have to submit to being enumerated as "spinsters", and may, if they wish, have the space for their occupation left blank.

We believe that governments could be toppled if they enforced the spinster rule in these emancipated times.

"It'll be just my luck that your palatings won't be worth a dime after you're dead!"

Best Way To Save Your Teeth

Reader, 43 years of age, has visited her dentist 2, 3, or 4 times each year for the past nine years. On her last visit, the dentist did not fill any teeth and suggested she just let them go until they hurt and then he would have to extract all of them.

She admits that her gums have been receding. . . .

Now, remember, I'm only an M.D. (Doctor of Medicine) and a P. H. D. (Doctor of Personal Health). It is not my intention to invade the domain of the dentist. On the other hand, I submit that the diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment of so-called pyorrhea alveolaris calls for medical as well as dental knowledge and skill.

The reader says her gums are receding. Well, that is inevitable if the teeth are not used enough for chewing. It is the way of all gums in this modern world of namby-pamby, refined, "purified" food.

Atrophy, shrinking, or receding of the gums; formation of pus-pockets; and loosening of the teeth in their pockets are familiar signs of pyorrhea. But pyorrhea is not primarily a disease. It is degeneration of gum tissues, tooth-socket linings, jaw muscles, bones, vessels, and nerves, from insufficient use of the masticating machinery.

Extraction of one tooth or several or all the remaining teeth is no treatment at all. It is a confession of the dentist's and/or patient's incomprehension or lack of interest.

If what the reader says is true she will let her upper and lower teeth are perfect. I can't understand why her dentist wants to extract them.

Let no one infer that I have a cure for pyorrhea. All the advice I can give in reference to pyorrhea is in the way of prevention.

The reader is only 43 years old. Evidently she has had trouble with her gums and teeth for nine years. A sad history. At 35 to 40, a woman should be at her best in every way. What has the lady been chewing all these years? Refined white bread with the crust trimmed off? Orange juice without any pulp? Boiled potato?

One with any sign of pyorrhea should make a point of eating a good quantity of raw vegetables, greens, or fruit every day; make nuts and peanuts part of his everyday diet; eat whole grains; and take no dessert except fruit.

GOLD AND BRASS

There is an interesting story in the 12th chapter of Second Chronicles about how Rehoboam, the king of Judah, was overcome by the king of Egypt. This Rehoboam had forsaken the law of the Lord and from his father Solomon, but he had refused to redress certain evils and his kingdom had been divided. Then when the king of Egypt came against him, he met an easy prey. The conqueror carried off the treasures of the king's house, and among these, "the shields of gold which Solomon had made." But Rehoboam made shields of brass to take their place.

The wise father had shields of gold—the foolish son had shields of brass. Here is a picture of how today millions of people, old and young, are forsaking the gold shield by which their fathers protected themselves and substituting something of inferior value. Thousands of godly homes frequently establish homes of their own in which there is no godliness. Parents devoted to the Word of God send their children to colleges where secular teachers frequently destroy their religious faith and leave them without any protection against life's great assults. The Bible tells us to take the shield of faith and the helmet of salvation and the sword of the spirit, but secularism says, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die."

The gold shields of one generation are replaced by the brass shields of the next.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TRUST YOURSELF

It's a simple thing, to do, trust one self; but so many of us fail to do so. It is, however the wide and true path to take. How can we get ahead, and make progress otherwise? Every great leader must choose to do so and does.

Long ago Socrates said: "Know thyself." If we know ourself we will trust ourself how can we fail? Self reliance is self trust. One of the great keys to any success. Independence of mind and energy have all the career stones of victory in vast enterprise.

We keep getting ahead when we trust ourself. Great ideas, put to the test, rarely fail. They inspire and create confidence. Confidence in the worth of advertising, for example, creates the mindset of readers a desire for a product. Ideals are born in the heart, but it takes trust in them to bring them to fruition.

During the difficult days, when Henry Ford was trying to people to put their trust in the ideas he had for putting out a car for the many, he was met almost nothing in capital. But he had himself, and the half trust in what he learned to accomplish, and those who believed in him joined him. Ford trusted himself and inspired others to trust him. That was the beginning.

The genius of all progress has been the same. In business this most triumphs. Most of you did in one's personal life. It satisfies the soul, as well, and builds character and create confidence. The mightiest are always left behind by the man who has faith in the heart. Trust yourself and people will trust you!

Few Hecklers Really Smart

Windsor Daily Star

Thus far there have been some instances of heckling at political meetings. They were in Alberta where Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent evidently had little trouble squelching the hecklers.

Smart heckling, of course, is even rarer than smart speaking. Merely making a loud noise and asking silly questions isn't much good; it is more apt to put the audience on the side of the speaker than otherwise.

The short, succinct question, however, often can be quite disconcerting. If it be one which isn't easily answered, or one which throws the speaker off his stride.

Which recalls an incident in the 1930 elections in the United Kingdom. A Labor candidate boasted: "We have put more on the statute book than any other government." "Why?" fiercely asked a man in the back row. That stymied the candidate. He stammered through the rest of his speech without a convincing reply.

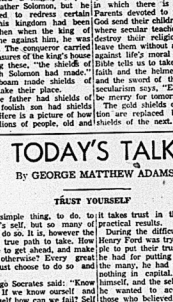
THE PACKSACK

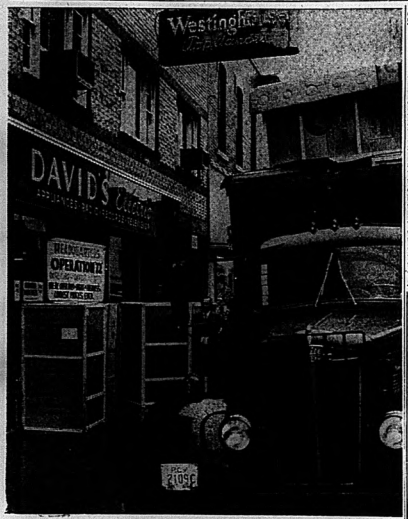
By GREGORY CLARK

The first thing to do when you arrive at your summer cottage for the first time this season is to get rid of the stench of all the flashlight batteries from last year. walk down to the lake and chuck them all in.



You will find most of them, of course, in the flashlight drawer in the drawers last autumn when you closed up. Some of them may have leaked during the winter and corroded. This calls for a lot of work. Don't forget, next last year, as you did the year before that, that you could discover no way of getting a dead battery out of a flashlight. So you go and sit in the rowboat and paddle out on the verandah, and go through the business of unpacking, jolting in the effort to remove the stuck battery. You are probably with one of your wife's steel knitting needles, to see, you can't just loosen the blind thing, when you suddenly recollect that last year, at exactly this time, you were sitting exactly like this, in the same rocking chair, with the same knitting needle, trying to do the same thing. It is curious how you forget, from one season to the next, all the things you can't do at summer cottage.

So the best thing to do with a dead flashlight that is congested with stuck batteries is to walk down to the lake and chuck it in too.



The main thing, of course, is to order new batteries, to unpack the new flashlight batteries that have brought with you until you have thoroughly sought out and drowned all last year's batteries. If you fail in this, you are in for trouble all summer. For batteries all look alike, and it won't be fifteen minutes, should you unpack the new ones, before they are hopelessly confused with old ones.

Of course, there are people who say that batteries left over the winter still have a little useful life in them. Often, they can prove it. But that little life in them is not what you only in the worst circumstances, such as being half-way up the side of a mountain relying on a wild and stormy night.

Others tell you that if you put old batteries in the oven for a few minutes, they will revive as good as new. Listen, chum: don't fool with any of these notions. Nothing is rubber than a brand new flashlight battery at the summer cottage. And nothing is weaker than a last year's one. It will glow wanly when you first put it in, but when you really do need it, it gives a last, thin sneer and blacks out.

Bishop Ready To Intervene In Strike Issue

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Most Rev. Albini Leblanc, Roman Catholic Bishop of Gaspe, says he is willing to intervene in the strike at the Gaspe copper mines here—but not until he is asked by both sides.

In a telephone interview from Cap Chat, Bishop Leblanc said he tried to intervene shortly after 1,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) walked off their jobs March 11 but he was unsuccessful. He did not say how he tried to intervene.

Bishop Leblanc called the situation here "very delicate" and said he would not step in again unless it was reuested by both sides.

The company is continuing production on a restricted scale. It says 300 persons are back at work. The USWA maintains new workers and returned strikers total only 70. Main point in the dispute is that of certification.

The two events were to have been marked by a lavish banquet but celebrations have been postponed until after the June 10 federal election.

Sunday School Lesson

Rights of the Righteous

By ROY L. SMITH

In our avid defence of the rights of minorities we are apt to overlook the fact that majorities also have rights. As we crusade for the rights of law-breakers, we are apt to overlook the rights of the righteous.

This week's Sunday school lesson has to do with the punishment that God was to measure out on two wicked cities. The sins of Sodom and Gomorrah were serious, by whatever measure they were to be measured.

There was, however, one fact which could not be ignored. Mixed in with the evil population of the town there were those righteous and honorable individuals who were not in sympathy with the sinfulness of their cities, and who were in no way responsible for the popular wickedness. The problem, then, was to deal sternly with the cities and justly with the individuals.

We live in the midst of crowds, and we are citizens of cities. But we have a right to expect justice upon the basis of our character and conduct as individuals.

In that state of war in which a large sector of American industry is engaged, in which management is pitted over against labor, this problem of dealing justly with individuals is a matter of the utmost concern to the nation.

That there are those individual employers who deal unjustly and inconsiderately with their employees goes without saying. And that there are those employees who are indifferent to the rights of the employer is equally true. But it is also true that there are large numbers of managers who are primarily concerned with the welfare of their workers, and equally large numbers of the employees who are genuinely loyal to the man who furnishes them with a job.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 19: "ABRAHAM AND HIS WORLD," Genesis 13; 18:1 — 19:29.

The problem, then, is how to deal justly with the just employer and equitably with the loyal employee while we are disciplining the disloyal.

Neither the labor unions nor the managerial associations have yet discovered how to do this honorable thing. And in the meantime, the nation pays the price of indiscriminate war in industry.

The unions and the managers both face the demands of God; that the rights of the righteous shall be respected.

GOD AND INDIVIDUAL

It is one of the basic convictions of four Christian faith that God deals with us as individuals, and not as members of crowds. As individuals we have rights which He will respect.

God knows the difference between individual and the crowd with which He works, the mob in which he may find himself, or the city of which he may be a citizen. No matter how vicious the majority may become, God can be relied upon to give the individual a square deal, judging him according to his personal righteousness or unrighteousness.

IN THE IMAGE OF MAN

It has sometimes been said that man has made God in his own image, and there is more than a bit of truth in the charge, but the important thing to note is that we have made God in the image of the best we find within ourselves rather than in the image of the worst within us.

Abraham became convinced that he might expect righteous treatment at the hands of God because he found some elements of righteousness within himself. The Apostle Paul, in his letter to the Roman church, declared that the condemnation of God rested upon paganism because pagans had defied even that righteousness which they found in themselves, even though they were pagans.

Let any man be true to his highest and his best and he will begin to discover the God who is interested in something still higher and better.

A dainty tea was served by the hostess who was thanked for her hospitality.

The next meeting will be held at the Church hall.

Weddings

McINROY — ROLLINS

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, April 20th, at 2.00 p.m., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, when Mary Ann Rollins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Rollins, became the bride of Donald Johnston McInroy, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McInroy. Tall white standards of white lilums and pink gladioli adorned the chancel rail.

Miss Ruth Mumby of Stirling rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Heather Sanders, as sang, "Because" and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Clarence Rollins, the bride was radiant in her floor-length gown of organdie lace and nylon illusion, having a portrait neckline trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt was ended with lace applique, extending into a phantom train. Her finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was with a gathered of nylon tulle sprinkled with tiny seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of red Garnet roses mingled with white stephanotis, with Miss Joyce Cooke, of Stirling, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Morgan, also of Stirling, and Miss Eleanor Wright of Haliburton, were bridesmaids, all gowned alike in waltz-length Shelley blue taffeta and lace, with deep-crimson bows of matching taffeta accenting the minimum waistline. Feathered headdresses, gloves and shoes of matching color completed their ensembles. All carried nosegays of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Douglas McInroy, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, attended the bridegroom and ushers were Mr. Lee Buckley, of Belleville, and Mr. Rod Roblin of Toronto, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall, in the form of a buffet luncheon. The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by bluebirds and lily-of-the-valley. Bouquets of pink and white sweetpeas and the bridal bouquets completed a pretty setting.

The bride's mother, attired in beige satin with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in powder blue lace with navy duster coat, matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the west central United States, the bride chose a beige suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses. They are residing at 209 Charles St., Belleville.

Queen Victoria H-S Assoc. Names Officers

The May meeting of Queen Victoria Home and School Association was held Monday evening in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. J. Hunstalley, in the chair.

An encouraging financial report was presented by Mr. K. Hunley, treasurer. Annual reports were also given by various members and a brief resume of the annual committee's work in Toronto last month was given by Mrs. J. Winstanley, the delegate from Queen Victoria School.

OFFICERS NAMED

Mrs. B. Bateman presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: president — Mrs. J. Winstanley; vice-presidents — Mrs. E. Beatty, Mrs. J. Moran; recording secretary — Mrs. S. McCauley; corresponding secretary — Mrs. F. Walsh; treasurer — Mr. R. Stalker; executive members — Mrs. R. Hamilton; Mrs. A. Angue, Mrs. D. Leckie, and Mrs. R. Savage.

The new executive was installed in office by Mrs. A. A. Wilson, of Queen Victoria Home and School Association. Conveners social — Mrs. R. Hamilton; membership — Mrs. E. Young; program — Mrs. J. Moran.

Mr. J. E. Bateman, principal, thanked the executive for a successful and cooperative year and wished them every success in the future.

It was learned that Miss Sylvia Dickie and Miss Mary Johnston, two senior students will be leaving the school at the end of the term. They are going to Germany in the fall to teach the children of the Canadian Armed Forces.

The attendance award for having most parents present was a three way tie. It was decided that the classes of Mr. J. E. Bateman, Miss Mary Cassidy and Miss Marion Rawson each receive the full amount of the award.

At the close of the business portion of the meeting, the Belleville Theatre Guild entertained the audience with a one-act play, "Aunt Clodeche". It was an hilarious full of suspense which held the attention of all every single moment. The play was adjudicated at last week by Mr. Fred Sloan who commended favorably on the performance.

CAST

Mrs. Delly Cain was the producer-director and following are the names of the talented cast: Emily — Joan Rickards; Doctor — Doug Ingle; Mrs. Aldringham — Ruth Nightengale; Clara — Helen Sulman; back stage assistants: music and sound effects— Andrew Jessen; lights — Stewart Parry; make-up — Winsome Lewis and Nickie Thomas, and also Jean Sisler, Earle Goodman, William Barrie and Konrad Piwowarski.

The meeting was brought to a close and refreshments were served by Mrs. Kingston and her committee.

Bay of Quinte W.A. Conference Held At Port Hope

The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. of the United Church of Canada was held recently in Port Hope United Church.

President, Mrs. W. T. Elliott, Stirling, presided over the morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session opened with a call to worship, a hymn and prayer.

Mrs. H. Hutchings, president of the hostess church of Port Hope, welcomed the delegates from eight Presbyteries and all visitors.

After minutes of the last annual meeting were approved and read as read Mrs. W. B. Reynolds, recording secretary, gave a summary of last year's meeting. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. H. Pyear, read the communications which included messages of greeting from Manitoba, British Columbia and Toronto Conference W.A. groups.

The chairmen of standing committees presented splendid reports in the printed version and the highlight of the Presbytery W.A.'s announced their annual meeting or announced the date when meetings had already been held.

The president, in the report of her two years as head officer, thanked her executive for the co-operation given her during the and the supporting members who had made the year such a successful with their attendance.

The Rev. Beverley Oaten, director of the Youth Council of Christian Workers' Centre at Paris, Ontario, gave a graphic description of the various Bible study courses and the conference held in his newly-rounded-year camp of instruction.

All age groups were welcomed to take advantage of the facilities of teaching and recreation with the aim of getting more workers into the church.

COMMUNION SERVICE

The mid-day devotions were conducted by the Rev. A. E. Cronk, minister of Port Hope church.

After his address a luncheon was served in the dining hall by the ladies of Port Hope W.A. when greetings were brought by Mrs. J. H. McKinney, president of the Quinte Branch WMS; the Rev. H. A. Mellow, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and the Rev. B. K. Cronk.

The afternoon session opened with the business of the day in charge by Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, vice-president. The roll call of Presbyteries showed 150 present.

Business included a motion, carried unanimously, to provide the necessary funds to furnish one room at Albert College's new residence for girls in Belleville.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Miss Inez Morrison, Toronto, personnel secretary for Women Workers in the United Church, was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Bell. Miss Morrison is a graduate of the United Church Training School. Her experiences had been as a director of Christian Education in Moose Jaw, teacher of Bible and missionary to Trinidad. She has also taken postgraduate courses and there will be many vacant places for "great enough" with the training to do it. The need for Christian workers is great enough to call. We should be willing and pressing for some of our young people to go into church work.

"The church only serves through you and is your privilege and your responsibility to see that there are enough people to fill the jobs that are available for church life."

The election and installation of the officers was carried out by Mrs. A. A. Crowle, vice-president of Dominion Council W.A.

Mrs. Lindsay of Pembroke presbytery, Dominion Council secretary committee, expressed the gratitude of the executive and members of the hostess church for the program participants for making the day a success.

The music included a sing-song after luncheon, led by Mrs. J. Mills, Little Britain, who also rendered a vocal solo in the forenoon.

Miss Vera Sadler, a Pembroke gold medallist, favored with a solo in the afternoon. The church organist was the accompanist for all musical numbers.

Eastminster United W.F. Plans Activities

The Women's Federation of Eastminster United Church held its May meeting in the vestry evening.

Mr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, conducted a tour of the school. The group consisting of around 70 members, found it interesting and informative.

Mrs. Lennox Smith thanked Mr. Demeza on behalf of the Women's Federation.

The group then returned to the church for the business and social part of the meeting.

Mrs. Linton Read took charge of the meeting and welcomed new members and visitors. "After Thy Loving Kindness, Lord, Have Mercy Upon Me," was sung with Mrs. R. Gillan as pianist.

Reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. T. Riley, treasurer; Mrs. Ross Wright, corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Janitsch.

A number of business items were discussed and decided upon.

Already plans are being made for the Fall Tea and Bazaar and all members were urged to start preparing for it now.

Mrs. Wright took charge of the devotional period, the theme being "Forgiveness". Mrs. R. Gillan Meldrum read the Scripture with Mrs. L. Horning taking the meditation.

Mrs. Lamb closed with prayer.

After the benediction tea and sandwiches were served by Mrs. Lamb's group and the social half hour was spent, bringing the meeting to a close.

The June meeting will be the family picnic.

Women's Institutes

QUINTE W. I.

Mrs. K. Vivian, the new president of Quinte Institute W.I., welcomed all members and visitors and thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

Most all members responded to the roll call, "Customs in My Community, Which I Would Like to See Resumed" leaving such thoughts as, a short call on the new neighbor, taking her a dish, or a flowering plant, or perhaps a few of your best cookies, or just a neighborly borrow call for a spot of tea or on a sacred holiday gather and visit the old folks.

$10 was voted to be sent to the Salvation Army Red Shield, and three of the younger folk were voted to attend the local Leaders' Training School, conducted by Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. R. Wallbridge and Mrs. C. Reid.

The choosing of the extension course was left for the executive to decide.

Mrs. Ge Fitzgerald extended thanks to one and all who had been so kind and thoughtful when their home had been saddened by the death of her daughter.

Mrs. M. B. Weese brought messages from the shut-ins in hopes that all will be present at the next meeting.

Mrs. J. Parrott favored with a piano solo, "Sweet Saviour I'm In Love With Thee."

At this meeting was given to the Institutes the "Community Activities (the conveners were Mrs. G. Estill and Mrs. D. Hollingsworth), the motto was "Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves," which left thoughts of the great work of the Red Cross, Children's Aid, and Institute for the Blind, are but as instances of many other lands.

To send a card, make a call, give a few flowers, brings happiness that no money on earth can buy. Try to spread sunshine and happiness, they are treasures indeed.

The topic for the day "Community Activities" was given by Mrs. Wallace Ashley, and her listeners one should plan and live in such a way that when they go or a life is over those who follow will find the community a better place in which to live.

As a fellow citizen one must be alert to the needs of the community. Some folk use a lot of energy trying to jidetsp neighborliness. "Are we willing to take our place in councell, on a school board? Let us grow we are the people we are pretending to be." Mrs. Atkins closed her remarks by saying "let us be thankful, for tomorrow youth will cross this way, let us be mindful of those who follow us in the community in which we live."

This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Mary Lu Wilson, "Moon Winks."

Mrs. J. Parrott gave a demonstration on the making of plants from cuttings which was enjoyed by all.

A social half hour followed.

College Hill W.A. Holds Attractive Spring Tea

A delightful "Tulip Tea" was held Wednesday afternoon, sponsored by the College Hill W.A.

The president, Mrs. Jean Thomson and Mrs. Helen Hunsberger, graciously received the many guests and Mrs. Pat Jenkinson acted as treasurer.

Mrs. Annie Dickens invited the ladies to the tea room which was a bowry of beauty, adorned with vases of tulips and lilies.

The tea table was attractive with its lace cloth and artistic silly arranged centrepiece of spring flowers, surrounded by pillows of green tulle. Silver tea-services and candelabars with pink candles completed the service.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Flossie Bliss and Mrs. Ada Treverton.

Each small guest table had a pretty floral arrangement and those serving the tasty sandwiches and daintycookies were Mrs. Lola Belcour, Mrs. Doris Price, Mrs. Jerome Wilson, Mrs. Muriel Biddell, Mrs. Marion Sproul, Mrs. Millie Townsend and Mrs. Ruby Vandervoort.

Replenishing the plates were Mrs. Nina Wilson, Mrs. Alice West, Mrs. Florence Brown and Mrs. Jan Smith.

The home cooking table held a delectable array of delicious cakes, cakes, tarts and sweets, etc. This booth did a thriving business. Conveners were Mrs. Nellie Greenwood, Mrs. Doris Sine, Mrs. Leona Bailey, Mrs. J. Thomson and Mrs. Dickens and appreciative thanks to all others who assisted in any way.

Hastings W.T.F. Holds Banquet, Names Officers

The annual banquet of Hastings No. 3 Women Teachers' Association was held recently in the United Church, Frankford.

Miss Jean Frost, president, welcomed the guests.

After a most enjoyable turkey dinner, served by the Women's Association of Frankford United Church, Mrs. Mary Campbell, Trenton, introduced the head table guests.

Business, including the reading of minutes, treasurer's report and directoral voting was transacted, following which the slate of officers for 1957-58 was introduced by Mrs. H. Darling:

President, Mrs. A. Young, Belleville; vice-president, Miss R. McKibbon, Trenton; secretary-treasurer, Miss I. Burnside, Belleville.

The gathering was favored with two groups of musical selections by six girls from the Frankford public school under the direction of their music teacher, Mrs. Ruth Mumby.

Miss Ruth Mumby, music supervisor, also played a piano solo, "Viola."

Mrs. A. Boate introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ruth Clarke of Port Hope.

In her remarks, Mrs. Clarke, teacher and past president of WTAO and OTF, asked the question, "Who Are We?"

She said that, "as teachers, we are builders of tomorrow's leaders. Through our affiliate the Federation of Women Teachers of Ontario we have the power to make changes in our professional standing; we have protection and an extensive source of information."

In closing, Mrs. Clarke stated "always be loyal to your profession. Be understanding of other teachers and your pupils. Above all, be ethical."

Appreciation to Mrs. Clarke was extended by Mrs. O. Williams and to the ladies of the W.A. by Mrs. Arbuckle.

JIMMY DORSEY ILL

NEW YORK (AP) — Bandleader Jimmy Dorsey, 52, was reported "very sick" in hospital Thursday. The hospital would not discuss the nature of his ailment. His brother, Tommy, also a bandleader, choked to death accidentally six months ago.

St. Andrew's WMS Views Formosa Slides

The May meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held in the church on Tuesday.

Mrs. Vernon Weir opened the meeting, followed by the minutes, treasurer's report and business of the month.

Several "thank-you" cards were read and 17 calls were reported made to the sick and shut-ins of the church.

The Training Centre, coming up in July, to be held at Belleville, was discussed.

Betty Ellis and Anne Mott sang a duet entitled, "Praise the Lord Jesus," with Mrs. Fleming at the piano, which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Diamond and her group, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. J. L. Moore and Miss Jean Mackintosh, had charge of the worship period.

Formosa was the topic for study, and after a brief talk on the location and background of the island, a letter was read from a former missionary in Formosa, by Miss Jean Mackintosh.

Slides were shown depicting the beautiful mountain scenery, the people and their dress in the fertile central plains. Many plain but interesting small churches and schools have been built by earnest Christian natives. The more modern residential buildings of the cities were also shown, which compare most favorably with those here.

Plans were made for the speedy relief of Hungarian families who have recently come to the church.

An enjoyable meeting was closed with a social half hour. Refreshments were served by the group in charge.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

GRAND BEND, Ont. (CP)—A $70,000 fire Thursday destroyed the seven-room summer home of Gerald M. Stone, London accountant, in Oakwood Park at this Lake Huron summer resort. The house was unoccupied, and the cause was not determined.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Convenes Euchre Party

The euchre party held in St. Joseph's school hall by the C.W.L. on Thursday evening was well attended. The winners were:

The raffle of a basket of groceries, convened by Mrs. J. Anton, was won by James Smith.

Mrs. W. L. Goyer convened this pleasant event. Her assistants were: Mrs. A. Gibbons, Mrs. G. Meagher, Mrs. R. Bridge, Mrs. J. Donovan, Mrs. J. Muldoon, Mrs. H. O'Neill, Mrs. J. Hanley.

Mrs. E. Hopkins, treasurer, presided at the door.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. E. A.

The May meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held recently in the Sunday School auditorium.

After a delicious supper served by Mrs. T. Jones and Mrs. C. Leckies' group, the president, Miss Grace Kenny, conducted the business meeting.

Miss Grace Houston spoke briefly on Life Membership, and Miss Ella Wilson, Temperance secretary, read some interesting items from the Temperance Advocate. Miss Wilson also recommended every one to read "The Cup of Gold."

The program was in charge of Mrs. Gillis and group.

Miss Kay MacPherson read the Scripture lesson from Ephesians 4: 1-2-23. Mrs. Gillis led in prayer.

The purpose of the church as the body of Christ, was beautifully expressed by a solo rendered by Miss Helen Cook.

An interesting and informative skit on Indonesia and Malaya, was given by Mrs. Gillis, Mrs. M. Hodgson and Miss Kay Young, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Brown of Albert College formerly of Singapore.

Miss Kenny expressed thanks to the supper and program groups for a successful evening and closed with the challenge, Pray, Study, Work and Give.

Bay of Quinte W.A. Conference Held At Port Hope

The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. of the United Church of Canada was held recently in Port Hope United Church.

President, Mrs. W. T. Elliott, Stirling, presided over the morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session opened with a call to worship, a hymn and prayer.

Mrs. H. Hutchings, president of the hostess church of Port Hope, welcomed the delegates from eight Presbyteries and all visitors.

After minutes of the last annual meeting were approved and read as read Mrs. W. B. Reynolds, recording secretary, gave a summary of last year's meeting. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. H. Pyear, read the communications which included messages of greeting from Manitoba, British Columbia and Toronto Conference W.A. groups.

The chairmen of standing committees presented splendid reports in the printed version and the highlight of the Presbytery W.A.'s announced their annual meeting or announced the date when meetings had already been held.

The president, in the report of her two years as head officer, thanked her executive for the co-operation given her during the and the supporting members who had made the year such a successful with their attendance.

The Rev. Beverley Oaten, director of the Youth Council of Christian Workers' Centre at Paris, Ontario, gave a graphic description of the various Bible study courses and the conference held in his newly-rounded-year camp of instruction.

All age groups were welcomed to take advantage of the facilities of teaching and recreation with the aim of getting more workers into the church.

COMMUNION SERVICE

After his address a luncheon was served in the dining hall by the ladies of Port Hope W.A. when greetings were brought by Mrs. J. H. McKinney, president of the Quinte Branch WMS; the Rev. H. A. Mellow, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and the Rev. B. K. Cronk.

The afternoon session opened with the business of the day in charge by Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, vice-president. The roll call of Presbyteries showed 150 present.

Business included a motion, carried unanimously, to provide the necessary funds to furnish one room at Albert College's new residence for girls in Belleville.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Miss Inez Morrison, Toronto, personnel secretary for Women Workers in the United Church, was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Bell. Miss Morrison is a graduate of the United Church Training School. Her experiences had been as a director of Christian Education in Moose Jaw, teacher of Bible and missionary to Trinidad. She has also taken postgraduate courses and there will be many vacant places for "great enough" with the training to do it. The need for Christian workers is great enough to call. We should be willing and pressing for some of our young people to go into church work.

"The church only serves through you and is your privilege and your responsibility to see that there are enough people to fill the jobs that are available for church life."

The election and installation of the officers was carried out by Mrs. A. A. Crowle, vice-president of Dominion Council W.A.

Mrs. Lindsay of Pembroke presbytery, Dominion Council secretary committee, expressed the gratitude of the executive and members of the hostess church for the program participants for making the day a success.

The music included a sing-song after luncheon, led by Mrs. J. Mills, Little Britain, who also rendered a vocal solo in the forenoon.

Miss Vera Sadler, a Pembroke gold medallist, favored with a solo in the afternoon. The church organist was the accompanist for all musical numbers.

Club Activities

KUM-DOUBLE CLUB

On Saturday evening the Halloway Kum-Double Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.

The worship service was led by Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Mr. Ronald Kelly read the Scripture, taken from James 1:2-18. The meditation, "If I then, your Lord and Master, has given by Mr. Kelly, assisted as treasurer.

Mrs. Annie Dickens invited the ladies to the tea room which was a bowry of beauty, adorned with vases of tulips and lilies.

The tea table was attractive with its lace cloth and artistic silly arranged centrepiece of spring flowers, surrounded by pillows of green tulle. Silver tea-services and candelabars with pink candles completed the service.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Flossie Bliss and Mrs. Ada Treverton.

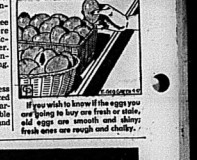
Conveners were Mrs. Nellie Greenwood, Mrs. Doris Sine, Mrs. Leona Bailey, Mrs. J. Thomson and Mrs. Dickens and appreciative thanks to all others who assisted in any way.

Foxboro Bizzeebee Gardeners Elect 1957 Officers



The first meeting of the Foxboro "Bizzeebee Gardeners" was held at the home of Mrs. C. Hubble recently.

The meeting was opened with the pledge followed by the election of officers which are: president, Joan Harry; secretary treasurer, Marie Hollinger; vice president, Carol Jamieson; press reporter, Joan Harry.

After the officers were elected, every girl gave her reason for "Why I planned to grow a garden."

The next meeting is to be held on the 28th of May, at Mrs. Hubble's home.

A talk on "why plant a garden?" and "about planting a flower garden", by the leaders, Mrs. Hubble and Mrs. Jamieson, was interesting.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A READER EXPRESSES HER VIEWS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was rather astounded by that letter I saw in your column from a woman who said her friends and relatives criticized her because she and her husband had not had any children. Rather I was astounded by the rudeness and nerve of these friends and relatives. People are entitled to do as they think best on what is a strictly personal matter.

I didn't have a child for four years after I was married and, so far as anybody serves me, no one asked why, not even my mother. Maybe I shouldn't say so, but when my husband and I married, children were not on our minds, nor had we had discussion on the matter. This may have been wrong, since such things seem to be discussed before marriage nowadays.

We liked working and continued to do so after marriage, and when we did have our family, the children were truly wanted.

I'll also put in my two cents' worth about working mothers, of which I am one. Fortunately my job is interesting, which, for me, is best, because that way I can devote enough of my time to the children, and know what is going on. When I worked all day, it was much too much. Only once in a while do lots of help or exceptional vigor can do two all-day jobs thoroughly.

I do have one problem about one of my children—my daughter, 14½, who has been going steady with one boy for almost a year. I don't mind her going with boys, but it should be more than one.

I haven't done or said anything, hoping it would break up, as usually happens with her other friends, but so far—nothing. They see each other frequently. What do you think?

— Contented

Dear Contented:

I'm very glad to share with readers of this column your comments on the letter from the young woman who was criticized for not having children immediately after marriage, and also on working mothers. It's always very pleasant when a reader is interested enough to take the time to comment on subjects seen in this column which are of special interest to him or her.

It's very pleasant too, to hear from someone whose only real problem is a daughter who goes steady too soon.

I think you've done exactly right so far nothing in her particular case, and I think you'll find that, as you've been anticipating, the thing will take care of itself as time goes on.

Of course you know that, once in a blue moon, a friendship between a boy and girl that starts very early does carry on through the years and eventually ends in marriage. And if this should turn out to be the case with your daughter, you'll have the satisfaction of being quite sure that she and her boy friend have had plenty of time to know each other thoroughly, so that the outlook for a happy marriage should be good.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

START PLANNING FOR THAT JUNE PROM NOW

There's no event quite so thrilling in a budding beauty's life as her first bid to a "prom." And when it's her very first bid she feels seems doubly delightful. And so, little teen-ager, if you've already received yours, or expect one at any moment, start preparing immediately. Don't leave things till the last minute or you'll wind up a nervous wreck. And you don't want that, do you?

Okay, so what kind of a system have you fallen by-by, and exactly best comes the Big Night? Well, the best way is to plan a pre-party grooming schedule several days in advance, putting dress and hair-do first on the agenda. You probably have your dress well in advance of the Big Event, but check it a couple of days before-hand for any last minute adjustments or alterations.

Shampoo your hair thoroughly, two or three days in advance and set it in the style you're planning for the prom. Then if you don't like it, you'll have time to change it. If you're getting a permanent, have it at least a couple of weeks before the big event. The wave will be softer and more natural looking after several shampookings.

"Break in" new shoes by wearing them around the house a few times before the dance so your feet will be used to them and you will be comfortable on the big night.

The day before the prom make sure that gloves, hose, and lingerie are freshly sudsed. Wash new clothes before wearing them—it helps prolong their life. When you're getting your lingerie together, check to be sure that your bra fits and that shoulder straps won't show. Also, gather up your jewelry and evening bag accessories to avoid last minute scrambling.

The day of the prom, allot yourself a full hour and a half or two hours for a leisurely bath and make-up session. And, speaking of make-up, if you wear it, use a light touch. Just pat on powder and dust off excess. Apply your lipstick after you slip into your dress, so you won't get any smears. Comb tresses gently into place and, if they're inclined to be unruly, use a bit of hairspray so that they can retain the sleek, smooth look all evening. A few drops of light-scented perfume or cologne and you're all set — to charm the stagline, of course.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

IN SPITE OF DISSENSION BRIDE'S MOTHER PLANS MEMORABLE OCCASION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of a misunderstanding between my daughter and I, dances my parents as to where they should marry, the couple have planned to marry in the province in which they both work. So as to avoid more dissension, there will be no family or relatives attending. Of course this arrangement does not meet with our approval either, but we believe it is for the couple to decide, since it involves their future together.

1. Concerning this situation the question I would like to ask you, Mrs. Beeckman, concerns not so much the correct thing for me to do, as it does the right thing to do. When the couple returns from their short wedding trip, I would like to give some kind of memorable occasion in their honor. Since the two families are acquainted, this cannot be an "introducing" occasion. I could invite relatives and friends of our family, friends of the bride, and friends of the groom. The groom's relatives may refuse to come. Which of these would you think most appropriate: a cocktail-buffet supper at a restaurant; an informal dinner; or an "Open House" at my home?

2. Would you suggest that I invite the groom's parents? And would you approve of my forwarding to his parents the same number of invitations that we are sending out, and let them decide whether or not they wish to participate?

Or should I forget the whole issue and let the bride and groom start out without any kind of memorable occasion? — Mother

1. You're a most kind mother to have such a thoughtful plan . . . here . . . I have a few requests perhaps you will help me with, please? How many calories in ½ cup commercial tangerine juice —apple juice, Graham crackers? What about Vitamin C? Also I would like to know how to make casserole of tomatoes with weiners, using a bit of onion? I make it but do not have uniform results because I do it by guess and by golly. I would like to urge people to have a lot of patience and tolerance with the old people they have to care for. If anyone needs praying for it is us who are doing such a job, because it is long drawn out and seems endless, but if the job is ours, it is for a reason. Don't you think so? My thanks to you.—"Grandmaw."

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: A long time ago you wrote me a lovely letter . . . should have answered before. My husband is 83 past and has improved a little in health. Doesn't go anywhere but to church occasionally. His invalid brother is here with us. Able to sit up for a while, walk a little with a great deal of help, can't stay by himself . . . Due to your prodding I have learned to cook potatoes with their skins on and my men eat them. I score the skins real fine. It's all invalid cookery and I do hope you will carry out your idea to plan a "memorable occasion" for the bride and groom. In your letter you reveal such good sense and good taste that I am sure your gathering will be successful. Do have an "Open House" in your home . . . much, much better, under these circumstances, than a party of any kind in a restaurant.

P. Yes, by all means carry out the hospitality-idea as much as you possibly can, by inviting the groom's parents. Thus giving them the privilege of deciding whether or not they wish to attend. And you have an inspired idea: to send the parents' invitations which they may send to their relatives and friends if they wish to. I have a feeling that you have so much good thought about doing what you can to bring about happiness and understanding in the midst of this misunderstanding that you may very well be glorriously successful!

Note: At the "At Home" have as handsome and large a Wedding Cake as you can afford. Feature this dramatically, have the bride and groom cut it as the guests sing "The Bride Cuts the Cake!" . . . and serve a cold beverage whatever you wish to) for the toasts which will be proposed "To the Bride and Groom." A memorable occasion indeed!

ANSWER:

The "thanks" should be and are to you, and you urge us to remember something that we should not have to be reminded of. Tolerance of our senior folks should come as natural as breathing to us—and would if we would only stop and think of all they have contributed previously. Most of the senior folks we are caring for belong to us—and we would be wise to remember the sacrifices, tolerance and patience given us — when we needed it. Once again

Kingston Diocesan Council Group 7 Meets in Stirling

The Regional Conference of Group 7 of the Kingston Diocesan Council was held recently at Stirling, when St. James' Sub-division was host to the other subdivisions including Madoc, Tweed, Stoco, Marmora, Flinton, Queensboro and Stirling.

Benediction of The Blessed Sacrament and Novena to Our Mother of Perpetual Help was offered at St. James' Church, after which the conference was held at the Community Hall. Mrs. Roy LaChappelle and Mrs. Jack Doran welcomed the guests which numbered 130.

Mrs. Francis Tobin of Madoc, regional convener of group 7, chaired the meeting. Mrs. Roy LaChappelle, president of the Stirling Subdivision, gave an address of welcome to the guests, which followed by greetings from the Rev. J. F. O'Neill, parish director.

REPORTS GIVEN

Subdivision reports were given by Mrs. Wilfred Forrestell, Madoc; Mrs. Gerald Kirby, Stirling; Mrs. Don Gordon, Marmora; Mrs. J. F. Burns, Tweed, and Mrs. Frank Genore, Stoco.

Mrs. A. Fitzgerald, Brockville, Diocesan president of the CWL, spoke on the importance of League meetings and League work, and also presented the Stirling subdivision with a statue of Our Lady of Good Council.

Rev. Father Martin, Diocesan Director thanked the subdivision for their outstanding reports, and urged them to always be active members of the Catholic Women's League.

Miss Roseanne McAvoy rendered a solo and Mrs. James Black, of Marmora, gave a recitation.

The Rev. F. J. O'Neill introduced the guest speaker, Rev. G. F. Sullivan, of Warkworth. Father Sullivan gave a talk on the devotion to the Sacred Heart and asked the ladies to put this devotion into every phase of their everyday lives.

A vote of thanks was extended to Father Sullivan by Mrs. B. Burley, of Belleville.

Mrs. Slavin, Diocesan convener of Legislation, Citizenship and Red Cross, urged the ladies to be alerted to the cause of helping new Canadians in their new land of adoption.

Mrs. B. Burley, convener of education scholarships and study clubs, asked the ladies to form more Study Clubs in their subdivision.

Mrs. Charles Cook, convener of Immigration, Stella Maris, travellers' aid; and Sisters of Service, also spoke.

Mrs. Lesage, recording secretary, asked the members to have their credentials in at an early date.

Mrs. J. Black, convener of organization and membership, gave a perfect membership.

Mrs. Francis Tobin thanked the various conveners for their reports.

A vote of appreciation was extended to the Stirling subdivision by Mrs. Wilfred Forrestell, of Madoc.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the ladies of the Stirling subdivision.

Mrs. Lunnon, of Brockville, thanked the ladies for their generous hospitality.

Women's Activities

SALEM W. A.

The May meeting of Salem W. A. was held in the church hall with Mrs. Harry Mayo as hostess. The President, Mrs. Murray Johnston, opened the meeting.

Roll call showed 19 members and three visitors present. Roll call for next month will be a special collection to help buy small kitchen utensils.

An invitation was received to attend a "Life Membership" Tea at St. Andrew's church, Stirling; also to the W. A. convention held at Trenton on May 30th.

Mrs. Mayo was chosen as delegate.

Mrs. Orville Jackson thanked everyone for sympathy cards received. A thank-you note was read from Paul Heagle for the box of fruit and card he received.

The president discussed the meeting which Mr. Tousley suggested. The W. A. is planning to enter at Hoard's Sale Barn on May 20th. Donations will be received for this.

A set of cooking dishes has been purchased to be used at the sale barn and hall whenever necessary. An invitation from Mrs. Vere Hagerman to hold June meeting in her home was accepted.

Mrs. Mel Wickens had charge of the program. The theme was "Forgiveness".

The Scripture reading Matthew 18: 21-35 was taken by Mrs. Orville Jackson, and explanation given by Mrs. W. J. Johnston.

A reading, "About Mother," the topic, "The Caller of the Purple" by Mrs. Frank McGee; a poem "Mother's Day" by Mrs. Lorne Hagerman.

Mrs. Thomas Clements gave a missionary reading on the situation in Hong Kong and the Asiatic churches.

The collection amounted to $2.05.

Mrs. Bert Heagle thanked the hostess, program and lunch committees for help.

Sowing Bee Takes Family Outside In Sun And Air

Mix seed with sand for safe, easy sowing.

Just as one must master "sewing" to be a tailor, it is necessary to know how to "sow" to be a gardener.

When the garden plot has been spaded up and the weather has turned warm enough for seeds to be entrusted safely to the soil, it is time to sow. It would seem like a simple job—and, actually, it is—but if not done properly, the very simplicity of sowing seed will lull the new gardener into carelessness which can result in lost seed, lost time and lost temper.

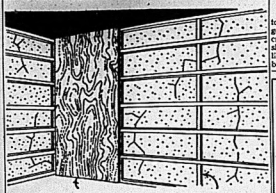
To begin with, seeds need about the same elements to sustain life that humans require—air, water and food. When they are starting out in life—just as babies must have food and water brought to them—seeds must have their living needs readily available. They can't go looking for them.

That means the top inch of garden soil, in which seeds fight their first battle of survival, must hold the air, water and food on which seed life depends.

To continue the comparison with human life, seeds can drown, too. Water which stands too long over a seed bed because of poor drainage will kill seeds in a surprisingly short period of time. When there are vacant spaces in low spots in a seed row, which otherwise is healthy, the cause probably is drowning. Water excludes oxygen from the soil and should never stand more than half an hour on the surface of the garden.

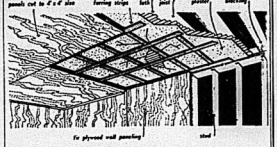
Seeds may be sown too deep. Small seeds should be barely covered, and even the large seeds should be placed no more than an inch deep. Of course, the greatest danger in premature deaths among seeds comes when they are buried alive under a soil crust which seed sprouts cannot penetrate.

If your garden contains clay, a hard rain may compact it sufficiently to imprison the seed and prevent its normal growth. The tiny sprout often faces an impossible task in attempting to break its way to the sunshine.



In this respect, there is no better way to use humus than in preparing a special soil with which to cover the newly sown seeds. This can be mixed with sand, half and half. In addition to making sure that seed sprouts will be able to emerge, this loose soil will hold moisture in the needed amount and keep the soil beneath it from drying out. That makes such a mixture especially desirable during hot weather.

In sowing seeds, there are two points to keep always in mind—how deep to sow and how far apart. How deep you plant depends on the size of the seed. A good rule is to plant to a depth four times the diameter of the seed. Don't cover extremely fine seeds, merely firm them into the soil with a board or with your foot.



Sow thickly to get a good stand. Small seeds have a hard time pushing through the soil and need help from their neighbors. When your plants are about an inch high, thin them out following the instructions on the seed packet or in a catalog.

VISITS CEMETERIES

FLUSHING. The Netherlands (Eastern)—The Duke of Gloucester paid a 30-minute inspection visit Wednesday to the British and Canadian war cemeteries at Bergen op Zoom and Uddel, in the southern part of Holland.

Furring strips are nailed horizontally on the wall, 16 inches apart, centre to centre. Vertical strips are 4 feet apart.

Plywood Panels Help Bring Walls of Home up to Date

Often the simplest method to bring rooms of an older home up to date is to panel right over the cracked or damaged walls.

Fir plywood paneling is often best for this purpose. Not only can you improve the condition of the wall readily yourself, but you can get that warm wood atmosphere you desire in the den or rumpus room at relatively low cost.

FURRING STRIPS

The trick when re-doing a room with plywood paneling is to use furring strips of 1x2 inch lumber both on the wall and on the ceiling as shown.

On the wall the furring strips should be nailed horizontally 16 inches apart (centre to centre). Nails should be driven through into the wall studs. Vertical furring strips should be nailed in to support vertical edges of the panels. If the wall is without major defects or damage, the panels can be nailed directly to it without furring. Be sure that nails are driven into the studs.

FOUR FOOT SQUARES

Ceilings are easier to panel if the 4x8-foot fit plywood panels are first cut into 4x4 squares. Furring strips can be nailed through to the joists with the strips secured on 2-foot centres.

It is important to note that when paneling a ceiling always start at the ceiling centre line and work towards the walls. In this way, spacing of the panels will come out even around the perimeter of the room.

TAKES UP OPTIONS

CHATHAM (CP)—District residents said Wednesday the Ontario government has taken up options on a 465-acre tract of land on the shores of nearby Lake Erie, believed to be the site of a new 1,250-bed hospital for mentally retarded children. Ontario health department officials in this area declined comment.

Horizontal lines give this modest ranch house a low, sweeping appearance that is charming and homelike. The attached garage also lends length to the design. Multi-paned windows are used decoratively throughout the house. Small entry porch is sheltered.

GOOD COMBINATIONS

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Combination rooms are proving popular in small homes because they create the illusion of spaciousness. In today's plans, you'll note some good combinations that illustrate the point.

This is a trick widely used by architects. It's made possible by the popularity of such functional furniture as dining tables with drop-leaf and folding leaf designs. These open for meals but, when not in use, take up little space.

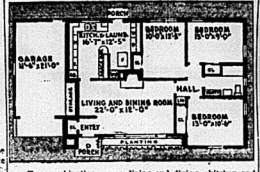
SECOND COMBINATION

A second combination here is the kitchen-laundry. The areas are adjacent, giving the homemaker a central location for her time-consuming cooking and laundry chores.

To round out the floor plan of H-173-KF, there are three bedrooms and a large, centrally located bath with vanity. The garage is attached and has a storage wall.

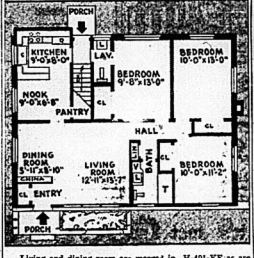
The house comprises 13,442 cubic feet without a basement; 22,002 cubic feet with a basement.

DINING CORNER



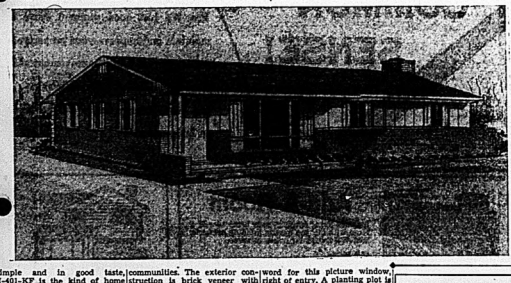
The other plan, H-401-KF, combines living and dining areas, too. Here, however, the dining area is arranged in a corner convenient to the kitchen. It could be furnished with a dining set. If a drop-leaf table was used, it could be treated as an extension of the living room proper.

Beyond the dining area, the kitchen and a breakfast nook share the back corner of the house. Cabinets cut off the work area from the nook.



This, too, is a three-bedroom plan.

The main bath is at the front of the house, close to bedrooms and living room. A lavatory is accesible from the smallest bedroom can also be reached from the kitchen via a hall.



Design H-401-KF comprises 20,630 cubic feet.

Two combination rooms, living and dining, kitchen and laundry, are featured in 3-bedroom, one bath plan H-173KF.

Living and dining room are merged in H-401-KF as are kitchen, breakfast nook. There are 3 bedrooms, bath, lavatory.

Plastic Covered Panels Speed Bathroom Finish

A second bathroom ranks high among features most desired by improvement-minded homeowners. Anticipating such a need, a Canton, Ohio, family had plumbing roughed in for future use. When the time came for finishing the extra bathroom, Dad found that he could do a lot of the work himself by using plastic-covered hardboard for a "child-proof" wainscot. This predecorated panneling has a baked melamine surface which defies moisture, soil, stains and wear. It's used a lot in kitchen's too. The material has no grain to cause splitting and is easy to work with. Here is an example:

Smart, colorful and sanitary, the plastic covered hardboard panels used for this wainscot defy moisture, stains and wear.

Cut Risks To Save On Insurance

Increases in rates for windstorm insurance, commonly included in homeowners coverage clauses in fire insurance policies, have prompted many homeowners to compensate on what is called "$50 deductible."

Since so many cases of windstorm damage involve comparatively small amounts and the cost of adjusting such claims runs so high, the insurance companies offer the homeowner an agreeable inducement if he is willing to bear the first $50 loss in any damage that occurs. Major damage about $50— an entire roof torn off, or a chimney toppled through your house —is then covered by the insurance company.

Beware of windblown loose articles breaking windows.

This arrangement makes it all the more important for the homeowner to take precautions against windstorm damage. If a tree limb breaks a window, usually a loss below $50, it comes out of the same pocket from which you are paying your insurance premiums." If a few shingles are ripped off the roof and $49 pays for the repair, it all comes out of your pocket.

THERE'S WIND IN THE NEWS

Furthermore, windstorm damage seems to be getting more common. Maybe it's because we hear about it — like coronary thrombosis, words which the pioneers never learned. But when the entire East Coast gets the nickname of "Hurricane Alley" and the Mississippi Valley and Great Plains states are lumped in the "Tornado Belt," with other monikers applied to every windy city and whistle stop, it seems prudent to gulp down a few ounces of prevention against the wind, as well as against rain, fire, or germs.

Board up windows securely

Some sensible rules have been compiled by the National Board of Fire-Underwriters. But the rules differ widely for tornadoes and hurricanes.

"Tornadoes," say the experts, "may appear with little warning. Fast action is necessary."

"Safest place is underground in a storm cellar. Next best, at home, is a corner of the basement nearest the approaching twister. If in a basementless house, seek shelter elsewhere — even an open ditch offers some protection.

"Don't stay in an automobile which may be rolled over and crushed."

As for hurricanes, the experts say they affect much larger areas than tornadoes, but warning of their approach is usually available. Even lesser windstorms call for hurricane precautions. Keep your radio turned on for information. Get away from waterfronts.

"If your house is out of danger of waves and is substantially built—anchored to strong foundations and with its roof securely fastened," the experts say, "it's possibly the best place to stay."

BATTEN DOWN MISSILES

"Put loose material and movable objects such as garbage cans and porch furniture where they cannot be blown against the house or through a window. Awnings should be raised and securely tied or removed.

"Keep trees pruned away from your house. Dead branches and those which sway against windows or roof are most likely to cause damage.

"In seriously threatened areas board up windows or put storm shutters in place. Use good lumber and attach it firmly. Makeshift boarding may do more damage than none.

"Sterilize and fill jugs and bottles with drinking water in case the supply fails. A bathtub filled with fresh water may be useful, too.

"Have a flashlight in good working order. Be careful of fire.

"Have extra food on hand that can be eaten with little or no cooking.

"After a storm, if you must drive, watch for fallen wires. Never touch a dangling wire of any kind. Even fence wires may be charged."

Versatility Is Byword At Buy-Rite

The large number of leading manufacturers represented by Buy-Rite Supply Co., 390 Front street, bespeaks the faith of Manager Herb Simrod and assistant manager Les Reid in furnishing a wide variety of high quality equipment in the heating and plumbing field.

Buy-Rite is proud of its exclusive agency for Fairbanks Morse pumps and equipment.

It is also pleased to be an Armstrong Tile dealer handling all types of flooring and wall coverings.

A complete stock of piping along with installation is also a specialty. Included are all kinds of plumbing equipment for the bathroom and kitchen such as bath tubs, sinks, wash basins etc. by Standard Dominion and Crane Ltd.

Tanks by General Steel Ware, 20-year guaranteed copper tanks by Coulter, and Inglis glassline electric hot water heaters represent the tops.

The customer is offered a choice of vinyl, rubber or linoleum for flooring. Tile is more and more favored by do-it-yourself homekeepers. It is simple to handle and comes with easy-to-follow directions for laying.

Buy-Rite is also an American Kitchen dealer featuring an economical and convenient layout design "to save a thousand steps".

Deep and shallow well jets and pistons are an important part of Buy-Rite equipment and service. This firm takes in used plumbing equipment. It is now preparing to service the requirements of summer cottagers.

As Mr. Simrod observed "We have everything from tap washers to 100,000 BT furnaces."

Frame for Building 8-Foot Sabot Easy-to-Make From Fir Plywood

Be sure the transom frame members are 1-2 inch larger than the fir plywood transoms to provide for the fore and aft bevels.

"This is the second in a series on how to build an eight-foot sailing dinghy."

By HARRY FURNISS

Sabot is built upside down over a frame, on which the success of the venture rests. If you can borrow such a frame around town, so much the better. If you must make one, the task isn't difficult.

Three moulds are required and can be cut from plywood of either ½ or ¾ inch thickness. Accurate measuring at this point will save hours later on.

BRACE STRONGLY

When the moulds are made, nail them securely to 2x4's on edge and brace both moulds and 2x4's well. The resulting frame placed on low sawhorses provides an easy working height.

Note that the bow and stern transoms are not part of the frame which is discarded after Sabot is built. Measures for these pieces are easily taken off the drawings shown here.

One way to make an even crown across the top of the transoms is to measure the addition-al height above the sheer at the centre line and then bend a yardstick or any thin piece of wood across the points and rule in the curve.

At this stage mark the "better" side of the plywood for the outside faces of the transoms—it will save you filling in blemishes before the final painting.

ATTACH TRANSOMS

The transoms are attached to the frame with C-clamps, or they can be nailed to the 2 x 4 frame. The holes can be filled later. At this stage, measure the sheer as it goes around the outside of the moulds to ensure that when the fir plywood sides are attached, the total distance, including the curve, is slightly under eight feet.

Next comes the keel. Spruce or yellow cedar is best here; fir is probably stronger but heavier. Pick a piece of 1x3 over eight feet long and run it through the table saw giving it a 15-degree bevel off the centreline through its whole length. This is the minimum bevel shown on the plans and will save a lot of work later.

With clamps holding the keel into the notches on the centre moulds, measure the bevel where the keel fits inside the transom and saw to length. Be careful measuring here — and at every point where a timber is curved—for bending makes distance deceptive.

FIT KEEL CAREFULLY

Bend the keel into place inside the transoms, mark this position on the transoms. Cut and notch frame material of 1x2 to fit as illustrated. Be sure and notch the outer end to take the chines. This frame is glued and screwed onto the transoms and the keel anchored to it. Allow frame pieces to stick up a half inch or so for the fore and aft bevel which the planking will assume.

Now make a knee—preferably of oak—for each end of the keel where it meets the transom. Screw and glue the triangular knee into place from the outside of both the keel and transom. Use a piece of 1x6 oak so that the triangular knees can be cut with the grain.

The chines are attached in a similar manner as the keel. Rip an eight-foot piece of 1x3 spruce

. . . underway

The only job now remaining before planking is to fair the bevels of the keel and chines.

For this job I use a straight piece of lumber about ½ x 2 inches and four feet long and place it parallel to the transom cross both keel and chine. Squinting from either bow or stern, you will readily see where the high spots are. High spots are removed with either a plane or a spokeshave.

It is most important to make these bevels as perfect as possible throughout the length of the dinghy as they form the bearing surface for the plywood planking and only by being perfect can they ensure a watertight glue line.

In Part III the planking operation will be given in detail.

Try These Proven Recipes For Easy Spring Gardening

Seed packets can be put to good use even after your seeds are in the ground. Placed on sticks at the end of each row, they make a colorful reminder of what seeds you have planted and where they are growing.

After a few weeks, it is easy to forget which seeds are where —so, at least until the plants poke up above the soil, keep the location of each variety of flower marked on little stakes at the end of each row.

Sowing seeds is an easy and interesting part of gardening. All annual flower seeds can be sown directly in the garden. This is fortunate, because many flowers are hard to transplant from seed boxes.

Some of the difficult transplanters are California poppy, godetia, kochia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola, nasturtium, dwarf zinnias, poppies, portulaca and salpiglossis.

In sowing flower seeds, first prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it four pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet. Then, outline each area you are reserving for a particular flower. If you wish, you can mix the seed with sand to help scatter it over the space as evenly as possible. Sift a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Until the seeds sprout, the soil must be kept moist. This means daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seed out of the soil by directing a heavy stream of water on them.

If you began your gardening during the winter or early spring by planting in a seed box, you already know the most important details of the job. Follow the same procedure you used with seed boxes, particularly in covering the seeds with porous soil.

To avoid the frustrated feeling that your garden isn't growing as it should, and also so that you can keep the different varieties of flowers sorted out by growing time, you should know what to expect your seeds to sprout. You will want slow sprouting seeds in the same section of the garden. The following list is based on information developed in seed laboratories. It may mean only a difference of a few days in your garden, but it's an important difference. Here is your time guide in planting these flowers:

Five to Ten Days.

Sweet Alyssum	Leptosyne
Antirrhinum (snap-dragon)	Linaria
Aster	Lobelia
English Daisy	Lupins
Browallia	Marigolds
Calendula	Mimulus
Calliopsis	Nicotiana (sweet tobacco)
Candytuft	Pansy
Celosia	Petunia
Centaurea	Annual Phlox
Coreopsis	Portulaca
Cosmos	Mignonette
Sweet William	Schizanthus
Dianthus	Viola
California Poppy	Zinnia
Godetia	Nasturtium

Ten to Twenty Days.

Ageratum	Sweet Pea
Coleus	Forget-me-not
Scardens	Nigella
Coleus	Primrose
Dahlia	Cypress Vine
Geranium	Cardinal Climber
Snow-on-the-mountain	Castor Bean
Gaillardia	Scabiosa
Gerbera	Salpiglossis
Kochia	Verbena

Brief History of Albert College

ALBERT COLLEGE was founded on May 27, 1857. It was then known as Belleville Seminary, and was owned and operated in the name of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In THE CANADA CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for April 6, 1853 we find these words:

"We have been talking about a college long enough. It is time now to act; and we are glad to find that there is a disposition to act, both on the part of the preachers and people. The importance of such an institution must be obvious to all who will take the trouble to examine the subject. It is required by the spirit and genius of the age in which we live. Our duty is obvious. Measures should be entered into as soon as practicable for establishing, in some convenient location, a Seminary of learning, of such character as will meet the present wants of our people and the public generally. Our people have abundant resources for this purpose, and we have reason to believe they are only waiting for the way to be properly opened in order to go heartily into the scheme."

In 1857 Belleville Seminary became ALBERT UNIVERSITY with power to confer degrees. In 1884 ALBERT was federated with Victoria University, and became a Secondary School.

In 1917 there was a disastrous fire, which destroyed the Administration Building. In 1926, the present buildings (on a new site, overlooking the Bay of Quinte) were opened for classes. This property is now valued at about $1,500,000.00.

It has been said that ALBERT COLLEGE has given more men to the Ministry than any other Secondary School in the Province of Ontario. This may well be so, and certainly ALBERT continues to make a significant witness in this field.

Britain's Nighttime Fighters Were Deadly When They Got Device in Planes Called Radar

LONDON (Reuters)—The German high command was baffled—and worried. It seemed that Britain had bred a new type of fighter pilot, men with the eyes of cats who could see in the dark.

Night after night Hitler's bombers were being sent in waves over London. It was against the laws of nature that the British fliers could pick them out so accurately and shoot them down from the night skies. Yet it was happening.

One pilot in particular stood out from among the airmen who were defending London so successfully—John Cunningham. No German bomber was safe once it got in his range. British newspapers explained his air victories simply. He was a pilot with remarkable night vision, they said.

The Germans believed it—for a time. But then they found that they were coming up against too many men with this same "remarkable night vision."

Today, Group Capt. Cunningham, now a chief test pilot for a leading airplane firm, is trying in vain to live down the nickname of "Cat's Eye" Cunningham, which has stuck to him ever since the war.

For there never was anything special about his night vision. The secret of the night skies lay in a small black box which introduced radar into Britain's fighter planes and helped to save her cities from destruction.

The story of how it enabled pilots to see in the dark is told in a new book, Night Fighter (published by Collins) by C. F. Rawnsley and Robert Wright. Rawnsley was navigator for Cunningham on his night forays.

When Hitler turned, in the winter of 1940-41, from day to night bombing of England's cities, it seemed at first that the air war had taken a turn in a direction in which the Royal Air Force could not follow.

Then RAF mechanics started to introduce a curious jumble of gadgets into the planes allocated to night patrols, the vital part of which was a black metal box sprouting knobs and cables.

Britain's wartime scientists had succeeded in producing a form of airborne radar. A controller on the ground directed a fighter into the vicinity of an enemy plane until it showed up on the fighter's own radar screen. The radar operator in the fighter then took over and tried to bring his pilot within visual range of his victim.

All that remained was to shoot him down.

By the summer of 1943, such had been the development of radar that some of the earlier types were released for use abroad. But all night fighters equipped with the latest models were still forbidden to go over enemy territory in case they were brought down and thus revealed the precious secret to the Germans.

AIRLINER WRECKAGE

Suspended on the sheer face of Mount Slesse, 70 miles east of Vancouver, is the main part of the wreckage of the TCA North Star airliner which crashed last December with 62 aboard. The wreckage was found on a shelf 75 feet below the 7,600-foot pinnacle's summit. Mountaineers testified at a coroner's inquiry that it was too dangerous at present to attempt to bring out the remains of the 62 victims. (CP Photo).

Company Announces Closing Mine, Town's Sole Support

PRINCETON, B.C (CP)—The town of Copper Mountain, perched on a scenic mountain - top 180 miles east of Vancouver, is dying. Soon the last of its residents will have gone.

The town's fate was sealed recently when Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company announced the closing of Granby mine, the town's sole support, because copper mining there is no longer economical.

The management gives little hope that the mine will reopen in the near future.

"We have no immediate plans for Copper Mountain," said general manager Jack Ross. "It is doubtful if operation could pay its way in 10 years and then only if copper price could rise to 50 cents a pound and stay there."

LONG CLIMB

To get to Copper Mountain from here one must travel 12 miles to the north up and down one mountain and almost straight up another.

Copper Mountain looks out over mountains and a river and it has a pine forest background.

But the town itself is an assembly of shacks. Residents spared themselves the tasks of spading gardens, mowing lawns and painting houses, so they had lots of time for recreation—to fish in 38 trout lakes and to hunt in one of the finest game areas in the country.

Some oldtimers, used to the isolation, say they are actually afraid to leave their mountain for the outside. They feel other places are not going to be so secure or as much fun.

There is a fine large community hall and a community league planned parties and dances. There are also skating and curling rinks and a movie theatre.

COMFY INTERIORS

Inside the houses are trim and well-furnished. Their owners paid from $200 to $800 each for them. The largest and best cost $1,400.

Some mothers are staying on in the mountain until the six-room school closes while the fathers seek work elsewhere.

"The children cry when they leave," said principal Paul Plandon, "and I don't blame them. When I first saw Copper Mountain I thought it was the dirtiest, dirtiest, most desperate place in the world.

"But I've been happy here. It's the people inside the shacks. Maybe I'll never be so happy again. And besides our rent here for a four-room suite and bath is $25 a month, heat and water included."

PREDICT 27

George Corsi, now 44, came to the mountain when he was six.

"I'll stay here as long as I can," he said. "I don't know what it will be like outside. It would not be like this."

PREDICT 27

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Highway Safety Conference predicted Thursday night that 27 persons will die on the highways over the Victoria Day week-end across Canada. The forecast was six less than the actual death toll last year when 33 of the 71 Victoria Day week-end fatalities occurred on the streets and high-

Israel Delays Sending Test Ship to Suez

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign ministry spokesman Thurs day night said Israel will delay sending a test ship through the Suez Canal until after the United Nations Security Council again takes up the canal issue next week.

The council meets Monday to consider a French request that Egypt be "invited" to comply with the six principles for operation of the canal agreed upon by the council last October.

The Damascus Radio said Thursday Egyptian authorities have announced they will not permit an Israeli ship to enter Egyptian territorial waters and will stop any Israeli vessel before it reaches the canal.

Egypt Claims She Has Right To 'Defend' Self

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egypt today declared her right to take "all measures" to defend herself in the event that an Israeli test ship tries to rail through the Suez Canal.

The declaration came from Col. Abdel Kader Hatem, information director at the national guidance ministry. He was commenting on reports that Israel would send a test ship through the canal to establish freedom of passage for her ships.

Hatem said Egypt "has the right to defend herself in accordance with the 1888 Constantinople convention and to take all measures to maintain her security."

The 1888 convention assures freedom of passage through the canal in time of peace. Egypt still maintains belligerency rights against Israel as a result of the 1948 war.

Winning Party in Election Could Be Decided Before Polls on West Coast Close

OTTAWA (CP) — The winning party in the June 10 election may be decided while polls in the prairie provinces and British Columbia are still open. But western voters won't know the result until their polls close.

The Canada Elections Act prohibits publication or broadcast of election results in any area where polls are still open. This means that returns speeding across the country election night on Canadian Press leased wires will be held unpublished in newspaper offices for varying times.

This rule was enacted to prevent returns from the east influencing the vote in the west.

Canada has seven time zones. Closing time for all polls will be 6 p.m. local standard time, or 8 p.m. local daylight time.

First polls to close will be in Newfoundland, where the time is one-half hour ahead of Atlantic time in the three Maritime provinces. Ontario and Quebec are in the eastern time zone, Manitoba and southeast Saskatchewan in the central zone, the rest of Saskatchewan and Alberta in the mountain zone and British Columbia in the Pacific zone. The Yukon has its own time zone one hour later than Pacific time.

FOUR-HOUR WAIT

B.C. polls will close 4½ hours after those in Newfoundland. Vancouver newspapers will have to wait more than four hours after they receive the first returns before they can put them in print.

In 1953, the Canadian Press flashed re-election of the Liberal government at 8:15 p.m. EDT, one hour and 45 minutes before B.C. polls closed.

The Elections Act provision on publication of returns was enacted following the 1935 election. That year, west coast newspapers were able to tell their readers two hours before B.C. polls closed that 12 Liberals and one Conservatives had been elected in Eastern Canada.

B.C. knew an hour later that the Liberals were riding a land slide vote in the east, with 53 members elected to the Conservatives' nine. Only three minutes after B.C. polls closed, the Canadian Press announced the defeat of the Bennett Conservative government. At that point, complete returns from the Saskatchewan voting were just being made public.

Broadcasting, as well as publication, is curtailed by the Elections Act provision. The CBC will broadcast returns in the east and gradually expand its network west as the polls close in various parts of the country.

Union Urged To Conduct Own Probe of Beck

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Senate investigator today urged the giant Teamsters Union to conduct its own "immediate" probe to see for itself whether Dave Beck should be booted out as its president.

Senator John McClellan (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the Senate rackets committee, told reporters that the time has come for the Teamsters to back into weeks of testimony that Beck milked the union of vast sums. Beck has continued his refusal to talk about it.

McClellan said the situation calls "for immediate action on the part of the Teamsters Union to purge it and make an early determination whether Mr. Beck is worthy to continue to serve in the position of trust and responsibility" he holds.

He said Beck has "flagrantly betrayed" that trust, if sworn testimony to the committee is true, "and I have no reason as of now to doubt it."

NO INDICATION

Other teamsters officials have given no indication that ouster proceedings will be initiated against Beck or that anything has happened even warranting an investigation. However, the AFL-CIO has launched probes of both Beck and the union, temporarily suspending Beck as an officer of the labor body.

Beck himself avoided answering questions during Thursday's hearing as to whether he might quit.

Before taking the witness stand he told reporters variously that (1) he had "no intention in the world" of quitting, but (2) would give "any serious consideration" to any demand by his union executive board that he step aside for the good of the union.

Beck also gave the committee no information on any of the deals about which it called him for questioning. Instead, he ran to more than 200 his string of Fifth Amendment pleas, replying that answers might tend to incriminate him.

Another Body Found

MASSENA, N.Y (AP) — The body of Malcolm Hamilton, 53, one of four Brockville, Ont., fishermen who were drowned April 6, was found Thursday in the St. Lawrence River.

The body of Arlington Casey, 37, was d iscovered May 5 near Brockville. Still missing are James Hamilton, 58, Malcolm's brother, and Eric Richards, 38. Malcolm Hamilton's body was spotted by two seaway workers in Hopson's Bay, about four miles northeast of here.

Canada Cannot Afford Govt. Offered by Opposition Parties P.M. Tells London Crowd

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent says federal taxes will be hard and prosperity will be threatened if any of the opposition parties are voted into power on June 10.

"The sort of government you may be getting promised by all three opposition parties these days is, in my opinion, the sort of government that Canada literally cannot afford," the Liberal leader maintained Thursday night.

He spoke before a capacity crowd of some 2,500 in the London Arena where he received three standing ovations. Two hecklers made outbursts. One was ejected by police.

Replying to Progressive Conservative charges that the Liberals had overtaxed Canadians, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"Any commonsense fiscal policy for Canada requires, first of all, a resolute refusal to give in to the almost frantic, often ill-advised, usually ill-timed and frequently extravagant demands of the opposition parties—for such demands will at once force federal taxes upward.

ENDANGER PROSPERITY

"And if federal taxes are forced upward to support programs that are beyond the present capacity of this country to carry them, our prosperity would be at once in danger."

The reason Canada was prosperous, he maintained, was because Canadian fiscal policy was "sensible and restrained." The Liberal party made advances in social security only as economic opportunities presented themselves.

As Mr. St. Laurent enumerated various federal expenditures, he touched on defence and a heckler demanded to know: "Where is our flag?"

"The flag will be a symbol of unity and not a symbol of controversy in this country" replied Mr. St. Laurent. "If we are to have something we are not now displaying, it will be a symbol of unity accepted by everybody and everybody will be proud of it."

Mr. St. Laurent spoke in this heart of Southwestern Ontario after a strenuous day-long campaign along the Georgian Bay area that almost ended in tragedy. His car collided with another near Camp Borden and slipped into a ditch. The 75-year-old leader emerged uninjured.

BY PLANE AND CAR

He held open-air meetings at Wiarton and Penetanguishene; a town hall meeting at Elmvale and made a brief stop at Barrie, about 15 miles east of Camp Borden. He used plane and car to cover the 400-mile trip. Most of his daytime audiences were made up of schoolchildren, brought to the meetings by their teachers.

Today he plans to move eastward for meetings at Port Hope, Cobourg and Belleville, winding up with a weekend at his Quebec City home before opening his battle for votes in the Maritimes.

His London address Thursday night included reference both to the tax situation and opposition

TCP* and YOU

The motorist today is confused by conflicting claims of competitive gasolines. Not every motorist feels that these gasolines live up to the claims made for them. As a result, he is becoming sceptical.

Tri-Cresyl-Phosphate

TCP is not a combination of letters invented merely to impress the motorist. TCP describes the chemical Tri-Cresyl-Phosphate. Its use was developed by Shell Oil over a period of years, as part of Shell's programme of research to bring you better motoring. TCP was designed to eliminate the effect of deposits that form in your car engine. These deposits cause engine misfiring and pre-ignition—stop you from getting top efficiency from your engine. This is what TCP was designed to stop. And it does it.

Only Shell Gasolines have patented TCP additive

The Canadian Government granted Shell a patent on the use of TCP in 1955. This was official recognition of the advantages offered to Canadian motorists by this proven product of Shell Research. No other gasoline has patented TCP.

Again, on February 14th, 1957, Judge Holtzoff of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia ruled that Shell was entitled to a patent for Shell gasolines with TCP.

In his ruling Judge Holtzoff said:

"There would seem to be no doubt that the inventors in this case made an important discovery: namely, the ability to eliminate or at least substantially to reduce the fouling of spark plugs..."

The U.S. Government has not granted a patent on any other gasoline additive that corrects this costly engine fault.

This is the story of TCP—the patented gasoline additive designed to restore peak efficiency to your car engine.

Shell Premium—and Shell Gasoline, too—contain TCP, to give you better motoring and longer engine life. This is what TCP means to you.

Diefenbaker Makes Appeal For Return of 'Two-Party' System in Federal Politics

MINNEDOSA, Man. (CP)—John Diefenbaker is campaigning hard to swing support in Western Canada to his Progressive Conservative party from CCF and Social Credit ranks.

He predicted Thursday night at Dauphin, 75 miles north of here, that the two other parties mentioned will not elect more than two candidates east of Manitoba. He said the western provinces are "the major fighting ground" for the June 10 election.

The Conservative leader then drove to this Western Manitoba community to continue his appeal for a return to "the two-party system" in federal politics.

In a quip that rang a bell with a farm-minded audience in this wheat area he said:

"You can't mix number three tough with number four smutty and come up with number one hard."

REITERATES STAND

And in both places he reiterated his statement that a vote for a third-party candidate would be a vote for continuation in power of the Liberal party.

"The Liberals believe in the great principle of divide and rule."

Mr. Diefenbaker made a rugged 800-mile swing by plane and automobile Thursday as he flew from Winnipeg more than 400 miles northwest to Flin Flon, northern mining centre, and back to Dauphin for a speech to some 225 at a supper meeting.

He capped his day, last of a three-day Manitoba tour, before an audience of an estimated 1,000 in the armories of this town of 2,300 population. Groups came from as far away as Souris, 70 miles south, to help fill the 800 seats and add another 200 in standing room at the back of the hall and in a hallway.

Today he moves into Saskatchewan with speeches at Kipling and Regina and in the following two days will travel through Alberta and into British Columbia.

MAY REPEAT

He is expected to repeat his appeal for a return to two-party politics—Liberal and Conservative—in those three provinces, which in the last election returned 18 of the 23 CCF members elected and all of the 15 Social Crediters. In the last Parliament the Conservatives had one member from Saskatchewan—Mr. Diefenbaker himself—two from Alberta and three from British Columbia.

At Dauphin, won by the CCF in 1953, he said the Liberals are casting doubts on whether the Conservatives would have the men able to form a cabinet.

"In the candidates that are being chosen, we will be able to pick a cabinet the equal of the present one without having to strain ourselves."

Turning to farm matters, he said Trade Minister Howe had hinted recently that wheat delivery quotas might be increased, letting farmers move more wheat to elevators for cash.

"HAD BEEN DONE"

That had been done just before the 1953 election to make farmers believe all was well. Four days after the election the elevators had closed up tight and farmers had been unable to deliver wheat for months.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he thinks that will probably be done again this year—"and how."

Speaking here, he waved a Liberal election pamphlet which, he said, took credit for the government for last fall's establishment of the United Nations Emergency Force for the Middle East.

He said he himself had made such a proposal in January, 1956, but the government had rejected it.

The pamphlet had stated the Liberal party backed the Commonwealth, led by Britain, as the first principle of its foreign policy. Yet when Britain and France had their backs to the wall last November after the invasion of Egypt, Prime Minister St. Laurent had lumped them together with Russia as "supermen whose day is about over."

TO RED PROPOSALS

Mr. Diefenbaker also referred to Russia's recent proposals for a parliamentary conference on atomic weapons control.

He said that if Russia means what it says, it could give an opportunity to the subjugated people of eastern Europe to hold free elections on whether they want to remain under Communist rule.

In his speech at Flin Flon, a major base metal mining and processing centre, he returned to his theme of northern development with a proposal for north-south "highways to resources."

He said such roads are needed to permit development of natural resources in the north country. They could be used as defence routes if war comes.

Canada's rights to potential hydro power on rivers crossing the Canada-United States boundary "should not be parted with under any circumstances."

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE—The church service on Sunday was well attended, it being Mother's Day, with the superintendent of S. S. Mrs. Arthur Clare, and pastor, the Rev. McMullen, taking charge of the service. During the service, two babies were christened, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Derbidge, after which the tiny tots sang sweetly, "Jesus Loves Me."

Mr. and Mrs. A. Latta, of Belleville, were guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woods, and attended the church service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazer, of Batawa, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Woodward and children were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith.

Members of Wallbridge L.O.B.A. catered at Scott's barn on Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Found were Friday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris. Master Dale returned home with his parents, having spent a week with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Langsbeer; their sons Richard and Ronald called at the same home on Sunday evening.

On Friday night the Home and School of Foxboro held a euchre and dance in the Wallbridge Orange Hall. Quite a number attended and all enjoyed a happy time. The ladies served refreshments.

Mr. J. Cole has started to build a new home here in the village.

The rain, which fell during the past few days, has made everything grow, and cherry, plum and apple trees are a picture with their blossoms of beauty.

Mr. Ralph Sine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine, has gone for a trip out West with some other boy friends.

Wallbridge W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Phillips on Thursday evening with a fair attendance.

Mr. Lorne Sine, who has been transferred to B.C., called on Mr. and Mrs. Grant Miller, (nee Laura Sine), who are living in B.C., and spent the evening renewing acquaintances as they were neighbors here.

Mr. Albert Fisher spent the weekend at his home here, and his many friends were glad to see him and hope he will soon be well enough to come home to stay.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was watching pop smoking to himself in his private chair, and she said, Have you decided on my birthday present yet, William?

Not quite, pop said. I'm the original minute man. In fact you might even call me the last minute man, he said, and ma said, Well that's nice, William, because nothing pleases me more than being surprised, and if you had decided you would be sure to tell me in advance what it was, just for your own piece of mind so your worries would be over in case you had fixed your mind on something silly. But now at the last minute you wont have time to tell me ahead, so it's bound to surprize me, she said.

The only question that remains is, will it be a silly serprize? pop said, and ma said, Oh well, I dont mind taking some of the strane off your shoulders. Marks and Marcus's have some lovely sweeters. They're domestic wool but still they are quite good looking. Of course they have some in Cashmeer, but they are twice the price, but I wouldn't think of allowing you to be so recklessly extravagant, so Cashmeer is out of the question. Of course my size is the same in both, she said.

I see what you meen, pop said. The serprize will be whether or not I brake down and buy you a Cashmeer just for the heck of it, he said, and ma said, Why William, the way you can redd my mind is fantastic.

And she told him what her size was, and pop wrote down a note of it.

Me looking to see what he wrote, being Size 3 Cashmeer.

Hockey Loses Famous Figure Death Claims Dick Irvin, 64

He was 64 and death came after a lingering illness that forced him to give up leagues he loved late in 1956. He had spent considerable time in hospital since then.

Irvin, slim and silver-haired, spent 27 seasons in the National Hockey League as a coach—three with Chicago, nine with Toronto and 15 with Montreal. He won four Stanley Cups, three in Montreal and one in Toronto. Only four times did teams he coached finish out of the playoffs.

Irvin was an outstanding player before becoming a coach—a centre who could stickhandle smoothly and fire a hard, accurate shot. He spent most of his playing days in Western Canada and on the Pacific Coast. He didn't play in the National Hockey League until he was 34 but even then missed out on the league scoring title by only one point.

WOULD TRY ANYTHING

As a coach he was willing to try anything he thought would give his team an edge. In Chicago, where he started and ended his coaching career, he was the first man to use three complete lines.

He changed them frequently, wearing down opposing teams which had not yet adopted wholesale substitution tactics.

He tried another unusual experiment in the 1955 Stanley Cup playoffs, alternating two goalies at intervals of seven or eight minutes. The plan wasn't an outstanding success but it again demonstrated Irvin's flair for hockey tactics.

Irvin was a keen student of hockey and had a ready comment on any development in the game. He was also an astute referee, reserving his most pointed barbs for whatever team happened to be battling his squad for the title that year.

His full name was James Dickinson Irvin—not Richard Irvin as many thought—and he was born at Limestone Ridge, near Hamilton. His family moved to Winnipeg when he was seven and it was in Western Canada that he became known as an outstanding player.

He broke into hockey with Winnipeg Strathcona Juniors, a team that was without a league and played only challenge games. In 1912, he was summoned to help the intermediate Winnipeg Monarchs and scored six of the team's 10 goals in the next two games.

He played professional with Portland Rosebuds in the Pacific Coast League in 1913-14 but the First World War interrupted his career and he served with the Fort Garry Horse, a Winnipeg regiment.

AMATEUR AGAIN

On his return he was reinstated as an amateur and played with Regina Vics before again joining pro ranks with Regina Caps. He was back with Portland in 1925-26 and the next season the team was moved intact to Chicago.

A rookie in the NHL at 34, he scored 18 goals and 18 assists during the 1926-27 season. His 18 assists led the league but he was edged for the scoring championship by Bill Cook of New York, who had 37 points.

Irvin was in his second season in the NHL when Red Dutton of New York Americans, who later became league president, shocked him to the ice. Irvin's skull was fractured and his playing days were over.

He was named coach of Black Hawks and got them into the playoffs in both seasons at the helm. In 1931-32 he joined Toronto, advising them to the Stanley Cup in his first season as coach. He stayed in Toronto for nine years, finally leaving to become coach of Canadiens.

In Montreal he helped develop the player he later described as "the greatest" — Maurice (Rocket) Richard. He watched Richard compile one scoring record after another, in the process helping Canadiens to three Stanley Cups.

Although illness started to slow him down in the Stanley Cup playoffs of 1955, Irvin couldn't resist the challenge offered him to rebuild Chicago Black Hawks, the team with which he had entered the league.

He coached Hawks through 1955-56 but had to retire at the start of the 1956-57 season when his illness became worse.

During most of the time he coached in the NHL, Irvin lived in Regina, where his hobby was raising pigeons. In 1932 he bought a home in Montreal and moved his family here.

World Hockey Primary Topic At CAHA Meet

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting opening here May 25 should be fairly quiet in comparison with those in recent years, says Art Potter, president of the Alberta branch. But it will have its fireworks.

Primary subject during the five-day session will be the question of whether Canada will participate in the 1958 world hockey championships—a thorny problem since 1954 when Canada sent a Seconds club to Europe and lost the title on which it had held a monopoly.

Canada, the United States and several other Western countries did not compete this year when the championships were held in Moscow and won by Sweden.

Potter says this issue likely will provoke considerable debate. The rest of the agenda, however, appears to be lighter than in the last few years.

CAHA branches from the Maritimes to British Columbia will be represented by nearly 70 delegates, including CAHA president Jimmy Dunn of Winnipeg and secretary-manager George Dudley of Midland.

At least one bid to represent Canada in the 1958 world championships will be made. The Allan Cup champion Flin Flon Bombers of Whitby, a Cinderella team that won the cup in its first year in Senior A competition already have stated they will make representations to CAHA here.

MEETING WILL DECIDE

Canada's re-entry in the championships rests with the meeting. Several reasons were advanced for not sending a team to Moscow, chief among them the unstable international situation at the time.

There has also been considerable argument concerning the calibre of Canada's amateur hockey and the method of selecting a Canadian representative in the improving international competition.

Fernicton Vs last won the world title for Canada in 1955 but Russia defeated Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the Olympic championships in 1956. The controversy began in 1954 when Toronto East Yorks were defeated in the world event has waxed warmer since the Olympics.

Six Yanks in Night Brawl Bauer Is Versatile Slugger

NEW YORK (AP)—The proud New York Yankees, embarrassed by Thursday's early morning baseball brawl involving six of their stars, maintained a discreet silence today.

Acting either on advice of counsel or orders from manager Casey Stengel or club officials, the players declined to discuss the brawl in which a New York policeman was allegedly slugged by veteran outfielder Hank Bauer.

The Yankee dressing room was like a morgue Thursday night after the world champions defeated Kansas City Athletics 3-0 with two of the sextet benched by Stengel in a shakeup.

Every one dressed quickly as if in a hurry to get home. Bauer, who faces a law suit if Edwin Jones goes through with his announced intention of suing for $250,000, declined to talk until he has consulted his lawyer.

SHOOK THEIR HEADS

The others—Whitey Ford, Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle, Johnny Kucks and Billy Martin — just shook their heads as if wondering how they, the world champions of baseball, could get involved. Even other members of the club appeared sheepish.

Meantime, the club stood behind the players. In a statement the club said:

"The Yankees have made a preliminary examination of the facts surrounding Billy Martin's birthday party which was attended by certain players — all with their wives with the exception of Martin who is a bachelor—and are convinced that neither he nor any Yankee player struck anyone. Mr. Bauer has engaged counsel of his own and the legal aspects of the matter are in the hands of said counsel."

The 40-year-old Jones, a Yankee fan, claims he suffered a fractured nose, broken jaw and arm and body bruises.

BEES MAY MOVE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats are considering moving their farm team, the Canadian Intermediate champion Hamilton Bees, to Brantford for the 1957 Ontario Rugby Football Union season.

Tiger-Cat president Jake Gaudaur said Thursday night tentative arrangements to have Bees play their league games in Brantford have been discussed.

Happiness Pills Lift Bertoia To Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP)—Reno Bertoia says "happiness pills" may have lifted him atop the major league batting standings. But the new Detroit Tiger team physician says he'll have to stay there on his own.

"I don't know whether it's the pills or what it is," said the 22-year-old Detroit third baseman whose rise from a .182 hitter last year to a current .366 has been meteoric. "I feel more relaxed and I'm confident. Maybe it's a diet of steady work."

Dr. Luther R. Leader reconstructed Bertoia's right knee Harvey Hansen and general manager John McHale after he was appointed team physician Thursday that the tranquilizing drugs have served their purpose and should be stopped.

STOP IN TWO WEEKS

"I think that within the next two weeks Bertoia should be able to stop using the pills," Dr. Leader said.

Bertoia said he started taking the pills—two a day—when he took over the regular third base spot for the Tigers from Jim Finigan April 20.

Bertoia has been using them as recommended by a physician in Florida who deemed him during the training season," Dr. Leader said. "I feel the psychological effect of their use on him has been twice as great as the actual physical effect."

The Italian-born Bertoia, who was signed off the sandlots of neighboring Windsor as a bonus player in 1953, has hit safely in all but two of the games he has appeared in this year. He hasn't made a fielding error since he was moved in as a regular.

Leafs Wallop Red Wings 4-2; Bisons Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Wiesler, an erratic southpaw, has shown what control can do—especially if you have the right tutor.

Wiesler was optioned by Washington Senators to Ed Lopat's Richmond Virginians early this season. Lopat, a former control artist with New York Yankees, took him in hand and Thursday night the lessons paid off.

Wiesler pitched a brilliant two-hitter as the International League leading Vees edged Havana Sugar Kings, 2-1. Not to be outdone by Wiesler's fine performance, Columbus' young rookie righthander Ron Blackburn also pitched a two-hitter as Jets blanked Miami Marlins, 4-0.

FIVE WALKS

Wiesler, pitching his first complete game of the season for Virginians, walked five and struck out six. The 27-year-old lefthander gave up his first hit in the sixth with two out and it cost him a shutout.

Blackburn allowed Miami only four hits through a fine effort. The 22-year-old hurler struck out eight and walked five. Wildness on the part of Miami starter Gene Snyder helped Jets to all the runs they needed in the second. Two walks, two singles, a hit batsman and a ground out produced the runs.

18-HIT ATTACK

Jerry Curry led an 18-hit Montreal attack on four Buffalo pitchers with four consecutive safeties, including a double. Cosmo Grebosz allowed 10 Bison hits and got credit for his third victory. Jose Santiga, who leads Jets in batting, was charged with his fourth loss. He has yet to win a game.

Humberto Robinson and Bobby Tiefenauer tossed a combined five-hitter as Toronto won the last game series with Rochester. Tiefenauer took over in the 6th after Rochester scored two runs on three walks and a single, and went on to pitch two-hit ball and save Robinson's fifth triumph in six decisions. Lynn Lovenguth who was the victim of two unearned runs in the second was the loser. Jerry Lynch got the Leafs' first hit off the second with a home run for Toronto.

Prentice Will Play Baseball

Prentice, who played junior ball in South Porcupine, will help fill the gap left by the departure of several members of last year's championship team.

Infielder - pitcher Walt Jeffries has retired, second baseman Gerry Goyer has returned to his Belleville home, and third baseman Dick Dowling is trying for a berth with Hamilton in the Great Lakes baseball league.

The Guelph entry lacks a sponsor, and so lacks a name. The executive is prepared to carry on to the end of the season if necessary without a sponsor.

AWAY THEY GO!

The opening game of the Belleville and District Softball league will start with a bang and with a bigger one this Monday eve when the Belleville Merchants clash with the Point Anne Canestimes on the Polatery diamond.

Another opener is slated for Trenton on the same date with Jack Goyer's Marines of this city taking on Charlie Drake's Trenton Legion Juniors. Game time in Trenton is 7.30 p.m. with opening ceremonies in the planning stage at present.

Getting back to the big bang at Point Anne, it has been announced that following the game a huge fireworks display will be given. The display is being sponsored by the Union Management Safety Advisory Committee under Earle Anderson and Gerald Burshaw. $500 has been spent on fireworks and this will be blown sky high at the ball field immediately following the game.

Also a new touch to the scene will be the refreshment booth and canteen at the park. This will be open for the first game, under the Point Anne Community Centre Building Committee. Already one of the finest softball parks in this area, the canteen will add greatly to the enjoyment and comfort of the fans.

The game itself gets under way at 7.00 p.m. sharp and should provide top line entertainment. Phil Left and Bill Shaw have gathered many of the district's top players to make the Point Anne club a real set-back for anybody to cop league honors. They will in all probability send the ageless veteran, Pat Marsele, to the mound.

Don "Turk" Barclay is coach of the Merchants and has on his club many of the McFarland senior "A" hockey players. The Merchants will be a soft touch for any in the loop. They have a grade "A" pitcher in Bobby Green, who will likely get the nod for Monday's encounter, as well as Bep Guidolin and Bob Bunton for mound support.

Some city softball addicts, after watching the Merchants in several exhibition games, predict they will cause the powerful Ox-Pointers plenty of worry. The best way to find out is to take in the holiday fixture. It looks like a good show from start to finish.

BASEBALL FARE

For sports fans that eschew baiting of the tasty pickerel and other placatorial treats, and prefer a spot of professional baseball for the weekend holiday fare, the Toronto Maple Leafs management is offering a tasty diamond dish starting Friday through Sunday.

Amiable Rudy Schaffer, Leafs general manager, who, by the way, will set aside a "Belleville Day" in the stadium whenever arrangements here can be made, tells us that his Leafs open a four-day home stand with the upcoming Buffalo Bisons starting with a night game Friday, sandwiching a double header on Saturday and rounding out the foursome on Sunday afternoon. If that is not enough you can stay over Monday when the Leafs entertain the Rochester Red Wings in the first of a four-game series. This will be a doubleheader.

Incidentally the Leafs' prospects of repeating their 1956 championship are looking might brighter since two of their star burdens of last year have returned to the fold. Eddie Blake has returned from the Kansas City Athletics and Jack Crimian is back from the Detroit Tigers. These two second stars will greatly enhance the Leafs chances of copping their second straight pennant. Blake had a 17-11 record last year while in 1955 Crimian posted a 15-6 record. At the end of the season the "Ax" traded outfielder Bill Wilson, pitcher Maurice Friemo, Al Rombergr and cash for Crimian's contract. He had a 4-8 record last year spending most of the time in the bullpen.

Then he went to Detroit in a deal, finally coming back to Toronto, his "minor league love." The Leafs sent pitchers Larry Donovan, Bob Shaw and outfielder Bill Wilson to the Tigers farm club at Charleston.

But to get back to the holiday weekend fare. Saturday afternoon's game against the Bisons will be one for the family. It has been called Ladies and Families Day when the misses or sweetheart will be admitted for fifty cents and children under twelve accompanied by an adult get in free gratis. The first thousand men entering the park on Saturday will receive a baseball gift.

And the Leafs have taken care of the inner man's wants. You can't get roast turkey but, king-size hotdogs, pizza pies, corned beef sandwiches are available. A brand new tea bar has been added. Looks like an enjoyable weekend.

WRESTLING

And don't forget Mr. Kiniski will be here tonight to tackle Prince Maiava in wrestledome main bout. Mr. Gene will be in an ugly mood for he has been sued by an alleged manhandled spectator. The others are those potent half-pints, the midgets, also Pat Flanagan and Jack Walker.

Benches Berra, Ford, Martin Sends Bob Turley to Hill; Haney Pulls Costly 'Boner'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The streaking Chicago White Sox are still leading the American League today but baseball fans were marvelling at Casey Stengel, wily manager of New York Yankees.

Stengel, the major leagues' master juggler, proved again Thursday night that he apparently can't do anything wrong or a ball field.

Casey, who manoeuvred the Yankees to seven pennants in eight years, outdid himself as the Yankees inflicted a second straight 3-0 shutout upon the Kansas City Athletics.

Angered because six of his players were tossed in an early Thursday morning brawl at a night club, the 67-year-old strategist gave his lineup a wholesale shakeup and darned if every move he made didn't turn out perfect.

FIFTH IN A ROW

Despite their fourth straight triumph, the Yankees remained half a game behind the White Sox who conquered Washington 8-3 for their fifth consecutive victory. Third baseman Bubba Phillips had a perfect night with a home run, triple and three singles to pace Chicago's 14-hit attack against three pitchers and help Billy Pierce achieve his fifth success against two defeats.

Cleveland won its second straight extra inning game from Baltimore, 4-3 in 10 innings and Detroit edged Boston 2-1.

Stengel, a man of many moves, really outdid himself. He benched Yogi Berra, one of the six players involved in the night club fracas, replacing him with Elston Howard behind the plate. He removed his scheduled starting pitcher, Whitey Ford, another violator of the training rules, and sent Bullwhacker Bob Turley to the mound.

DROPPED TO EIGHTH

He permitted Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, also guilty of the curfew violation, to play but dropped the leadoff hitting Bauer to eighth spot in the lineup. Second baseman Billy Martin and pitcher Johnny Kucks were the other two guilty of staying out late. Martin, recovering from a bad leg, was ready to return to the lineup, but Casey nominated rookie Bobby Richardson for second base and placed the light-hitting Jerry Coleman at third.

So what happened?

Turley permitted only four hits, struck out eight and won his first game of the season.

Mantle walloped his sixth home run, beat out a bunt and walked twice for a perfect night at the plate.

Bauer drove in a run with a single in the sixth inning.

Howard rapped two singles and drove in one run.

Coleman collected a double and single and scored the final Yankee run after drawing a pass.

OUTSTANDING PLAY

Richardson got one of the Yanks' nine hits, made the outstanding play of the game with a spectacular stop of Harry Simpson's bid for a base hit in the eighth and was the end man of a triple play executed by New York in the second inning.

Early Wynn won his fourth game of the season although he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the 10th when Jim Busby tripled and Al Smith singled to produce the Indians' winning run with Ballmore. The Indians, 1½ games off the pace, have now whipped the Orioles 17 times in 71 meetings since Baltimore returned to the league in 1954.

Frank Bolling's leadoff homer gave Detroit's Jim Bunning a lead he never relinquished as he tamed the Red Sox with five hits for his second victory.

Expect 15 New Champions at Ring Tourney

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMROSE, Alta. (CP) — At least 15 new champions will emerge this weekend from the Canadian amateur boxing championships opening tonight in this city of 6,000 population.

Just three of the 10 open titles on the line are being defended and eight junior divisions are being contested for the first time in seven years. Barring a last-minute entry, the ninth junior class will be left vacant.

Four of the 1956 champions are among the record entry this year, but the army's Mike Mercer of Yellowknife, N.W.T., light-heavyweight winner a year ago, has graduated to the heavyweight division.

He is among a strong array of challengers for the title being defended by Robert Cleroux of Montreal.

A wide-open race is expected in the featherweight class, although the British Columbia contingent has leading entries in Lindy Lindmoser of Vancouver, Mickey Mazar of New Westminster and Bobby Walker, also of New Westminster.

A further international tinge is added by Ken Campbell, a Yugoslav immigrant who represented his country at the 1952 Olympic boxing championships and who now fights out of Sudbury.

Joining Prowse and Mercer in the heavyweight competition is navy champion Bob Couts of Halifax, holder of seven service titles and winner by knockouts in his last seven bouts.

The competition has an assured record entry of 89 and last-minute entries are expected to add 20 to that. Previous high was 78 in 1950 when novice competitions were also staged.

The championships open at 11 p.m. EDT in the new 3,000-seat agriculture building here and as many as 25 bouts will be staged before the windup Saturday night.

Tournament director Wade Mantym says full houses are expected for each of the three cards, but that only 1,000 seats will be held for gate sale at each.

"Wanna Bet?"

TORONTO (CP)—A proposal to limit the season's salaries for any one team to $24,000 was made at a meeting of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association council.

The proposal was put forward Wednesday by Murphy Chamberlain of Chatham Maroons. All the teams agreed to abide by the limit if they operate next season.

BCI Trackmen Take Part in COSSA Meet

Approximately 15 boys from BCIVS will participate today in the COSSA track and field meet at Newmarket, getting under way at 1.00 p.m.

The meet was originally scheduled for Peterborough but facilities were not available so the switch to Newmarket was made.

BCIVS will send a strong aggregation in all three divisions, junior, intermediate and senior. Junior and senior relay teams are entered but triple-threat Ken Vogelsang is expected to earn considerable points for his school.

Vogelsang, who smashed Bay of Quinte COSSA records at Trenton last week in the 100, 220 and 400, is entered in all three events in the senior section. Gerald Hill will run in the senior mile while Glen Macarle will participate in the half mile and the 440.

Dick Hurst heads the intermediate list and is expected to make a good showing in both the mile and half mile while Don Wilson is a favorite in the junior 100 and 220 events.

Eastern League Cuts Melon, Turns Down West Proposal Of Players' Salary Minimum

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The Eastern Senior "A" Hockey League is "from Missouri" as far as the western league's proposed payroll minimum is concerned.

League moguls were unanimous on the point at the annual spring meeting held in Kingston last night with only the "regulars" in attendance.

The league cut a set pool melon of $7,881.19 and gave its recorded blessing to the Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions in their effort to represent Canada next year in world hockey.

Should the Dunlops be successful in their quest to represent Canada in Europe, the Allan Cup champions will not participate in Eastern League playoffs next season. They will complete the schedule before leaving for overseas. However, points of schedule games will count.

Belleville, Kingston, Cornwall, Whitby and Pembroke were represented at the meeting. The Ottawa Canadiens were proxied by Whitby's Wren Blair, OHA president Lorne Cook, who is in hospital, was represented in the chair by Reg Walton, president of the Kingston club.

Blair told the meeting that the western division at a council meeting had proposed and endorsed a season payroll of $24,000 based on a 56-game schedule over a period of 18½ weeks with each club signing a maximum of 18 players and having an affiliated club from which injury replacements could be drawn. The payroll would be broken down to $1,335 weekly.

Said Blair, "If I thought the western division was sincere in this move I would suggest consideration of their request for this league to concur in it. But they are not that sincere, for a western division team has been trying to get Long John Henderson almost daily with the rider he is no object." The western league also suggested that teams carry no spare goalie. In case of injury a replacement could be furnished by the home team.

"The western league is on the decline while this league is on the upswing. Why should we curtail our activities by getting on that bandwagon," said the fiery Whitby mentor.

He then moved that while the Eastern League is in sympathy with the western loop's payroll proposal, it will have to have ironclad proof that the salary limit will stand up in court or any other circumstances which are approved. If such is the case the Eastern League will concur but at this time it is doubtful if the western league will uphold its own proposal." The league agreed.

Blair informed the meeting he would personally represent the Dunlops and the league at the CAHA meeting being held in Edmonton next week. He will present a brief to that body requesting that the Dunlops represent Canada at the 1958 world hockey tournament.

"We will play out the schedule here before we leave but I request that the Dunlops not take part in any league playoffs. If we are chosen, we plan to be away some six weeks. We have no right to leave and win or lose in Europe, rush back home for the league playoffs. We intend to concentrate on that world title."

"Besides" he added, "should we win the world title we would be belittling ourselves by coming home and losing to a team in our own league."

"It would be the best thing in the world" someone quipped, "it would give everybody that we have teams in this league that can beat the world champions."

Blair said that added strength assigned to the Dunlops would be the league's scheduled games. "We are mainly interested in this world championship. Besides let some other club win the league championship."

The league set June 23 as the deadline for entries with the meeting slated for Whitby, Pembroke, its representative said, was not prepared to say in which league the Kings would play. The sponsor, Wally Lemer, said he did not want to go in the league pool, but it was pointed out to him that the pool was one of the most important features of the league which had kept the loop together and inspired its success.

Ottawa Canadiens through spokesman Blair, said they had been happy in the Eastern League, but at the moment were not in a position to make commitments with any league. However Manager Sam Pollock would recommend that the Canadiens enter the Eastern League again next season.

The league went on record in open unanimous tribute to the Dunlops in their successful quest for the Allan Cup. That it added much prestige to the Eastern League one member pointed out. It sees in the fact that a number of senior "A" players from other leagues are seeking spots in the Eastern circuit teams.

The total amount of the league pool was $19,380.39 with travelling expenses allotments to clubs and "donations" to the Ottawa Valley District League amounting to $11,380.30. This left a net of $7,881.20 which was evenly divided among the clubs.

The league unanimously granted the honorarium of $200 to OHA president Lorne Cook for an excellent job done as the circuit's convenor.

Much discussion centred around the Belleville request for a subsidy of $1,500 promised at a pre-season meeting. The subsidy was refused last night on the ground that it "was a misunderstanding and a misinterpretation of the motion."

LEGEND OF THE MUSKRAT

Muskrat helped his Indian friend Wisagatcak prepare dinner by hardening the bear's grease. He did this by swimming through the water with it.

As a reward, his broad, fleshy tail became thinner and smaller, allowing him to swim much faster. That is how the muskrat got his tail and why he leaves a smooth, greasy wake when swimming.

Pleasing Personality First Quality to Be Star in Films

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY AP) — What makes a movie star?

The question has been asked over and over, and I have never heard a satisfactory answer—until now.

It came from Darryl F. Zanuck, one of Hollywood's great star makers. The producer had just finished a scene with Tyrone Power and Ava Gardner for his "The Sun Also Rises."

"Film stars aren't a breed apart," said Zanuck. "You'll find they are different types, just as you find different types in every walk of life. But to be successful, stars must have two qualities:

"They must have pleasing personalities and photograph well.

"They must be able to project."

Do they need to know how to act? It helps he said.

NEED TALENT

"The day has passed when a star could get by on looks and personality alone," Zanuck remarked. "A star must have some degree of talent.

"Some get their training from the stage, like Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Ty. Others learned how to act in pictures. Gary Cooper is a self-made star like that. Today television is giving young players some semblance of the training they need.

"But acting isn't everything. Some of our best actors can never be movie stars because they haven't pleasing personalities or can't project."

In 20 years of dealing with actors, Zanuck has seen his share of temperament recent example: Marilyn Monroe, but he doesn't seem alarmed by it.

"I don't know of any actress without some share of temperament," he said. "But you find that in any creative field. Writers might think I'm temperamental when I change a scene 50 times.

"There is less temperament in films today than there used to be. Actors are important today, but they used to be the rulers of Hollywood.

"In those days exhibitors were told they would get four Irene Dunn pictures a year, three Walter Beerys, etc. Today you can't sell pictures on stars alone. The writer, director and producer have come into their own."

Are there enough stars today?

"There are never enough. The fault lies with the distributors and exhibitors. They are always screaming for new faces. But when you're casting a picture, they say 'get so-and-so,' always an established name."

At The McCarthy

When Director John Hutson, Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum finished shooting "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" on the Island of Tobago, British West Indies, they were guests of honor at the strangest dinner ever served them. Their hosts were the local taxi drivers who had spent three months driving their respective wagons all over the island. The dinner, cooked Creole style, contained many local delicacies.

The menu consisted of pepper pigeon stewed agouti (a local rodent), opposum manicou and iguana (reptile species), mashed bananas, crammed fritters and coucou. Bob Mitchum had a manlicou's head, complete with eye, on his plate, which he ate with questionable enjoyment. The entire Twentieth Century-Fox crew of fifty technicians attended the dinner, which they washed down with local water to put out the fires in their throats.

The taxi drivers proved to be invaluable in the filming of the picture, which is held over until Saturday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre here. From his driver, Deborah Kerr learned all about the tropical vegetation and also the political economy of the entire region.

Mitchum said: "From my driver I learned all the news, where we were shooting the next day, whether we were behind or ahead of schedule, and when we were going home. He was invaluable."

The men operated an island radio hookup when it came to messages, signals and news, which kept everyone informed.

"Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" is a Buddy Adler — Eugene Frenke production in CinemaScope and DeLuxe color and tells the strangely unorthodox story of a tough Marine and gentle nun on a Pacific island behind enemy lines; how they lived Robinson Crusoe'style, and how they managed their unusual relationship.

The story is based on the best seller of the same, name, by Charles Shaw.

Four Clubs In Baseball League; Opens May 29

The Belleville and District Baseball League will open on Wednesday, May 29th but at the present time it is not known if four or five teams will participate.

Commissioner Don Thomas chained the entry deadline spelling and received official entry been given grace until Sunday from four clubs while another has to decide.

Prince Edward McFarlands, Wellington Dukes, Belleville B. M. B. A. and Trenton Philcos are sure starters. The Trenton Juniors are expected to complete the four team entry but stated a little more time was needed to finalize arrangements.

It was expected an intermediate team would be entered from this city but no representative was present at the meeting. Commissioner Thomas, commenting on the subject said: "It is a shame that a city the size of Belleville, with plenty of men anxious to play, will not have an intermediate entry. After all it was through the efforts of several Belleville men that the loop was organized a few weeks ago."

The opening league game has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 29th when the Trenton Philcos will visit the Prince Edward McFarlands at Picton.

Belleville BMBA home games will be played on Thursdays at the Fairgrounds while Wellington announced they are willing to play at home on any night. Trenton Philcos will be home on Mondays or Wednesdays while the Trenton Juniors, should they enter, have asked for the same nights. Prince Edward McFarlands will be home for Wednesday night games (and Sunday afternoon fixtures.

The loop will affiliate with the O.B.A. as a whole while most of the teams are expected to enter O.B.A. playdowns.

The team representatives agreed last night that the home club must notify the visiting club at least 10 hours before game time if a game is postponed. Each team will make arrangements for umpires, each of which must be approved by the league.

A double schedule will be played with each club playing once at home and once away each week.

Harney Leads Snead Festival

Snapping at his heels was the 45-year-old hawk of the fairways, Ben Hogan, with 66. The honored host, Snead, was only a stroke behind that at 66, a score matched by 26-year-old Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif.

Seventeen of the 47 pros matching shots for $10,000 in prizes beat par and another five, including Al Balding of Toronto, equalled it on the 6,690-yard course in the Allegheny Mountains.

Balding had 34 on the front nine for 36 coming home.

Harney, who has been playing the tour mostly for regularity for three years without winning a major title, had the steadiest touch with the wedge and putter to score eight birdies and go over par only once—on the 14th hole when he caught a trap.

Hogan staged a sizzling finish to take the runner-up spot, knocking in birdies on the 16th and 18th and an eagle on the 17th.

June Lockhart Willing To Try Running News Show

NEW YORK AP)—June Lockhart has an interesting idea.

"Why," she asks, "shouldn't there be a regular woman newscommentator on television? A woman with a feeling and respect for news could give it a presentation that would interest everyone."

The next question, obviously, is why shouldn't June Lockhart try it?

She's willing—eager, in fact, to try it. An accomplished actress in the theatre, movies and television, she confesses that for years a part of her heart has belonged to journalism. For three years she was a commentator on the NBC-TV news quiz show, Who Said That?

WOMEN'S QUALIFICATIONS

She has written and worked for the publication Guideposts. Last year she consulted with both presidential candidates as what she calls "a journalist built." She can list numerous other qualifications.

"So why not give Miss Lockhart a try as a TV commentator? As a matter of fact, she set quite a few people talking and thinking about her last week as a result of her handling of the Home show (NBC-TV) in the absence of vacationing Dave Garroway.

Put perhaps, a man suggested to her the other day, the woman lacks the authoritative presence to handle a regular TV news program.

"I don't believe it," she replied with the utmost authority.

LOT OF GOOD IDEAS

Perhaps a beautiful woman would distract an audience from concentrating on the news. Miss Lockhart, who is blonde, blueeyed and beautiful, looked skeptical at that one. She immediately denied the validity of that argument.

Miss Lockhart has a lot of good ideas. While in New York from her California home she is trying to interest a TV network in her idea for a weekly program which would bring to life some of the details and vignettes of every-day living. A newspaper-ed's first exposure to kite flying for instance. A puppy's first day at home. A little's first day after she returns from her honeymoon.

Television certainly can use a woman with ideas as well as presence. Let's hope it sees more of June Lockhart in the medium.

Score's Eye Is Improving

CLEVELAND (AP) — Doctors said Thursday the hemorrhage in the eye of pitcher Herb Score is clearing slowly, but there has not yet been a chance to examine it closely for possible permanent damage.

Score, ace strike-out artist of Cleveland Indians, was injured last week when struck by a line drive off the bat of Gil McDougald of New York Yankees.

Some of the bandages were loosened Wednesday, and blinds were lifted in Score's hitherto darkened hospital room. He wore dark glasses to protect his eyes from undue strain.

Calhoun Meets Joey Giardello

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rory Calhoun, Georgia-born slugger now of White Plains, N.Y., will be out to demonstrate against Joey Giardello tonight in 10 rounds at the arena that there was no need to go into the welterweight ranks to find an opponent for Ray Robinson.

"It's all wrong for the International Boxing Commission to bypass a fine group of present middleweights to put Carmen Basilio (welterweight champ) in for a title shot against Sugar Ray Robinson," complains Calhoun's manager, Fred Buchman.

"In Calhoun, Giardello, Gene Fullmer, Spider Webb, Tiger Jones, Charles Humez and others, the middleweight class has the best fighters in the ring today. Why should Basilio get a title shot without proving himself first?"

Rated No. 1 middleweight contender by Ring Magazine and No. 3 by the National Boxing Association, Calhoun, 22, holds a 10-point edge over Giardello, 27, on both lists. But Joey fights well in Cleveland, where he upset Bobby Boyd last September, breaking Boyd's jaw. And local bettors have been unable to decide on a favorite, wagering at even money.

ANNOUNCES TEAM

TORONTO (CP)—Players who will make up Ontario's soccer team to play against Tobkenah Motapur at Varsity Stadium May 25 were announced Thursday. Seven are former National League players.

Those now in the league were excluded because of a dispute between the league and the Ontario Football Association.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Mars' waning aspect stresses patience and no untoward aggressiveness. Usual daily duties, new, impressive undertakings both favored. Strive hard, but don't rush.

November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — Be thrifty and industrious now. New and progressive ideas, methods sponsored. Aim high — and with faith!

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — This could be a highly painful day for those who really try. Be alert to opportunity, evaluate all matters carefully, but don't be indecisive.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — This is no day in which to ignore good ideas. Put them purposefully; make them bring you credits. You can achieve in a big way in either unusual or everyday matters.

February 20 to March 20— (Pisces) — Do not be confounded by either difficult tasks or voluble, boastful persons. Listen, but also use your own sound judgment and intuition. You can make excellent headway. Cultivate worthwhile friendships.

You born today are steady, enthusiastic; can be eloquent in speech. You do things with meaning, are farseeing in your aims. You have a variety of talents, are often restless, but innately decent, sensible and loyal. Avoid worry. Be philosophical. You can do well in an artistic, literary or athletic career; could become a skilled builder, religious mathematician. Work consistently toward your goals.

KILLED BY CAR

WINDSOR (CP)—Allen McDonald, 38, was killed Wednesday night when struck by a car near the home of his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Law, in suburban Tecumseh.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, May 18, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You may have to try hard to top past efforts on this not entirely encouraging day. You can master situations if you stick to sure methods and maintain a hopeful attitude, however.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Your Venus is mildly aspected but the Moon, Jupiter and the Sun, in very favorable positions, encourage your best efforts, promise good opportunities for advancement. Be alert, eager.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — To meet the unexpected ably, avoid having too many irons in the fire; be free to use your fertile mind properly. Good opportunities indicated.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — All worthwhile activities scheduled for advancement. Be ready to act decisively. You can achieve a great deal now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A period for courage, good will and accomplishment possible. Some unusual results may accrue from extra effort. Personal, general matters both favored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Make this a day of attainment. There are beneficial influences for mental work, personal matters, difficult and laborious tasks — if you don't dwell on minute annoyances. Handle everything serenely, without rushing.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Heed Taurus; try to top previous good records. You should not be such a struggle. There are many friendly influences to encourage your efforts. Avoid friction; be calm.

Four Die In Head-On Crash Near Montreal

Eleven Are Reported Killed On First Day of Holiday

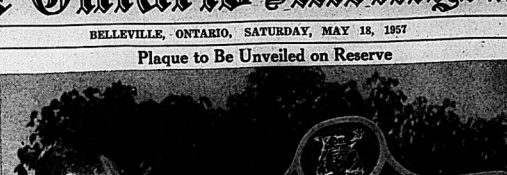
MONTREAL (CP) — Four persons were killed and two others injured early today in a head-on collision of two automobiles on a lonely gravel road 25 miles west of Montreal.

Provincial police identified the dead as Jean-Roch Faucher and Lucien Giroux, 4, both of Montreal Antoine Drouin of St. Philippe, Que., and Germaine Lemieux of Montreal.

Two others—17-year-old Muriel Menard, Montreal, and Raymond Drouin, 20, St. Remi d'Amherst, Que.—were taken to Lachute Hospital. Their condition was described as "not too bad."

They were riding in the back seat of the Drouin car when the accident happened, on the Cote St. Louis road eight miles west of St. Eustache. Raymond Drouin told police he could recall smashing a window to escape from the car after the collision, but nothing else.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS



Except for a surge of traffic deaths in Quebec, Canada completed the first 12 hours of its three-day Victoria Day holiday weekend with the count of fatal accidents running encouragingly low. By early today 11 persons were reported killed.

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference predicted 27 persons will die on the highways during the holiday. Last year 37 died, and when traffic deaths accounted for 23 out of a total of 71 fatalities.

The Canadian Press count of accidental deaths began at 8 p.m. local time Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Eight persons died Friday night and early today in Quebec in automobile smashups. One accident claimed four lives and another three. One person was killed by a falling tree for a provincial total of nine fatalities.

There were two traffic deaths in Ontario. Other fatal accidents were reported from any of the other provinces.

Plaque to Be Unveiled on Reserve

At 12.15 p.m., Sunday, May 19, the formal unveiling of a plaque to the famous Mohawk Chief, Oronhyatekha, will take place on the grounds of Christ Church on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve near Deseronto.

This plaque is one of about fifty which will be erected during the summer throughout Ontario by the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board. The Hon. Bryan L. Cathcart, Minister of Travel and Publicity, under whose department this Board functions, is shown studying the plaque.

Rescue Boy Trapped In Pit For 24 Hours

Parents Keep Close Vigil At Bedside in Hospital

MANORVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Joyous rescuers pulled little Benny Hooper alive Friday night from the bottom of a well in his back yard. He was trapped in the sandy pit nearly 34 hours.

An ambulance sped the seven-year-old to a hospital minutes after the rescue at 7:10 p.m. He was reported in good condition today, but suffering from shock and exposure. He was napping restlessly under an oxygen tent.

"He's doing fine," said the boy's father, Reginald Hooper.

Hooper and his wife, Birghid, kept a vigil at their son's bedside. "Mommy" was his first word and then he called for "daddy."

"The boy's condition is good," said Dr. J. H. Kris, the attending physician. "He is able to talk and asked for food. He has taken some food. Everything is on the up and up."

SEVEN DRUGS

Benny took some beef broth, hot tea with sugar and ginger ale.

He was given antibiotics to guard against the possibility of respiratory infection. His temperature was nearly normal.

Kris said doctors would need to keep a close watch for 24 hours because of the danger of pneumonia in such cases of exposure.

Benny's rescue was a triumph in perseverance for 200 grimy workmen who battled time in a desperate hour to save the boy. They fought with crude tools, shovels, piping, wooden shoring—and sweat.

They fought with the hopes and prayers of millions.

KEPT UP HOPE

"They never gave up hope even when it appeared that only a miracle would save the boy.

And a "miracle" is just what many of the weary men called it.

Exhausted after hours of digging their throats when the rescuers heard they had succeeded.

Benny toppled into the 24-foot-deep well in the back yard of the family home, Thursday at about 7:30 p.m. Thursday night. At 7:10 Friday night the rescuers broke through to his side.

The workmen clawed with bare hands at the sand to free Jacket of earth.

In a few moments, Sam Woodson a Negro construction worker, lifted the weakened child from the sandy hole. He had hold him tight and almost prostrate with grief and growing hopelessness.

The rescue workers Thursday began digging a shaft a few feet from the well. They lowered into it.

An oxygen hose was lowered into the well. Enough oxygen for three men continually poured down to the boy.

Peering down into the pit, workmen could see the boy's feet. They heard feeble cries. But by 11 p.m. there was only silence.

Rescuers feared the worst, but they refused to give up. They kept up.

Father, Son Asphyxiated

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A father and his 16-month-old son were asphyxiated Friday in the family car in the garage at their home on the south side. A hose attached to the tailpipe led inside the auto.

Coroner J. Bey Robinson said no inquest would be held in the deaths of Norman McCallum, 44, and baby Billie. The child had been sickly since birth.

Returning from a shopping trip, Mrs. McCallum found him and the baby on the front seat of the car. She said she left her husband "tinkering" with his car and the baby was with him.

---

tolled on under floodlights through the night and into the dawn.

When they tried to cut across horizontally from the rescue shaft to the spot where the boy was trapped, they found landslides repeatedly blocking progress.

Just late in the day an ingenious device furnished by the Atomic Energy Commission turned the trick.

The nearby Brookhaven National Laboratory had a 1½ gamma ray shields, each about 4½ feet long. They fit nearly on inside the other and could be expanded and contracted like a collapsible drinking cup.

The "cup" served as a tunnel through the treacherous sand to the boy.

"I said all along they'd get him out," said Dooper. "God was with me on that. I knelt down and prayed to God as they removed the sand from the well."

Benny was alive — pale and hungry, but alive.

Ross Thatcher, Premier Douglas Ready to Debate

MOSSBANK, Sask. (CP) — Premier T. C. Douglas and Ross Thatcher mark the climax of a lengthy political feud here Monday night in a long-heralded public debate as part of the federal election campaign.

The oratorical contest between the leader of Saskatchewan's CCF government and the colorful federal candidate in Assiniboia who left the CCF caucus to join the Liberals, is the talk of this quiet farming village.

Hundreds of farmers, city workers and holiday tourists plus a battery of politicians, newspaper, radio and TV reporters are expected to invade the village, 90 miles southeast of Moose Jaw.

"It will be the biggest thing that ever hit Mossbank," said Carnel Willets, village overseer. "We expect up to 7,000 visitors." Mossbank's population is 600.

Subject of the debate is Saskatchewan's Crown corporations but the whole question of socialism in Canada may be fought out on the platform before the evening is through.

The Douglas - Thatcher dispute goes back to 1955 when Mr. Thatcher, member for Moose Jaw - Lake Centre in the last House, defected from the CCF party. He now crossed the Commons floor to become a Liberal.

Last October, the 52- year old premier challenged Mr. Thatcher to cross verbal swords on any public platform in Assiniboia and pledged he'd be "bound him (Thatcher) from one end of the constituency to another."

The premier issued the challenge when he took exception to remarks made by Mr. Thatcher in the Commons on Saskatchewan's Crown corporations.

Expect Weather To be Cool on Victoria Day

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada will celebrate Victoria Day with 21-gun salutes, country fairs, beauty queens, sports events and politicking.

The Monday holiday, which also marks Empire Day and Canada's celebration of the Queen's birthday, will provide a three-day weekend for many workers.

Postal workers, for example, will get Thursday off as well as Monday. There will be no home deliveries of mail and only main wickets in central post offices will remain open.

The weather is expected to be cool but sunny throughout most of the country. Showers are feared in the Maritimes.

The weatherman forecast cloudy skies for the whole province of Ontario, but train and bus bookings were still reported high. Provincial police warned motorists to be careful—at least 15 accidental deaths were expected.

PICKET LINES SET ON WHAT MAY BE LENGTHY STRIKE

Aluminum Workers At Arvida Walk Out

ARVIDA, Que. (CP) — Picket lines barred the entrance today to the Aluminum Company of Canada's giant smelter here as 6,500 employees settled in for what is expected to be a lengty strike.

The workers, members of the National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL), walked off their jobs Friday. The union's principal demand is for a master contract to cover the company's nine plants in Quebec although requests for wage increases and a shorter work week also are involved.

Negotiations between the union and the company broke down in Montreal Thursday and union leaders returned to Arvida to call the men out. No incidents were reported as the overnight workers filed from their jobs at the end of their strike.

DIDN'T SPREAD

At first it was thought the strike might spread to the company's other plants in the province but those workers remained on their jobs. The company has smelters in Shawinigan Falls, Isle Maligne and Beauharnois, the Ile aux Jongleurs Railway and the Roberval and Saguenay Railway: Saguenay Terminals Ltd., a shipping company, and power plants at Isle Maligne and Shipshaw. It also has power generating stations at Chute du Diable and Chute a la Savane.

The company expressed regret that the union did not accept an offer of a 47½-cent-an-hour increase spread over the next three years as recommended by an arbitration board. The union wants an immediate 20-cent-an-hour increase with adjustments in the job evaluation system and recognition of seniority by the company.

Top-Level Policy Review Set off by Red Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pressure by Russia for a Western reply to his latest disarmament plan has set off a top-level review of United States disarmament policy.

The state department announced late Friday that new decisions are in the making. They are expected by the end of next week.

Harold E. Stassen, U.S. representative in United Nations disarmament talks at London, returned to Washington earlier Friday. Shortly afterward, he made a 2½-hour report to State Secretary Dulles, Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, Robert Cutler, White House aide on National Security Council matters, and other officials.

It was understood that Soviet representative Valerian Zorin told the five-power meeting in London a few days ago that Russia did not see how any further negotiating could be effectively carried on until the Western powers had replied to Soviet proposals of April 3.

The Russian proposal, which covered all aspects of disarmament from ending hydrogen bomb tests to cutting military manpower and setting up a limited system of international aerial inspection, has interested American officials chiefly on two points.

In the first place, it was interpreted here as meaning that Russia accepts the principle of aerial inspection — long advocated by President Eisenhower — as applied to Soviet territory. In the second place, it expressly declared Russia's readiness to approach a disarmament agreement by relatively easy stages instead of insisting on initial development of a complete program, beginning with abandonment of atomic weapons as instruments of war.

Informed sources reported that Stassen has described as a more serious attitude on the part of Russia toward disarmament efforts. He have given rise to some optimism about the possibility of reaching a limited agreement on arms reduction and a system of inspection.

WOMAN SPIKED HUBBY'S BEER WITH RAT POISON

Says She Used Arsenic To Cure Drinking Habit

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A woman who said she had been spiking her husband's beer with arsenic-loaded rat poison for the last four years "to cure him of the drinking habit" was held to stay on a charge of trying to murder him.

Mrs. Lucy Wireman, 30, said she learned of the "cure" while living in Kentucky. She denied she was trying to kill her 36-year-old husband, Orus.

"I didn't want to hurt him," Mrs. Wireman said. "I just wanted to help. I still love him."

SEVERE CASE

The severest case is in hospital here with a "severe case of arsenic poisoning."

Mrs. Wireman, a mother of three, was arraigned on the charge Friday. She was held under $2,000 bond.

Orus "had a drinking problem," she said. "A friend of mine in Salyersville, Ky., told me if I gave him the stuff it would cure his drinking."

She said police she bought two boxes of rat poison in 1955 and laced her husband's beer with it for four years.

Wireman first entered hospital Dec. 9 complaining of stomach pains. Hospital authorities diagnosed his ailment as poisoning of an undetermined character. He re-entered the hospital last month and doctors pinpointed the trouble.

Three Killed As Car Strikes Side of Truck

ST. LEON, Que. (CP)—A man and two of his daughters were killed Friday night in a collision between a car and a truck on a highway this community 35 miles west of Trois-Rivieres.

Police identified the victims as Eugene Lampron, 47, of nearby St. Paulin, his daughter Jacqueline, 22, and another daughter, Mrs. Antonio Paquin, 28, of St. Leon. All were passengers in the car.

The accident occurred at an intersection with the car striking the side of the truck. The driver of the truck, Onias Gelinas, 35, of St. Alexis-des-Monts, suffered head injuries.

Crushed to Death

INGERSOLL (CP) — One man was killed and another escaped injury Friday when a rock slide crushed the cab of a power shovel at the nearby quarry of the Canada Cement Co.

Dead is Jack Matheson, 30, of Embro, the shovel operator who was pinned in the front of the cab. After being released by fellow workmen with crushed chest, he died in hospital a few hours after the accident.

William Johnson, 32, of Lakeside, was standing behind Matheson at the time but jumped clear as the slide occurred.

Nuclear Tests Injected Into Hot Election Campaign

By CP STAFF WRITER

An issue now drawing world attention—nuclear tests — has been injected into the June 10 federal election campaign.

CCF Leader Coldwell said Friday night that radioactivity in the atmosphere from atomic and hydrogen bomb explosions is nearing the danger point.

He said the Canadian government should launch a movement among the world's smaller powers to put a stop to nuclear tests by the United States, United Kingdom and Russia.

Mr. Coldwell made the statements in a recorded radio talk broadcast Friday. His main belief was en route from Toronto to Saskatoon, Sask., where he scheduled to address a public meeting tonight.

At Calgary, External Affairs Minister Pearson said in an interview that the government was accepting as "satisfactory" British Prime Minister Macmillan's assurance that "effectively little fallout" would result from current British H-bomb tests in the Pacific.

He did not elaborate when asked to be a reporter about Canada's reaction to the H-bomb tests in the face of warnings by some scientists of radioactive contamination of the atmosphere.

But he did say that any plan to end H-bomb tests would first require Russian agreement on United Nations' inspection of Soviet territory.

Meanwhile, at Regina, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader, proposed establishment of a Canadian energy board to ensure the public welfare is protected in power developments.

He also pledged Conservative support for a South Saskatchewan River development project, a multi-million-dollar scheme to which Prime Minister St. Laurent is so far has offered federal backing on grounds it would not be self-liquidating.

Mr. St. Laurent concluded a four-day swing through Southern Ontario with a speech at Belleville in which he suggested that Premier Frost is backing Mr. Diefenbaker because he hopes to obtain a key post in the Cabinet if the Conservative leader becomes prime minister.

Mr. St. Laurent led in his broadcast speech, which originated in Ottawa, that the big powers have reached a diplomatic impasse on methods to halt nuclear tests.

"The Soviet Union has purposefully continued with its tests in open disregard of the fact that scientists are beginning to discover about the dangers of these tests," he said. "The United States, how the United Kingdom, too, is joining in the hydrogen bomb race.

"It is now time for the smaller powers of the world to take a hand. This question is not just a matter for the great powers to decide.

"Canada could use her position in the Commonwealth and the United Nations to take an imaginative lead in this matter and bring this great issue before a special session of the UN."

The prime minister even in the midst of this election campaign not to delay."

Parents Pray, Watch at Pitbead Until Little Son Brought Out Alive

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Hour after hour, the boy's mother sat, silent and unmoving, staring through a window.

Beneath her eyes, between the window and the pit, a white sheet lay on the ground.

That sheet covered the mouth of the narrow well where her son, Benny, had fallen into the sandy bottom of the back-yard pit and drifted away.

Then she had wrapped a white scarf around her head, and although it was a warm day, she sat huddled in a rocking chair. She was wearing dark glasses.

Her face was ashen.

From time to time her lips moved as though she were praying.

Many people around the spot where the ground had swallowed seven-year-old Benny-Hooper were praying. Nobody thought the boy would be brought from his sandy prison alive.

Dr. Joseph Kris kept answering, whenever reporters asked about the boy's chances, "possible, but not probable."

Dr. Kris is the local doctor—the typical country practitioner, inexhaustible. His eyes were bloodshot from lack of sleep, but he kept moving tirelessly around the pit, giving advice, going into the family living room to reassure comforting Ben Hooper, Sr., and the woman at the window.

Late in the afternoon, as the sun began to drop toward the horizon, a reporter said to Dr. Kris:

"Look, Doc, it would be a miracle if he's still alive now, wouldn't it?"

"It would be a miracle" the physician said, "a real miracle."

Still, you could see he clung to some slim hope. Or perhaps it was only faith.

Bengal Tiger on Loose Sees Red Then Meekly Submits to Captors

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)— A Bengal tiger got loose on the Paris Express Friday night and chewed up Iron Curtain red tape.

Prime Minister in Happy Pose With Candidate's Family

Little Elizabeth Follwell, three-year-old daughter of Hastings-South Liberal candidate Frank S. Follwell, is just a bit shy at being held by Prime Minister Hon. Louis St. Laurent, following yesterday's rally at Belleville Collegiate. Shown with the Prime Minister and Elizabeth are Mr. and Mrs. Follwell with their son Minister and Elizabeth are Mr. and Mrs. Follwell with their son Michael, aged 5. Collegiate rally was attended by an overflow crowd.

Rev. A.L. Ellis Leaving City In Near Future

Closing exercises of Canadian Bible Institute at the Pentecostal Church, 84 North Front street, scheduled for this weekend will coincide with the departure from Belleville of Rev. A. L. Ellis, pastor of the North Front street church.

Mr. Ellis will give his farewell sermon on Monday at the graduation exercise for the Bible Institute and in the near future will return to the United States, where he will go back into evangelistic work.

Since coming to Belleville seven years ago, Mr. Ellis was mainly responsible for the building of the New Pentecostal Church on North Front street and did much of the actual construction work himself.

To assist in financing the new church Mr. Ellis entered into the contracting business with profits from the construction of new homes being used to reduce the church mortgage. The new church is now nearly clear of debt according to Mr. Ellis.

Closing exercises of the Bible Institute will also see the installation of Rev. H. H. Rabbie, as the new pastor. Mr. Rabbie comes to Belleville after 14 years in Napanee.

The Bible Institute closing exercises will get underway Saturday evening with a youth rally and continue all day Sunday and Monday with Mr. Ellis' farewell message on Monday evening.

$16,000 Fund For Homeless

SUDBURY (CP)—A relief fund for families who lost their homes in last week's rash of bush fires in the Sudbury district topped the $16,000 mark Friday night.

The fund is to help residents of Skead and Bowland's Bay, two tiny communities on the south shore of Lake Wanapitei between 14 and 20 miles northeast of here. Most of the damage by the fires that left 88 homeless was caused by bush arms.

Roger Rose, fund chairman, said "not a word has been heard from the provincial government in reply to our inquiry as to what help they would give."

NEW MANAGER FOR BELLEVILLE STORE

Mr. F. W. VanDusen, President of VanDusen Floorcraft Limited, is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Stuart A. Nelson as Belleville Branch Manager. Mr. Nelson brings to the position, thirty years of experience in the plumbing and heating business. He was formerly with Miller and Morris, Steam Fitting Supplies of Toronto.

Prime Minister Welcomed By Overflow Crowd in BCI; Discusses Election Issues

Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday accused Premier Leslie Frost of trying to make a political alliance with John Diefenbaker in the election battle with the hope of getting paid off with a better tax deal for Ontario.

Mr. St. Laurent addressed an overflow crowd in the auditorium of the Belleville Collegiate Institute after a sudden rain fall cancelled plans to hold the rally on the school's campus.

He was greeted at the school by Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, Alderman Effie McGhee, Donald McNevin, president of the Belleville Liberals' Assoc., Irvin McCaughey, president of the South Hastings Liberal Assoc. and others.

Before entering B.C.I., the prime minister walked over to the parade of drum majorettes and Belleville Highland Pipe Band and thanked them for "coming out and giving me this nice welcome."

As he climbed the few steps into the school, he stopped for a minute and spoke a few words to Margaret Payne, who is confined to a wheel chair, and gave the young miss his autograph.

Once in the school Mr. St. Laurent resumed his springing walk and swiftly crossed the auditorium stage amid a tremendous ovation.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Mayor Forrester said, "It is an honor to be the bearer of the official greetings of Belleville."

Mr. St. Laurent was accompanied by Frank S. Follwell, Liberal member of the parliament at Ottawa since 1949 and who is seeking re-election in June. He assessed the leadership the Prime Minister that the "team at Ottawa has done so much to bring Canada that high standard of living and especially that peace and prosperity that they enjoy today."

Robert Temple, secretary of the South Hastings Liberals' Assoc., thanked Mr. St. Laurent for addressing the assembly.

Among the guests were Mrs. McDowell, daughter of the prime minister who was presented with a bouquet of roses by little Elizabeth Follwell and Clinton Green, Liberal candidate in the riding of Prince Edward — Lennox, Dr. D. C. McVicker, mayor of Deseronto and Mrs. Follwell.

Mr. St. Laurent left the school, sitting in the right-front seat of a car driven by him to the dining car on the train, that later carried him to Quebec City.

That, while the Liberal leader, would mean either higher taxes for the individual or less revenue for other provinces. He challenged the National Progressive Conservative leader to say which course he would follow.

"Just what are Mr. Frost and Mr. Diefenbaker up to?" he asked.

The question is not only much on the minds of the people of Ontario but also in Quebec and in Eastern and Western Canada."

CHALLENGES WRITERS

While aiming his main fire at Mr. Diefenbaker-Frost team, the 75-year-old Liberal leader also hit out at editorial writers who act as "pontiffs" and criticize government actions. He challenged them to get out from behind their desks and test their "superior judgment" on the political platform.

This flare-up against editorial writers sprang from an editorial in the Toronto Globe and Mail taking issue with Mr. St. Laurent's views on federal-provincial tax-sharing.

The editorial, entitled Equality Arrangement had provided provinces with equality, when in essence it had not.

Under the plan, federal equalization payments were made to all provinces except Ontario. Alberta, which had a heavy surplus, was getting nothing.

IS AMUSED

Mr. St. Laurent told the town hall gathering of some 500 persons, including many students, that he was "amused" to read this editorial. If one of the "wise men" who had written the article were elected to Parliament, he would have to be "a bit more careful with his facts."

Alberta obtained much revenue from oil royalties, Ontario and Quebec gained royalties from forest lands. But these royalties had nothing to do with the tax arrangements which dealt only with revenue from direct taxes—those levied on personal and corporation incomes and succession duties.

With obvious sarcasm, he added:

"It is most unfortunate, even a bit unfair, that these gentlemen (the editorial writers) with their superior judgment do not offer themselves for public office.

"This country is entitled to get the best people possible to represent it in government. And they might just not be elected and their appreciation of their superior wisdom might not be shared by the majority of the Canadian people."

Hit by Car Man Hurt

William Dean, about 72, of Marysville, was critically injured late Friday night when struck by a car as he walked along the highway near Marysville.

The injured man was taken by Ambulance to Belleville General Hospital and is under the care of Dr. D. J. McVicker of Deseronto.

Details of the accident are sketchy but police report the man was struck by a car driven by Herbert Thompson of Hamilton. Mr. Dean suffered a fractured skull, a broken leg and head injuries. Provincial Constable George Elliott investigated.

Earlier last night, a three-car crash was reported on No. 2 highway just east of Trenton. Involved were cars driven by three Trenton men, Tom Jardison, Front St.; Reginald Fowler, Fairview Crescent and Richard Nellson-Jones, 19 Pindall St. Provincial Constable Al. Cockburn investigated.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN CHURCHILL
Kingston

A former resident of Belleville, Mrs. Dora Churchill, died suddenly at her residence, 484 Princess St., Kingston, early this Saturday morning. She was in her 82nd year.

Mrs. Churchill was the widow of John C. Churchill and the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bullis.

She leaves two sons, Jonas of Belleville and Charles of Kingston.

Deceased was born at Glen Buell, Ont., and lived in Kingston for the past 18 years.

She was affiliated with the Presbyterian church.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Ave.; funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. BLANCHE VICTORIA ALEXANDER
Madoc

A highly esteemed resident of Madoc, Mrs. Blanche Victoria Alexander, widow of Dr. W. P. J. Alexander, was buried in Lakeview Cemetery on Thursday, after a largely attended funeral service was conducted by Rev. F. F. Lane in the chapel of the Mackenzie Funeral Home.

Bearers were Murray Smith, Colin Ross, Walter Snell, Thomas Rupert, Ross Alexander and John Bristol.

A service under the direction of Madoc Rebekah Lodge, Madoc, was held in the funeral chapel, Mrs. Alexander being a former member of the Bancroft chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

For many years she played the organ and directed the choir in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc and was a member of the Ladies' Aid church in the village.

The late Mrs. Alexander was born in Madoc township and graduated from Madoc Continuation School. She attended the Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby, from which she graduated with the Gold Medallist degree in voice.

Mrs. Alexander was predeceased by her husband, who died in 1931, and since then devoted her time to teaching music in Madoc and district and throughout the district, as well as conducting private music classes.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benson O'Hara and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Roscoe (Aileen) Vanderveer of Foxboro and Mrs. Percy (Minnie) Maines of Waterloo. Mrs. Alexander also left several nieces and nephews, among them being John Kincaid, former County Warden of Hastings, who is well known in fraternal organizations in the Madoc district.

Although she was born in Madoc Township, Mrs. Alexander resided for a time at Lethbridge, Alberta, Toronto, Bancroft and Bloomfield.

Health Minister Praises Work Of PC George Tustin in House

Astonishment that the Conservatives of Prince Edward-Lennox did not nominate George Tustin as their candidate on June 10 was expressed by Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health.

In an address to a Liberal meeting, Mr. Martin said: "I was greatly surprised when I read in the paper that the party had failed to have the support of the Conservative party at the convention that was recently held." Mr. Tustin was federal member for Prince Edward-Lennox for 12 years but lost the PC nomination to Clarence Milligan.

"I'm sure that many thousands of people of all parties were greatly surprised that a man beloved by all members, notwithstanding their political views, should not be renominated.

"The Conservative party has not had any man more interested in the problems of his constituents," Mr. Martin declared. "He always thought it that this man was the second most important man in the house next to the leader of the opposition. As chief whip of the Conservatives he was the directing force behind Mr. Diefenbaker in the House of Commons.

"I fail to understand what motivations directed the people who failed to renominate George Tustin," he continued. "There is a great place for the Conservative party in the public life of our country. The great tragedy of the opposition party is the fact that it ceased to be the Conservative party.

"The Conservative party today is an imitating party," he continued. "It no longer has policies originated by the Liberal or other parties.

"Thousands of Conservative-minded men and women would welcome the reorganization of the party in the style of Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier," he concluded. "But the party has disposed of its great leaders.

"What has happened to George Tustin also happened to Hon. Gordon Graham, R. Bennett, Arthur Meighen and Manion. This incident in Prince Edward-Lennox will have its reflections all over the country. It is undoubtedly not the end of Mr. Green."

Mr. Martin was speaking to a good crowd in Picton's parish hall in support of Clinton Green, Liberal candidate on June 10.

25 Attend Course Held At Local Plant

St. John Ambulance held open training at the Deloro Steelite plant in a night evening class last with about twenty-five people in attendance.

Mrs. Ruby Brady, certified first aid instructor, who is conducting a first aid class at the plant, spoke on the respiratory system, the different causes of asphyxiation and the need for immediate application of artificial respiration.

Following the talk Mrs. Brady with demonstrated step by step the Holger Nielson method of artificial respiration.

Mrs. Edith Anderson, superintendent of the Belleville Nursing Division of St. John Ambulance, took charge of the demonstration, the class participation, and everyone present had an opportunity of practising the Holger Nielson method.

St. John Ambulance will hold an open night at their headquarters at 204 Front Street, Belleville, on Wednesday, May 29th. This training is free and if you are interested in learning how to save a life, or how to by giving artificial respiration, phone WO 2-3035, or write St. John Ambulance, 204 Front St., Belleville.

IN MEMORIAM

PARKS — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Edward Blake Parks, who left us May 20, 1956.
Every day in some small way,
Dear Dad, we miss you more.
Though absent, you are ever with us,
And still loved as ever dear.
Sadly missed by grandchildren Arlene and Edward Reeks, Donald and Valerie Parks.

PARKS — In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Edward Blake Parks, who left us May 20, 1956.
Left a solemn lesson, the years go by,
But in our hearts, he will never die.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Mildred, daughter Mrs. Ed Reeks, son Orley and Mary Parks.

BEATTY — In loving memory of a dear aunt, Hazel Mabel Beatty, who left us May 20, 1955.
One year since the angels came,
One year since we called away;
God took you home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Lovingly remembered by Mrs. Ed and Ed. Reeks and family, Orley and Mary Parks and family.

LYONS — In loving memory of wife and mother, who passed away one year ago, May 20, 1956.
We lost a friend with a heart of gold,
We miss more to us than words can tell.
Without farewell he left us sleeping,
Not a moment's thought has he given,
We have lost, but God has gained,
One of the best He found the world could lend.
Lovingly remembered by husband, son-in-law, daughter and son.

CHARLTON — In loving memory of a dear father, Alexander J. Charlton, who passed away May 21st, 1954.
Memories will linger forever
Sweet memories that never change them it's true,
Memories of one loved and lost,
Our loving remembrances they will be.
Lovingly remembered by family.
Remembered by Agnes, Mike and Jimmy.

HARDY — In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Hardy, who passed away May 21st, 1955.
We know that he is happy
In the Saviour's home above,
Growing fairer in the glory
Of the Father's love.
—Ever remembered by wife, daughter and son-in-law.

Potted Plants, Flowers Sought By Eager Buyers

The first illacs of the season appeared in all their glory on the market square this morning. At 25 cents a bunch they did not last long.

A wide variety of potted plants also contributed to draw plenty of attention.

Flats for replanting in the garden to bring early vegetables to the dining table were meeting a rising demand on the market.

The staples remained steady with potatoes at 75c a peck, and fowl at 60c for capons, 50c for chickens, and 45c for fowl.

THE MARK OF A REALLY SMART PERSON
The mark of a really smart person is not necessarily a college diploma or a Phi Beta Kappa key. It might be simply a record of carefully-considered actions.
To "know it all" would be wonderful — if we humans could absorb that much knowledge in a lifetime. Next best is to seek and accept the advice of experts, particularly your Doctor.
Visit him frequently. Follow his directions carefully. Bring your prescriptions to us to be filled, and take the medicine he prescribes regularly.
Such cooperation is the best course possible for preservation of your health, and it marks you as a really smart person.

A Lift for Living

'He Who Hesitates Is Lost'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Deferring decisions is demoralizing and dangerous business. Good intentions cannot be held long in suspense. Who can compute how much folly and failure and sin have resulted from vacillation? The man who is unable to make up his mind is a torment to himself and an object of reproach to others who frequently suffer from his hesitation and fickleness.

The power of decision is the moral backbone of character. When a person of decisive mind appears in our midst, he disposes men to follow him as floating objects are drawn into the wake of a speeding vessel.

We have seen, for instance, a scene of an accident. They stand, staring helplessly, chattering ineffectually, unable to help the situation. Then suddenly a man of calm determination forces his way through the press, sizes up the situation at a glance, decides in a moment what can or should be done and directly proceeds to do it. How the others acknowledge and yield to the master spirit!

WHEN OF DECISION

It is men of decision who, when a ship is foundering, calm the passengers and prevent disorder. It is men of that stamp who bring order into a demoralized community and rally the forces of reconstruction.

During the Battle of the Bulge, a demand for surrender was delivered to a young American general—general McAuliffe—who expressed his decision succinctly. "Nuts," he replied. Marshal Foch, fighting against overwhelming odds said, "We shall attack."

It was said of William Pitt that he formed his plans with such promptitude and executed them with such vigor that no man ever spent five minutes with him in conference without leaving a braver man than when he entered.

Yes, strength of character is developed by clinching our convictions with decisive action. And our moral foundations are undermined by deferring decisions.

How pointedly Jesus put this truth at the conclusion of those sayings which we call the Sermon on the Mount. He said: "Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock:

"IT FELL NOT"

"And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

"And every one that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand:

"And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house and it fell: and great was the fall of it."

To hear the call of duty and do nothing about it, to face a challenging opportunity and then turn away, to be haunted by high aspirations of the Holy Spirit and then keep to our low ways of living, to have the Christ knock at the door of one's heart and then turn Him away — such actions serve to undermine the foundations of character.

Oh, you say, hasty decisions also play havoc. The wise man takes time to think a matter over before he decides. True. But you cannot stand absolutely still while you decide.

STEP OF DUTY

You have to take a next step in some direction. And seldom is a situation so dark or complex that a normal person cannot see at least one step of duty ahead. We are not centipedes, we are bipeds. And each of us can know how to put the better foot forward.

Thomas Carlyle uttered a profound truth when he said that if you do the duty next to you and then the duty next to that, it is amazing how the light begins to break on the ultimate duty.

Two parents have been in my study. Their daughter wants to marry a man of whom they disapprove. How the situation is to be ultimately settled is not yet clear. But the immediate next steps seems pretty plain to me. They must keep the confidence of their daughter.

It is my privilege to speak each year on many college campuses. There I meet students who are uncertain about the choice of their careers. I have great sympathy for them because I came to my graduation still at sea about my lifework.

But while a student may not know what he desires to be doing ten years from now, he certainly should know what kind of a person he wants to be a decade hence. We should not defer our decisions about our characters until we can decide on our careers.

HITS SEGREGATION

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S District Judge J. Skelly Wright Wednesday declared unconstitutional all city and state laws calling for segregation of the races in city parks and on street cars and buses in New Orleans. Wright said he would issue permanent injunctions to stop enforcement of the laws but did not say when.

REDISTRIBUTION PROBLEM

Whether the Canadian House of Commons should have a permanent speaker, after the British custom, may be open to debate. No party barriers, though, should prevent general approval of one suggestion advanced by Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker for changes in the organization of Parliament. This suggestion is for the appointment of an independent commission to carry out the decennial redistribution of federal constituencies.

In the past there have been many occasions when charges of "gerrymandering" have been made, it being contended that the party in power had cut up seats and rearranged them in a manner to heighten its chances and reduce those of the opposition. There are several ways in which this can be done. If there is one "safe" seat it may be possible to shift a proportion of the voters into a neighboring riding, so as to create an opportunity of winning in that riding without endangering the "safe" seat. Or, if the opposition has a "safe" seat which cannot be undermined by redistribution, then the trick is to move as many more opposition voters into it as possible, making the one seat safer than ever, but altering the chances of victory in one, two or even three neighboring ridings.

In a growing country such as Canada, it is obvious that future redistributions will require even more changes than the boundaries of ridings than has been true on many occasions in the past. The problem of seeing that such redistribution is carried out impartially therefore takes on even greater importance.

Another fact that will occur to many Canadians is that it may well be advisable to eliminate the preference which has been given to rural voters. Many urban ridings have much larger electorates than rural ridings. The plea has been made in the past that consideration must be given not only to the number of Canadians a member of Parliament represents, but also to the size of the riding whose needs he has to know and whose problems he has to solve. Modern transportation facilities, however, have made it much easier for a member to get about a rural riding, while the complexity of urban life must have added to the problems which the member for an urban riding must understand and be prepared to assist in solving. There is no sound reason why the vote of a person in a sparsely settled area should be worth twice as much as that of a dweller in the populous suburbs of Toronto — but that is exactly the situation which exists in many instances today.

Only an independent commission would be likely to possess the courage to face up to this problem in a realistic manner.

WILL RHEE GET A-BOMBS?

The world has been in a dither, the past few weeks, over Britain's H-Bomb test at Christmas Island in the Pacific.

There was sound reason for concern, for the concensus appears to be that we have no assurance that the fallout from such tests will not affect coming generations.

Tests, though, dangerous they may perhaps be, do not constitute as great a hazard as the possibility that atomic bombs will be used in a war, someplace, sometime, by somebody.

It is, therefore, passing strange that a proposal by the U.S. to provide South Korea with atomic weapons should have occasioned hardly a ripple on the pond of world opinion.

Perhaps this is because the U.S. is not planning on supplying atomic weapons at all, but only missiles which could be equipped with atomic warheads. An Associated Press report, though, said that: "Unofficially South Korean army officers are anticipating the early arrival of the new weapons, with atomic warheads for cannon and rocket-launched first."

That the South Koreans proved themselves stubborn foes of Communism cannot be denied. President Syngman Rhee, however, on more than one occasion proved himself something less than co-operative with his Western allies. There will be many who will consider giving him control over atomic warheads creates a situation in the Far East which cannot be described as comfortable.

But then, of course, the Associated Press report may have been in error. Even a man who walks the brink might be expected to hesitate before accepting an atom-bomb armed Rhee as a companion for an evening stroll.

DEDICATION

Not alone must valiant youth
Brave the battlefields for truth.
These are desperate times that call
For high service from us all;
Times when selfish interests may
God and country both betray.

There are foes without, within,
Who from us our land would win.
Banish God and freedom blight,
Scourge us with the rod of might.
And should weak we prove to be
Drag us down to slavery.

As a people free we stand,
Bulwark of our glorious land.
These are times when God above
Needs our courage and our love.
Down the ages freedom's price
Has been paid with sacrifice.

For the long year this our task:
All that God and country ask,
All that liberty demands
We must do with willing hands,
And resolve unto the end
God and country to defend.

Power From Volcanoes

By E. G. Schwimmer in Unesco Features

Suddenly vegetation comes to an end; there is a smell of sulphur in the air and the ground is covered with a thick white crust. Nothing grows there and it feels warm underfoot. A notice warns visitors not to proceed except at certain intervals, or fountains of hot water spurt forth into the air. Elsewhere, boiling-hot mud slowly bubbles like a simmering porridge, or steam rises gently from pink, deep blue or green colored lakes embedded in the brittle silicified soil.

Places such as these are among the most extraordinary haunts in New Zealand. In fact, there are seventeen of them upon the golden of fire to rescue him from the cold. Ngatoro was revived by the fires brought by the boiling-hot mud slowly the Maori people have used the hot springs for cooking, washing and bathing.

Centuries later, European settlers discovered that in many places the natural warmth of steam or hot water could be tapped by drilling a shallow well. This is now in particular hundreds of householders have hot taps in their back-yards and laundries.

But up to the end of the last war no one thought of using this heat for industrial purposes. Then the reasons became clear: that there were no more suitable locations for hydro-electric power stations in the North Island. New sources of power had to be found and a group of scientists and engineers was sent to investigate the hidden stores of geothermal steam on the volcanic plateau, to carry out a program of drilling, and report to the Government on the prospects of an economic geothermal power station.

Geothermal power has long been exploited on a large scale at Larderello in Italy, and in 1948 New Zealand engineers made a thorough study of Italian methods. They found, however, that conditions at Larderello were completely different from those in New Zealand.

Geologically, the whole Rotorua-Taupo geothermal region is a huge, downward depression or "graben" of volcanic origin. The underlying rock country is largely confined to three large volcanoes — Ruapehu, Ngauruhoe and White Island — and to the thermal regions.

Long ago, volcanic vents in the area threw out immense clouds of incandescent sand which was so hot when falling that its particles were still plastic enough to weld together, first to a firm, almost lava-like rock, forming in some places a monolithic bed of tuff over 1,000 feet thick. The total volume of this sheet of tuff is said far short of 2,000 cubic miles.

After this, came a long series of showers of pumice (or lightspongy lava) which continued until fairly recently to partly fill up the graben. In the area where the bores are located, thousands of feet are from 1,000 to 4,000 feet thick.

The pumice rock is highly porous. Ground water has seeped through it, and it is this water which is heated by the steam below. The process might be described as a "two-way operation". Gas at a temperature of perhaps 1,000°C. from the magmatic or fluid strata deep in the bowels of the earth finds fissures too small to allow the viscous magma itself to penetrate, and then make contact with the ground water seeping down towards it. New Zealand engineers have developed a "special device, the bathythermograph, which can measure the temperatures of water down to depths of 2,000 feet. Maximum temperature measured is 268°C. When this water surges up to the surface of the earth and the heavy pressure on it is removed, a portion of it is vaporized, and both steam and water emerge from the well-heads.

Although small flows of hot water probably occur throughout the volcanic region, quantities suitable for economic development are only present in the thermal areas. Geologists have mapped a great number of these areas in the region, which are invisible on the ground but appear as straight lines on aerial photographs. Practically all visible thermal activity is related to these fault lines through which it is believed that the hot water and steam are carried up to the surface.

The location chosen for exploratory drilling was Wairakei, near Lake Taupo, previously known only as a tourist centre. But by 1953 Wairakei was producing enough steam from shallow bores to provide the adequate supply for a 20,000 kilowatt power station; the exploratory stage was over.

The establishment was enlarged and placed under Wairakei, of a special project engineer, Mr. A.L.C. Fooks, who, like most of the engineers at Wairakei, had previously worked on the building of hydro-electric dams, New Zealand's biggest engineering projects. Mr. Fooks and his colleagues had no previous experience of steam or oil drilling techniques but, true to pioneering traditions, they were versatile and prepared, where necessary, to improvise solutions for unfamiliar problems.

Deciding that far more steam could be obtained by drilling deeper, Mr. Fooks and his team obtained two rotary rigs much bigger than the oil-drilling equipment previously used. An Australian consultant was engaged to advise on drilling policy and it was soon confirmed that deep bores were generally more productive than the less productive level at which to find steam between 1,000 and 2,000 feet. Above that, the yield is smaller; below lies the impermeable bed rock. Last year, 70% of the bores drilled, in places ranging from 1,000 feet, engineers and engineers, struck productive faults at depth a very satisfactory result.

Soon steam began to gush out in such prodigious quantities that the well-heads roared day and night, and the noise was so loud that workers were driven nearly demented by silencers had to be designed which reduced the pressure of the steam.

A power house is now being built at Wairakei to generate 69,000 kilowatts utilizing steam only. The Government is considering proposals to further turbines to raise production to 250,000 or 350,000 kilowatts. Not only the steam, but also the hot water from the bores will be used. At present hot water constitutes the larger part of the bore output; it will provide a vast quantity of steam when pressure is reduced.

An important part of geothermal development is the measurement of output and the careful keeping of detailed records. Some bores decline in output as the years go by, probably due to cementing of the feeding fault zone by silica and other minerals dissolved in the water. But so far there is no sign of the supply of hot water being overdrawn.

Nobody knows, however, what will happen when the supply of hot water and steam is at last exhausted. Will the flow of hot magmatic steam increase, or is the flow constant, so that when the present rate of steam extraction? Long as the latter is also likely that there are other fissures in the earth's crust through which the steam can be tapped for power.

For instance, the mills of the Tasman Pulp and Paper Company, built only a few miles at Kawerau, will probably ultimately have a geothermal power plant of its own. Hot water, like, in the near future, geothermal steam will be used for kiln-drying timber. Waitkei drilling crews have also started drilling operations on a second geothermal steam station at Wairotapu, 20 miles from Rotorua.

Will this solve the North Island's power problems? It is much too early yet to say what the final capacity of the geothermal plateau will be, but New Zealand is also pursuing its efforts to find power in the North Island by more orthodox means. It seems, however, that the cost of geothermal power generation will compare favorably with that of hydro-electric power. This alone justifies this new effort by a country to exploit the strange resources hidden deep beneath the surface of the earth.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Every boy in the block on which I lived in my childhood collected birds' eggs. Except in museums, I have never even heard of a birds' egg collection in more than thirty years. It is one of the most curious revolutions of modern times, and those who have high hopes of the possibilities of reforming human nature by gentle persuasion can take hope from it. Between the collections between 1900 and 1920, to a-basic egg collection today.

A birds' egg collection had a special fascination. To begin with, the eggs themselves, in their infinite variety, were beautiful and spectacular. To collect them involved a challenge. You had to be a hunter, a watcher, an explorer and a climber. To preserve them, blow them, called upon skill and a high degree of patience. A good deal of pride went into the preparation of the boxes in which the collections were kept. There was trading, too...The boys visited from house to house, inspecting and comparing the collections of their fellows. There was, in some measure, a profit in it, for some of the adult collectors paid good money for a rare egg. In the neighborhood in which I lived there were four men who collected tins than stamp collections. Stamps were for sissies.

Then, somewhere in the early 1900's, a quiet propaganda was launched against egg collecting. In what were called the "nature study" periods in the public schools teachers began to deprecate egg collecting, and government pamphlets were distributed, which put a new emphasis on the living birds rather than on their eggs. Then laws were brought in protecting the song and insectivorous birds on grounds of agricultural economy, and one clause covered the taking of the eggs of these protected birds.

But it was not the law alone that put an end to the egg collector's hobby. It was a powerfully backed by the books of Ernest Thompson Seton, W.J. Long and Charles G.D. Roberts, that, in the early years of the century, launched the boy and girl looking at nature instead of consuming it. It became not merely unlawful, it became unseemly to collect eggs. Today, I can't imagine anybody, even a small child, attempting an acquisitive instinct that must, in the case of birds' eggs, these jewels, be as old as man himself.

The "Klinick" Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out

Here's a poor soul in danger of being exploited by racketeers that have invaded the field of medicine in recent years. She writes:

"I am a working mother, 42 years old, and I wish you would enlighten me in reference to the statement in your pamphlet that high blood pressure does not occur from the menopause. My doctor, of the—Clinic, is keeping a check on my blood pressure. It goes up very fast and comes down in a few minutes when I relax. Taking pills, which do not help. Never had high blood pressure before, but now it seems..." (Mrs. D. S. A.)

In the first place, Ma'em, from the date you give, I'd say your "high blood pressure" is iatrogenic — doctor - caused. In the next place, the "clinic" you mention is Astide from that, it seems to me as quackish to tell a patient what her blood pressure reads as it is encouraging as to tell her that "change" causes whatever complaints she may have.

As your letter shows, your chief and only complaint is "high blood pressure." It would not be abnormal for the blood pressure of a man or a woman of your age to show just such variations as you mention, under similar anxiety.

I don't know enough about your way of living, to recommend a specific remedy, but I do advise you to get your mind off your blood pressure, cut loose from the phony "clinic," and adopt some sort of regular program which will give you adequate, daily physical activity or general exercise — such as five or six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day or housework or other exercise. Or, if you already have enough daily work or play to meet your requirement of general physical activities, let your two or three hours of recreation be spent in reading, gossiping, watching TV, or whatever loafing you enjoy.

Your letter indicates that you think, with Shakespeare, that's an ailment. It isn't. A real doctor can determine by ordinary examination of the arteries and the heart whether blood pressure is higher than it should be — and in some instances, high blood pressure is necessary or advantageous to the patient.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE LIGHT ETERNAL

Two little girls were looking at the Bible pictures, one of which was "The Good Shepherd." One of the youngsters pointed to it and said, "Look, that's a picture of God." "No," replied the other. "That's not God, that's Jesus. God never let his photograph taken."

Children have a way of seeing great Biblical truths and expressing them quite plainly in simple language. The youngster here pointed out two things which the Bible certainly teaches. The first is that no man at any time has seen God. To use the little girl's words, He has not had His photograph taken. The other truth is that we very plainly was that when we look at the picture of Jesus, we see the picture of God. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," Jesus said. Paul declared that the light of the knowledge of the glory of God is to be in the face of Jesus Christ.

This means for us that we are never to become discouraged and feel that God is far away and has no interest in our problems. We can see in the life of the world indeed when He allowed Hisdson to suffer death. Through the life of a man and live the human life with all its trials and temptations. When we think of God as He manifested Himself to us in Jesus Christ, He becomes very near. And because He is near, the Bible urges us never to lose hope.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TRUST YOURSELF

There is one place where I seem to be in a world apart — in my library. Here it is that I am in silent communion with the great of this earth — through their books. In these newspaper Talks I have given many hints, and suggest that I have passed on to others.

Others have also passed on to me. I think of the many who have enriched my own spirit. There was the late Christopher Morley who first interested me in "Dreamthorp," by Alexander Smith, who once said that the imagination be watered for what is to be "occasionally quoted." He wrote a little essay on essays that agree with as much pleasure today as when first published a hundred years ago. I am digging away fresh reading to me.

There is another little book that is a great favorite, George Gissing's "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft," under another literary gem, "The Roadmender," whose author is known only by his initials.

Michael Fairless, which I have so often mentioned in this column. There are scores of others, but others, but I merely mention these to explain how companionship experienced over the years through my many books.

I know of no truer companionship so enriching and so eternal. My books comfort me in sorrow when most I need encouragement and personal cheer. And nothing makes me happier than to share this gain with others. So many of my books, however, have been long out of print. How unfortunate! But I have found the "hunting" for many of these forms a real delight in itself invigorating.

It's like hunting for a friend you wish you could meet but whose name you do not know! Many a time I've read only to be stimulated to search for its "relative." Then, I've found, that while ones by the author whose one book has been such a joy. All my books are my silent companions.

by Nicholas Mika

There were many startling discoveries in medical science but perhaps one of the most interesting was the conquest of a dreadful disease called yellow fever. People died by the hundreds and thousands of this plague. Yellow fever spread panic through Cuba,

Panama and South America. When the French government tried to build the Panama Canal they lost twenty-five thousand workers. They had not counted on the enemy yellow fever, that forced them to give up.

It was only about sixty years ago. How to stop this plague nobody knew. Doctors watched helplessly the victims suffer unspeakable agonies. They knew the symptoms and could foretell the exact course the disease was going to take. But what they did not know was the cause. Some doctors believed that yellow fever like other diseases was spread by germs and thus was contagious. People therefore frantically burned clothes and bedding of those who had died, destroyed houses where the plague had raged, and even ships with the entire cargo were sunk if a crew member had been attacked by yellow fever. But it was like a curse, nothing seemed to stop the spread of the plague in the tropical countries.

And there was another stumbling block in the research work on yellow fever. Since only human beings were victims, no animals, not even monkeys, could be used for experimental tests.

Then the yellow fever

er came to an end. It was like this. A doctor in the rank of major of the United States Army's Medical Corps came to Cuba. His task was to conquer yellow fever. With a handful of assistants and brave, heroic volunteers he began a systematic investigation, an investigation that would not leave a single stone unturned.

"FIGHT LIKE SOLDIERS"

"Gentlemen," he said to his helpers, "we should consider yellow fever as an enemy and we should fight like soldiers!"

"The trouble is," somebody answered, "we don't know where our enemy is hiding."

So they went into every house where they knew people were dying of yellow fever. Some of them were taken to the hospital for better observation, hundreds, thousands of blood specimens taken and carefully examined. Every new outbreak was recorded and traced for its cause. It was hot and damp. The worst time for yellow fever. They were surrounded by the enemy, but they were as much in darkness as others before them.

Suddenly there came the turning point. "Doctor," said an old native, "believe it or not, the mosquitoes are spreading the plague!"

Well, the doctor was not one to dismiss lightly an idea like this. He was armed too thorough in his methods. Mosquitoes, he said to himself, that might be the answer.

BATTLE CONTINUES

The battle flared up again. To prove that the disease was not spread merely by contact with sick people, he called for volunteers to be isolated in a house with tightly screened windows and doors. They had to wear the soiled clothes of fever victims and sleep on the unchanged beds in which the unfortunate ones had died. The stench of the odor from the clothes and bedding was so strong that they coughed constantly.

And what do you think happened to these brave men? Did they fall victim to the fever as could have been expected? No, they left the dreadful house unharmed and healthy as they had entered it twenty days before. Some even gained weight from sitting around.

The doctor had proved a point. Now he gave orders to build a brand new house. Contrary to the first experiment, this time the strictest sanitary rules were to be observed. His assistant and best friend asked to be the next volunteer, — a fearless scientist who was destined to give his life for the benefit of others. The door closed behind him. His companions were a few mosquitoes that had feasted on the blood of the worst fever cases in the local hospital.

VOLUNTEER DIES

This time the doctor did not have to wait very long. The symptoms of yellow fever and the bloodshot eyes of the assistant were unmistakable. Three days later in spite of desperate attempts to pull him through, he died.

The doctor had found his enemy. A silver-striped, unusually pretty mosquito was the carrier of yellow fever.

Swamps surrounding villages and towns were fumigated. With the destruction of the mosquito, yellow fever disappeared. At last it was no longer impossible to build the Panama Canal, vital to the economy of the world.

To the doctor who fought fearlessly against one of the most dreadful plagues of mankind a beautiful memorial was erected in Washington — one of the most modern hospitals, herrin' his name — the conqueror of yellow fever, Dr. Walter Reed.

Dr. Walter Reed appeared on United States stamps in 1940.

The 11th Bridge St. United Church group are congratulating themselves on the active Cub fathers they are blessed with. They attend pack meetings and are a real help. Resulting from this a number of Cubs passed their First Star tests and on May 9th, four Sixers, Peter Ashley, Bob Ridley, Tony Savage and Jim White were presented with their Second Star.

Bill Kellett is the Cubmaster at Cub camp last year and is of the Cub camp last year and is of an inventive turn of mind. He is perfecting a machine for the control of Cubs. It will be interesting to see this gadget in operation at the Cub camp this year. A teacher at Albert College and interested in art — not modern his qualifications and personality makes him a natural leader for boys. A great man to know and a valuable asset to Scouting.

"Basically the cause of the world's problems is hunger. That's what causes wars. If the rising generation of children can learn concern for the hungry children of the world, we may have the end of wars."

RED SUBS ACTIVE

DETROIT (AP)—Admiral Jerauld Wright, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in the Atlantic, says that Russian submarine activity in the Atlantic is increasing. He said in an interview Thursday that "Russian subs have been sighted recently in all parts of the Atlantic. They probably have atom-powered subs and others capable of launching guided missiles, as we do."

Albert College Ready to Launch Big Celebration

This afternoon Albert College launches its centennial celebrations, starting with the registration and President's tea and winding up the day with the Alumni dance at Quinte Secondary in the evening.

Among the arrivals is Rev. Charles S. Applegath, now of Ashlabula, Ohio, who, about 52 years ago, while working his way through Albert College, carried the word of the Gospel around the Canniton Methodist Circuit, under the guidance of Rev. W.D.P. Wilson.

Mr. Applegath's clerical duties carried him to Canniton, Cerbyville and other communities, perched on a buggy with a temperamental horse in the lead, for two dollars a week or $100 a year.

At the time Mr. Applegath attended Albert, Dr. W. F. Dyer was the president of the college.

Mr. Applegath will bring greetings to the assembly on Sunday evening.

He retired from the ministry in June 1951 and since then he has devoted his time to promoting the sale of children's prayer plates and cups, made of fine china.

Glazed on the cups and plates is the story of a little boy and girl with heads bowed reverently over the dinner table offering the prayer, "Our Father, we thank Thee for this food; God bless us and all the hungry children everywhere. Amen."

Mr. Applegath said many church groups in the U.S. and Canada have been able to build up their treasury through the sale of these prayer plates.

VISUAL EDUCATION

The idea behind the cups and plates is to teach, by visual education, pre-school aged children to say grace at the table before eating. Over 40,000 of the articles have been sold.

He pointed out that the plates and cups are not sold in stores, rather they are sold exclusively by church organizations.

Mr. Applegath suggested that any church groups in Belleville and district that are interested in finding out more about this promotion, should write him care of 770 Kennedy Ave., Toronto 9, Ont. He hopes that others will not only learn to say grace before meals, but also will be reminded of the thousands of other children in the world who often must go hungry. The prayer Mr. Applegath composed to accompany the picture accomplishes this in a fitting way.

"I didn't find a suitable one in the prayer books, so I had to write

Beard for Celebration

Lola Blackmore, Ottawa, senior year student at Albert College where centennial celebrations are commencing today, has just a few misgivings about the two-inch growth of beard on fellow student's chin. Jim Baker, Campbellford, president of the graduating class, will preside over the festivities in a centennial beard-growing contest which has a number of entries among the boys of the graduating class.

PARENTS

Ben Hooper went into the house and you could see him through the window standing beside his wife. She took off her dark glasses and looked at him in mute, stony despair.

Their daughter, Wendy, 5, came to her side and she clutched the child to her. For a moment the family stood there together. Ben Hooper leaned over and kissed his wife. Then he went back out to the edge of the pit.

As Benny's time in his sandy prison ticked close to 24 hours, hope visibly drained out of everyone.

Then special telescoping tubes from the laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission were pushed through the sand. The crowd was silent, motionless.

At 6:59 p.m. the workers were close to Benny's prison. Over a portable loudspeaker a fireman said:

"Don't anybody move. Don't talk. Don't even breathe."

Everybody understood what he meant. The sand moved, almost like water. At that critical moment, if it had shifted again, Benny Hooper might never have come out alive.

A rescue worker clawing away sand with his hands touched Benny. The boy felt dead, he said.

Hooper heard that.

"I knelt down and prayed to God as they removed him from the well," he said.

A moment later, Sam Woodson took his turn in the tube and pulled Benny free.

He cradled the little boy in his arms, looked up and shouted, "Leroy, I think he's alive!"

And to Ben and Borghild Hooper it was indeed that miracle the doctor said was needed when they soon looked at them and said "Daddy" and "Mommy!"

Body Recovered

BRAMPTON (CP)—The body of 22-month-old Wayne MacNaughton was pulled from 18 inches of water in the Credit River Friday near Meadowvale, six miles south of here.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MacNaughton, live about ¼ of a mile from the drowning scene. The child strayed from home.

St. Laurent Believes War Ruled Out Because of Fear

TRENTON (Special)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent entertained the hearts of scores of small school children when he stopped here 20 mins. yesterday to address a crowd waiting more than an hour for him to arrive. The 75-year-old leader of the Liberal party looked extremely fit and bearing up well under the strain of a rigorous cross-country political speaking tour. His amusing reference to the two accidents he was involved in Thursday delighted the many youthful listeners.

"The one was my fault, he explained. I sat down on a wooden horse to have my picture taken with a little girl. The two of us were a bit too heavy and we broke it. But I assure you there was nothing hurt but my dignity. The youngsters broke in with spontaneous laughter.

"The other accident was simply a case of two cars trying to occupy the same place on the same highway, the Prime Minister disclosed. He told about the car he was riding in leaving the road and sliding into a ditch. He passed this mishap off as "not a matter of any importance." "Somebody might have been hurt, but I am now thankful nothing serious happened," he added.

The Prime Minister expressed disappointment that he was not able to see more people. "No matter how the vote goes in June he noted the one pleasure in that contest is away from me is the pleasure I derive in getting about seeing the people and the country."

DOING GOOD JOB CLAIM

Thanking reporters to his government's performance he observed: "I think we are doing a pretty fair job." He envisioned continued progress and prosperity unless there was a war. "But I don't think we are going to have another war," he said. "Such terrible instruments of destruction have been developed by both sides. I believe mutual fear is going to prevent us from getting into serious trouble. I think the young people of today are going to have a chance to grow up in peace."

He concluded his remarks with words of advice to the younger generation. "Be sure to hang on to our system of government where everything is done in the name of the sovereign by the majority elected in the House of Commons," he said. And as a footnote he offered: "I think we are going to have the majority after June."

Droplets of rain appeared on the scene as Mr. St. Laurent and his party filed down off the platform and began moving toward the cars that would take them to Belleville for the Prime Minister's next scheduled speaking engagement.

Weddings

COUROUX — STONEBURG

Spring flowers interspersed with ferns formed the setting for a double ring ceremony Saturday, April 27, at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of Mercy Church, Bancroft, when Father Sammon united in marriage Lois Belle Stoneburg, of Bancroft, and Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Couroux, Carleton Place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Couroux, Carleton Place. The wedding music included "Ave Maria" by Gounod and "On This Day."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white waltz-length nylon chiffon gown with overskirt of net and taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with inserts of embroidered slenecks. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown headdress of pleated net studded with pearls. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Vivian Stoneburg, of Bancroft, as maid of honor. She wore a dress of shrimp crystalette over taffeta with matching jacket and headdress, carrying a cascade bouquet of carnations and sweetpeas.

Little Darlene Stoneburg, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl, wearing aqua crystalette over taffeta with a scalloped neckline. She wore a matching headdress and carried a semi-cascade of carnations and sweetpeas. Little Steven Jones, Trenton, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Gerard Nantel of Ottawa, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Ronald Stoneburg, brother of the bride, and Erwin Marcoux, of Ottawa, were ushers.

Following the ceremony the wedding reception was held in the Legion hall, where the bride's mother received wearing light blue lace over taffeta with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing aqua taffeta with beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and around the lake, through the states to Ottawa, the bride chose a baby blue checked silk dress and matching short jacket, pink hat and black accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Couroux will reside in Ottawa. Guests attended from Belleville, Trenton, Oshawa, Wellington, Consecon, Carleton Place, Ottawa and Picton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored with a kitchen shower with Miss Mary E. Black, Belleville, as hostess. She was also presented with a pair of silver candelabra and silver entree dish by the staff of the London Life Insurance Company, Belleville, and a gift of money from the head office, in Toronto, Ontario.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Your Ontario Intelligencer reported two events this week which were seemingly enough unrelated, but by coincidence and accident are connected and were brought together in a mutual interest.

Wednesday's paper gave us an interesting account about a Canadian boy from Holland who is preparing to set out on a 2,000 mile canoe trip with a dog as his sole companion. Wednesday night Mr. Eric Morse, who is national director of Canadian Clubs addressed the Belleville Women's Canadian Club. His subject was canoes, paddling and trips with early explorers along their adventurous trails. Mr. Morse is one of a group of six including the Netherlands' ambassador to Canada who have for six years followed the paths blazed by Canada's renowned pathfinders.

It was T & T's good fortune to bring Mr. Morse and Ronald Vanderveldt together Friday morning. We were interviewing Mr. Morse and when we told him about Ronald he was spontaneously interested — expressing his desire to meet the courageous young individualist. Their mutual love for the out-of-doors, canoes and curiosity broke down all barriers. They immediately entered into a discussion about the challenge canoe trips can present.

We shall not repeat their talk on the art of paddling, the proper means of meeting nature, and so on, but their comments on out-of-door sports is worth repetition. Mr. Morse was keenly interested in Ronald's venture.

Mr. Morse explained that from many quarters comes a deep concern about the deteriorating physical fitness in North American youth. He went on to point out that there were too many spectator sports. Once we heard Earl Alexander call it "canned entertainment" in an address to a boys' school graduating class. We believed that Mr. Morse feels that Canadian boys are not enough aware of the challenge which is invigorating when accepted and acted upon.

There certainly was no question about his sincerity when he expressed his pleasure at meeting this lad from Holland who has already discovered the fascination inherent in a canoe, a paddle and Canada's lakes, streams and great expanses. Mr. Morse as an experienced canoe tripper passed on to his new friend much practical advice and Ronald realized that he was going to let Mr. Lovink, the Netherlands' ambassador know about Belleville's Dutch lad who is setting out on his own to challenge our forests and rivers. We gathered that Ronald aspires to write, and that he intends to keep a faithful daily diary. When the 2,000-mile jaunt is completed, he plans to paint his experiences in words. To Mr. Morse's best wishes, T & T adds "Good Luck."

Our thought for this weekend is from Shakespeare and is for Ronald Vanderveldt:

"The day shall not be up so soon as I,
To try the fair adventure of tomorrow."

Subsequent to the above, we have learned that the Bay of Quinte community is going to lose Mr. and Mrs. Hendrikse who are moving to Toronto. Mrs. Hendrikse is Arnold Vanderveldt's aunt. It is well known and generally appreciated that Mrs. Hendrikse has made a great contribution to the musical life of our district. Within a period of five years she has developed some outstanding Canadian singing talent. One of her pupils, another Dutch boy, has already won a scholarship and to fulfill the call of wider horizons has left Trenton to study in Toronto. When we talked with Mrs. Hendrikse she was expressive of her appreciation to, and regret for leaving our city. She is so proud of being the possessor of Canadian citizenship. Last week Mr. and Mrs. Hendrikse received citizenship papers. T & T hopes that our new friends love Canada in proportion to the contributions they are making to our wonderful land.

The Royal Bank monthly letter offers the following explanation why people either fail or succeed: "People fail because they have not realized through experience all that they are capable of doing. Young men ignore the lessons of experience lose themselves in the crowd. Others find, ignorance and insecurity a soft and easy pillow."

About growing population from the Committee of Correspondence — Only one species of animal has the, ability to live anywhere on earth (except under water), that is Man. He has been able to do it because he has adapted his environment to himself, developing shelter and clothes, learning to use fire to soften hard foods, learning to till and produce and master the soil.

With every tick of the clock another life is added; 100,000 new mouths a day are needing food. Man's ability to adapt his environment must continue unabated if standards of living throughout the world are to rise, not fall, under the steady pressure of such mounting populations.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

SHANNONVILLE — The monthly meeting at the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held recently at the home of Mrs. George Orsborne with 21 women and three children present.

Mrs. C. Clarke, president welcomed the members and visitors. Mrs. C. Wood, group leader, took charge. Theme for the month is "Forgiveness." Mrs. G. Osborne read the Scripture lesson, Matthew 18. Mrs. Wood read the lesson thoughts from the devotional leaflet.

Mrs. F. Doxtator gave a reading, "It Shows In Your Face." Mrs. C. Kiorl read a poem, "The Good Old Days," and Miss Lee Sara Stickney gave a Mother's Day reading. The group leader offered prayer and thanked her group for its help. Mrs. Clarke thanked Mrs. Wood and her group for their devotional and took charge of the business.

The secretary, Mrs. W. D. Roberts called the roll. A note of thanks for a birthday card was read from Mrs. Fred McAnburn and a card of thanks read from Mr. and Mrs. R. Wescott for a card of sympathy received at the time of the brother's death. A letter of thanks was also read from Miss Winnifred Eckhardt for a card she received when in hospital.

Mrs. Gannon, Mrs. Doxtator, and Mrs. W. McFarlane all expressed thanks for cards received from the W.A. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Osborne were appointed delegates to the convention in Trenton May 20th.

Over $100 was collected by the group for the local funds and more is promised.

Offerings were dedicated by Mrs. C. Clarke who also thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. Orsborne, Mrs. Osborne and the group in charge served refreshments and a social time was spent.

The next meeting will be held at the Church Hall June 13. Members will bring their used clothing for the bale.

ELVIS IN HOSPITAL

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A porcelain tooth cap has put Elvis Presley in the hospital. The singer swallowed the cap Tuesday during a film dance number at MGM. It passed through the windpipe and into the lung. Wednesday he was taken to Hollywood where a doctor retrieved the cap. Presley is expected to be out of action for another day or two.

Motion Sickness Can Be Cured Or Prevented in Most Cases

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

One of the travel problems no one likes to talk about much is motion sickness. It's the one unaccountable item that can effectively spoil any trip.

That it isn't discussed is just as well, since the more you think about getting sick the more likely it is to happen. But scientific studies have shown that it's not just in the mind and, as a result, some valuable information has come along to all but eliminate the problem.

There are two ways to combat travel illness: prevent it or cure it.

Researchers have discovered that the problem is largely visual, having to do with what your eyes are fixed upon. Since you're used to looking at stationary objects, seeing things move rapidly as in a unfamiliar manner can throw your equilibrium off by leading to unaccustomed movements of the head. Airplane pilots never get sick when they are busy looking at the steady horizon ahead of them, but riding as passengers frequently affects them.

UNUSUAL VISUAL EXPERIENCES

Thus holding your head in a fixed position, preferably with a well back without a pillow under it, can help considerably. On the other hand, using your eyes for such things as knitting or reading while the world seems to be turning around on the edges of your vision, or looking straight down at a rapidly passing ground while an airplane is banking, or seeing the horizon dip and rise from the deck of a ship, all will put you through unusual visual experiences that may have their effect on you.

For these reasons it's best to cruise children in a car with games that won't require them to look at passing objects like telephone poles or other cars.

Some of the things that don't seem to cause motion sickness, though most people will, are eating, drinking, lack of fresh air, or failure to keep your mind occupied with other things.

Experiments have shown that sickness occurring under these conditions would have happened without them. However, it's probably best to avoid them if you are plenty of rest before starting a trip. If you're suffering from a hang-over or didn't get enough sleep, or are otherwise run-down, you may be more susceptible to illness regardless of other circumstances.

Fortunately nearly all people not used to motion after a while. However, familiarity with one type won't prevent illness from another a veteran air traveller may well get seasick.

MEDICATIONS AVAILABLE

Medications available today are almost completely effective. A mild remedy is phenobarbital, but since it induces drowsiness it's better for children than adults.

Old established remedies like Dramamine and Dramamine are still widely used, but recently developed ones like Marezine, Bonamine and Phenergan have proved even more useful.

Dramamine, however, is still preferred for persons with certain conditions, such as nervousness, and for children because it is available in a pleasant-tasting liquid form.

Marezine is notably effective for only when taken before travelling, but after sickness occurs it has having cured 93 per cent of volunteers afterwards in one experiment.

Resistance is probably the most serious form of motion sickness because rough seas may last for days, but all cruise ships are well equipped for medical attention to passengers.

For those who prefer not to give children medication, car sickness can usually be helped by stopping and getting out until it passes.

Legion Aux. Holds Annual Zone Rally

Branches of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held their annual zone rally at Tweed, Thursday.

Groups from Belleville, Madoc, Tweed, Marmora, Picton, Consecon, Wellington, Bancroft and Descronto were present.

A parade, led by the Tweed High Schol bugle band, was held in the afternoon. The members met in Tweed Legion hall for their business sessions with Mrs. Jones of Picton as zone commander.

One hundred and seventy-eight people attended the banquet in St. Carthagh's hall.

President H. Begley, of the Tweed auxiliary, introduced the head table guests and Reeve T. C. Graham, guest speaker was Lou Taylor, Belleville, deputy district commander of the Canadian Legion. He was introduced by the zone commander, W. O. Bailey.

Other speakers during the evening were Jack Bathotie, councillor; Mrs. Ethel Tilbe, second provincial vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; and O. V. Thurston, president of Branch 428, Canadian Legion.

The evening's program included vocal selections by Ron Cassidy, Tweed, Bob Benn and Miss Barbara Allen.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MUST THEIR MARRIAGE BE MERELY AN ARMED TRUCE?

It is perfectly true that, as the old saying goes, "It takes two to make a quarrel."

It is equally true, however—and not so often remembered—that it takes two to make and keep the peace. And when I speak of peace, I mean a harmony ruled by real understanding and cooperation, not one that is just an armed truce, in which two people keep themselves tensely braced in an effort to sidestep quarrels.

This being so, if a wife finally must believe that life with her husband promises to be an indefinite armed truce, and never a real peace, because he has no intention of doing his part to make the marriage what she will, she'll decide to do about it usually depends, I think, entirely on how much her husband really means to her. If she loves him too much to be able to face life without him, she'll put up with the armed truce rather than leave him. If she doesn't love him this much, she's likely to decide that it's not worth the effort to go on forever carrying alone the burden of maintaining that truce.

From a woman who has been married 15 years comes a letter that tells of just such an armed truce. All through the years, she has been trying to get her husband to work out with her an adjustment of the differences which cause their quarrels—differences that range all the way from what color the house should be painted to whether or not they should ever go visit each other's parents. Never once, she says, have they ever been able to arrive at any mutually agreeable decision; invariably, she says, he is the one to give in.

Now she's sick and tired of it, and, since they have no children to be considered, she wants to know if it's the best for to keep on forever smoothing things over, as she has been, or to give up the struggle and leave her husband.

So I answer—her question by asking the one suggested above as the key to such impasses: How much do you actually love this man—or have you stopped loving him entirely? Do you still love him enough so that the thought of life without him is incredible? Or can you face quite calmly a future from which he'll be missing?

Elsewhere in her letter, she does tell me that she thinks she still loves her husband. Yet I get the impression that she wouldn't find life intolerably empty without him. She says she's quite sure she can support herself and enjoy doing it; that, in fact, a friend has asked her if she would consider joining her in a business partnership, and the thought quite evidently attracts her. Altogether, it sounds as though she could quite easily become interested in a new type of life—without looking back regretfully at the old one.

What I'd advise her to do, at this moment, is not to take the definite step of leaving her husband, but to accept the friend's offer of a business partnership, not only to give her a chance to fill her life with new interests, but to see what effect it might have on her relationship with her husband. If he saw that she was perfectly capable of leading an independent life, and enjoying it, it might possibly, at long last, bring about a change of attitude, lest he lose her altogether. If it didn't—he would have made a beginning toward a satisfying life of her own.

Women's Council Wants Drug Addicts Treated

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The Ontario Council of Women has endorsed a resolution asking the Ontario government to set up a committee to study the need for compulsory treatment and rehabilitation of drug addicts.

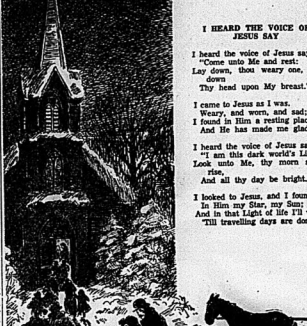
This resolution was one of four passed Thursday on the last day of a two-day conference.

A second resolution called on the Ontario government to test the adequacy of the Criminal Code in stamps in retail merchandising outlets.

A third urged Reforms Minister Foote to see that only the most up-to-date methods and facilities be used at the new Training School for Girls at Galt.

CHECK PRICE INCREASE

The fourth resolution called on the Canadian Association of Consumers to investigate a 50-per-cent increase in the price of sugar during the last few weeks.



Mrs. John C. Duff of Kingston was elected president of the council.

Mrs. J. R. Cutt of Orillia was elected recording secretary and Mrs. Leslie Leivers of Brantford, treasurer.

Committee chairmen elected included: Arts and letters, Mrs. W. Haufenbiel, Niagara Falls; and economics, Mayor Eunice Wishart, Port Arthur.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. FOWELL

Nearly a century ago, in a collection of religious musical gems entitled "Hymns Of Faith and Hope", this popular song by Dr. Horatius Bonar had its first publication.

It appeared under the title, "The Voice From Calilee", exactly as it is found today in church hymnals throughout Christendom. When the author sings in his first stanza of hearing Jesus calling him to rest, he is thinking of course of the Bible message in Matthew 11:28: "Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The reference, farther down in the hymn, to Jesus' promise to the thirsty that He will water to those athirst for the gospel of salvation and eternal life, is a direct quotation of Revelation 22:17: "And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely".

The third stanza of the hymn recalls Jesus' declaration in John 8.12: "I am the Light of the world: he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life".

Dr. Bonar was born in December, 1808, in Edinburgh, Scotland and was a distinguished Presbyterian clergyman. After study at the University of Edinburgh he was ordained to the ministry in 1837 and became a pastor of the Established Church of Scotland at Kelso. Later, he was one of the founders of the Free Church of Scotland and in 1866 he became minister of the Chalmers Memorial Church in Edinburgh. His death, in 1889, ended a life of unusual service during which he wrote many sacred poems and more than 100 hymns. Many of his songs, like the one quoted above, are still in wide use.

I HEARD THE VOICE OF JESUS SAY

I heard the voice of Jesus say
"Come unto Me and rest:
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon My breast."

I came to Jesus as I was,
Weary, and worn, and sad;
I found in Him a resting place,
And He has made me glad.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"I am this dark world's Light;
Look unto Me, thy morn shall rise,
And all thy day be bright."

I looked to Jesus, and I found
In Him my Star, my Sun;
And in that Light of life I'll walk
Till travelling days are done.

Man Stumbles Across Wreckage Of TCA Airliner

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bespectacled little woman who would seem more at home in a library has almost overnight gained fame as one of British Columbia's most rugged climbers.

Elfrida Pigou became the heroine of Mount Slesse when she and two male companions S u n d a y stumbled across wreckage of a TCA North Star airliner near the mountain's summit.

Tuesday she led a search party to the scene, thereby ending the five-months-old mystery of Canada's worst air disaster, in which 62 persons died.

Mount Slesse was one of Miss Pigou's favorite mountains, one of the most beautiful, she thought.

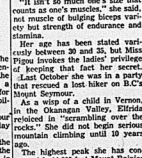
ALPINE AFFECTION

It was the kind of deep affection—between mountain and lover—that Elfrida and Slesse — that Alpinists and climbers understand. That's why Elfrida is sorry that "Slesse had to get mixed up in a thing like this."

Why do women climb mountains? she was asked in an interview.

"It's a challenge," she replied—the stock answer of hundreds of early B.C individuals who indulge in the dangerous sport.

But the answer was surprising from this seemingly frail, 100-pound climber.



"It isn't so much one's size that counts as one's muscles," she said, not muscle of bulging biceps variety but strength of endurance and stamina.

Her age has been stated variously between 30 and 35, but Miss Pigou invokes the ladies' privilege of keeping that fact her secret.

Last October she was in a party that rescued a lost hiker on B.C's Mount Seymour.

As a wisp of a child in Vernon in the Okanagan Valley, Elfrida relished in "scrambling over the rocks." She did not begin serious mountain climbing until 10 years ago.

The highest peak she has conquered is 14,000-foot Mount Rainier in the United States, "an easy one."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Thirty-Third Day of the Omer

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, May 19 — "And ye shall count," said God to the Jews, in Leviticus, chapter 23, verse 15, "seven sabbaths shall thou number." He told them, in Deuteronomy, chapter 16, verse 9. And count they did, that they count are the 49 days from the second day of Passover to the Feast of Weeks. These days are known as the Sephira Days — sephira means "counting."

On the first day of this long season ancient Jews brought as an offering a sheaf (an omer) of the newly harvested wheat, and the counting came to be known as "the counting of the omer." Every evening during the seven solemn weeks every man in the synagogue rose and recited a special benediction of the season and then added, "Today is the day of the omer."

Lag Baomer is the 33rd day of the counting and is the one happy interlude during what is otherwise a time of deep mourning.

Newest of the Jewish religious observances, it actually has its roots in early prehistoric times before Israel had separated its own faith from the folk religion of the heathen among whom the Jews lived. For this one day is undoubtedly related to a pagan spring festival of the forest.

In the midst of a serious season come this one occasion on which to celebrate a time off for a day in the country. Besides the family picnic that would naturally become part of such a day, the peculiar feature of Lag Baomer was that people carried bows into the woods and shot arrows about, aiming at nothing in particular. Scholars say this plainly shows the day's kinship with some ancient pagan forest festival.

As is always true when an old pagan custom is given religious purpose, Lag Baomer has had new meanings attached to it. Two efforts have been made to connect it with some event in Jewish history. One tradition says it is the day the manna on which the Jews fed in the wilderness began to fall from heaven. Another says it was the day on which a plague ceased among the pupils in the school of the famous Rabbi Akiba. Because of this latter explanation Lag Baomer is also known as "the scholars' holiday."

Lag Baomer is classed as a minor festival, which means that it has no elaborate ritual of its own, and in fact, plays no important part in Jewish life. Certainly it cannot mean a great deal to modern city-dwelling Jews.

To the extent that it is now observed, it is seen mainly as a remembrance of the time when Israel was an agricultural nation and as a promise of a future time when the Jews will again have woodlands and a rural life of their own.

Also Sunday — It is a disturbing fact that people tend to remember picturesque legends about great men and forget the important facts about them. That is what happened to the 49 times greatest of all Anglo-Saxon saints.

The facts and diverting legend about him is that once when he was working in his metal shop the Devil appeared in the form of a beautiful maiden and looked in the window, just to keep posted on what the good man was doing.

St. Dunstan, not for one moment deceived, grabbed the lady's nose with a pair of hot pincers, whereupon the Devil showed his true form and begged to be let go. Not until Satan promised never to tempt him again did the saint release him. Dunstan is always shown in Christian art wearing bishop's vestments and holding pincers in his right hand.

Because the story is, it has obscured the real character and considerable genius of this 10th-century giant. His true importance lies in the fact that he was both saint and statesman at the time when England was just emerging into national self-consciousness.

From the time he was only 21 years old, first as Abbot of Glastonbury and later as Archbishop of Canterbury, Dunstan's brilliant mind was behind the English throne, developing and guiding the country and laying the foundations of unity and integrity that have characterized England throughout modern history.

PARENTS OF GROOM-TO-BE ISSUES THE WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I have just received an invitation from a close relative of ours to the "marriage of Miss — to their son, Mr. —," and to a reception at their home. The parents of the bride-to-be are living, and I think they should have issued the wedding invitations instead of her future in-laws. Don't you agree?

2. How should I write our acceptance to an invitation of this kind? — M.

1. Customarily, as you know, the parents of the bride-to-be issue the invitations to their daughter's wedding. When this is not the case is, of course, some special reason for not doing it, and one would have to know all the circumstances to pass judgment on the procedure.

2. The acceptance note of this formal invitation (as you have quoted the essential part of the invitation) may correctly be:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accept with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Robinson for Tuesday, the fourth of June at five o'clock

GOOD GROOMING—AN IMPORTANT ASSET TO THE JOB HUNTER

Pretty girls by the thousand — you'll see them lined up all over town at employment agencies or so — on platforms, receiving graduation diplomas, taking bows before proud parents and friends, and already thinking about the future. Most of them the immediate future means "a job". What most of them don't realize is that, in seeking a job, the knowledge and skills they've acquired will be only selling points. Good grooming is equally important. Many's the time a girl has come in here with only an average talent for potshoots and curlicycues has eased out the class speed demon who applied for a job looking as "exotic" as she did on the campus. Employers lift painted eyebrows toward the "casual look" just as they do toward the "overdressed look."

For the girl who's seeking her first job, therefore, here are a few pointers, all based on the knowledge that first impressions are important when meeting a prospective employer. Appearance, like a freshly laundered blouse and spotless white gloves, help make a pleasing impression, for instance. So plan for that all-important interview with special care.

Inspect your stockings for runs or snags, and wash them in fresh suds. Soap or detergent suds the night before, rinsing well and hanging them over a shower rod or a towel to dry.

While gloves, collars, and cuffs may need only extra sudsing to remove imbedded soil. For stubborn dirt, soak the article for a half hour or so in hot sudsy water. Hard-to-remove dirt on collars, cuffs, and cuffs in glove seams can be eliminated by scrubbing gently with a soft, lint-free, colored brush. Before hanging gloves to dry, shape them and smooth them out.

During an interview, your personality is the real point of attention. A cloth wrung almost dry from thick suds can easily remove soil and spots from the surface of plastics, patent leather, and leatherette.

Remove contents, and damp-dust the interior in the same manner. Then, a coat of white glaze of bare to keep a sparkling white pair of gloves ready for smart girls ready for a spare—one to wear, and one in the purse to don just before an interview.

A simple suit or dress set off with spaciously white gloves, well polished shoes, snowy white collar and cuffs can complete the picture of a well groomed girl. employer wants to see punching his time clock! Remember—if you don't make a good impression the first time, you won't have a chance to make it again!

The next job—changing those diplomas for paychecks.

ANSWER:

PIE PASTRY TO FREEZE

The proportions of flour to shortening for frozen pastry are slightly different than for pastry baked when made. One pound shortening, 7 cups once - sifted pastry or all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons salt. Cut shortening into flour and salt until it resembles coarse meal. These are the ingredients for the dry mix which may be stored in jar in refrigerator or freezer. Pastry is to be made up for rolling out add, a small amount at a time, 1 cup ice cold water, stirring it in with fork until a ball forms. Lift ball out to counter and continue until all water is used. Pack pastry together into an oblong, carefully wrap in foil, and seal, and freeze.

QUESTIONS: (from Mrs. Earl R. and Marjory G. asking for more whole wheat flour recipes.)

ANSWER: I do a jig when I get letters saying "we want more whole wheat recipes, Mary? Here is one for

WHOLE WHEAT PASTRY

One and three-quarters cups all-purpose flour, 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, 1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour, 1 cup cold shortening, nearly 1-2 cup cold water. Sift the flours and salt together. Sifting residue in sifter into bowl too. Cut in half of the shortening finely; cut in remaining half of shortening coarsely. Sprinkle with cold water, stirring until all particles are barely moistened. This is somewhat more moist than ordinary pastry. Roll out on floured board. Do not chill or it becomes too crumbly to roll. This is wonderful for tart shells, meat and fruit pies, and filled pies, in fact, for every pasty purpose.

STIRLING

158 Attend Guide's Brownies Annual Banquet

STIRLING — Tuesday evening 158 persons attended the annual Guides' and Brownies' Mother and Daughter Banquet in the Community Hall. The leaders, association officers and mothers provided the meal which consisted of ham as part to the main course, and choice late cake and ice cream for dessert.

The guests included seven Guide captains and one commissioner from out of town. Mrs. Ed. Wren, retiring association president, was in charge of the various ceremonies.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of gold cords by camp adviser, Mrs. Smith. This is the highest award in Guiding and the only time a cord has been won by a Stirling girl. The girls honored were Barbara Wood-beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Woodbeck, and Patricia Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fraser.

163 PROFICIENCY BADGES WON

One hundred and three Girl Guides won proficiency badges during this year, as did 79 Brownies. Five Brownies flew up to Guides and Mrs. Smith presented these girls with their wings. They were Susan Webber, Joan Nunn, Brenda Lewis, Barbara Chambers and Bonnie Bradley.

Mrs. David Duffin has been the badge secretary and has now retired from that office. In appreciation of her work the Guides and Brownies each made presentations to Mrs. Duffin for which she voiced thanks. The new badge secretary is Mrs. Robert Hatton.

This year the Brownie group has paid special tribute each month to commemorate the 100th birthday anniversary of the founder, Sir Baden-Powell. Special stars were given for the group's efforts and each member was presented with her Baden-Powell star at the banquet.

The First Stirling Company of Girl Guides has a membership of 37 and the First Stirling Brownie Pack has 35 members.

The Brownie Tawny Owl is Mrs. Frank Harding and the Brown Owl is Mrs. Charles Lee. The Guides are under the leadership of the captain, Mrs. Robert Leury, and her lieutenants, Mrs. Robert Cain and Miss Mary Dalrymple.

New officers were elected and Mrs. Claire West was chosen president of the association.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Mr. Harry Lott attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Mack Howard in Madoc, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnson and family of Mount Pleasant were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollinger.

Mrs. James Lake was a weekend guest of Mrs. R. B. Hamilton.

Miss Joan Churchill, Bermuda, is a holiday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Churchill.

Scoharie

"To each is given a bag of tools,
A shapeless mass, and a book of rules;
And each must fashion 'ere life is flown,
A stumbling block or a stepping stone."

SCOHARIE — Miss Muriel Hacken, who is working at Belleville, spent the Mother's Day weekend with her parents, here.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Harold Clare, Bloomfield and family, in the passing of Mr. Clark on Tuesday morning at the Belleville General Hospital. Harold spent almost his entire life in this neighborhood, moving to Bloomfield a few years ago where he was employed by Sun Joy Foods.

Mrs. Marguerite Hunt, who has spent the winter nursing at Bero Beach, Florida, returned last week to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hicks. Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Biddle, Guelph, also spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks.

"The secret of life is not to do what you like, but to like what you do."

Know what's what, that is wisdom; to know how to do it, skill — to do the thing that should be done, is service.

It's New in Belleville

Budget - wise shoppers are now being offered the biggest variety of merchandise at sale prices ever seen in this area. Prices have been slashed from 10% to 50% on power mowers, picnic supplies, tents and camping equipment, sporting goods, lawn chairs, etc. — right at the beginning of the season when you want these things most. Equal reductions apply on television, refrigerators, small appliances and power tools.

The reason behind this fantastic sale is Beelin's determination to clear out their warehouse. They're not fooling! . . . everything in their store has been reduced up to 1/2 of . . . from the smallest kiddies' wagons to giant screen deluxe television.

If you would like to see a tremendous variety of merchandise at genuine sale prices, drop in to Beelin Radio and Television Limited, 170 Front Street, opposite the City Hall.

The Week's News

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Britain joined the H-bomb powers—the United States and Russia—by exploding its first thermonuclear weapon in the Christmas Island area of the central Pacific.

Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons that it went as planned in the test, which was sandwiched between Russian and American nuclear blasts.

The roar of Britain's bomb was followed by a chorus of complaint from many parts of the world, especially Japan, where worried eyes scanned the health dangers of such tests.

Britain now would be in a "much better bargaining position" in United Nations disarmament talks, he added.

A five-member UN sub-committee had been conducting such talks in London. The delegates, including Canada's David Johnson, assembled their conference for reports to their governments on terms for a possible disarmament treaty.

SURE TERMS

Britain agreed to President Nasser's terms for the use of the Suez Canal on an interim basis but Nasser insisted on a second conference meeting of the United Nations Security Council.

The United Kingdom supported the French government's request for a Security Council scrutiny of the Egyptian dictator's terms.

The only difference between ourselves and the French is in the interim use of the canal pending final settlement," said Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain. His government weathered a House of Commons storm by winning a confidence vote.

Israel asserted its determination to test Nasser by sending one of its own ships through the waterway.

HAITIAN TURMOIL

Political turmoil grew in violence in Haiti, the Caribbean Negro republic where confusion has been piled atop confusion for weeks.

Some 10,000 farmers armed with clubs blockaded the road to Port-au-Prince, the capital, to keep out food supplies. Anti - government forces deposed officials in the port of St. Marc.

The ruling seven-man executive council, which is supposed to be arranging for elections June 16, has banned freedom of speech and muzzled the press.

One of the 19 presidential candidates claimed the council has rigged the voting in favor of two others.

MOUNTAIN TRAGEDY

The story of Canada's worst air disaster neared its tragic end high on the wind-swept plateau of Mount Slesse in British Columbia's Cascade range.

A party of mountaineers on a routine climb found fragments of the Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star that vanished Dec. 9 with 62 aboard.

It was impossible to bring down remaining victims from the mountain's 7,600-foot level, especially at this time of year. Plans were made to hold a funeral service aboard a plane circling the mountain. TCA said the reason for the crash may never be known.

ARCTIC INSPECTION

External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canada will be willing in principle to co-operate in an open-skies arms inspection scheme in Arctic regions.

He was commenting on a Washington announcement that State Secretary Dulles favors a limited form of inspection agreement with Russia covering sparsely-populated Arctic areas such as Siberia, Alaska and the Canadian Arctic.

But Pearson made it clear that there are many difficulties.

"Being in favor of such an arrangement is different from working out a plan in practice."

TAXI WAR

Gangs roamed Montreal with clubs, knives and axes, bashing in taxi windshields in what police described as "organized mayhem."

Police attributed the violence to a dispute between two recently formed organizations — Montreal Fraternity of Taxi Owners and the Quebec Drivers' Association of Quebec.

The thugs aimed at damaging cars, not at harming people.

Tweed

TWEED — Mrs. Arthur Albert of Arthur Street is ill with quinsy at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. C. Blakely, Colbourne Street. Her condition Wednesday was a little improved, her many friends will be pleased to know.

Expansion Program Outlined To Cities Service Dealers

Announcement of the construction of a new $30,000,000 refinery west of Toronto was made at a district dealers' meeting of the Cities Service Oil Company Ltd. at Tobe's County Gardens this week.

The announcement was made by Mr. John T. McDowell, vice-president in charge of marketing. The new refinery will be in operation in 1959, he said. Upwards of 130 dealers from Belleville, Colborne, Picton and other district centres were present.

It was also announced by Mr. William Bopp, manager of advertising, that a brand new dealer program was in vogue which embraces the new "Milemaster" gasoline.

The company's new expansion program was referred to by Mr. McDowell as the "launching of a battleship, not a rowboat." The program also calls for erection of 130 new service stations within the next three years.

Other speakers included Harvey Rowe, general sales manager and George Ezzard of T.B.A.

A condensed history of the Cities Service Oil Company Ltd., was given by George Hosang, assistant sales manager.

The executives were natily attired in Cities Service uniforms and presented their addresses in front of a backdrop showing the new pylon type green-and-white service station.

Following a turkey dinner, the dealers enjoyed a motion picture film, "This is Cities Service" which described and showed the type of service given by the company. It also depicted the most modern refinery of its kind in the world.

Refreshments and entertainment rounded out a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Don't Rush the Plant Season

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Driving through the country the past weekend I was surprised to see the number of roadside stands in operation. Not only were there masses of jonquils and piles of dormant rose plants; also shrubs in flower, petunias, tomatoes and cucumbers in full bloom. Pansy plants in full leaf, and flowers, and geraniums with large trusses in bloom were included.

None of these plants had been hardened off in frames and many were sappy and light green in colour.

The plant men are always looking for something new to offer to the public to increase sales. But, rushing the season with plants will only lead to disappointment and prolonged dissatisfaction. It is still too early to set out advanced plants. The danger of late frosts is passed.

Then too, early sappy plants are easily buffeted about by the wind. Even a heavy rain will break them. The soil loses warmth and disfigure the leaves. When forced into outdoor conditions too early where the atmosphere may change quickly from extreme heat to cold they suffer severe shock. They have been used to controlled temperatures and constant humidity.

Prepare the big plants and buy smaller ones which have had some hardening. "Hardening off", as a greenhouse term which means to lay subject the seedlings, or cuttings to outdoor conditions gradually. The stems and leaves become dryer, harder and darker, better able to withstand a good heavy rain and the sudden changes of temperature. The smaller plants will advance more quickly once they are outdoors than the sappy overdeveloped plants. Large soft plants require considerable protection and this is not adjusted and seldom make compact sturdy plants.

HARDENING OFF PROCESS

However; if you have grown, or bought such plants do not set them out immediately. Put them in a protected corner where they will receive morning sun for a week. Cover at night if frosty. Water if the temperature threatens to drop suddenly. When setting them out in the open row, plant them a few inches lower than usual. This will shorten the long stem and put the root down where it can obtain more moisture in dry weather.

Set out all transplanted stock on a dull day, or in the evening if possible. This gives the plant time to adjust to new conditions before the hot sun begin to cause rapid evaporation of the plant's moisture.

In spring the soil is cold. Plant nutrients are still locked in. They will not become available to the plant until the soil warms up. It is good practice to apply liquid fertilizer mixed in tepid water when ever transplanting is done but it is especially helpful in spring transplanting.

LIQUID FERTILIZERS

Liquid fertilizer supplies a ready source of food for seeds too. When you have your drills, or rows ready, wet the bottom of the drill with liquid fertilizer before dropping the seed. The nutrients will be there for the feeder roots when the seeds are formed. Leafy type vegetables respond quickly to the nitrogen offered in this form.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

What was tabbed as a "concerted drive to reduce the mounting costs of senior hockey" but which appears to be more like a desperate effort for survival is the resolution of the western division of the OHA senior "A" group to restrict the seasonal schedule payroll of clubs to $24,000.

The western division, it appears, is on a shaky foundation. Owen Sound was not represented at the western meeting and this carried an ominous note. Stratford Indians are hovering on the bring of uncertainty all because of lusty operational deficits last season.

It would appear that the wealthy Windsor Bulldogs and the Chatham Maroons are the only certain entries for next season. The Kitchener Dutchmen stated they have to have better financial arrangements with their arena commission or they would be missing next season. Stratford stated that a definite statement of their intentions would be forthcoming within a week's time.

Further cost-cutting suggestions were that the home teams have an alternate goalie available in case of injury to either of the opposing teams, and that a maximum of 14 players be dressed for any one game although 18 may be signed.

To put teeth in the cost-reducing effort, the western moguls framed an agreement similar to that prevalent among junior "A" clubs which calls for severe penalties for any clubs violating the terms of the salary agreement.

Jack (Windsor Star) Dolgaty says: "The figure of $24,000 was arrived at by compiling a roster of 16 players per team at a mean salary level of $75 per week. It does not mean that all players will be cut to that standard. More probably it means that a few will range in salary commitments between $50 and $150 per player and will keep within the $24,000 by employing homebrew players who have good jobs, at low hockey pay and by eliminating comparatively low pay for imports through the same medium as well-paid outside jobs."

That, more or less, is stealing a leaf from the Eastern division book of operations. That was the reason three of this circuit's teams finished in the black last season.

As was stated in yesterday's story of the eastern spring meeting the eastern senior "A" division was asked to concur in the pay-roll limit agreement. Whitby's Wren Blair headed the discussion which ended in the decision to disregard the western plan of cost-cutting operation until it offered iron-clad proof of being hewn to the line. Blair stated that one of the western clubs had been phoning the Dunlops guelle Long John Henderson regularly with offers in which "money was no object." Little wonder then that the eastern moguls took the payroll minimum suggestion with just a trifle of salt.

However the western group did pass a resolution that the east should back up. It calls for the OHA to request the CAHA to effect an agreement with professional hockey, whereby all players who have not signed a pro contract remain the sole property of the amateur club for which they have last played, this action was taken. It was stated, because it was noted that a recent agreement announced by George Dudley, manager-treasurer of the CAHA, had announced that players of amateur teams, minor in senior, sponsored by pro clubs, are the latters' property and may not be tampered with unless the pro clubs consent.

This rule, it was pointed out, gives total protection to pro clubs for all players on their reserve and negotiation lists. It would block amateur clubs from dealing with almost every sponsored amateur player in the nation without consent of the pros.

Fast-president Frank Buckland said he would lead the eastern fight for the rule's abolition at the annual CAHA meeting. Western division members stated they will demand, short of a signed pro contract, the right to negotiate with any amateur within the proper confines of the pro-amateur agreement.

Fight Talk Is Wacky

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, is "talking through his hat" in proposing a July title match with fourth - ranked contender Willie Pastrano, the manager of the New Orleans challenger said today.

D'Amato, engaged in a bitter battle with the powerful International Boxing Club said Friday Pastrano "looks like the most logical foe for my boy right now." D'Amato said he had talked with Pastrano's manager, Whitey Esneault, with the proposed match to take place in New York.

"I haven't talked with D'Amato about such a match or anything else," Esneault said. "To begin with, Pastrano won't be ready because he's got a fight with Roy Harris in Houston on June 11th."

Chicago White Sox increased their lead to a game and a half Chicago White Sox increased in front of the pack in the American League but they had to down a band of fighting Baltimore Orioles to do it.

Art Ceccarelli in his first start for the seventh-place Orioles since he was recalled from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, held Sox to three hits over seven innings. Chicago didn't score until the seventh and were behind 2-1 going into the eighth.

Then Minnie Minoso blasted a husky double to score two runs and give Sox a 3-2 triumph. They now have won six of their last seven games.

DUMP YANKS

Detroit Tigers gave Sox an assist as they dumped New York Yankees 4-1 on Billy Hoeft's well-scattered effort.

In other games Friday Cleveland moved into a second place tie with Yanks by downing Washington 3-1 and Boston Red Sox squeezed past Kansas City 4-3.

Three home runs—off the bats of Bill Tuttle, Gus Maxwell and Al Kaline—provided Tigers with enough mileage to down the world champions and end their win streak at four.

Yogi Berra's three-time American League most valuable player who was mixed up in a night club brawl Thursday morning, returned to his catching duties after a day on the bench. He went hitless and his average dropped to .182.

Johnny Kucks, also involved in the night club brawl, started for Yanks but lasted less than three innings and was the loser.

Ray Narleski and Ed Yost with the bases loaded in the ninth to preserve Cleveland's win for Buddy Daley and Narleski then combined to limit Senators to five hits.

Indians scored their decisive runs in the fifth when Rocky Colavito attempted to check a swing with the bases loaded and popped a single over Daley and Jim Bushy. They got their other run in the fourth.

Jim Piersall doubled home the winning run with one out in the ninth to top Sutton's comeback win. Behind 3-0 at one point they had tied the game in the eighth.

Tom Brewer, who gave a two-run homer to Vic Power in the fourth, got his fifth win of the season. Rip Coleman lost it.

ESKS SIGN QUARTER

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos Friday well stocked with quarterbacks Jackie Parker and Don Getty, have signed a third split-T pivot man in Don Flynn from the University of Houston.

Flynn, 23, played last season with University of Houston Cougars, a split-T club which won undefeated through its own Missouri Valley Conference season. Described by Eskimos as a "bull-dog" runner, he weighs 190 pounds and stands an even six feet.

ENDS RACING CAREER

MILAN (Reuters) — Piero Taruffi, 50-year-old racer who won the tragic Mille Miglia auto race last weekend, announced Friday that he will race no more.

"I have promised my wife, Isabella, I will not race again," he wrote in an article in the weekly magazine Oggi.

Mickey, Ted Hit in Wallet

CHICAGO (AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League Friday fined outfielders Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees $25 each for bat-throwing incidents.

Williams was disciplined for flipping his bat towards the dugout Wednesday in a game against Detroit at Boston.

Mantle was fined for tossing his bat in a May 10 night game at Baltimore.

Close Fight In Golf Go

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—The stage is set today for the semi-final round of the Sam Snead Golf Festival.

Bunched within six strokes of each other at the head of the pack of 47 pros seeking $10,000 in prizes are two 45-year-old touchnotchers of the past two decades and a pair in their 20s full of promise.

The old terror, Ben Hogan, is the front man going into the last 36 holes with 131 strokes, nine below par for the 6,497-yard Old White course.

One shot behind him are the 1950 pro and Paul Harney, 27-year-old from Worcester, Mass.

A STROKE BEHIND

Another stroke back finds Billy Casper, 30-year-old from Bonita, Calif., 12th highest money winner of last year and champion this year at Phoenix and the Kentucky Derby Open. Al Balding, Toronto, carded 70-74—144.

Harney surrendered the lead to Hogan Friday and the sub-par shooting should continue hot and heavy. Seventeen of the field are under par after the first two rounds on the mountain course where Hogan tied a world's record of 259 for 72 holes in 1950.

Casper would have been tied with Hogan for the lead except for two unlucky drives. One went out of bounds on opening day and Friday another bounced on the fairway and right out into a creek to penalize him a stroke each time.

Batting of Tiger Bertoia Is Talk of Major Leagues

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK AP)—Reno Bertoia, a Canadian from Windsor who was born in St. Ile, Italy 21 years ago, is the talk of the American League because of his sensational batting spurt.

After batting of four years with Detroit Tigers, he owned a .186 lifetime batting mark when the Friday night's game with New York Yankees, he led the league with a .368 batting average.

The Tigers' new third baseman is a sensitive youngster who had to live down his status as a bonus baby. Because Detroit paid him a reported $6,000 to sign in 1953, the Tigers had to keep him on their roster for two years. He spent most of this time on the bench before he was farmed to the minors where he batted .300 at Charleston, W.Va., earned him another chance.

To add an extra twist to his success story is the fact that he has been taking tranquilizer pills to help him relax.

"I take two about a half hour before each game," he said at his hotel. "I don't know whether the pills help, or what, but I certainly don't give me any surge or power or anything like that.

Whatever it is, I feel more relaxed. Maybe I have more confidence because I have been doing good at bat. Every day my confidence in myself is built up a little.

"Billy Hitchcock (Tiger coach), Earl Torgeson and Bobby Kennedy (another Canadian) helped me during spring training. They taught me to figure out the pitcher and to go up to the plate with an idea of what to expect."

Jack Tighe, freshman manager of the Tigers, had been listening to Bertoia. He added his own ideas.

"I think Reno gets his confidence from knowing he is going to play tomorrow, no matter whether he is good or bad today," said Tighe. "He's young and naturally little nervous about getting chance to play regularly in big leagues. That's why we wanted him to take those pills to help him along. I don't think he needs them anymore."

Bertoia said his family emigrated to Canada from Italy when he was 22 months old. The family eventually settled in Windsor where his father, Libero, works for a motor company.

"Nobody expects Reno to carry on like this," said Tighe. "But we do feel he will do a solid job for us at third base."

Here They Are Look 'Em Over!

TORONTO (CP) — Chatham Maroons lead all in the standings, have more all-star team material than any other team in the Western Division of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

First and second all-star teams were chosen by sportswriters and sportscasters in the hometowns of the league and released Friday by the OHA.

Chatham placed two players on both teams.

Ted Power, chosen as centre over Stratford's Mickey Roth who took that spot on the second team, was tied with Roth in the scoring race. Each finished the season with 81 points, but Power led in goals scored with 37.

CLOSE ANGLE

Jim Connelly, who was given the nod over Ford Haidy of Windsor for the right wing spot, was right behind Roth and Power in scoring with 77 points. Haidy was selected for the second team.

The all-star team is composed of Don Head of Windsor Bulldogs in goal; Ralph Hosking of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Joe Scherzi of Stratford Indians on defence; Power at centre; Dutahmen's Jerry Theberge at left wing and Connelly at right wing.

Kitchener, which won the division championship by beating fist Stratford and then the league-leading Bulldogs in the final, lost out in a close series to Chatham Cup champions Whitby Dunlops in the Ontario playoff.

Their left winger Theberge is no newcomer to all-star ranks. He received the same honour in both the 1956-57 and the 1952-53 seasons.

Harding, who had defence for last place Owen Sound Mercurys for four years, also played five years in the American Hockey League for Springfield.

The best rushing defenceman in the division holds up the other side of the defence. Joe Scherzi had 49 points for the year and was fourth highest point getter for his team.

Head was purchased early in the season from Stratford where he played for several years. He had the best goals-against record with an average of 2.88 a game.

Amateur Fight Tourney Loaded With Action

CAMROSE, Alta. (CP) — Canadian amateur boxing championships trimmed down Friday night in a welter card of preliminary bouts loaded with action, knockouts and dazzles.

One of two defending champions on hand — heavyweight Robert Cleroux of Montreal—was defeated on a disqualification that remained open to question today. The other, welterweight Les Mason of Gallarton, N.B., was his semi-final by a technical knockout.

Nineteen elimination bouts were staged and the action almost assured a full house for the windup cards this afternoon and tonight.

Ten of the bouts were won on technical knockouts, five on clear-cut knockout and eight by disqualifications. Referees fighters stole the opening-night show, winning seven of the eight fights in which they officiated.

The highly-touted army team of Vancouver's Jimmy Walters and Lindy Lindmoser, Gus Calf Robe of Carstairs, Alta., was scored the only clean knockout, and Mike Mercredi, an army boxer from Yellowknife, N.W.T., who won the light heavyweight title in 1956 and moved into the heavy class this year.

Walters, 1955 light welter champion now fighting in the 147-pound welter class, pounded Jimmy Mc-Cusker of Calgary without mercy and finally took the semi-final by a technical knockout at 2:40 of the third and final round.

Each bout in the open classes has three three-minute rounds. Junior classes have three two-minute rounds.

Walters will meet Mason in the final. Mason won his fight with a technical knockout at 1:52 of the third over Bob Davidson of Aldershot, Ont.

Lindmoser, an Austrian immigrant, gave fighting out of Vancouver put on a two-fisted display in scoring a technical knockout over Archy Rankin of Atikokan after 55 seconds of the second round.

Marie Plays Her Last Game

TORONTO (CP)—After 27 years in softball, Marie Genereux Kirkpatrick, the Iron Duke of Toronto's ladies' fastball league has played her last season.

Still only 43, Marie has 14 appearances in Amateur Softball Association of America world tournaments to look back on, and 22 seasons in Toronto ball.

Marie's longest stretch was with the Sunday Morning Class team, which won six league championships here in 10 years. She joined it when it was formed in 1927, and went with SMC to her first world tournament in 1938, at Chicago.

She was drafted by other teams or played with her own squad in her 13 other world tryouts, a record for Toronto. Nine of her teams ever became world champs.

Bisons Nudge Toronto Leafs; Royals Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons are tied for second place in the International League and they are only two games behind the leading Richmond Virginians, thanks to the batting of veteran catcher Ray Noble.

The 35-year-old former New York Giant smacked out four hits and batted in three runs in leading Bisons to a 13 inning 6-4 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Friday night.

In other games, Montreal Royals clobbered five Rochester pitchers for a 7-4 triumph over Red Wings and Havana Sugar Kings edged Columbus Jets 7-4. Richmond and Miami were idle.

Noble's third single of the game came in the 13th inning and drove home Buffalo's winning run. The victory gave Buffalo an identical 10-11 record with Miami.

FANS FOUR

Southpaw Steve Nagy, who came to the mound of Buffalo starter Fred Hahn and didn't allow a hit the rest of the way, picked up his first victory of the season. He struck out four Maple Leaf batters.

Trailing 4-3 with two out in the ninth Bisons rallied for two runs, on two singles and Lou Ortiz' double, to send the game into extra innings. Ortiz then scored the first run with a single, added another when Harry Bevegeau drove a ground out into his leg forcing him to leave the game.

Noble and Don Roseboro homered for Royals as did Mo Mozzali and Bobby Gene Smith for Rochester. With the score tied 4-4 in the eighth, Royals loaded the bases with one out. Dick Hanna then when Frank Verdi fielded Roberto Vargas' grounder and threw wildly to first base.

Willie Was a Little Frisky So Was Toughie Gene Kiniski

By GEO. H. CARTER
Sports Editor

Mayhap Prince Malava had better drop the orchestral accompaniment. In skin-bumping Coconut Willie, the Gene Krupe of the combo, we more or less the reason for the big 'at-do downfall last night in Memorial Arena.

Mebbe Willie can cuss in Samoan. Or did the Coconut Kid just take it for granted that Willie was "skinning" to his royal master.

This "Say It With Music" idea had Willie and his Samoan conk-swinger in a tizzy. The Prince got his coco-bumps mixed with his drum-thumps and whichever spoke Samoan got the nod. So did Kiniski much to the chagrin of 1,800 paid peerstare.

Le Kiniski had a sort of a hunch throughout the first two falls that Coconut Willie was not exactly skinning him to the skies in his drummed-up messages to the Prince and in fact several times he stook a huge fist in his path of travel, but that was no skin off Willie's tom-tom.

In fact the princeling had the huge Kiniskie almost hors-de-combat in his corner during the chapter. His noggin which, 'tis said, has a cement overlay, had the Kiniski top-piece and the all-an old-fashioned washboard when the big guy left the ring.

Outside the ring Willie was thumping a peaan of victory. It was a drummed-up job and the ditty that got deep under the Kiniski skin. So Uncle Gene left the heir to the Samoan principality nodding like a 90-year-old in his big throne-like chair and leaped out of the ring in a beautiful, flying leap.

He nailed Willie in the middle of the second verse of "Here Is My Heart, Your Heart" and Willie parabola'd utes of effort.

not gracefully into, say the second or third row of the business men's seats. He knocked three spectators off mountain laps with Gene doing a skin job on the floor.

Meanwhile in the ring the Prince was shaking his persimmon from ten places. He was what was going on and with a cauliflower ear, the regent and went to the assistance of the royal Guy Lombardo.

He yelled in Samoan "Beat It" to Willie. And Willie grabbed his drum and started the fast tempo of the "Samoan War Hymn." The prince hurled in Kiniski and it was no "Kiss Me Again" waltz.

It appears that the marimba treatment his noggin got from the royal cranium had not affected the Kiniski cerebrum. His crafty brain went into high gear and sensing his opportunity he took advantage of it. In the ring Referee Joe (Don't Call Me Slaney) Golley was doing his semaphore act, so Gene acted quickly.

Before the prince was sympathising with his drum-tapping hireling, Kiniski leaped back into the ring, and the prince was counted out. That was it.

He pulled it again and won with a hilarious exhibition. It was one of the best shows the half-price Fri.-Flamers took in some time and their funny but sad Samoan fell the crowd in an uproar. The agile lil cusses worked at top-speed and Sammy the Man (Mal-Joe) was in a whirl trying to keep official tab on the ring goings-on. It was a good show.

In an evenly-matched preliminary Fri.-Flamer took the measure of Jack Walker in a bout which had the devoid of the usual bad-man tactics. It was a fast, clean bout with the Irish-man the best of the two.

All carried 126 pounds in the event scheduled to go off at 8:45 sm. EDT with a nationwide television and radio hookup.

Petes Wallop Hamilton 9-7

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—In a fast, rugged Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior opener here before nearly 2,000 fans Friday night, Peterborough Timbermen took a 9-7 triumph over Hamilton Farmers. It's Petes' second win in two starts and Hamilton's first set of three times. The visitors were ahead 2-1 at the end of the first quarter but threw 5-4 in the second period. Petes drew 13 of the 21 penalties.

Bob Curtis threw in three tallies for the winners, with two apiece from Bobby Allan, Buck Buchanan and Bud McDougall. For Hamilton, Tony D'Amico hit the net three times. Singles being scored by Ivan Thomas, Vern Venatter, Gary Guodale and Joe Sullivan.

Several fights threatened and both side drew three major penalties, While 'Logan' of Hamilton getting a match misconduct in the middle frame for an attempt to injure.

Iron Liege 4-5 Favorite In Colorful Preakness Run

BALTIMORE (AP)—Iron Liege, once belittled by his own Calumet Farm handlers, is the choice of other colts in the Preakness today as a probable favorite to further his bid for the ninth triple crown in the history of thoroughbred racing.

About 30,000 were expected to invade Pimlico for the 82nd running of the $100,000-added race over a mile and three-sixteenths.

The weather man said they could expect a cloudy, warm day.

Iron Liege was a 5-to-5 favorite to follow up his May 4 Kentucky Derby triumph with victory and thereby set himself up for the June 6 Belmont Stakes. The last of eight horses ever to do it in three events, which make up the triple crown for 3-year-olds, was Calumet's Citation in 1948.

SECOND CHOICE

The runner who given the best chance of throwing cold water on trainer Jimmy Jones' dream of making history with Iron Liege was Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, figured at 3-to-1 in the early odds.

He ran fourth in the Derby but beat Iron Liege in three previous meetings.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the 82-year-old gent who trains Bold Ruler, prescribed blinkers for him in the hope that they will help him duplicate his victory in the Preakness Prep last Monday. It was the first time he had used "cheaters" in 17 starts.

Bettors looking for a price could pick from Inverpet of Evelyn Farm (12-1); Mrs. Jules Schwartz' Nah (20-1), Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land and Inside Track (30-1), all of Md.

All carried 126 pounds in the event scheduled to go off at 5:45 sm. EDT with a nationwide television and radio hookup.

Giardello Wins Over Calhoun In Close Bout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Middleweight champion Ray Robinson's manager, said Friday night that is the Arena dressing room of Joey Giardello minutes after the Brooklyn Italian had beaten Rory Calhoun on a split decision in a tough 10-rounder.

With welterweight king Carmen Basilio in line for a crack at Robinson next, there probably will be at least a six-month interval before the opportunity Giardello made for himself will materialize.

Accumulating a point edge in the early rounds, Giardello stayed off the powerful Calhoun's right for a knockout in the closing stanzas to become the second fighter who has vanquished Calhoun. The 22-year-old slugger had won 14 of 17 previous bouts by knockout and been set back only once in his three-year career.

Giardello, who will be 27 in July and has been fighting professionally since 1946, used his experience to good advantage against the harder punching Calhoun. At 160, Joey had a two-pound weight advantage.

There were no knockdowns.

Ex-Fighter Sues For 5 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—Barney Ross, former welterweight boxing champion, is suing the producers of a movie based on his life for $5,000,000.

He alleged Friday that advertising for the picture portrayed him as a narcotics addict, when in fact he said he now has rehabilitated himself, is active in civic affairs, interested in aiding addicts, and employed by a New York public relations firm.

The suit was brought against United Artists Corporation, producer of the film, Monkey On My Back, and Essaness Associates, Inc., which is exhibiting the film in downtown Chicago and advertising it in newspapers.

Ross' suit involved advertising copy only. A United Artists spokesman said Ross approved the script of the picture, served as technical adviser while it was being made and received remuneration for the use of the biographical material.

Lift Ban on Five Players

SHEFFIELD, England Reuters)—The indefinite suspension of five English league soccer players who refused to give information on alleged bribes and payments by the Sunderland club was lifted Friday.

The suspensions were imposed when the players refused to answer questions put to them at a meeting of the joint Football Association-Football League in Manchester April 25.

They were lifted when the players' solicitor told the meeting he sought by the commission at another meeting here today.

The players are Ray Daniel, Billy Elliott, Willie Fraser and Johnny Hannigan, all of Sunderland, and Ken Chisholm, formerly of Sunderland and now with Workington Town, of the third division north.

On the Tracks

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Pulling clear for a length victory after a ding-dong stretch battle, Christiana Stables' Bleet Fleet won the $15,000-added Mr. Fitz Handicap at Pimlico track Friday.

Second in the 1 3-16 - mile race was Wheatley Stables' Gray Phantom, who is trained by 14-year-old Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, grandson for whom the Mr. Fitz Handicap is named. He presented the winning trophy to Henry Lunger, owner of the Christiana Stables.

Go Lightly was third.

IBC Is Sued For 9 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club and six of its officers were sued in federal court Friday for $9,000,000 in damages by the Andy Callahan Athletic Club of Boston and its match-maker, Sam Silverman.

The IBC was accused of conspiring to monopolize interstate commerce in professional prizefighting in the United States.

The complaint charges the defendants, including the Madison Square Garden Corporation, have attempted to prevent Floyd Patterson Zone championship. The winner will meet the American Zone titlist with the survivor going against the European Zone victor for the right to challenge Ingemar Johansson.

Great Britain wrapped up its second round series against New Zealand as Michael Davis and Bobby Wilson, a pair of 22-year-olds, won a one-sided doubles match for the Britons' third straight triumph.

WHIP ALL-STARS

DETROIT (AP)—Fritz Walter, his brother Ottmar and Willie Wenzels accounted for all the scoring as their Kaiserslautern soccer club defeated the Michigan-Windsor All-Stars 10-3 Friday night before a capacity crowd of 5,500 at Macabe FiFeld.

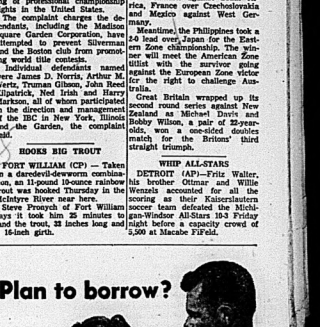
Yanks Favored To Beat Indies

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States, with Vic Seixas and Grant Golden wielding potent rackets, has favored to whop Australia's British West Indies today and take another stride toward the Davis Cup challenge round in Australia next December.

Seixas, captain of the Davis Cup team ever since World War II, and Barbara Knode of San Angelo, Tex., gave the U.S a 2-0 lead Friday by winning the first two singles matches without the loss of a set.

Victory in the doubles or one of the two singles matches Sunday will send the U.S into the second round of the American Zone competition against Venezuela.



ONE MATCH TO GO

Belgium, Denmark, France and Mexico also were only one match each away from victory and a third round berth in the European Zone, in which Italy is favored to repeat as champion. The Italians meet the Netherlands in the second round.

Belgium won both singles matches from Hungary Friday as the Denmark against South Africa, France over Czechoslovkia and Mexico against West Germany.

Meantime,the Philippines took a 2-0 lead over Japan in the Eastern Zone championship. The winner will meet the American Zone titlist with the survivor going against the European Zone victor for the right to challenge Australia.

Quinte Athletes Set Marks at COSSA Meet

Bay of Quinte athletes broke four records and took nine firsts in all yesterday, but Richmond Hill went on to capture the championship in the COSSA track and field meet held at Newmarket.

Ken Volegsand, starry BCIVS speedster, set two new records in senior competition and Don Cottrell, Trenton High School, one. The other record busting feat came from Trenton's D. Giff in junior action.

Vogelsang, who set Bay of Quinte marks in 100, 200 and 400 last week, broke the COSSA records in the 100 and 440 yesterday but did not participate in the 220. He ran the 100 in 10.7 seconds, chased by Cottrell who finished second. Vogelsang set his 440 mark with the time of 51.4 seconds. Teammate Glen Maracle finished third while B. Gibson of Uxbridge, chased Vogelsang to the wire.

Don Cottrell hurled the javelin 164 feet, 2½ inches to set a new COSSA standard.

D. Giff of Trenton, shattered the junior shotput record by tossing the iron ball 45 feet 10 inches.

The Belleville senior relay team took first place in the one mile competition, covering the distance in 4.44 to defeat Uxbridge.

Glen Maracle of BCIVS, finished third in the senior 880 while E. Anderson of Trenton, collected third place in the senior pole vault. A. Burleigh, also of Trenton, took third in the same event.

The intermediate section saw two local firsts, two seconds and one third. Harvey Scott, of Trenton, took first in the shotput while Allison of Napanee, placed first in the pole vault.

Dick Hurst of BCIVS, had seconds in both the 880 and the one mile while G. Dawdors had a third in high jump.

Beside's Giff's record in the junior shotput he also took first place in the 440. D. House of Trenton and teammate A. Clark finished one-two in the discus throw.

D. Bowman of Trenton, turned in an excellent junior showing with seconds in the high jump and broad jump and a third in the 100.

Mexican Television Full Of Interest, Growing Pains

By BOB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican television today is at about the state of United States television in 1948—full of enthusiasm and growing pains.

To the visiting viewer, Mexican TV offers many surprises. It's startling to watch Bradford Crawford step out of his Highway Patrol car and address a traffic offender in perfect Spanish.

And what a bowl of protest would be heard if a U.S station beamed the Sunday afternoon bullfight, complete with kill.

I got a rundown on the TV situation from Carlos Ortiguza, a tall, handsome man who ably combines two professions. A successful lawyer, he also acts for Mexican films and TV.

"There is not much money in television yet," he said. "It is not too good a buy for the advertiser. A half-hour television show would cost him $2,000 and he could reach only 150,000 sets. He can buy a half-hour on the radio for $500 and reach a much bigger audience."

TV has provided work but not much money for actors here. An hour-long dramatic show, requiring a full week's rehearsals, would net the average actor only $18.

So far the big film stars have steered clear of the new medium. The one big star created by TV, said Ortigosa, is 'Paco Malgesto, a bull fight announcer who is immensely popular.

ACTORS DON'T LEARN PARTS

The Mexican TV actors have a gimmick which goes a step beyond the cue cards or "idiot sheets" of New York and Hollywood. The actors here can be wired with a radio receiver that has an earpiece like a hearing aid. Someone offstage reads the lines and the actors repeat them.

"With TV paying so little we can't afford to memorize the parts," said Ortigosa.

Locally filmed TV is virtually nil here because of costs. An advertiser can buy a dubbed TV film from Hollywood for $500, a tenth of what it would cost to make a film here.

Among the shows on the Mexico City channels: Lassie, Rin Tin Tin, Dr. Christian, A Man Called X, Boston Blackie, Ford Theatre.

"What, no Lucy?

"It's too American," said Ortiguza.

AT THE McCARTHY — Lou Costello objects to the rock and roll gyrations of Bud Abbott, Ron Hargrave and Gigi Perreau, starring in the comedy "Dance With Me, Henry", a United Artists release opening Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. "The Brass Legend" with Hugh O'Brien is the 2nd feature.

carelessness. Be careful in finances.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Grasp opportunities, good suggestions promptly. Day will respond to healthy action, skillful work, smart advertising and packaging. Be cooperative, helpful to others.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Moderately helpful influences from Jupiter, Mars and Saturn. Aim high, and go to work on those aims. A period for realizing sound hopes, true gains.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Daily routine, difficult tasks, home and family interests, writings, study, research, legal matters, secretarial and clerical work, electronics among day's many favored activities.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — With sound optimism and proper timing in action you can accomplish well today. The conscientious, friendly person will win the greatest rewards.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Emphasize your best talents, good points. There's much planetary encouragement now. Be enthusiastic, ambitious. Don't permit anything to dampen your spirits or hold you back.

You born today are adaptable, versatile, also changeable. You are kindly, willing to give your ideas and manual help to others; are capable in many lines. It is to your best interests to cultivate self-control, concentration. Even though you may leave a project for a newer one, you usually return to the first or offer enough aid so that others can finish the first satisfactorily. Avoid worry; pray when troubled or confused. Make good reading a habit.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, May 29, 1967

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An encouraging day for the most part, but extra care and patience are stressed in personal affairs, written matters. Well-handled finances, money interests, matters ments under good aspects.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A pleasant day but not a particularly stimulating one. Don't strain your budget in shopping, in real estate or through investments. Travel matters are favored but with restrictions. Be wisely cautious with machinery, tools, vehicles.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A challenging, possibly productive day if you are willing to work for it. Be cautious in dealing with others, for you may encounter obstacles. Avoid neaas, money interests, matters with which you are familiar, jobs for which you have talent favored. Curb restlessness, impatience.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's aspect favors personal interests and promises headway in desired aims if you do your utmost. Be mindful of the setbacks possible if you are careless. Maintain a steady pace.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Mental influences can obtain desired goals but you will have to exert vigor. Sun and Moon positions encourage personal matters, family affairs.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — The whole picture becomes brighter, more encouraging now, so take advantage of the situation. With proper effort on your part, you can succeed. Don't fear new assignments.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A twist-and-between outlook. In some things you'll prosper quickly, in others you encounter obstacles. Avoid

34 DIE IN KANSAS CITY GALE, 200 HURT

Hunted 2 Years U.S. Police Nab Phillip LeGros

Wanted in Toronto On Receiving Charge

Holiday Deaths Stand at 73, Quebec Highest

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's holiday death toll stands at 73.

The traffic death toll during the three-day Victoria Day weekend far exceeded the 27 predicted by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

Forty-six persons died in traffic accidents in the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday as Canadians took to the roads by the thousands despite poor weather reported throughout most of the country.

The toll surpassed last year's 22 fatalities in auto accidents.

The over-all death toll from highway accidents, drownings and other causes compared with 71 in 1956 and 74 the previous year.

QUEBEC HIGHEST

Quebec had the heaviest death toll with 25, a little more than one-third of the national total. The province had 19 traffic deaths, two drownings and three accidents listed to other causes.

Ontario was next with 23 deaths.

Fifteen persons died in auto accidents including six in a three-car collision near Sudbury. Four persons were drowned and three died from other causes.

Nova Scotia's total of 10 deaths included two in traffic, five drownings, two in fires and one from other causes; Saskatchewan reported five traffic deaths including a three-car pile-up in one accident; Alberta had three traffic fatalities, one drowning and one other death; New Brunswick had four — one traffic death, two drownings and one death by fire; Newfoundland reported one traffic death.

Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and British Columbia, where last year there was a total of 11 vigil-filled months, reported no fatalities.

Besides those killed in Canada, three Canadians lost their lives in an auto accident in Montana.

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today that Phillip LeGros, wanted here for two years on a charge of receiving approximately $100,000 worth of stolen bonds, was arrested by United States police during the weekend in Denver, Colo.

LeGros was released in $25,000 bail in 1955 but disappeared before his case came to trial.

Police had believed him the victim of a gangland slaying in Montreal.

LeGros, a former Toronto business executive, was reported by Denver police to be held as a material witness in connection with a large counterfeiting ring broken last week in the U.S.

Toronto Deputy Chief of Police Alex McCaffie said "every effort" will be made to extradite LeGros to face charges here.

LeGros was arrested late in 1954 after serving a 6-day jail sentence at Sydney, N.S., for illegal entry into the U.S. At the time, he told an Albany judge he would be killed if he were returned to Toronto.

He has been on the RCMP's most-wanted list since last year. LeGros is alleged to have received about $100,000 in bonds which formed part of the $320,000 robbery of the Bank of Montreal at Beaverton in August, 1955.

Woman Cabinet Member If Diefenbaker Wins

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—The name of Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative Commons member since 1950, has been linked by party leader John Diefenbaker with a possible Conservative government, if elected, would have a woman cabinet minister.

In an election speech here Saturday he mentioned her name while campaigned successfully for legislation to assure equal pay for women. The issue is included under federal jurisdiction.

Mr. Diefenbaker immediately added that, if he became prime minister he would appoint a woman to the cabinet.

Mrs. Fairclough, a 52-year-old Hamilton housewife, is seeking re-election in Hamilton West. She has been the party's labor spokesman in Parliament.

FIRE SWEEPS BUILDING

TORONTO (CP)—More than 100 persons were left homeless Saturday night after a three-alarm fire swept through the basement and first floor of a residential building in suburban Mimico. Four firemen, including Mimico Fire Chief Harold Saunder, 64, were overcome by smoke.

Ottawa Baby Survives Fall From Third Floor

OTTAWA (CP)—April Fauchon, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fauchon, slipped from her mother's arms Monday and fell out an open third-floor window to the pavement below, but apparently without suffering serious injury.

The baby, scratched and bruised on the face and arms, was taken to hospital where her condition was described as good.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies were clear over most of Ontario this morning and temperatures were in the 30s and low 40s. During the afternoon temperatures will reach the 60s but cloud will begin to enter the province as a storm over South Dakota moves nearer the Great Lakes. Rain will begin in northwestern Ontario this afternoon and showers will start up in the southwestern Ontario by evening. This damp weather will spread into the remainder of the province tonight and Wednesday morning.

FRENCH APPEAL FOR SUEZ TALKS APPEARS DOOMED

Soviet Union Opposed U.S. Only Lukewarm

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Faced with lukewarm support from United States and flat opposition from Russia, France's appeal in the United Nations for new Suez canal negotiations appeared today to have little chance of success.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau went to Washington for a talk with Egypt in accord with the six principles approved by the council last fall.

Pineau described the present operation of the canal under an Egyptian declaration issued last month as "ambiguous" and "tendentious."

The French got quick support from Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon, but not the Egyptian declaration needed clarification. He added that it could be by means compiled with the Security Council's requirements.

Egyptian delegate Omar Loutfi told the council that Egypt's declaration is in accord with the six principles approved by the council last fall.

EDWARD J. HINCHEY WINS 2 SCHOLARSHIPS IN MEDICAL COURSE

Edward John Hinchey, Belleville, has won two scholarships in Faculty of Medicine at Queen's University. He has completed two medical years at the university.

Mr. Hinchey won an Edgar Forrester Scholarship and the University Scholarship for standing in logy-embryology and pathology-logy-embryology and physiology.

William E. Ezell, Frankford, sixth year medical student, won prize in surgery given by the Women's Auxiliary of the International College of Surgeons.

FIREMEN NOT BUSY OVER HOLIDAY

In the three-day holiday period, firemen had only two calls, both of which caused no damage.

Oil burners at 393 Stokes St. and 39 Partridge St. required the attention of the firefighters on Sunday.

CHILD DARTS INTO PATH OF VEHICLE

Wayne Andrews, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Andrews of 86 Emily Street, suffered slight head injuries Saturday evening when he darted from between parked cars into the path of an automobile near his home.

Driver of the car was Gilbert Grant, 491 McDonald Ave.

Mr. Grant was proceeding east on Emily Street, when the Andrews boy ran quickly from the sidewalk between parked cars directly into the path of the approaching car.

The boy was rushed to the hospital by Bush's Ambulance but returned home after receiving treatment for bruises and scratches to his head.

DISTRICT STUDENTS TO GRADUATE AT LONDON

Two district people will graduate from the University of Western Ontario at London on May 25.

Theresa Cournyea, Tweed, will graduate from the university's Ursuline College in the general course with home economics options.

John Lutgendorff, Trenton, will graduate from University College at U.W.O. with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the general course.

THOMAS BARBER RECEIVES DEGREE AT GRADUATION

Thomas Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barber, Picton Road, near Mountain View, graduated at Ontario Agriculture College on Friday with the degree of Bachelor of Science. Mr. and Mrs. Barber attended the graduating ceremonies which were held in Guelph.

Picton Doctor Heads Quinte UEL Association

The May meeting of the Quinte Branch U.E.L. Association was held at Adolphustown with members attending from the Picton, Napanee, Bath, Adolphustown, Belleville, Stirling, Foxboro and Hallaway areas. Of the total membership of 164, Hastings county has over 60. The Quinte branch started as a year ago with 21 members transferring from the Toronto branch.

The speaker was Dr. L. E. Merrill of Hamilton, a member of the Dominion Council, who spoke on "Our Heritage". What Value? Are we making proper use of the benefits we enjoy as the result of the labors of our ancestors, he asked. Are we fully aware of the good country in which we live, or do we take too much for granted? We should not be worshippers of our ancestors, but live worthy lives, thereby improving our country. We can offer a helping hand to newcomers to Canada, in memory of those who landed here in a wilderness with few, if any, to hold them welcome. New Canadians take their responsibilities of our country from us, who have out heritage extending back many of six generations. He also spoke on current events in Asia and Africa and the present time. As Canada is a member of the Commonwealth, its peaceful influence is being felt in faraway countries. Mr. Merrill pointed out several reasons why Canada should continue to co-operate with Britain.

Appreciation was voiced for the good work of the past president, Mr. Claude Young, of Wellington, who has done so much to help make the Quinte branch a success, by interviewing so many people and scouring their records and by research work in visiting many old and sadly neglected cemeteries in the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward in search of names of former residents.

The newly elected officers are: president, Dr. Gerald Allegan, of Picton; vice-presidents, Col. Davern, Wellington; Miss Kay MacFarland, Napanee; Mr. H. J. Cleaver, Stirling; Mr. Maurice Young, Bath and Mr. Rae Hobbis, Redners; secretary, Miss Edith Allison; treasurer, Mr. Harry Blakely; genealogist, Dr. H. C. Burley, Bath.

Fireworks Show At Pt. Anne Big Success

Rain postponed the softball game at Point Anne last night but it certainly didn't dampen the fireworks display as an estimated 3,000 persons flocked to the park for a brilliant show.

Crowds began to arrive from miles around and by 8.30 when the first "cracker" exploded, one of the largest crowds ever to witness this type of show in the district jammed the ballpark area.

The huge fireworks display, sponsored by the Union Management Safety Advisory Committee, lasted over two hours and was completed without a hitch. Nearly $500 worth of fireworks of all varieties was used under the direction of Gerald Anderson and Gerald Burshaw.

Prior to the fireworks display was such a success that it will be an annual affair," it stated Mr. Hollingsworth this morning.

The opening game of Belleville and District Softball League was scheduled for 7.00 p.m. but rain forced postponement until Wednesday of this week.

The new canteen will be open for Wednesday's game, also at seven o'clock, with the Belleville Merchants the visiting team.

Rain also was the cause of the loop's other fixture being postponed, the game between Belleville Goyer's Marines and the Trenton Legion Juniors at Trenton. This game will also be played Wednesday night at 8.15, as well as the regular scheduled game, Belleville Bobby Pins vs. the Frankford-Data Shoemen.

Plans Complete For New CNRA Club House

Mr. George F. Foster, president of the Canadian National Recreation Association branch here, announced today that plans were completed for erection of a club house for the erection of a club house to house association activities and for rental to various organizations in the area. The new building which will be of cement block construction, will be 40 feet by 80 feet and will be situated on C.N.R.A. property facing Hambly Street adjoining the Memorial Arena. Excavation at the site is now under way and it is expected the building will be completed and in operation by October or November.

The project will be carried out under the supervision of Mr. L. J. Tinn, vice-president and building chairman of the association. Mr. Tinn states a fund raising drive will be necessary shortly for the purpose of securing the necessary financing. This will be undertaken by a group of stock to employees and their friends and this function will be under the direction of finance chairman A. G. Meagher, assisted by others.

It is felt that this building, when completed, will not only be a benefit to the employees of the Canadian National Railway but will also be a benefit to the city of Belleville as a whole. The building will be available for rental to the citizens for dances, wedding receptions, parties, etc. President Foster said in making the visit by Mrs. Alice Storms, President of the C.N.R.A. ladies auxiliary that their organization will completely furnish a modern kitchen in the new structure.

ISRAELI AMBUSHED

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—An Israeli workman was killed Monday and another wounded in the Arabs Valley near the Jordan border, according to reports reaching here.

Obituary

HERBERT WALLACE LEAVITT

Following a short illness, Herbert Wallace Leavitt, 338 Dufferin Avenue, retired CNR engineer and highly respected resident of this city, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday morning.

He was born in Saint John, New Brunswick, 78 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Leavitt and has resided in this city most of his life. In 1900 Mr. Leavitt joined the old Grand Trunk Railway as a fireman in this city and was classed as an engineer in 1904. He ran out of this terminal for many years, finishing his career on the "fast" trains. He retired in 1944. He was popular with the management and highly regarded by his fellow employees. Mr. Leavitt was on a retiring pasture but he made a wide circle of friends in the city who will sincerely regret his death.

The late Mr. Leavitt was a member of Bridge Street United Church and fraternally he was a life member of the Belleville Lodge, A.F. and A.M. No. 156, and also a life member of Moira Chapter, No. 34.

Surviving are his wife, the former Minnie Keene; one son Lieutenant Herbert Leavitt of this city; one step son, Arthur Secoy of Stratford; one step daughter, Mrs. Harold (Madeline) Russell, of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Norman (Claire) Cull of Vancouver. A son, Allan Wallace Leavitt, died in action in 1944.

Resting at the Pinkston and Lumsden Funeral Home, 80 Victoria Avenue at Church St. The funeral arrangements appears elsewhere in this edition.

BENJAMIN A. CLARKE
(R.R. 4, Shannonville)

Resident of the fifth concession of Thurlow all his life, Benjamin A. Clarke passed away at the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday. He was in his 81st year.

Born in his native township the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Clarke, Mr. Clarke lived his life close to the soil. He was a member of Bethel Church. His wife the former Maggie J. Embury predeceased him some years ago.

Surviving are one daughter Mrs. Walter (Mary) Ellis of Picton, one son Kenneth at home and one brother Edward of Foxboro.

The funeral took place this afternoon with Rev. R. J. Mc-Kenzie officiating. Interment was made in Elmwood cemetery.

MRS. MARY JANE (MINNIE) HOLE
(Fourth Concession Tyendinaga)

Highly respected in her native township of Tyendinaga, Mrs. Mary Jane (Minnie) Hole died at her home on the fourth concession on Sunday, May 19. Mrs. Hole was in her 84th year.

Born in Tyendinaga township Mrs. Hole passed away peacefully. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman.

She had resided in the district all her life and was a member of the Canadian National Railway but will also be missed by the city of Belleville as a whole. The building will be available for rental to the citizens for dances, wedding receptions, parties, etc. President Foster said in making the visit by Mrs. Alice Storms, President of the C.N.R.A. ladies auxiliary that their organization will completely furnish a modern kitchen in the new structure.

Surviving are her husband, William Sherman Hole, Picton, daughter, Mrs. Murner (Ida) Grills, of Stirling.

Resting at the Bush Funeral Home; the funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. DORA CHURCHILL

The funeral of Mrs. Dora Churchill was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Monday afternoon at 2.30 in the chapel was conducted by Rev. R. D. McGeachen, who also laid the committal service at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Frank Domenico, Sandy Charleston, James and Gerald Churchill, Leonard E. Ede and Maxwell Langman.

Belleville Fair To Sponsor Track Events

The Belleville Fair will again sponsor track and field events on the first day of the 1957 exhibition.

Introduced two years ago these events have proved popular with the opening day public.

Four events will be run off this year. These included the Meet Mile, half mile, quarter mile and a half-mile relay.

Valuable prizes have been donated other years but donations are usually made after a potential entry list has been submitted.

Further information may be obtained from Recreation Director Lloyd Lowry, City Hall, or fair secretary R. W. Phillips at 39 Henry Street.

Unseasonable Weather Greets Residents Over Long Holiday

"The Twenty-Fourth of May Is the Queen's Birthday If we don't get a holiday We'll all run away."

That was a little red schoolhouse ditty years ago but now they don't sing it any more since modern regulations have shifted the holiday up to the previous Monday to the "Twenty-Fourth".

As far as "Victoria Day," "Empire Day," "Commonwealth Day," call it what you will, holiday was concerned this year, citizens may as well have "stood in bed."

In direct contrast to the balmy breezes and brilliant sunshine of the Easter holiday the "Twenty-Fourth" this year was more conducive to football and other autumn pastimes than those usually associated with spring.

There was rain, rain and rainy. Unseasonable weather plus rains removed most of the picnic plans except those for the "timeout." Many plans were nipped in the bud. Those that survived the openings of various phases of sport were cancelled.

Dulles blustering clouds pulled the city and general district on Saturday, then, after bursting into a steady deluge at 5.00 p.m. kept emptying through to Monday mid morning. The rain ceased near noon on Monday, which had a partial fling at Easter was denied its usual airing on the "Twenty-Fourth" by all-but-exiled residents, and they included the writer, who spent the week-end the most part — and sent television and radio ratings soaring.

Saturday was the coolest the city of late with the temperature registering a low of 40 to a high 58. It was somewhat better on Sunday. Mr. Monday with 43-5 low and 51 high.

Rain caught heavily on Sunday with Filtration Plant figures registering .41 inch, increasing overnight to .71 inch on Monday or an overall fall of 1.13 inches.

The rainy coldish situation was general and those who sought cash-and-carry local summer resort were either "dehard" fishermen or those who went merely for a change of scenery. No sun-tans were reported.

Some of the fish-at-any-cost intensity were rewarded. One pickerel secker caught a six-pound beauty off the CPR bridge near Victoria Park. Varying luck was reported by those who sought the tasty dinner in bow hunts.

Others took to the highways for their holiday recreation and police traffic officials report no trouble to this point. Only on the other side of the border reported a heavy influx of Canadian into Victoria Park. Varying proportions occurred on the highways this week-end with accidents, mostly dented fenders and broken headlights, more or less evenly split in the city. A small child was reported struck by a car when running across Emily Street.

Some members of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club defied the weather and hied themselves to the links Saturday afternoon. Club members marked the opening of the season with the traditional spring ball in the clubhouse on Saturday night, when a near record crowd of 280 enjoyed the first social event of the season.

In a record of form the weatherman scuttled the cloud idea today and the Ole Sol, ability tempered with cool breezes, shining down on a holiday-frustrated city and district. But he is fickle. Reports state tomorrow will be cloudy again with the possibility of intermittent showers.

Police Blotter

The holiday weekend passed without serious incidents occurring in or near Belleville, city and provincial police reported today.

On Monday, though, a patient in the Belleville General Hospital sounded the alarm when, looking out over the bay, he noticed a small boat, containing three people, apparently in distress out on the bay.

An RCAF aircraft from Trenton also saw the boat, but did not report seeing signs of occupants.

O.P.P. Constable Ivan Tinkess and a Mr. Davison launched a boat and headed out into the bay to the rescue, but when they pulled alongside the capsized boat, there was no sign of survivors.

To date there have been no reports of missing mariners given to police.

A number of small accidents on city streets over the weekend kept police busy, but no collisions were serious.

Greg Butler, 239 Dundas St. East, reported to police on Sunday morning that his car had been stolen from in front of his home on Alexander St., but he later found it on John St.

L.C.A. CHARGE LAID

A local man was nabbed by police after he went through a red light on Front St. about early Sunday morning and Michael Nathan Bell, Belleville police officer found an opened case of beer with all but eight bottles missing. The driver was somewhat unsteady on his pins. He was charged with drunk driving.

O.P.P. at Picton are looking for a 1956 model car reported stolen from Bloomfield on Sunday morning. It is green and brown and bears permit number 946-376. Anyone spotting the car is asked to call the Picton O.P.P. detachment.

Sunday afternoon some children annoyed pedestrians on Front Street when they got in the Victoria Day spirits a little too early and dropped firecrackers on the walkers. Fortunately no one was hurt and the youngsters fled before police arrived.

Jack Grahne, 55 Moira St., reported his boat had been stolen some time Saturday or Sunday from the west side of the Government Dock; he later found it floating in the harbor.

A teen-age boy went for a car ride with a few chums on Sunday and returned home 30 minutes later after being beaten up by his friends.

Shortly after midnight yesterday a resident on Burnham St. complained to police that he couldn't sleep because his neighbor's dog was barking at the world at large. Police investigated and found a dog, tied in a garage, with a supply of food and water, while its owners had gone away for a pleasant weekend.

Sea Cadets Will Undergo Inspection Wed.

Immaculate in their blue-and-white "round rigs" some ninety sea cadets will undergo the discerning eyes of inspecting officers at the Sea Cadet Barracks, Victoria Crescent tomorrow evening at 7.30.

The cadet strength will be made up of forty members of the Corps' Sea Cadets Corps and an equal number from the Navy League.

The inspecting officers are Commander F. P. Pearce, RCN, retired, Toronto, and Lt. Commander J. S. Gardiner, RCN, also of Toronto. Mayor Jane Wannamaker will be on hand as will Mr. Charles Shaw, managing secretary of the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division.

The inspection will take place in front of the Sea Cadet barracks and will be followed by an informal get-together and smart band of the corps heading the parade. An armed guard will be on hand.

The inspection ceremonies will be followed by "sail-past" on the harbor when the cadets will man rowboats and sail past officials.

The general public is cordially inviting to attend the inspection.

Children Enjoy Fireworks Put On by Assoc.

On Monday evening the Churchill Heights Athletic Association sponsored a community fireworks display in the Churchill Heights playground, under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams. They were assisted by M. Spafford, E. Nolan, J. Percy, B. Bateman and J. Lundberg, who handled the P. A. system.

Before a brilliant aerial and ground display took place, the children, who numbered 250, were treated to coca cola, candies and balloons. The committee wishes to thank the coca cola company and its representative Ralph Downey and H. Christopher for their kind assistance and co-operation.

The committee also wishes to thank all the citizens of the community who so generously donated to this project.

An enjoyable time was had by young and old alike and because of the precautions taken there are no children suffering from burns etc. in Churchill Heights.

Project Still Needs $500 For Completion

PLAINFIELD (Special) — A Belleville metal worker, Mr. D. C. MacDonald, has offered to manufacture a playground equipment for the playground for Mentally Retarded Children at the Bellevue Park Memorial Home at Plainfield. He will be doing the work at cost which is a tremendous contribution toward the fulfillment of the objective of the project.

The wire link fence for the playground has already been erected and is a beautiful structure and as soon as the whole project is ready, it will be given an official opening. The City of Belleville, the county of Hastings and the township of Thurlow have been petitioned to contribute toward the playground and a proposal has been made to the five governing bodies to appoint or select one council member as a board of trustees to administer the funds collecting and report to the public on the administration when completed.

Attending invitation to visit the home is still there. A few days ago a group of women of the Belleville Army visited the Home, under the leadership of Mrs. Captain C. Ivey of Bellevue Hospital. A group of boys under the leadership of Mr. M. B. White, of the Fairway Ave. U.C.C.F. S.S. visited yesterday to discuss the erection of a large sandbox for children.

There is still about $500 needed to complete the project and with which project and assistance is welcomed. One anonymous supporter mailed a cheque for $10 drawn on the Toronto Dominion Bank at Belleville, Donald Ave. at 4, but unfortunately no account number or name graced the cheque. The Home is sure that the mistake will be discovered and the cheque will arrive. The following is a supplementary list of donations received since the last publication:

IN MEMORIAM

STAPLEY — In loving memory of our dear father, Frank Stapley, who passed away May 21st, 1953.

Sweet memories are all we have
Of one we loved so much,
We would give the world to have
If would give it, yes, and more;
Could but hear his voice and see you smile,
And greet you at our door.
But all I can do, dear George,
Is to keep your memory green,
But the joy we had together
Is more than I can express.
Shall never fade away,
Because the lovingly remembered by wife Nina.

BEATTY. — In loving memory of Mary Ethel Beatty, who passed away May 21st, 1955.

Two years has passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lingers still
She's ever remembered by Mildred, Harold and Gordon.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to express my appreciation for the beautiful fruit and flowers in memory of my late husband, Mr. Ernest Wilson, also for the kindness shown by friends to neighbors, relatives and friends who have sent fruit and helped in any way.
Mrs. Martha Richards, R. R. 2 Frankford.

Gaspe Workers Warned Strike Will Be Lengthy

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Leaders of the United Steelworkers of America have warned striking members of the union that no early settlement is in sight in their dispute with Gaspe Copper Mines Limited.

Roger Bedard, USWA spokesman, said about 500 of the men who have been on strike since March 11 attended a meeting here Monday night. They were told to "prepare for a long struggle."

The meeting was held following the Monday gathering of strikers to collect pay. Of the 1,000 who walked out about 200 have left to find other jobs. 300 live in town and the rest live in other parts of the district. The union reported it issued 500 cheques Monday.

Gaspe Copper, a Noranda Mines subsidiary, said it now has 320 workers back on the job—up 20 from last Friday. Company manager W. G. Brissenden said the group includes new employees and returned strikers. The union maintains there are 70 former strikers back at work.

Trapped Miner Found Dead

LYKENS, Pa. (AP) — David Snyder, 36-year-old coal miner, was found dead Monday night deep in a central Pennsylvania mine near here. He had been trapped 400 feet below the surface since Friday.

Snyder, father of three children, had not been heard from since five hours after the slide which trapped him in a passageway of the South Mountain Mine. Mine inspectors heard tappings from a wall until then.

Albert Farrar, Trenton, Dies In 73rd Year

TRENTON — Prominent in the business life of Trenton and Tweed for many years, Albert A. Farrar, 158 McLellan Street, Trenton, died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday afternoon. He had been in ill able lots, 39 cents. Eggs, in fibre health for some time and had recently returned from Florida where he spent the winter in search of better health.

The late Mr. Farrar was born in Syracuse, N.Y., 72 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Farrar, but had resided in this country most of his life. As a young man he came to Canada and settled in Tweed, where he established a business, dealing principally in furniture. After a successful venture in that village, he moved to Trenton and became prominent in the business and civic life of this community for many years.

Although he was never a member of the council or the school board, he took and active interest in his adopted town and served for many years as a member of the public utilities commission. He was in business in Trenton for 37 years and established a wide clientele in the Bay of Quinte district. Mr. Farrar was an ardent Rotarian and completed eighteen years of perfect attendance before he was forced to give up attending every meeting due to his health.

The late Mr. Farrar was a charter member of Tweed Masonic Lodge No. 239, a charter member of Trenton LOL and a member of Trenton I.O.O.F. and in all his fraternal activities gave of his time and ability to assist in worthwhile projects of the community.

Surviving is his wife, the former Mary Ellen Mosier of Arden. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary three years ago. Six sons, Ossie, of Frankford, Leonard of New York City, Burton (Bert) of Belleville, Wilfred of Vancouver, B.C., Gerald of Trenton and Jack of Glen Miller, and five daughters, Mrs. M. (Mabel) Wrightman of Stirling, Mrs. F. (Ida) McCrodden and Mrs. R. (Dorothy) Cretney of Trenton; Mrs. (Helen) Elsten) Stinson of Trenton and Mrs. Dr. G. (Geraldine) Hadley of Toronto also survive. He was the last of his family.

Justice Wilson Awards $14,678 To Company

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Cold Storage Company was awarded damages amounting to $14,678 and costs against the City of Trenton at the conclusion of evidence at the non-jury sitting of the Supreme Court held before Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson in Belleville on Friday afternoon. Mr. R. E. Nourse of Picton appeared for the plaintiffs and Kenneth Ross for the corporation.

The Cold Storage Company was also granted an injunction against the town with respect to a sewage pipe which crosses the property and over which the case was heard. The Storage plant contended in its claim that the pipe crossing its property was injurious. The court requested that the pipe be extended far enough into the bay to not affect the property and this was granted by Mr. Justice Wilson. The work must be completed within a three-month period.

Mohawk Chief Hill Unveils Plaque to Dr. Oronhyatekha, Dedicated by Bishop Evans

DESERONTO — In the quiet hilltop churchyard at Christ Anglican Church on the western outskirts of Deseronto, where he was buried half a century ago, tribute to a renowned Mohawk Chief was paid Sunday as a plaque to his memory was unveiled in the presence of present day tribal members, ranking church officials, and others.

The plaque, erected by the Ontario Archeological and Historic Sites Board, is in memory of Chief Oronhyatekha, Mohawk orator and physician who died in 1907.

In addition to many other accomplishments which brought honor to his tribe, Chief Oronhyatekha was largely responsible for the successful organization of the Independent Order of Foresters.

The simple bronze plaque, which bears a brief history of the famous chief's accomplishments, was unveiled by Tyendinaga Indian Reserve Chief William Hill and was dedicated by Rt. Rev. K.C. Evans, Lord Bishop of the Anglican Church in Ontario.

The unveiling ceremony took place following the regular Sunday morning church service at which Lord Bishop Evans told an overflow congregation that three great qualities of memory were Gratitude, Loyalty and Hope. "Hope for the future was possibly the greatest outlet of memory," he said.

Before the regular church service members of the congregation met at the cairn marking the actual landing of the Mohawks at Deseronto 172 years ago.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

Here the anniversary of the first landing was observed by the laying of a wreath by Chief Hill.

One of the first acts of the Mohawks following their first landing was to place their treasured Queen Anne communion to right viewing the plaque are Chief William Hill, former Mohawk chief Nelson Green, Roscoe Robson, Miss Shirley Doreen, and events for future generations.

He recalled boyhood days in the Belleville district and spoke of pleasure hunting excursions down the Bay of Quinte. Historic Mohawk church on the Tyendinaga site was one of the familiar sights of pleasure boat cruising on the Quinte, he said.

Frank S. Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings South, said that the people of this province were indebted to the Ontario Archeological and Historic Sites Board and to such men as Dr. Stanley for the commemoration of important historical events and deeds.

The Independent Order of Foresters, which today has close to 350,000 members, was represented in the person of Mr. W. W. Dunlop of Toronto.

As a former personal friend of the dead chief, Mr. Dunlop said Oronhyatekha had the very rare ability of being able to speak with strangers and instantly gain their friendship. He said the famous chief was a man of great stature, both physically and mentally.

Dr. D. C. McVicker, mayor of the town of Deseronto, welcomed visitors to the unveiling ceremonies noting that the people of his district were proud of their Mohawk ancestry.

Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hastings South riding, also spoke briefly as did Reservation Chief William Hill.

Ship Closely Guarded on Way to America

LONDON (Reuters)—The British feared a German pocket battleship might kidnap the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their voyage to North America in 1939, Lord Halifax has disclosed.

He said in his memoirs that precautions were taken to protect the royal ship from being intercepted by the battleship Deutschland in May, more than three months before the start of the war.

Lord Halifax, then foreign secretary and later ambassador to the United States, mentioned two other closely-kept secrets in his book, Fulness of Days. These were:

1. Two weeks before the war started, Hitler suggested sending his air minister, Hermann Goering, to England for secret talks alone with Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain. Britain agreed to the "curious suggestion" but Hitler called it off three days later.

2. President Roosevelt proposed unsuccessfully at the height of the war that Britain should hand over her crown colony of Hong Kong to Chinese leader Chiang Kai-shek to encourage his fight against Japan.

PARENTAL FOLLY

It is disturbing to see harm come to a child through the ignorance of parents, particularly so when the mother and father are unaware of the effects of their conduct.

Sometimes parents, usually the father, derive a distorted type of amusement by hanging the child over the bannisters or some other height. The helpless child's squeals and appeals for security are quite funny, they think.

Recently we were amazed to see a scene like this take place on the high bank of the Moira off Coleman Street opposite this office.

A young couple were tossing their two or three year old infant boy from one to the other. Then the father would grab the child and with a joyous whoop swing the youngster over the edge of the stone embankment bordering the river.

We were not close enough to determine whether the child was enjoying the excitement as much as his hilarious parents. It is possible that the little fellow was completely confident that daddy could not lose his grip, and if he did, the 10-foot plunge into the river would be entirely harmless.

On the other hand, if the child were afraid, it is possible and even likely that this fear will become inborn to affect him adversely for the rest of his life.

We have also seen another type of heavy handed parent suffering from the illusion that slaps on the head are a proper way of admonishing an infant. Since a baby's skull is soft and pliable this is an excellent way of increasing the future population of mental institutions.

Some elementary instruction with the marriage licence might help some parents and, more important still, prevent helpless children receiving unnecessary physical and mental injuries.

LONG CARS AND SCARCE SPACE

The habit of putting two and two together and getting a couple of dozen is the trademark of the prophet. The result is never considered a pass mark in arithmetic and sometimes it deserves an even lower rating in the field of prophecy. Nevertheless, it is a pleasant pastime, in which most of us indulge at one time or another.

An opportunity for an exercise in this field is provided by two recent articles relating to traffic and automobiles. Maclean's Magazine carries the report of a symposium on trends in the automotive field, among the points being discussed being the shape of things to come in tomorrow's automobiles. Some of the experts predicted smaller cars, some saw the present trend towards longer, wider cars continuing. The other article, by Phil Adler of the Canadian Press, was carried in Thursday's issue off the Canadian Intelligencer and discussed downtown traffic congestion, which was described as "one of the major problems facing growing Canadian cities."

Wonder what would happen if parking space, whether on city streets, on municipally-owned lots or on privately operated lots, was rented at so much a foot? At the parking meter rate of a nickel an hour, changing the long car for an extra space would not have much effect. But if rates were increased, if the size of the standard parking space were reduced and if the cost of the extra space were doubled or trebled, might not this help to turn the tide? The way automobiles are stretching out these days, telescopes with remarkable speed by those who like to see the front fenders of the car they are driving.

SHARING THE WEALTH

During an election campaign there are comparatively few statements made regarding which there will be general agreement.

One of those few statements, though, was made the other day by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent. Ontario, he said, must be ready to share some of its wealth with other provinces if Canada is to survive as a strong and united country.

No thinking person, of any political creed, is going to quarrel with that statement — certainly not Premier Leslie Frost whose criticism over federal-provincial tax rental agreements the Prime Minister had in mind when he made his observation.

A nation is like a family — there must be a willingness to share if it is to hold together.

As in a family, though, so in a nation the question often arises as to what is a fair arrangement.

It is on that point that Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost differ.

Unfortunately the problem is much too complex for most voters to be capable of giving an informed answer.

But what, your through,
Would natives do

Climate and Man

By Dr. G. G. EDHOLM in London Calling

Man is a tropical animal: he almost certainly originated in a hot country, and has gradually spread from the tropics into the temperate zones and even into the Polar regions. He is a ubiquitous animal, and now, during the International Geophysical Year, he is preparing to inhabit the whole earth from the Equator to the Pole. He still remains a tropical animal, I say rate, from the point of view of the physiologist.

Then the Eskimo, with his very efficient clothing, carries his own private climate with him, a climate which is tropical. Man's defence against heat is better than his defence against cold. Our body temperature, like that of all warm-blooded animals, remains pretty constant in spite of great variations of climate, and differences in the amount of heat produced within the body.

It is important to keep body temperature steady, as the various physiological processes work best at about 98 degrees Fahrenheit, or 37 degrees Centigrade. A very efficient mechanism for regulating body heat is therefore required in order to keep the degree of constancy in spite of the wide variations in heat loss and heat production. Man is naturally a hairless animal, so he lacks the chief means of protection from cold available to furry animals — that is, by the erection of hair. In man the appearance can easily be seen how the last remnants of this mechanism. When hair is erected by cold, as in a cat or a rabbit, then the air which is trapped in the hair is a very good insulator because hair is a poor conductor of heat. In this way an Arctic fox can remain quite comfortable in bitter cold, even when the temperature is as low as 40 degrees below zero.

The only way by which man can protect himself is by increasing his heat production, which he does by taking exercise and by shivering. He can also cut down his blood flow through the skin by constriction of the blood vessels. In some of these physiological mechanism is very efficient.

It is clothing and shelter and external heating which man has to use to survive in the cold, and even in temperate, climates. But when we look at man in the tropics we find that he is exceptionally well endowed to withstand heat.

Heat is lost by radiation from the body surface when the skin temperature is higher than the temperatures of the surfaces surrounding the body — the walls, the windows, or, out of doors, the ground. Heat is also lost in the same way round; if the surfaces are at a higher temperature, the man will gain heat by radiation from them. Heat is also lost from the body by evaporation.

The air immediately in contact with the body is warmed and being warmed becomes lighter, more upward, and is replaced by cooler air. It the air's temperature is about that of the body, or higher temperature, or even higher, no heat can be lost in this way. If the temperature is less than that of the body surface, then heat is lost by convection, but is increased by raising the air movement. On the other hand, if the air temperature is the same as that of the surface temperature of the body, or higher, then an increased air movement can actually be a source of heat and can be transferred to the body.

None of this would appear to make man particularly susceptible to heat, and it is the third mechanism of heat loss — that is, by evaporation of sweat — in which man is supreme among animals. Sweat is secreted from glands in the skin, and when it reaches the surface it evaporates. The heat that evaporation is gained from the body — the very heat we want to loose heat. So, though man is not the only kind of animal which possesses sweat glands (the horse, for example, certainly has many), most animals only have a small number of glands, and the sweat production by man far outstrips that of animals, even including that of the horse. The largest work which can be maintained continuously produces an amount of heat which is just about balanced by the highest rate of sweat production — which is of the order of one litre of sweat an hour.

The ability to sweat varies a good deal among individuals, and man has been much research in recent years on what is termed the acclimatization heat. The man who comes to the tropics for the first time from a temperate zone finds the heat very trying. He is unable to work hard physically or mentally without a feeling of exhaustion. His face is red and he not only feels uncomfortable but looks it. But as time passes he gradually becomes aware that he is able to work much more and to do things which when he first arrived would have been impossible. He will say he has become used to the heat.

Although there are some very important things to know about the way to live in the tropics, the process of acclimatization is largely due to bodily changes. And it is this process which has been studied most by physiologists both in the tropics and in England. Here, and some surprising things have been discovered. If a man is exposed for a couple of hours to a special climatic chamber in London to an atmosphere which is about the same as the hottest day in Singapore — that is, about 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and 95 degrees Centigrade, with a high humidity — and he stays in such an atmosphere for about four hours every day, the rest of the time being spent in the ordinary climate of London, we find that in the course of some two weeks he will become acclimatized to heat. It is not necessary to live in the tropics to become acclimatized. It can be achieved in a few days in the world, provided that there is a hot room available.

The first discovery was that this artificial acclimatization produces the same changes as the natural acclimatization that occurs in the tropics, as the tropics itself. Then it was shown that the man living in London and artificially acclimatized to heat in his daily four-hours exposure becomes more resistant to heat than the person who has lived in, say, Singapore all his life and has not been subjected to the artificial acclimatization. It is also shown that the man who is acclimatized to heat is also acclimatized to cold. He can increase the acclimatization of those who live in the tropics by living in his own home in a hot chamber to temperatures which are higher than those to which they are accustomed. And they too have their acclimatization increased.

The changes that have been shown to occur during this process include a greatly increased power of sweating, a more diffused sweating, a greater capacity to do heavy work.

The work which has been done in this way, chiefly been on young men, but recently there have been studies done in Britain in which the behaviour in men in their twenties has been compared with that of men in their forties. And this has shown that the latter's response to heat goes there are differences with age. In the tropics, in hot conditions, again in a climatic chamber, although both groups produced the same total amount of sweat the response in the younger group was more rapid and, possibly for that reason, their body temperature rose less. It is also important that a beginning has been made in studies on older age-groups. And it is to be hoped that attention will now be directed to the problem of acclimatization.

This is most urgent because we do not know what difference there may be in response to heat between one race and another. If we could do it is difficult to use them as laboratory subjects. But there have been some very interesting observations on children in Australia, in tropical Africa, and among the children are as tall and as heavy in the tropics as those children in the southern, cooler parts of Australia, and, indeed, they are slightly heavier. In these respects to comparable age-groups in England. There are many problems still awaiting investigation in this field. Many of them concern the effects of extremes of climate on fertility, are especially of women, as it is wellnigh impossible to disentangle climate from social factors.

There are some practical points which the physiologist can emphasize as a result of his studies. We will advise people living in the tropics to drink water freely, to consume a large amount of water which can be lost in sweat; ten to twelve litres a day is exceptional for those who are doing moderate physical work, say, in the jungle of Malaya — that is, some two and a half gallons of water. Thirst is a good guide to the amount of water we need. It is a great mistake to have cut off replacing one's water until the end of the day. There is a limit in sweat, and if you sweat freely you also lose salt. Therefore, adding a little salt to your drinking water will improve your tolerance of heat.

Another point on which the physiologist has some views is the question of the diets; but the physiologist intensely dislikes the diets. They are, for some reason not fully understood, intensely unsatisfactory. It seems to be much more satisfactory to have all one's eight hours' sleep at one time. "Keep off your back on the daytime in the tropics" is a good maxim.

There are many things still to be learnt about life in the tropics and its effects on man. We certainly do not know enough of the effects on women

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 21st., 1937

The intermediate "B" trophy which was won this season by the Belleville Redmen arrived in the city today and was on display at Ed Thomas' shop. /Belleville hockey has been affiliated with the O.H.A. since 1899 and this is the first time that the trophy has come to Belleville.

Police Constable Clarence Arnott was a party to breaking and entering a private home in the city last night. However, it was quite in the line of duty as he was assisting a citizen and his wife to gain entrance to their own house. They had been out spending the evening and had misplaced the key with them the key to the house. They rang the doorbell and pounded on the door but could not waken the maid who is quite deaf. So they looked up Constable Arnott; he secured a ladder from the fire hall and soon had the worried couple safely in the house.

Mrs. W. Hinds of Toronto spent the weekend here with her sister, Mrs. E. M. Jolly, Alexander Street.

Miss Gladys Marie Luffman of this city is among the nurses graduating shortly from the Toronto General Hospital. Mrs. Fred B. Brouse, Consaurage agent, went to Ottawa today.

Mr. Justice Charles D. Macaulay and Mrs. Macaulay are leaving tomorrow for their home at Dawson City, Yukon. They have been visiting with her son, Mr. R. D. Macaulay of this city, who will spend several months in Dawson.

The days of lumbering. From our copy at this time in 1897: The first logs of this season's drive on the Moira River arrived here about five o'clock last evening and the men are now arriving in large numbers. Now arriving will be busy times sorting and putting the logs through at the gap.

The fall fair will be held here on Sept. 17th and 18th.

The pupils of the city schools provided six and a half bushels of potatoes to be used for seeding in the garden of the Children's Shelter. Each pupil brought to school one potato and in this way the supply was obtained in response to the request of Capt. Burton, the superintendent of the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Walter Patterson has signed a contract for the completion of the Maple Leaf Tree Company's plant adjacent to Moira Street and the C.N.R. tremans Street, at the overhead railway bridge.

The Graham Company of this city has purchased a canning factory at Ellis, N.Y. and will install a large evaporating plant there.

From our copy at this time in 1897: "The High School Cadets have elected the following officers: captain, E. C. Lawrence; first lieut., H. O. McGuire; second lieut., W. B. Collins; col. sergeant, E. R. Gordon; sergeants, B. D. Thompson, A. Carmichael and E. Carre. Also from our copy in 1897: The officers of the Central School Cadets are as follows: captain, G. W. Beckwith; first lieut., Harry Fowell; second lieut., C. Reid, col. sergt., H. McCrodden; sergeants, A. Parker, C. Sargent and G. Phillips."

The Sunday School picnic season is just around the corner.

The New Drill Shed. Mr. William Stuart of Ottawa, who has the contract to build the new drill shed, arrived in the city this morning and looked over the site. Mr. Stuart, the architect, is expected here tomorrow and again the material the work of excavating for the foundations will be commenced.

Church-goers, who met on the boulevard after service, thought the ancient structure was more "wobbly" than ever before. It needs repairing and bracing badly.

Captain Harris has gone to Montreal and will return shortly with a steamer to be used by the Belleville Cement Company.

Mr. Paul Lalonde has arrived home to spend a few holidays.

Rev. Reg Hinchey is home from Toronto to spend a few days.

Mr. Frank Buckley of Corbyville has been appointed to a clerkship in the Belleville port office.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SERVANT OF ALL

No one can read that noble piece of writing by Marcus Aurelius which he called his "Meditations" without being deeply stirred in mind, heart and spirit. At one time he was the undisputed lord of the Roman world. He had power, which he did not abuse. But he was a man of peace and knew it was that he felt within himself that he was in fact "the servant of all."

Busy with a multitude of interests, he took time, over a period of years, to write his "Meditations." From his pen we have passed among the great personal narrations in the world, and written with modesty and sincerity. It has long been a favorite of mine. It contains the philosophy of a great and good Emperor. He was born in 121 B.C. and died in 180 B.C.

The Meditations of Aurelius, and of other truly unusual character, is one of the most inspiring of all ancient history. He was kindly and generous. He was humane. He forgave his enemies. He offered to step down from his throne if it would be the best for his people. His one ambition was to be a servant to all. He said: "Have I done something for the general interest? Well, I have had my reward."

Fra Barzez, noted clergyman and author, said of Aurelius: "I do not know whether the whole heathen antiquity can furnish a nobler, or purer, or more lovable picture than that of this crowned philosopher and laureled hero, who was yet one of the humblest and one of the most enlightened of all ancient 'Seekers after God.'"

Certainly this is a life worth studying and emulating. It is an amazing study, and one that is most inspiring.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Just To Settle A Bet

A Boston reader writes: "We have been debating the value of Personal Health Service by Wm. Brady, M.D., ever since World War 1. We believe we owe our present health and vits to your teachings.

"But now our son, a specialist in the —— clinic, laughs at us when we quote Dr. Brady. He says Dr. Brady died many years ago and his name is now used . . .

"To settle the bet, please tell us when you began writing for the papers and whether you are the original or maybe a son or grandson . . .

Your son is too credulous. If he or anyone else can produce any evidence to show that anyone but Brady, M.D., has myself has written or published in newspapers or elsewhere, articles, lessons, or treatises on personal health before or since World War 1, I'll supply him with $100 worth of textbooks of his own choice.

My first newspaper article was an essay which appeared in the Canadian Country Home, exclusively, on or about Christmas, 25 years before World War I, on a subject which was comparatively safe to write about. The gist of it was as follows:

I think cigarets are the very worst things anyone can smoke. Those who use them should forego a bit, and they will smoke off into the air all the money they would waste. I am sorry for many men who had to go to the asylum by using so many of them.

On Dec. 23, 1932, the Ontario County Times-Journal sent me a clipping from the paper of that date, in which my essay was quoted, and asked me to express my views on cigarets, 30 years later. I still thought and still think cigarets are the worst things anyone can smoke.

From all I have been able to learn about the effects of smoking, I believe cigaret smoking is most harmful, cigar smoking is less harmful, and pipe smoking is least harmful.

I believe the injurious effects of smoking are mainly due to carbon monoxide smoke, and that nicotine is not a significant factor.

Whether smoking causes or contributes to the development of cancer of the lung, bronchial tube, throat, mouth or lip, I don't know; but all the statistics I have seen have not seemed impressive.

There is no doubt about the effects of smoking upon the heart, the arterioles, the oxygen-carrying function of hemoglobin (red coloring matter in the blood), and constant supply of oxygen to vital brain and nerve cells. Interrupt the supply or oxygen to vital brain cells for a few seconds, and life is lost. Reduce the supply for a period of months or years, by poisoning the workings of thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease), or arteriosclerosis or coronary thrombosis or amblyopia (impairment of eyesight) or actual optic blindness or peptic-ulcer complex.

In case of serious ill effects from smoking that I have seen, the victim had smoked cigarets.

Moral: Anyway, don't make a hog of yourself.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

INFALLIBLE RULE

In an interesting article on the Bible, Lowell Thomas tells of a certain Pedro who in picturesque, in fact, rather lurid language, tells us:

"My house was a hell. I gambled all my money on cockfights. My wife fought and hated me. One day a book fell into my hands; it was a New Testament. First, I began to read with indifference, then with interest—and soon I had fallen on my knees, begging for peace and the glory of Jesus Christ reign in my heart."

The Bible open to all—everywhere—any time—should be a heritage of every person who seeks spiritual assistance and leadership. And millions throughout the world are ready for just that—for a copy of the Holy Bible. In fortifying themselves against the iron Curtain, people are turning eager faces to this light which turns men's souls.

This is interesting and inspiring but by no means unusual. Millions of people have found the Bible to be what Pedro found it to be. Theological argument also tempting to establish that the Bible is the Word of God have very little force. But when one reads it he knows that here is a Book that has come out of heaven and from the lips of God himself.

The Word of God is what one creedal statement says it is—"the only infallible rule of faith and practice."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

During the sucker run of three weeks ago, a squad of us would drive down to Lake Simcoe to shoot them, mind. Only to have the anglers tell us that we had been there frequented the sucker-laden streams for their first fat meal of spring. When we got back to camp, the radio was on. And among all the songs that were played was "The Cricket Song." And you never saw a gang of hard-headed men, down-to-earth, practical men, so beautifully bewitched by a mere repetition of the words of Cricket Song" has something of the folk song about it, or song of childhood and childhood, the kind that linger in the heart rather than in the ear, flutter round in the bush, we could not phone the radio station to play it for the first time, and we could not have trembled through one like a vibration.

Hudson quotes the poet Henley: "Of ice and glass the tinkle, Pellucid, crystalline." There is a lot of beauty in the world we never notice until the silences and the seasons, the Bobby Gimbys and the Johnny Waynes find it for us and hold it up for us to see and hear.

Canada Needs Trained Men More School Facilities Says Kingston Editor at Banquet

"A centenary celebration is a good place to stop and look back, and also to look forward to the years still to come — you might call it the pause that refreshes," Mr. Arnold Edinborough, editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard, told the members of the Albert College Alumni at a homecoming banquet in Ackerman Hall on Sunday evening.

"This school is ten years older than the country," said the speaker. "As we look back and draw inferences we see that in 1857 Canada was beginning to realize that she could no longer neglect her properties in the north and west. They were in the hands of the Hudson Bay Company and they were reluctant to give up any of it. Two parties went out on an exploring trip, one British and one Canadian. Both realized the great possibilities of the land but could not know how to exploit it. In effect from 1857 onward the die was cast for Canada, then, as her destiny, all provinces had to combine. Ten years later this came to pass under Sir John A. Macdonald.

"With this expanding country came exciting, expanding and very expensive times. Here were vast resources which needed to be developed. The Gordon report says that in forty-five years the population with be 25 million. We need more people and more money, more schools. We need industry for steady employment and a supply for steady demands of consumers. We shall need as much money and vision in the next 45 as in the past. The situation has not basically altered in the past 100 years.

"We need trained men and educated men, we need more facilities and more money. We love to mention the cost of education. The actual amount of money gives a great deal for very little, and the cost pales in consideration of what is spent on roads. Most of the tax money goes into highways. If you have a teacher he can teach the great and eternal truths any place. The expense of education should be primarily for teachers.

"Another misconception is that it is more difficult to teach because there is more to teach. Talking generally the tendency is to let the great basic disciplines lapse because they are too difficult. There is no more time for teachers but there are more extracurricula subjects.

WRITTEN WORD NEEDED

"Communication will be most important in the future. The written word will be ultimately the most basic thing in Canada. We must be able to communicate with other nations. We have to produce statesmen and diplomats who will be trained to express our feelings for Canada. Every teacher must say in class, 'In most of me is one student who will be Prime Minister of Canada and must be taught properly.'

"French is not properly taught in Canada. Why people are not bilingual, I don't know. I would like to see French taught to all so that at age 14 they could go into the Province of Quebec and talk to the people.

"We must concentrate on literature and the humanities. Shakespeare and Milton are still vital to-day. The principles of democracy drawn up by the philosophers of Greece and Rome would get back the old disciplins of learning and moral religious training which will fit us to look forward till the day we die. We must make our people believe in something beyond and above themselves. We have to get a vision of a great nation. The next one hundred years will be greater than the previous one since future must take the lead, and then we will look back with a much greater sense of achievement at the end of that time."

Mr. Bert Howard in expressing appreciation to the speaker said that his interests were indebted to Mr. Edinborough for pointing out what should be done and what could be done.

Introduction of the speaker was made by Mr. Howard, vice-president of the Alumni who had been a student at Queen's University and had known Mr. Edinborough's classes, when he was assistant Professor of English there. She described him as a civic minded person, active in public affairs, who had gone to get a M.A. from Cambridge in English literature, and many attributes as a lecturer, editor, author, and radio and TV personality.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Seated at the head table with the guest speaker were Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hayman, Mr. and Mrs. John Hayman, Alderman Gerald B. Hyde, President James Pullen and Miss Rachael Fenwick Grace was said by Rev. Chas. Applegath of Otsio, and toasts were proposed to the Queen by James Pullen; to the school, by Mr. Wragg, who was one of those who attended the old school and finished at the new one. Mr. Wragg commented that the school gave cultural as well as educational advantages. Many students had come there who did not know the discipline of study and could not concentrate, and had become organized and disciplined study. There was a sharing of opportunities, a development of the school, and a spirit in the work of life. He hoped that personalities would be developed so that a great contribution would be made to the world.

In reply Principal MacKenzie pointed out that it was quite clear to be associated with the school that personal contact with the students was most important, and when they returned it made the bond between them deepen with the passing of the years, Dr. MacKenzie stated that a continuous work was developing in church - related schools. Because times are prosperous it is assumed that all is easy going. Quite the contrary was the situation as the costs of necessary expenses and maintenance.

There was danger that the schools by raising the fees would deprive themselves out of the class and quality of students they wanted. This type of school performs a unique kind of service, and a problem faces it which cannot be solved by sentimentalism alone. The Board of Governors is vitally aware of it. They are under an obligation to balance the budget year by year and they cannot do it without outside support. Those interested in this type of school need to be informed of the serious situation. He expected that Albert College would be faithful to her past, and would go forward with and devoted people.

A lively singsong was introduced by John Hayman and conducted by James Pullen with Mrs. Hayman at the piano.

SPECIAL GUESTS INTRODUCED

Mr. Murray Irwin introduced the special guests who were present: Dr. Waldo Smith, a former teacher at Albert and author of the book, "A History of Albert College;" Mr. Naylor, Mayor of Oshawa; Dr. and Mrs. Bert Howard; Miss Jessie Tuite; Miss Madelon Young; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell of Granby, Que.; Miss Lucille Goddart from the Barbados who had come the longest distance; George Mills, the new president of the alumni; Rev. Harry Reddick of Syracuse, who had been a student fifty-two years ago; Rev. Charles Applegath, who compared the school of fifty-three years ago with the present school and said the school was making a tremendous contribution with co-educational ideas. He noted a changed emphasis at last and decided it was sweeter today than fifty years ago. He spoke in reminiscent mood of the early days at Albert and some of the men the students had played.

Representing the mayor, Alderman Gerald Hyde said the city was proud to have Albert College in Belleville, they had striven to make a contribution to the building fund. He expressed his pleasure at sharing in the reunion and congratulated the school on its first hundred years of existence.

Mr. N. A. Beach made several announcements, pictures were taken of the retiring and the new executives of the Alumni, and the girls sang a song for them to gather again at homes throughout the city to chat and talk over past days.

Don Moomaw, Gridiron Star, Conducts Chapel Services for Albert College Centennial

One hundred years of spiritual guidance and service to the youth of many nations was fittingly marked on Sunday morning when a chapel service for the centennial homecoming of the alumni was held at Albert College.

Principal of the school, Rev. Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, was in charge of the service assisted by Principal Emeritus Rev. Dr. Bert Howard and James Pullen, President of the Alumni, Mr. D. B. Hoare was organist and accompanied the school choir in the anthem "Praise ye the Father", with Mr. J. H. MacKay directing. The rare flowers, bronze colored lilies were brought from the Barbados by a former student Lucille Goddart from her own garden and made a graceful addition to the chapel.

The special speaker for the occasion was Rev. Don Moomaw who was introduced by President Jim Pullen. In making how the executive had chosen the speaker, Mr. Pullen said they wanted someone who would be known and be attractive to all ages concerned, an interest which has started with the impossible, hardly daring to hope they could achieve it. It with the happy result that he was there to-day. Moomaw was a distinguished athlete in football, a former player on the Toronto Argonaut team, where he made a great impact, and a member of Billy Graham's London crusade campaign. This June he will graduate from Princeton University, and after that to enter the ministry of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Moomaw expressed his pleasure in joining in the Christian fellowship of the occasion. Choosing as the theme of his address, "Religion — boom or bust" the speaker quoted President John Mackay of Princeton in his talk to the senior graduating class, saying, "To-day we are living in the greatest days of the Christian church since the reformation and are seeing the greatest spiritual awakening. The churches are filled to capacity and everything thing is to be in church on Sunday morning."

Mr. Moomaw noted the phenomenal success of Billy Graham's crusade in New York city. The people there as in other places have a yearning for God, typical of the era in which we live. The interest within the church was also evident in the social conditions and in politics.

GREAT SPIRITUAL UPLIFT

"In the athletic world there has been a great spiritual uplift with many athletes professing young people meeting. In the field of dramatics we find Christian groups of actors and actresses meeting each week giving a great indication of the movements ahead. People have a great hunger to be brought out of degredation to the spirit of God. They have tasted the superficial thrills, but they long to be transformed by the spirit of the Living God.

"On the other hand, is this boom a reality or a spiritual bust?"

The speaker told of seeing a great spiritual renewal in London when he accompanied Billy Graham there. He was asked to take a missionary film on a tour, and there he had an awareness of living in a chaotic world, one destined to blow itself to pieces. There was turmoil and tension in the Holy Land, human personalities were trampled in India. A typical example was a beggar boy whose back had been deliberately broken by his mother so he would always be a cripple and could practise his trade of begging. It being considered that the act of giving blessed the giver as well as the recipient.

"But right here we see immorality with the breaking down of home, life, divorce, juvenile delinquency, purposeless youths. People are in church but Christ is not taken in with them, and He is not taken into the office or the school rooms.

CHURCH NEEDS RE-CONVERSION

"What is the answer to this contradiction of terms? The church of Christ needs to purify itself. It needs re-conversion, to throw off worldly lusts, to stand as a spiritual beacon. We can bring the warmth of our love, our service and our intellects. But these are not enough, we need to bring ourselves. The church needs to unify itself. The sin of the church is that it is split and chaotic. We must be in unity in the continuing body of Jesus Christ. The division and self-desire so appar-

Veterans Want More Allowances

CBANBROOK, B.C. (CP)—Delegates to the provincial convention of the Canadian Legion here Monday criticized the federal government for paying bigger allowances to Hungarian refugees than to veterans.

Adam Williams, chairman of the pension committee, said legionnaires want to know why Ottawa pays $3 a day board and room allowance to Hungarian refugees while a single war veteran who cannot support himself gets only $60 a month.

Mr. Williams told the convention of the British Columbia and northwestern states command that the $3 payment to Hungarians is an acknowledgment by the government that war veterans allowances are not enough to live on.

The convention was told that a Hungarian family—husband, wife, and two children—would receive $300 a month. Yet, a married veteran could draw only $130 a month and no allowance for dependent children.

Delegates passed a resolution asking the Dominion command of the Legion to bring the situation to the attention of the government immediately after the June 10 election.

parent today must be transcended by the fellowship of love.

"The church needs to magnify itself to bring the situation to the attention of the government on humanity. People are trying to be part of the answer when they are still part of the problem. We must be transformed by the grace of Christ in order to bring others to Him. There is no virtue in a negative life. The secret of the spirit of Christ is in demonstration and conversation. The future is as bright as the promises of God."

BOARD ACCEPTS PICTURE

Unveiling the fine portrait, Mr. Cook asked Dr. MacKenzie and the Board of Governors to accept the picture from the members of the Alumni, in the hope that it might inspire future generations of Albert students to emulate the high ideals that Dr. Bishop so richly manifested in his life of Christian service to this country.

Principal MacKenzie graciously accepted the portrait saying he did so with gratitude and a sense of indebtedness and warm appreciation.

The prayer of dedication was given by Rev. T. C. McMullen. The alumni executive officers then were responsible for the arrangements for the Centennial homecoming were: Past-Presidents several members of his family, Mrs. Bishop, his daughter Dorothy, and his two sons, Dr. Charles and Roger, who were at the service, and explained that Dr. Bishop was fully aware of the honor and respect which was being paid to him on the occasion.

Portrait of Dr. Chas. Bishop, Former Principal of Albert Presented to College Board

Following the chapel service for the Alumni Centennial homecoming on Sunday morning at Albert College Memorial Hall, the dedication of a portrait of Rev. Charles W. Bishop, M.A., D.D., took place with Chairman James Pullen officiating. Mr. Pullen expressed sincere appreciation to Dr. T. C. McMullen for his efforts on behalf of the Alumni to commission artist Charles MacGregor to paint the portrait and to have it ready for this occasion.

The ceremonies were opened with the singing of the Albert College hymn, after which the address of presentation was made by Mr. James Cook, a former member of the teaching staff.

Mr. Cook expressed regret that continued ill health made it impossible for Dr. Bishop to be present, but he welcomed several members of his family, Mrs. Bishop, his daughter Dorothy, and his two sons, Dr. Charles and Roger, who were at the service, and explained that Dr. Bishop was fully aware of the honor and respect which was being paid to him on the occasion.

SET CONFERENCE DATE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The new International Atomic Energy Agency will hold its first general conference in Vienna beginning Oct. 1. The agency's preparatory commission announced the date after a closed meeting Monday. It was decided to postpone the meeting from a tentative date of Aug. 19 to give governments more time to get ready. The leading atomic powers, including Canada, have not ratified the agency's statute.

DEPARTMENT OF LANDS AND FORESTS

NOTICE

RE: EXTENSION OF FIRE DISTRICT

The following townships have been taken into the Tweed Fire District, when the Forest Fires Prevention Act and Regulations will now be in effect—

Admaston	Olden
Bedford	Oso
Hinchinbrooke	Sheffield
Hungerford	Elzevir
Huntingdon	Marmora
Kennebec	Kaladar
Madoc

With the addition of these townships to the Fire District, Fire Protection Officials call attention to the Forest Fires Prevention Act and Regulations which will apply as follows:

Work Permits

Except where land is being cleared for agricultural purposes, a work permit is required before carrying on any logging, mining or industrial operation, right-of-way clearing, road construction or operating a sawmill on Crown or Private lands within the Fire District. Permits expire annually on March 31st, and new permits are required after that date. Application forms may be obtained from the undersigned.

Fire Permits

Every person setting out fire for clearing land, disposal of debris or inflammable waste or for industrial purposes on Crown or Private lands in the Fire District during the Fire Season, April 1st to October 31st, shall require a Fire Permit. Permits may be obtained from the local Chief Fire Warden in each municipality.

Camp Fires

Every person setting out fire out of doors for cooking or warmth in the Fire District during the Fire Season, April 1st to October 31st, shall select a place free from inflammable debris, exercise every precaution and thoroughly extinguish the fire before leaving.

JONES—LUPENETTE

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a lovely, double-ring wedding on Saturday, May 11, at 10.00 a.m., when the Reverend Peter Murphy, united in marriage, Angela Gertrude Lupenette, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lupenette to Albert David Jones, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Glynne Jones. Gladioli, mums and pastel-tinted snapdragons adorned the sanctuary.

The Reverend Sister Mary Wilhelmina rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, who sang, "On This Day," "Panis Angelicus," and "Mother, At Your Feet Is Kneeling."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. John Lupenette, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin brocaded with sequins and seed pearls. The fitted bodice featured a low neckline and long sleeves, lily-pointed over the hands. Her finger-tip veil of lace net was held by a coronet encrusted with sequins, and she carried a bouquet of red roses tied with white net streamers.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Mary Chinnery, as matron of honor, who was gowned in white net embroidered in silver over turquoise net and satin. She wore a white Breughel hat, and carried a nosegay of bronze and yellow 'mums with turquoise ribbon.

Miss Lorna Hinchey, Miss Alwen Jones, and Miss Mary Bayerstock, were bridesmaids. They were attired in nylon chiffon over satin; Miss Hinchey in mauve, Miss Jones in yellow and Miss Bayerstock in green. They were matching feather hats and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow 'mums with mauve sweet peas tied with mauve satin ribbon; bronze and yellow 'mums with white sweet peas tied with yellow ribbon and bronze and yellow 'mums with shrimp sweet peas and shrimp ribbon respectively.

Miss Jean Lupenette, sister of Carolyn Kidd, wore white organdy, with a pink and blue floral headband, and carried a nosegay of white and blue 'mums with matching ribbon.

Mr. Peter Jones, of Belleville, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Claude Carr, Lou Cunningham and John Batcheler, acted as ushers.

Following the marriage ceremony, a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus hall, where a turkey dinner was served to the guests. The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tiered pillared wedding cake flanked by white candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets.

The decoration was given by Father Murphy.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding, wore a floral print with brown linen jacket, beige accessories, with white gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother, in navy print with matching jacket, navy and white accessories and white gardenia corsage, assisted in the receiving line.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other western points, the bride chose a sheath dress of black, brown and white stripes with white collar, and denier of metallic brown with panel of matching stripes, dark brown accessories, fawn suiture hat, and corsage of yellow 'mums. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in Belleville at 415 Dundas Street east.

Guests were present from Montreal, Kingston, Ottawa, Point Anne and Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was honored by a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Lorna Hinchey, with Miss Mary Baycroft and Mrs. Hinchey as co-hostesses.

Graduates of Past Years In Happy Albert Reunion

Many happy re-unions took places at Albert College as the graduates of years past convened to celebrate the Centennial year of the school. Reminiscences grave and gay began with, "Do you remember?" when the hundred registered at the school with a considerable number in attended some of the events but did not register. Members of the alumni were present from the States, from many parts of Canada, and from places as distant as the Barbados.

Registrations were carried out by students of the school under the direction of Murray Irwin.

The festivities began with a President's tea at Ackerman Hall convened by Mrs. T. C. McMullen, assisted by Marilyn Fox. The polished tables were appointed with embroidered cloths, and the tea table bore a floral centrepiece of pink and white snapdragons, blue iris, candles, and silver tea services. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. John Hayman and Mrs. James Loynes. The guests were received at the door by president James Pullen and vice-president Rachael Freeman. The students who assisted with making sandwiches and serving were representative of the diverse sections of the world who attend Albert: Betty Ann Butterfield, Peru; Germaine Tyndall, Bermuda; Margaret Decly, Granby, Que.; Barbara Reid, Woodstock; Gail Becks, Maskinonje; Jill Humphries, Waterloo; Carolyn Franklin, Belleville; Sui Ling Lai, Hong Kong and Formosa; Frances Mowatt, Copperclift; Barbara Warren, Dundas; Martha Tan Duk, Toronto; Martha Mundy, Smooth Rock Falls, and members of the Alumni, Miss Nancy David, Mrs. Robert Munro, and Mrs. Chas. Hunter.

MANY GROUP DINNERS

On Saturday evening a series of group dinners took place simultaneously at different places for those Alumni members who had similar interests. Service were divided into a group for the years 1946 to the present; 1935 to 1945; and before the 1935. Other dinners were given for the past students' councils; athletic groups; the choirs and the commercial group.

A delightful event was given at the Quinte Secondary School on Saturday night when there were two hundred and fifty of the Alumni and friends danced to the music of Ted Bowsley and his orchestra which featured singer Norma Locke. Mr. Harold Harton, director of Community Programs branch of Toronto was master of ceremonies and kept the square dances, Paul Jones and spot dances going at a lively pace. Winners of the spot dances were Jim Pullen and Sheila Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Ferrier. The music room was opened for those who wanted to play cards or visit. A lunch was served in the cafeteria to bring a happy evening to a close.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Alumni Association which was held on Sunday afternoon the election of officers took place with the following holding office for the coming year: Past President, James Pullen; President, George Mills, Toronto, 1950-51; vice - president, Mrs. J. MacKay; membership secretary, Charles Bristol, 1946-47; publications secretary, Murray Irwin; executive member-at-large, Alan Death, 1952-53.

The annual track and field meet which had been planned for Monday was rained out, but the Alumni members joined the school for the annual athletic banquet at Ackerman Hall in the evening.

Importance of Christian Citizenship Stressed at WMS

The monthly meeting of the Tabernacle Woman's Missionary Society was held in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. W. B. May, opened the meeting with an inspirational poem, and welcomed the members of the various church groups. Mrs. R. A. Rowley led in prayer.

The various reports were given and accepted. The devotional service was conducted by Mrs. R. Brickman after which a beautiful solo, "How Great Thou Art", was sung by Mrs. R. Wightman.

Mrs. R. Brickman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. R. Williams, a vice-president of the Presbyterial and president of the Belleville section of the Woman's Missionary Societies.

Mrs. Williams in her opening remarks spoke briefly of the committee set up to study and make plans for closer co-operation of the Women's Missionary Societies and the Women's Association of the church. Mrs. Williams stressed the importance of Christian citizenship, stating that "As Christians, we have need to be concerned with the affairs of our country, our responsibility for the government, the needs of our country and the needs of people. Our Christian responsibility for the temperance problems of today, example and influence may help others to resist the temptation of social drinking which seems so pleasant and harmless, but so often leads to danger of alcoholic habits, and on to so much misery and unhappiness.

Christian Education and Social Services are also part of our Christian citizenship as well as those worthy causes of our community which need our aid and support. Our Christian Citizenship also stresses the need for racial brotherhood, to overcome our prejudices and attitude to people of other races in our country and to those in other lands.

"Assistance and encouragement must be given to the underprivileged and those emotionally need help and understanding and thereby help to bring about a new world of peace and goodwill."

Miss Ethel Horton expressed appreciation to the speaker and also for their timely messages.

London's Debs Taking Beating From Papers

LONDON (Reuters) — London's debutantes, deeply enmeshed in the annual social season, are taking a beating from the newspapers few of them read.

Much of the laughter at the debs' expense comes from a new book called How to be a Deb's Mum, written by a titled society woman who signs herself Petronella Portobello.

The book, published this week, describes the trials and tribulations of a mother organizing her daughter's social debut. "No one knows how catty women can be until they are launching a kitten" she declares.

In these days of heavy taxes, much attention is paid to financial problems. Petronella decided it is not wise for people with relatively little money to bring out a girl too young.

The book has had a varied reception. The Sunday Times said it is "a very amusing picture of what really takes place when you begin to launch your daughter."

The tabloid Daily Mirror is responsible for what is perhaps the most insidious attack. It is running its own debutante's ball in the posh Mayfair district—but the ball is open to girls from all classes of life.

Our Christian responsibility for the temperance problems where by example and influence may help others to resist the temptation of social drinking which seems so pleasant and harmless, but so often leads to danger of alcoholic habits, and on to so much misery and unhappiness.

"Christian Education and Social Services are also part of our Christian Citizenship. Only those worthy causes of our community which need our aid and cooperation. Our Christian Citizenship also stresses the need for racial brotherhood, to overcome our prejudices and attitude to those of other races in our country and to those in other lands.

"Assistance and encouragement must be given to the under-privileged and understanding those who need help and understandings and thereby help to bring about a new world of peace and goodwill."

Miss Ethel Horton expressed appreciation to the speaker and solo-ist for their timely messages.

London's Debs Taking Beating From Papers

LONDON (Reuters) — London's debutantes, deeply enamelled in the annual social season, are taking a beating from the newspapers few of them read.

Much of the laughter at the debs' expense comes from a new book called How to be a Deb's Mum, written by a titled society woman who signs herself Petronella Portobello.

The book, published this week, describes the trials and tribulations of a mother organizing her daughter's social debut. "No one knows how catty women can be until they are launching a kitten" she declares.

In these days of heavy taxes, much attention is paid to financial problems. Petronella decided it is not wise for people with relatively little money to bring out a girl too young.

The book has had a varied reception. The Sunday Times said it is "a very amusing picture of what really takes place when you begin to launch your daughter."

The tabloid Daily Mirror is responsible for what is perhaps the most insidious attack. It is running its own debutante's ball in the posh Mayfair district—but the ball is open to girls from all classes of life.

St. Joseph's PTA Names Nominating Committee

The May meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A. was held recently in the school auditorium. Mr. Jo. McKenna opened the meeting with prayer.

On behalf of the Holy Name Society Mr. V. Muldoon presented a prize to Patricia Fahey, winner of the Archdiocesan spelling contest.

Mr. G. Whalen gave an interesting report on the C.E.A. convention which he attended.

The nominating committee was formed. The members are: W. Meagher, F. Maund and Mrs. K. Callaghan

The Reverend Sister Mary Helen Rita's class won the attendance prize.

A film strip on "Our Lady of Fatima," was shown. Refreshments were served by the mothers of room II.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

DON'T WORRY ABOUT FRECKLES

Lemon juice and peroxide, used together, is an effective bleach for transient freckles.

This is the time of the year when a great many girls begin to worry about freckles. Teen-agers, especially, are wont to consider them as dreadful blemishes and to make themselves miserable when they begin to appear. But this is silly. Actually, freckles lend a piquant note to pretty faces and, while most teen-agers outgrow them, many of our most glamorous Hollywood movie stars sport a few beneath their screen makeup.

If they do make you unhappy, however, there are a couple of things you can do to prevent getting too many or to make those you have seem less obvious. The first-thing to take into consideration, though, is the type of freckles you have. If they're the kind that appear in the Spring and disappear in the Fall, you'll have more luck in disguising them than if you are permanently freckled.

Transient freckles can be prevented to a certain extent by using the skin plenty of lubrication before exposure to the sun. Use plenty of cream for cleansing purposes and then, before retiring, use a good night cream. Blondes and redheads with fair skin are particularly subject to freckles because their skin is usually more delicate than that of brunettes. That is why the lubrication is so important. Delicate skin, which has a tendency to dry, also invites the freckles. Lubrication acts somewhat as a "cushion." When exposed to the sun, be sure to use plenty of sun-tan lotion.

Once a week, in place of your nightly creaming, give yourself a bleaching treatment. Combine equal parts of peroxide and strained lemon juice and apply with a cotton ball. Let dry and leave on all night. Be sure the peroxide comes from a freshly opened bottle.

Never use soap on your face immediately before going out into the sun.

If despite all these precautions, you still have more freckles than you want (or they don't lighten sufficiently to please you, you can do a cover-up job through smart application of make-up foundation. Use two shades—blending a shade a bit darker than the freckled area to de-emphasize it, a lighter shade on the balance of your face to highlight it. Be very careful in blending, however. A little practice will soon get you perfect. Over the foundation apply a light coating of powder—preferably one with an oil base. It will be best to omit rouge if you don't want to call attention to your freckles.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: MEALTIME NOT TELEPHONE-TIME

Maybe it's more convenient for you to make a telephone call at mealtime to someone you are really sure will be at home at this time. But your ill-timed call probably won't be at all convenient or welcome to your friend, may be most annoying, not only to your friend but also to his or her family. If this telephone call is wholly necessary (be honest about this), make it brief, very brief. Remember, please: Mealtime should not be telephone-time!

QUESTIONS ABOUT MARRIED WOMAN'S SIGNATURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a married woman signs a school note, should she sign "Mrs. Mary Brown Smith" or "Mrs. John Smith"?

2. When a married woman signs a form calling for her given name should she sign "Mary Brown Smith" or "Mrs. Mary Brown Smith"?

3. Am I right in thinking that legal papers are signed Mary Brown Smith? — Mary

1. Neither of these forms is correct . . because it is not correct to sign a letter of any kind with a title before the name. Correct etiquette to a school note:

Sincerely yours,
Mary Brown Smith
(Mrs. John Smith)

2. She may sign either Mary Brown Smith or (Mrs.) Mary Brown Smith, depending on the wording of the request.

3. Yes. The full three names . . Mary Brown Smith . . are customarily used as the signature to legal papers.

Annual Asparagus Feed

By Mary Moore

Maybe by the time June rolls around and asparagus is plentiful and as low in price as it ever gets, which isn't very, I'll be tired of it and be wishing for corn-on-the-cob. But right now we can't get enough of it. We eat it almost every night for dinner and sometimes for lunch in soup or in sauce on toast.

There must be a host of like asparagus addicts for our annual fruit market is always sold out by 6 p.m.

I want to repeat to you my admonitions of previous springs not to cook it too much. In fact undercook your asparagus. Be sure it still retains its bright green color. And another thing, add exactly the right amount of boiling water to it so there is none with which to nourish the sink drain. Try my 1-2 cup boiling water on 1 lb. of cleaned asparagus, and when it has evaporated chances are asparagus will be tender. Keep a watchful eye on it though.

For dinner as your green vegetable serve it with drawn (melted) butter in a little heated pitcher, or with a white or cheese or Hollandaise-type sauce. For lunch make:

ASPARAGUS GOLDENROD

On a slice of buttered toast serve 6 or 8 cooked asparagus tips. Pour over each serving a generous portion of White Sauce made by melting 2 tablespoons butter, stirring in 3 tablespoons flour and when blended 1-2 cup milk until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add the chopped whites from 2 hard-cooked eggs and if desired about 8 or 9 chopped stuffed olives (the broken salad ones are ideal this). Heat thoroughly and pour over hot asparagus on toast. Press leftover hard-cooked egg yolks through a sieve and carefully strew with a fork the sieved yolks over each serving.

Dinner Menus

By Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Curried Sweetbreads on Fluffy Rice, Asparagus, Carrot Rings, Stewed Rhubarb with Orange, Hermits, Coffee.

Variation: Chop yolks and whites of hard-cooked eggs and put both in sauce. Arrange toast on baking sheet. Cover each slice with asparagus and sauce and generously sprinkle grated cheese over each slice and pop under very hot broiler to melt cheese. This is very popular with the menfolk.

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP

Four cups milk or part milk and stock (chicken is ideal for this), 2 tablespoons each flour and fat, 2 cups chopped cooked fresh asparagus, salt and pepper to taste. Make a white sauce of the flour, fat and liquid cooking till thickened. Combine the fresh cooked chopped asparagus with the sauce, add seasoning and heat with an egg-beater and serve. A tiny portion of whipped cream or beaten egg-white may be served on each portion. To use the tough ends of the asparagus you can cook and put them through a sieve.

World's Great Short Stories

Beginning this week The Star Weekly presents a summer series of great short stories. The lead-off story will be "The Notorious Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," by Mark Twain. It will be followed by 14 stories ranging from "The Set," by Anton Chekov to "I'm a Fool," by Sherwood Anderson.

Even if you've read them you'll enjoy them again with the many special features in your Star Weekly. Pictures, comics, personality portraits—the Star Weekly at home or at the cottage means top reading pleasure.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

GUIDERS MEETING

The May meeting of the Guiders of Belleville and district was well attended. Each Guider received the carton of cookies for the annual "Cookie Day," which he had ordered. Many thanks should be given to the citizens of Belleville for their response on the Girl Guide Cookie Day.

The Commissioners, Mrs. R. Settle and Mrs. H. T. Floyd, explained to the Guiders about the collection of dolls and dell-puppets which the local association is going to display at the end of May. This collection was loaned to the Canadian Girl Guide Association by the owner, Miss Wrench of England. After this the rest of Canada they will go to the Girl Guide Associations in Australia and New Zealand.

Arrangements have been made for a bus-load of Guides and Guiders to go to Toronto in June for the Baden - Powell "Centenary Pageant" being put on by the Toronto Girl Guides, Brownies and Rangers at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Each year the local association of the Belleville Girl Guides donates 25 cents per Brownie to each Pack for a special treat for the Brownies. It was suggested that the Guiders apply for their donations immediately. This donation balanced with the financial assistance given to Guides for camping purposes.

Hastings division of the Girl Guides' annual dolls, dressed by the Guides in Guide uniform to headquarters to be used as souvenirs at the Centenary Camp at Doe Lake, this summer. Three scrap books of Hastings County were also sent.

An announcement was made of the joint church parade with the Boy Scouts Association which will be held on May 24, and 16th Brownie Packs — Brown Owl—Jean Watkins

The Brownies have accomplished part of their Baden-Powell project and a box of found face cloths was sent to the Babies' Convalescent Home, Plainfield.

Heather Ketcheson and Jill Lafferty have passed their test for swimmers' badge.

3rd Belleville Brownie Pack — Brown Owl Jeffers

At Easter the pack was invited to take the Easter favors and baskets they had made as their Baden Powell project to the children in the hospital. After an Interesting tour of the new ward, cookies and milk were enjoyed by all. Also at Easter the pack went on an afternoon hike north of Belleville. Many flowers were found, games were played and picnic lunch consisted the afternoon.

One new Brownie, Mary Burrows, was enrolled by Brown Owl Jeffers.

GOLD BARS PRESENTED

4th Belleville Brownies — Brown Owl, Lucile E. Duggan

On April 17th the Pack had a ceremony to present Brownies Mary Belgita, Heather Campbell, Dianne Chapman, Mary Ann Darlington, Doreen Flundser, Colleen Grey, Linda Gosselin, Beth Keeler and Lynda McBride with their Golden Bars.

Bernice Barr was in charge of the program and acted the part of a magician. Beth Keene sang riddles; poem by Karen Foster; story by Mary Beghtie; xylophone music by Linda Guest and a poem by Doreen Flunder.

Brown Owl had paper plates and crepe paper for each Brownie to make an Easter bonnet. As each six finished they modelled their hats, and then were given an Easter bunny made of Easter jelly beans by Brown Owl. The "Easter Parade" was sung by all.

On May 4th the Pack, Brown Owl, Lieut. Beverley Faulkner and Lynn Brown of the Girl Guides went on a hike. Games were played, lunch was eaten around a campfire. Then a marshmallow roast was enjoyed by all. Some exploring was done and songs sung as they walked home.

11th Brownie Pack—Brown Owl Barbara Chapelle

On Friday, May 17th, the Brownies of the 11th Belleville Pack took part in the annual Commonwealth Day service held at the School for the Deaf. The girls had been practising hard to march and salute smartly. They are proud of being able to participate in their small way.

Guide Company No. 5 — Captain Barr

The first hike of the season was held in April under the leadership of Lieut. Storey. The following girls passed their first or second class: Donna Gazzetty, Margaret Van Stone, Marian Pringle, Moira McLaughlin, Brenda Wynne, Helen McCauley, Janis Turner. Despite a blinding snowstorm just at the lunch hour the hike was a huge success. Scout's Pace was also passed, and the girls ran a mile in 17 minutes.

Betty Rice won her second class badge. Gloria Broad won her Minstrel and Needlewoman's Badge and Helen Addy, Patti Bradford and Susanne Palmer won their First Aid Badges.

SERVICE STARS AWARDED

Service Stars were awarded to the following: Lynne Taylor, 3rd year star; Helen Addy, Julie Bradford, Susanne Palmer, Diane Savage, second year star; Patti Bradford, Gloria Broad, Fay Courtemanche, Betty Elsdon, Donna Gariepy, Margaret Van Stone and Margaret Van Alstine, 1st year star.

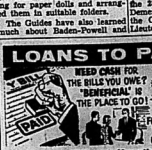
4th Guide Company—Captain Huffman

The 28 Guides of the Ontario School for the Deaf have completed their Baden-Powell Tribute.

The project undertaken by the girls was to make suitable material to entertain the small deaf children when confined to hospital. The following Guides made hand puppets: Gwenda Andison, Elaine Carlyle, Carol Hale, Lorna Kirker, Gail Williamson, June Braden, Anna-belle Cronk, Jean Shaw, Elizabeth Spark, Pauline Tschirhart. The other Guides cut out clothing for paper dolls and arranged them in suitable folders.

The Guides have also learned much about Baden-Powell and the history of Guiding while making a scrapbook of his life and the founding of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

In May, three patrol leaders, Jean Shaw, Pauline Tschirhart and Annabelle Cronk attended the enrollment of the 1st Belleville Rangers in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.



On Sunday afternoon, May 8, the 28 Guides and Mrs. J. G. Dennis attended a tea given by the Guiders at the home of Lieutenant Mrs. J. R. Letersky.

Election Campaign

Prime Minister Raps Promises Of Opposition

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says it would cost Canadian taxpayers $1,000,000,000 to see fulfilled all the opposition promises made in the campaign for the June 10 federal election.

And as for the Progressive Conservatives, their promises are "spend more—tax less hokum," he said in a 15-minute recorded CBC radio speech Monday night. He was to leave his Quebec City home today to open a tour of the Maritimes.

The three parties opposing the Liberals were "flying high, wide and handsome" with election promises already going over $1,000,000,000 beyond the level of current tax yields.

"That is what it would cost you, the Canadian taxpayers—five or six billion—to put in effect all the promises the opposition parties are so freely tossing about."

"AT ALL COSTS"

The Conservatives were trying to take over government from the Liberals "at all costs" and "it would certainly cost the Canadian taxpayers a lot of money to have this (Conservative) party in power."

However, the Liberals, continued their 75 - year - old leader, pledged themselves to do their best for all people "and to stick to our 'no nonsense—no promises' program."

The federal budget of some $5,000,000,000 a year would not be trimmed, unless the government also trimmed its services. The Conservatives did not mention that the share of the national income going into the federal treasury was smaller every year.

Opposition party promises would cost the average taxpayer $110 more annually. But election promises of this type never paid off.

The Conservatives would have to cut present federal services to reduce costs and taxes. Yet they were promising further services.

"But wise men and women know this truth that Tories never tell: A government must tax to spend—and tax more to spend more. That Tory election promise to spend more and tax less is just plainly ridiculous."

No one would suggest cutting payments to the provinces, social welfare measures or, at present, defence costs which took $7B out of the $10B in the federal budget. The rest went to pay interest on the national debt and other essential government services.

Mr. St. Laurent switched to his national unity theme in a 15-minute filmed appearance over the CBC's French television network.

Despite our country's almost prodigious expansion, which was guided by an adequate immigration policy, national unity is a reality that is more evident than ever," he said.

"The various ethnic groups of Canada, starting with those of British and French origin, have more respect for one another because they know better the part that each one takes in the economic and cultural development of the nation."

Diefenbaker Calls For Action on B.C. Power Dam

Penticton, B.C. (CP)—John Diefenbaker, opening his bid for British Columbia support of the Progressive Conservative party, has proposed a firm line in dealings with the United States on two issues: Columbia River power development and imports of U.S. farm products.

"It's about time that a Canadian government started looking after Canadians," the Conservative leader said at Kelowna in one of three Victoria Day speeches on a swing through the fruit-growing Okanagan Valley.

He called for "fair payment" from the United States for downstream benefits created in the U.S. by the proposed giant hydro power project at Mica Creek on the Columbia, 175 miles north of here.

And he said a Progressive Conservative government would enforce dumping duties on imports of U.S. farm produce which, he said, were subjecting Canadian farmers "to the greatest competition they have ever suffered from."

Mr. Diefenbaker also returned to the attack here Monday night on the topic of last year's bitter Commons pipeline debate. He said the Liberal government not only changed the rules during that debate but "removed the goal posts" whenever the opposing team seemed ready to score.

The 61-year-old party leader got sunny holiday weather and two full-house audiences as he stumped from north to south along Okanagan Lake in two of B.C.'s 23 constituencies.

Okanagan-Revelstoke elected a Social Credit candidate in the last election in 1953, when the Conservatives placed fourth in a field of five. And in Okanagan Boundary, won then by the CCF, the Conservatives did not have a 1953 candidate.

Today, Mr. Diefenbaker campaigns in the Fraser Valley south-east of Vancouver and then flies to Victoria for an evening speech in the second of five days of campaigning in a province which elected three Conservatives to the last Parliament.

Here Monday night he was met by the second-largest crowd of his Western Canada campaign, 800 persons who filled the auditorium and overflowed onto the stage of the high school in this city of 13,000.

He was accompanied by E. Davie Fulton, who ran against him last December for the Conservative leadership and is seeking re-election in nearby Kamloops.

Mr. Fulton said that the Liberal government is run by "a trio of septuagenarians"—Prime Minister St. Laurent, 75, Trade Minister Howe, 71, and Agriculture Minister Gardiner, 73.

"They have a right to retirement and I think it would be a generous gesture if we helped them to retire a little earlier than they plan."

Mr. Diefenbaker, who last week predicted that no more than two CCF and Social Credit candidates would be elected east of Manitoba made an even stronger prediction here. He forecast that there won't be any. There were only two elected in 1953—CCF wins in Cape Breton South and York South.

Columbia power question was raised at Vernon and here.

One issue, to be discussed at a Canada-United States conference which began in Washington Monday, is whether the U.S. should pay for benefits created at downstream U.S. power plants by water storage at the 1,200,000-horsepower Mica Creek project.

At Vernon Mr. Diefenbaker said the project should have top priority.

"Let us take this out of political partisanship and act."

He elaborated at Penticton, stating that U.S. payments for downstream benefits in flood control and irrigation should be paid, with the money applied against the cost of the Mica Creek dam. Payment for downstream power benefits should be in the form of power returned to Canada, not cash.

...that's the manager's chair!

The Royal Bank is looking for young high school graduates with their eyes on the manager's chair and who will study to win advancement. Listed below are good reasons why the "Royal" offers young men exceptional career opportunities and a solid future. Discuss this advertisement with your parents . . . ask your local manager to tell you more about the opportunities for young men at the Royal Bank.

Solid facts that spell "opportunity" for you in the Royal Bank:

1. The "Royal" is North America's fourth largest bank. More than 830 branches are in operation and new ones are being opened all the time. During the past four years we have opened 94 new branches, each one creating new managerial positions . . . and resulting promotions for young Royal Bankers.

2. "Influence" plays no part in advancement at the Royal Bank. Our senior officers from the Chairman and President down started as juniors in small branches and advanced on merit alone.

3. Home study banking courses are available to all staff members. Successful candidates advance quickly. Practical experience plus the banking course is equivalent to a university course in Commerce.

4. For young men interested in gaining international banking experience, the Royal Bank has 77 branches abroad . . . in New York, London, Paris, Central and South America, Cuba and the West Indies.

5. We have generous pension plans that compare with the best, as well as group, health and hospital insurance, at low cost to employees.

Chas. Lindbergh Outshone All Big Names in U.S. by Flying Atlantic Ocean Solo

Editor' note: The year 1927 was exceptional in many ways —one of reckless abandon and remarkable accomplishment. In the U.S. Babe Ruth, Al Capone, Gene Tunney, Al Jolson and Calvin Coolidge were big names in the news. But the man who outshone them all was Charles A. Lindbergh.

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK AP) — Thirty years ago tonight, Charles A. Lindbergh looked out grimly at the steady drizzle over Long Island. But turning back to the weather forecasts, his boyish face brightened. He made his decision. The next day he would go. The next day he went. It was perfect timing—a perfect harmony of a man, an event and an age.

People were just a little weary of flagpole sitters, marathon dancers and fliers who set endurance records flying over one place.

The year had the Al Capone mob grossing $100,000,000 a year from bootlegging and other rackets. It had Babe Ruth hitting 60 homers; Al Jolson starring in The Jazz Singer, the first talking picture with its own sound track; riots all over the world the day Sacco and Vanzetti were executed; Tunney licking Dempsey in the "long-count" fight, as 10 people died of heart failure listening in on their crystal sets.

CHARLESTON RAGE

Sinclair Lewis lashed Babbitt, H. L. Mencken thundered at the "bilge of idealism" as well as hypocrisy. Mussolini and his black shirts strutted in Rome and Calvin Coolidge caught seven trout with worms for bait.

The unwary were warned against taking any wooden nickels, people sang Old Man River or Blue Skies or Sometimes I'm Happy. The literati read the Bridge of San Luis Rey, women in short skirts and flat-chested figures danced the Charleston, and the churches were losing out to the automobile and the golf course, where no self-respecting player would turn up without his plus-fours and socks with diamond-shaped plaids.

A Hoover commission endorsed in that year of 1927 a project called the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray, two inept conspirators, were convicted of murdering her husband.

Producer Earl Carroll went to jail for a wild party in which a naked chorus girl bathed in a tub of champagne.

President Coolidge said, "I do not choose to run," and a television demonstration of the day carried a picture two by 2½ inches.

TOOK OFF ALONE

Against this backgrop, Lindbergh simply said "So long" and took off on the misty morning of May 20, 1927. It was perfect casting; he was tall, slim, boyish, shy, simple and real.

Others were waiting in bigger planes to fly to Paris for a $25,000 prize. Lindbergh went alone in a single-engine plane. Others had flown the Atlantic before, but Lindbergh flew it solo, on his first shot, the first to fly all the way from New York to Paris and the first to do it alone.

Heavy with gas, the "Spirit of St. Louis" barely lifted its shiny nose over the trees bordering Roosevelt Field. Lindbergh headed northeast and the long vigil was on. The prayers of millions went with him. Bulletins on his progress interrupted the showing of movies. That night, at the Charley-Malone fight in Yankee Stadium, 23,000 fans pocketed their hip flasks and rose to wish him well.

Finally, after 33 hours and 29 minutes, he landed in Paris. More than 30,000 Frenchmen closed in on him in delirious joy. Later, in London, more than 150,000 Britons gave their normally reserved type when Lindy arrived. He was presented to royalty, including a tiny princess named Elizabeth.

In New York, Lindy was greeted by 10,000 troops, planes overhead, screaming harbor whistles, millions along Broadway and 1,800 tons of confetti. The armistice in 1918 rated only 155 tons.

MADOC

OES Chapter 143 Commemorates 31st Anniversary

MADOC — On Monday night following the regular slated meeting of Madoc Chapter No. 143, O.E.S., a jolly birthday party was held in the hall on the 31st anniversary of its institution.

During the regular meeting, Mrs. Audrey Elliott, of Stirling, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Chapter, was presented with an honorary membership certificate by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Flora Kincaid.

Six of the nine chartered members attending were presented with lovely corsages. The six attending were Mrs. Gladys Nayler, Mrs. Margaret Wytock, Mrs. Winnifred Hill; Mrs. Blanche Keller; Mrs. Helena Whytock and Mrs. Pauline Sills, now residing in Napanee.

Miss Lamoine West was in charge of the program which included several musical numbers by the high school quartet.

Two humorous readings by Miss Doris Cooke, of Colborne Chapter, and several folk dances gave everyone a part in the evening's entertainment.

Guests were present from Napanee, Belleville 55, Minerva and Colborne Chapters.

WELLINGTON

C.G.I.T. Hold Mother-Daughter Banquet

WELLINGTON — The Sunday School rooms of the United Church were most attractive last Thursday evening when the tables, decorated with spring flowers were set for the annual Mother and Daughter CGIT banquet.

The head table was centred with a lovely red and white gloxinia which was admired by all.

The W.A. of the United Church served, as always, a delicious dinner.

Barbara Courneyea extended a welcome to the mothers and repeated the CGIT purpose. Mrs. Leonard Bryant, on behalf of the mothers, replied, and proposed a toast to the girls.

Grace was said by Miss Carol Pearsall.

The toast to the Queen was followed by the National Anthem with Lynda McKenzie at the piano.

After dinner a sing-song was enjoyed by all.

An interesting ceremony took place in which Mrs. Dorothy Burrus, the leader, presented Misses Darlene Elliott, Carol Marvin and Carol Pearsall each with a CGIT graduation certificate, and a white Bible from the group.

She also gave a wonderful address, stressing their four-fold purpose. Let, always to remember and cherish health, seek out the truth; serve others, and read the Bible and pray. All feel sure the three members to whom it was directed will long remember her words. They have been faithful members of the CGIT.

June 8th at 9.30 a.m. will be the CGIT rally in Picton. All members are requested to attend. Fifty cents will cover the cost of registration, refreshments and a film presentation.

Mrs. Bryant introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Pierce Jones, secretary of the CGIT, WMS Presbyterial from Picton, who gave a worthwhile address. She said: "We are all missionaries whether at home or abroad," and told of the work of missionaries here in Ontario, Canada and foreign countries. "We must all continue to support them in every way we can for the wonderful work they do."

Mrs. Burrus thanked Mrs. Jones and also the W.A. for the grand banquet they had served.

Mrs. J. L. Ross asked God's richest blessing for the girls, the graduation class and their mothers for today, tomorrow and always. This closed an interesting evening.

Northport

NORTHPORT—SOLMESVILLE W.M.S.

NORTHPORT — The regular meeting of the Northport-Solmesville W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Cronk at Solmesville on the evening of May 12th with 14 present.

Several took part in the worship service, led by Mrs. Paul Annan. The regular and dispense offerings were taken, followed by singing "We Give Thee But Thine Own."

Mrs. Eric Foster did some research on missionary work in the church here, during the early years, beginning with the Quaker Church. "The Friends" felt a responsibility to help the Indians and the Negroes of their time. Ever since, the Sunday School here has taken responsibility for missions. For at least 30 years, the W.M.S. has been active.

Mrs. Foster also continued the current study of Southeast Asia.

Two lovely crib quilts were made by a group of Solmesville ladies, including Mrs. T. J. Milligan, Mrs. Frank Cronk and Mrs. Walter Annan. It was decided to send one on in the next box to Toronto for overseas supply, and kep one for the bazaar planned for October. A few plants were sold and some more ordered in our annual sale of bulbs and seeds.

The June meeting will be held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Barker.

Rev. and Mrs. George Bryson and family will be leaving Northport some time in June.

Word has been received from Miss Shirley Read, who is visiting relatives in England, that she will also visit other European countries while abroad. She spent Easter in Paris.

4th SIDNEY

Mrs. S.W. Lloyd Reaches 85th Milestone

4TH SIDNEY — A pleasant afternoon was held recently at the home of Mrs. H. Gray when her mother, Mrs. S. W. Lloyd, was honored on her 85th birthday. Mrs. Ross (Norma) Dafoe was the hostess.

A large number of friends and relatives from Demorestville, Prince Edward County, Foxboro, Stirling, Belleville and the local community were present.

A beautiful birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Lloyd while the guests sang "Happy Birthday." A delightful luncheon was served by Mesdames M. Dafoe, E. Dafoe and L. DaDoe, while Mrs. W. Gray presided at the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe stayed for supper and a few more friends called in the evening.

Through this column, Mrs. Lloyd wishes to thank all for the beautiful cards, flowers and gifts.

Premier Douglas, Thatcher Fight Fierce Verbal Duel Under Glare of TV Lamps

MOSSBANK, Sask. (CP) — Premier T. C Douglas and Ross Thatcher, two modern gladiators of debate, have fought their fiercest battle.

Under the glare of television lamps, The Saskatchewan CCF leader and his former political associate, now turned Liberal-matched their oratorical talents Monday night on the stage of a community hall in this village 30 miles southwest of Moose Jaw.

Despite a continuous drizzle which curtailed the carnival-like trimmings of the Victoria Day debate, farmers, boosters and mere sightseers plus a full array of press and politicians swelled the village's population from 600 to an estimated two or three thousand.

The official subject of the debate was Saskatchewan's Crown Corporations, but spurred on by the cheers of their supporters-Liberals to the right, CCF to the left—the speakers strayed on the theme. The premier criticized Mr. Thatcher for his defection from the CCF, while the former member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre made a personal condemnation of Socialism in Saskatchewan.

The 53-year-old premier threw down the gauntlet last fall when he took exception to a Commons speech by Mr. Thatcher in which Mr. Thatcher termed the provincial Crown corporations a "dismal failure."

Monday night Mr. Douglas said his opponent made the statement merely to prove his conversion to Liberalism and to provide himself with an excuse for "deserting and betraying" the Moose Jaw-Lake Centre constituents. Mr. Thatcher in the June 10 election is contesting Assiniboia, riding against former CCF deskmate Hazen Argue.

"We had him yesterday, you have him today, heaven help who has him tomorrow," the premier told the audience.

He said Mr. Thatcher tried to link Communist affiliations to CCF members in the provincial House and telling voters in Assiniboia that he had photostats of RCMP files to prove his assertions. He asked how Mr. Thatcher had come by the files, whether he had the consent of Justice Minister Garson and whether Liberals have access to RCMP files for use in election campaigns.

DEFENDS CORPORATIONS

On the Crown corporations, he said: "They have done more to stimulate economic life of the province and provide service at cost than anything else in the history of Saskatchewan."

Mr. Thatcher, following the premier's opening speech with a 30-minute address, said: "The Crown corporations have bogged down in a morass of bungling and inefficiency. The futility of Socialism has been shown in the Crown corporations program at terrible cost to the taxpayers."

Defending his defection from the CCF, he said that in 1944 he had supported the provincial Crown corporations in that they promised to promote industry and provide social welfare benefits through their profits.

"Frankly I admit that no one supported the program more enthusiastically than I until I learned the true facts," he said.

SAYS NO PROOF

"The premier has failed to prove the Saskatchewan Crown corporations have achieved their original aim he cannot refute my basic contention facts are facts."

The speeches were punctuated by frequent interruptions from the floor and several times the chairman, Dr. F. H Wigmore of Moose Jaw, a Progressive Conservative, had to silence hecklers.

Nearly 1,000 persons filled the basement, lined the galleries and stood at the rear of the hall during the two-hour debate. Outside an overflow crowd took refuge from the rain in parked cars or nearby buildings as loudspeakers boomed the debate through the streets.

Britain Decides To Build New Base in Kenya

LONDON (AP)—Britain has decided to build up a big new air, land and sea base system in Kenya as part of her revamped global strategy, government officials revealed.

This is likely to transform the East African colony, an equatorial land of 225,000 square miles, into a sort of imperial halfway house linking the British home islands militarily with its colonies and Commonwealth partners in Asia and the Pacific.

The British decision has been followed by a hush-hush reappraisal of the project for a new Pan-African defence grouping.

Senior military staff officers of countries with interests in Africa south of the Sahara Desert already are conferring to ensure joint planning and co-operation.

The powers concerned are British, France, Belgium, Portugal, South Africa and the Central African Federation. South Africa wants the group to join in a regional defence arrangement that could be linked with the North Atlantic pact.

Kenya extends inland from the Indian Ocean to Lake Victoria.

From 1953 to 1956 it was chiefly in the world news as the home of the Mau Mau, a Negro terrorist society hired to run out the whites who make up about 30,000 of the 6,000,000 population. That uprising was essentially crushed last fall.

Trapped Child Wet, Cold, Mad But Never Scared

MANORVILLE, N. Y (AP)—Benny Hooper Jr., says he was wet and cold—and mad—but never scared during his 23½ hour ordeal at the bottom of a narrow well.

"The dirt was pressing against me," said the seven - year - old youngster. "I tried to wiggle loose. I wasn't scared."

Young Benny, who fell into the 84-foot deep well in back of his parents' Long Island home, conceded that "I cried" occasionally.

The youngster gave the first account of his experience in bits of conversations with his parents and friends Sunday at nearby hospital.

Benny told of his feelings inside the deep well:

"It was dark. My coat w as over my head. I could breathe swell. There was cold air all around me.

SAND IN TEETH

"I was mad. I was swearing. it was cold and my feet were wet. I could feel sand between my teeth. It made me mad.

"I called 'Mommy, Mommy', but I couldn't hear anything."

Benny recalled the first minutes after he toppled into the well:

"I heard Pop call, Pop said, 'Are you hurt?' I said I wasn't. He said .I should wiggle my hand if I was all right. I wiggled my hand. The dirt was pressing against me. I tried to wiggle loose. I wasn't scared."

Benny told his listeners that he slept often but did not know that efforts were being made to rescue him.

"I went to sleep and I woke up lots of times," he related. "The last time I went to sleep I woke up in bed." He was referring to his awakening in a hospital Friday evening after his rescue. He fell into the well Thursday night.

Terribly Slow Verdict on 'Anastasia'

EDMONTON (CP) — Adjudicator Ronald Speaight minced no words last night in criticizing the Vancouver Little Theatre Association's first-night Anastasia at the Dominion Drama Festival.

He termed the direction "terribly slow—awfully monotonous." Audibility was poor. It was "difficult to imagine a production more unsatisfactory visually". And through all this, "the capacities of the cast were stretched on the whole further than they could reach."

However, the London author and director did praise "the real festival quality" of performances by two of the women in the Vancouver cast of 13—Edith Dean in the lead role as Anna Broun, and Rae Brown as the dowager empress of Russia. A third actress, Dolores Robinson, was lauded for her short role as a charwoman.

Anastasia, a melodrama b y Marcelle Maurette, is based on the rumor that the youngest daughter of Czar Nicholas II escaped into Europe when the rest of the family was murdered by Russian revolutionists in a Siberian cellar in 1918.

"This is the kind of play that either must be right or it must not be at all," Mr. Speaight continued. "It is a play that makes very great demands on a relatively inexperienced cast."

He conceded that not only Vancouver but all other seven groups in the 1957 festival had a special problem in that "they find themselves in one of the largest theatres on this continent, producing plays they have performed in much smaller theatres."

Sitting in the sixth row, he found it difficult to hear most of the Vancouver players.

"This is a superb auditorium," Mr. Speaight said. "In all the world I have seen nothing to equal it. But we shall have to wait until the week's end to see how good it is as a theatre."

START FIRE

TORONTO (CP)—Children playing with matches were blamed for a fire which Monday damaged a $200,000 shipment of auto parts in Mercedes-Benz of Canada Ltd., storage shed in central Toronto. District Fire Chief Norman Cable said damage would total nearly $30,000.

Chairman Dr. F. H. Wigmore of Moose Jaw, a Conservative, was hard-pressed to keep order. But the generally - heckled performance ended as a no-decision bout.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, who was scheduled to speak tonight in Vancouver, told a Saskatoon audience Saturday night that Canadian agriculture can't afford to wait for the solution to its problems which he quoted Mr. St. Laurent as saying would be found "some day."

"Canada must act now, firmly and resolutely for many years, with support for a United Nations food pool, acceptance in part-payment of sterling and other soft currencies, long-term marketing agreements and the establishment of an international trading authority."

BAS BOMB THREAT

Health Minister Martin and several hundred others were evacuated Saturday night from the Ukrainian National Federation Hall in Toronto following a telephone warning that a bomb was set to explode in the building. A police search failed to locate any bomb and Mr. Martin later spoke as scheduled.

External Affairs Minister Pearson at Edmonton Monday night said careful preparation is necessary before talks are opened with Russia on Middle East problems. He called on Quebec voters to defeat the Liberals in the June 10 elections.

Speaking in French at the community 55 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Fleming charged the federal government was gobbling up powers which before the Second World War had been in the hands of the provinces and the municipalities.

On Saturday at Lethbridge, Alta., he hinted that if western farmers have another bumper crop this year, the government will take some measures to assist the men on the land.

While Mr. Low continued his campaigning in his northern Alberta constituency of Peace River, a party lieutenant, Attorney-General Bonner of B.C., forecast Monday night in Toronto that Social Credit will make substantial inroads in Ontario.

"If sung supports sung so says the song, 45 candidates have so far been nominated to contest seats for the Social Credit party in Ontario.

Leon Balcer, president of the National PC Association seeking re-election in Trois-Rivieres, Que., said over the CBC's French television network that the Liberal party is bent on centralizing power in the "federal bureaucracy at Ottawa." There was a "fantastic disproportion" of French-speaking Canadians in the federal civil service.

AID FOR INDIES

Works Minister Winters in Blandford, N.S., said Monday night the federal government has decided in principle to provide aid for the new British West Indies Federation.

A delegation from the Indies will visit Ottawa next month to discuss Canadian aid.

Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative candidate for Toronto Eglinton, said at St. Thomas, Ont., the federal government has an "insatiable thirst for power."

Trade Minister Gets Questions on Wheat Problem

MORRIS, Man. (CP) — Trade Minister Howe faced an audience bristling with questions about farm problems and the result was one of the liveliest meetings of the federal election campaign in Manitoba.

More than 500 persons jammed a school auditorium with a seating capacity of 425 Saturday to hear the minister complete a western campaign tour. Verbal fireworks freely predicted before the meeting in this wheat-growing area went off as expected.

An example was the request of a man on the floor to speak from the platform where the only public address microphone was located. "Oh, no," said Mr. Howe. "This is our meeting. When your party organizes a meeting we'll speak from the floor."

The would-be speaker brought the house down with:

"But Mr. Howe, I'm the president of the Liberal Association in Morris. I'm one of the boys, so to speak."

Thus Bruce MacKenzie, president of the constituency Liberal Association was invited to the platform and immediately told a story concerning Mr. Howe to the "baloney" in a sandwich and accused the minister of "sliding around the main issue."

He wanted to know whether, since the government had taken over the marketing of wheat, it was responsible to western farmers as far as stability, orderly marketing and social security were concerned.

While Mr. MacKenzie was still speaking Mr. Howe interrupted to say that he had to go because he had to be in Eastern Canada Sunday.

Mr. Howe started his speech with a glowing picture of the Canadian economy and a review of the developments in the trans-Canada pipe line project. When his listeners showed signs of restlessness he said:

"There has been a good deal of misunderstanding about wheat."

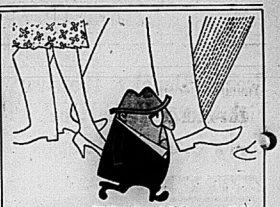
This brought a response from the crowd that was about half and half laughter and cheering.

"Now we're getting down to business," he said. "We had a good fall harvest of wheat and at the end of the year we had sold considerably more wheat than a year earlier."

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was sewing in her room when I came home from school, and I said, Heck, gosh shang the luck.

Now what's a matter? ma said, and I said, Aw nuthing. O roostem, gosh, darn it all.



It must be something, to call 4th putch lamentations, ma said, and I said, Aw, you wouldn't understand, holey mackerel, heck.

Certainly I'd understand, the kiss, ma said. What do you think mothers are for? When I was little I used to think the wait of the world was on my little shoulders, but my mother always had me smiling again like sunshine and shadows. So whatever it is, just tell me all about it and you'll see it wasn't so dreadfull after all.

Oh well, it's all over now, anyways, I said, and ma said, Now Benny, nuthing is all over as long as it keeps rankelling in your mind. So out with it and tell your mother, and you'll see. Now what is the trubble? she said.

Well, we were suppose to have geogrifty examination in school today, I said, and ma said, Yes, and didn't you?

No, that's just the trubble, I said. I darn near studied myself into a headake with a lot of back geogrifty, and then after all that useless work the teetcher didn't give us the examination after all. Jimminy roozalem, darn the luck, I said, and ma said, Oh, go on outside and help the other wild Indians yell their heads off. Meaning me.

are you a little short this month?

Most of us have months when we are a little short of ready cash to pay bills, buy new clothes, take weekend trips, meet medical expenses or for other worthwhile purposes. If you can use some extra cash right now,

Harrison Takes Snead Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—E. J (Dutch) Harrison, bearing his 48 years lightly, finished with a frisky 62 strokes that were eight under par to win the $20,000 Sam Snead golf festival.

The rousing finish Sunday, one over the old White course competitive record, gave the lumbering giant a total of 276 strokes under par and his second victory in the tournament. Harrison, now playing out of St. Louis, Mo., won the tournament two years ago with a total 285.

Al Balding of Toronto shot a 73 for a total of 287, well down the list.

Harrison, Canadian Open champion in 1949, capitalized to the fullest on the collapse of Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., and Ben Hogan of Fort Worth to beat them by two strokes.

"Cash from Citizens certainly made things easier for us"

"If John hadn't been sick and off work for six weeks, things would have been fine, but we really missed those weekly cheques.

"By the time he got back to work, the bills were begining to pile up. The strain was getting us both down when someone helpfully suggested Citizens Finance.

"They have an office near here so we went down to see them. The manager was very understanding. He arranged things so that we got enough cash to clean up all our debts and now we make just one easy payment every month."

The Armstrongs turned to Citizens Finance when they needed help with money. You can too, for cash loans up to $2500. Give us a call or drop in.

GOT DAMP QUICK

Ole Jupe Pluvius in typical "Victoria Day" mood sent his water hellions gushing all over the place and put an effective quietus on all and every sports event planned for the holiday.

It was raw Novemberish weather although the edge was taken off somewhat yesterday afternoon. But the water curtain that deluged the district and the major part of southern Ontario Sunday night and Monday morning put agley the well-laid plans of a number of district seasonal openings.

Point Anne had planned a gala opening of the Belleville District Softball League as did the Trenton Juniors. The Painters, entertaining the newly - formed Belleville Merchants (nee McFarland plus) were weakened out by taking advantage of spillen evening skies carried out their planned fireworks display, which at least, prevented total spoilage of the holiday, even for the kiddies.

Trenton Legion Juniors had the Belleville Goyer Marines as their opening guests, but this game too was postponed. Opening ceremonies had been planned.

Kingston, with other district communities, shared the same disapointment. Stock car races, harness races, softball and baseball opening events all went into the rainfall discard down thar way.

It was a "black-snakers" holiday. For the benefit of the rock-'n'-roll, convertible, coke-and-Presley set, "black-snakin'" is what your grampappies and probably your pappies did and maybe still do, when the cottage, cabin, or home is comfy but outside the weatherman is as ornery as a fulsed-up ruttee. They just sit around and, in modern days, watch the vidoo or listen to radio.

The Easter weekend was perfect plus. Nice warm days when one could sit on the back stoop, the porch or on the lawn in the shirtsleeves and wish he was looking at a ballgame. A lot got the cricks out of the cottage on the lake or river — and it is just as well they did — for then they were used over the holiday now an unpleasant memory.

To weather-immune dicherds it was just another holiday weekend. The pickerel-questers were out and reports have it some neat hauls were creeled around Hay Bay and some northern spots. The putters of the country club, not a few of them, defied the weather, got in their holiday strokes, and digested Murray Hunter's delicious meals.

It was not thus all over the world. In fact reports had it that southern Ontario took the brunt of the weatherman's ill humor. Elsewhere it was sunny, especially south of the border, deep that is, where no holiday was being observed.

Here is some of the weekend sports wash. Duke's Dave Sime equalled his own world record for the hundred in 9.3 ....Richmond Hill's Jom Hoult won the O'Connor Trophy and $1,000 by taking the bowling tournament with a ten-game score off 2801....Kingston's George McDonald finished 11th with a 3843....The hockey world, represented by over 500, paid its last tribute to the great Dick Irvin at the obsequies held in Montreal Saturday....Bold Ruler needed all his inched fo the Preakness Saturday winning the 100-grand race defeating Iron Liege, the Derby winner, by two lengths....The 'Ozpurs edged the Glesgy Celtics in New York Saturday 4-3. The teams meet three times in Canada during their tour....Jim Vipond, G and M sports editor advocates legalized sweepstakes for national hospitals assistance. Second the motion, James....Tony Demarco is rated, at the moment, a 12-5 favforite to defeat the sensation Walter Byars next Saturday in Boston. No television....Ted Williams doesn't The "Silver" has averaged more than 100 bases on balls for 15 seasons. He entered the 1957 season with 1,674 walks in 15 seasons. He is the only player to lead either league six years in a row in walks....The Belleville Fish and Game Association is holding forth at the Y tonight....Western and northern division senior "A" sports scribes and casters will select all-star squads with a three-way playoff with the east suggested before next season starts. The east? One was selected some time ago but we'll go along with Mike Rodden's idea of letting the Dlinlops in their entirety represent this neck of the hockey woods....

Pembroke, Hull, Ottawa May Join Northern Hockey Loop

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Possibility that Northern Ontario Hockey Association's southern division may be increased by three teams has stirred interest among the league's present four members.

Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds, Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians, and North Bay Trappers are reported to have gone deep in debt in 1956-57. Only Sudbury Wolves reported a profit.

Frank Selke, general manager of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, is reported to have approached Ottawa and Hull to enter the league.

Pembroke Lumber Kings, who played in the Ontario Hockey Association eastern division Senior A loop last year, also may rejoin the northern circuit.

Ty Smaill, Indians general manager, said:

"There's no question that if Ottawa, Hull and Pembroke join us, we will be on the road to solvency."

The Indians have called a rally for their supporters to raise $10,000 to get the team rolling next season.

Manager Jack Tighe of Detroit Tigers was wrestling with a discomforting thought today.

He was wondering what goes with Frank Lary? Is the 26-year-old righthander simply a later starter or was he a one-year wonder?

Tighe hopes its the former and there's plenty of evidence to support his hope. In 1955, Larry was able to win only two of his first six decisions. He wound up with a respectable 16-13 record with a fifth-place club.

It was the same last year. The struggling 5-11 Alabaman won only two of his first seven decisions. But he came on strong in the second half, winning 17 of his last 20 starts, to finish as the American League's biggest winner with a 21-13 record.

FIVE TIMES BEATEN

This year, Lary lost his opening day start and things got worse before he found it better. Washington defeated Detroit 2-1 Monday night, it reduced the Tigers' fourth-place margin over the Yanks to a half game. The loss was Lary's fifth against two triumphs—the identical record he had at the corresponding date a year ago.

In the only other game played in the American League, Baltimore downed Kansas City 5-2 behind the two-hit pitching of tall Connie Johnson to climb within percentage points of the fifth place Athletics.

Ed Fitzgerald's pinch single with the bases loaded and one out in the bottom of the ninth scored the Senators with the run that snapped Washington's five-game losing streak. Pedro Ramos held the Tigers to four hits for his third victory in five decisions.

Johnson was superb for Baltimore as he faced only 29 batters and set the Athletics down in order in eight of the nine innings. One of the three men to reach base against him was erased on an attempted steal.

FISCHER WINS AGAIN

On Sunday, Chicago's Bill Fischer won his initial start, beating Boston Red Sox 6-2. Fischer had starred in relief last time out. The time he singled home two runs off loser Frank Sullivan, then got batted out himself in the ninth.

Johnny Kucks rescued little Bob Shantz in the ninth inning to help New York snap Cleveland's five-game winning streak, 6-3. Mickey Mantle hit a home run.

Duke Maas won his sixth straight by Detroit with a 6-1 win over Washington 6-1 Saturday. And at Baltimore, Tito Francona hit two home runs and drove in five runs as the Orioles downed Kansas City 10-2.

On Saturday, Detroit catchers Frank House and Red Wilson set the batting pace as the Tigers edged the Yankees 2-1. House homered and Wilson singled in the winning run in the ninth.

Gus Zernial had a three-run homer and two doubles for Kansas City as the A's defeated Boston 7-5. Cleveland overpowered Washington 8-1 and Chicago and Baltimore were unable to break a 4-4 tie before their game was called to permit train-catching.

SHORT-PRICE ENTRY

'Bums' Hurling Kiddie Corps Giving Flatbush Fresh Fuel; Yankees Clip Tribe String

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brooklyn's "kiddie corps" of pitchers is giving manager Walter Alston that look of fat-cat contentedness.

In pre-season picking, Milwaukee Braves with Warren Spahn, Lou Burdette and Bob Buhl were generally acknowledged to have the N a t i o n a l League's best moundsmen.

But not by Alston. As he said Monday night when the Dodgers humbled St. Louis Cardinals 10-4, he had a prospering hill staff that he owned some pretty fair hurlers of its own.

The earned run averages show the Dodgers' pitching is the best in the circuit at 3.29.

The young twisters, Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Sandy Koufax, are shining.

Drysdale, a 6-foot-6 sidearmer, notched his third win Monday night. He's unbeaten. The young pitcher only won five games last year while dropping the same number.

Last week Koufax fanned 13 Chicago Cubs and picked up his second victory. He's also unbeaten.

Johnny Podres has a 2-0 record with his win over Shutoute.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

A three-homer barrage by Duke Snider, Sandy Amoros and Gil Furillo backed Drysdale's pitching as the Dodgers won their fourth straight and climbed to within a half-game of second place Milwaukee.

A feature of Sunday's National League games was Cincinnati's double victory over Pittsburgh, 6-7 and 5-4. Tom Acker won both games in relief. He is now credited to their first-place lead.

Milwaukee, meanwhile, was being dumped 6-3 by New York Giants. Johnny Antonelli was the winning pitcher. In the other game, Newcombe evened his pitching record at 3-3 as his Brooklyn mates defeated the Cardinals 10-3 on the strength of a seven-run ninth inning.

AARON, MAYS SHINE

On Saturday, Hank Aaron hit two home runs to lead Milwaukee to a 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh. And while this was going on, Willie Mays was stealing four bases in a single game, and hitting a home run, as the New York to a 6-3 win over Cincinnati.

Gerry Staley threw down in three runs for Philadelphia in a 7-5 triumph over St. Louis in the only other game played.

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR

Watching the behavior of the oil pressure gauge can give you a fairly good idea of the condition of the car's bearings.

When a cold engine is first started, oil pressure should build up immediately. Make a mental note of how high it goes and check it again after the engine has reached normal temperature. Since oil thins out when warm, there will be some drop in pressure but if the drop is more than about 25%, the engine bearings are probably O.K.

No matter how good a car may be mechanically and in appearance — it is no better than the dealer's reputation. That's one reason why more and more people are buying used cars at Finder's . . . WHERE SATISFACTION IS GUARANTEED.

Race Close in International; Leafs Win Two

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of second division clubs have made the International League pennant race at least as an infan's fist today.

Havana Sugar Kings continued their carefree climb out of the league basement by knocking Richmond out of first place Monday with 4-3, 4-0 victories.

The last-place Columbus Jets blocked Miami Marlin ambitions to take first with a 5-3 victory over the Florida team. Elsewhere, Toronto Maple Leafs moved into a near thirdplace tie with Miami by sweeping Rochester Red Wings 7-0, 8-1.

Buffalo, rained out of a doubleheader at Montreal, moved into a tie for first place in with Richmond. Toronto and Miami each are a half game out of first. Toronto is third in third place by .005 percentage points.

SUGARS SCORCH

The Sugar Kings, in last place a week ago, jumped into fifth with their fourth straight victory.

Emilio Cueche allowed four hits in the shutout nightcap. Angel Scull tripled with two out in the final inning of the first game to send across the winning run for Havana.

Columbus moved into a tie for sixth with Ida Montreal, 6½ games out of first place.

Centerfielder Jim Daniels laced the first pitch of the last inning for a home run to hand the Maple Leafs a 5-4 victory and the doubleheader. Bob Tiefenauer won after 2 2-3 innings of relief. Humberto Robinson allowed five hits in the first game and won his sixth of seven decisions.

Sunday, Buffalo Bisons bombed the Leafs 8-4, with catcher Ray Noble batting in four runs. The near-unbeaten Leafs were glad to see rain forced cancellation of the second game of a scheduled twin-bill.

Miami split with Richmond and Rochester with Montreal. Lynn Lovegrath and Fred Kipp, erstwhile stars, being the losers in the latter doubleheader. And at Havana, righthander Jerry Lane came within five pitches of hurling a no-hitter as the Cubans defeated Columbus 1-0 after winning the opener 4-1.

AMERICAN WINS

HARWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Hardy driving Joe Di Nardo, Harwood, Pa., edged out Toronto's Don Haddow by a few yards Saturday night to win the 31st Kaye Don Trophy 100-mile motorcycle race. In third place behind Di Simone and Haddow was Jerry Callen of Kalamazoo, Mich., who dropped out on the 41st lap when fell on a corner. Buddy Koehler of Kitchener was fourth.

Dressen Seeks Aid From Yankees, Tribe

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rocky Bridges crossed into the American League Monday when he joined the last-place Washington Senators. Dropped by Cincinnati of the National League last week, infielder Bridges was picked up by Charley Dressen, newly-appointed Senator talent scout.

To make room for Bridges, the Senators sent shortstop Lyle Luttrell on option to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Meanwhile Dressen was in New York talking with the Yankees and Cleveland Indians in a quest for further aid.

Cleveland sold pitcher Art Houtteman to Baltimore Orioles for cash, and signed first baseman Eddie Robinson, who was released by Detroit a week ago. Robinson will be used as a pinch hitter.

In a shuffle of outfielders, Chicago Cubs purchased Frank Ernaga, 25, from their Portland, Ore., farm club and optioned outfielder Bobby Del Greco to Montreal Royals of the International League.

Portland acquired outfielder Bob Borkowski by purchase from Los Angeles, which bought Bert Hamric from Montreal.

East, West Divide Crowns In Canadian Box Tourney

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMROSE, Alta. (CP)—Upset, injury and tournament - marring disputes that involved both defending champions marked the 1957 Canadian amateur boxing championships in which East and West took five titles each in open competition.

Alberta and British Columbia split the eight junior crowns.

Defending welterweight champion Lee Mason, Canadian army fighter from Shilo, Man., N.S., retained his title on a disqualification that cast unexcomplimentary reflections on both the army hanclers and the Amateur Athletic Union officials at ringside.

Robert Cleroux of Montreal retained his heavyweight crown with a technical knockout in the finals after surviving a commitee-room tussle.

The light heavyweight championship went to Blood Indian Gus Calf Robe of Cardston, Alta., without a final when Lindy Lindmoser of Vancouver, recent winner of the United States national title, suffered a broken hand in winning his semi-final.

DECIDE OTHERS IN RING

All other titles were decided in the ring. Lloyd Mancini of Montreal won the bantamweight crown and was named the outstanding fighter of the competitions. Robert Piau of Windsor, Que., won the middleweight belt.

J. G. Chesson of Toronto gave the army the lightweight crown by a decision.

Lloyd Dupas won the featherweight division and Don Gehring took the light middleweight class to give Vancouver a pair of championships.

Albertans won three—Calf Robe the lightweight, Tony Sekulich of High Prairie the light welterweight, and Roy Garnett, a 135-year-old junior from Rocky Mountain House, scoring the tournament's major upset in winning the flyweight.

MAJOR DISPUTES

The first of the tournament's two major disputes occurred Friday night when Ray Lamy of Montreal earned a referee's decision that had given Cleroux a second-round TKO over the navy's Bob Coutu of Halifax. Cleroux had stuck Coutu while the latter was down.

AAU officials said the referee's decision was poor but that the appeal jury could not overrule it.

In the heavyweight semi-final Saturday afternoon, Cleroux defeated 219-pound Joe Krebs of Fort William by TKO at 2:50 of the second round.

The welterweight hassle developed shortly after the first round of the title match Saturday night.

Mason met Jimmy Walters of Vancouver in the final. Walters landed a low blow late in the first round. It went unnoticed by the referee. After the bell, Mason's corner claimed a foul and said the fighter wasn't fit to continue. The bout was awarded to the Shilorton boxer on a disqualification.

Walters' handlers appealed and while AAU officials argued the situation, both fighters waited in the ring. The crowd remained unnformed for nearly 30 minutes before the appeal board's decision was given.

Hauser Wins Eager Beaver

TORONTO (CP)—Herb Hauser, of Kitchener Hackney fired a two-under-par 68 to win the Eager Beaver amateur golf tournament at Toronto Uplands' Golf Club.

The 18-year-old youngster, lone par-buster in a field of 190, was three under par at the turn Saturday with a 32 and went one over par on the next nine with 36 for his total.

Gary Cowan, also of Kitchener-Rockway, was five strokes behind with a 73 over the 35-35 par 70 course. The Canadian junior champion shot rounds of 35 and 38 for second place in the tournament.

Hauser's victory was the second in a row for Kitchener golfers. Moe Norman won the tournament last year but was ineligible this year as he turned pro.

The Rockway Club won net aggregate team honors with a score of 367.

Hockey World Pays Tribute To Dick Irvin

MONTREAL (CP)—The hockey world Saturday paid its last respects to Dick Irvin.

Old timers in hockey and officials as well as present-day players were among the 500 persons who attended funeral services for the Presbyterian Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul.

The services were conducted by Rev. J. S. McBride, who was long a friend of Irvin's and followed his hockey fortunes closely. Interment will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, today.

All Montreal Canadiens players in the city — the team Irvin coached for 15 seasons before taking over Chicago Black Hawks—attended the service.

Jim Hoult Bowls Champion

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Hoult of Scarboro, Richmond Hill and two Toronto bowlers have taken the top prize money in the eight-day Canadian open five-pin tournament.

Hoult's 10-game total of 2,802 won him a trophy and $1,000 top money. Each of the 699 entries in the $3,500 tournament bowled only once.

Ralph Atkinson of Dawson Creek B.C., Canadian champion five-pin bowler, finished out at the money and Saturday with a 10-game score of 2,463.

Others who shared in the prize money:

Gord Burnie, Orillia, fourth with 2,694; Bob Totzke, Waterloo, sixth with 2,670; Alex Pawelko, Galt, seventh, 2,661; Al Bellet, Kitchener, eighth, 2,595; Norm Klatz, Kitchener, 10th, 2,546; George MacDonald, Kitchener, 11th, 2,463; Denny Smedley, Galt, 13th, 2,624.

'Hurricane' Is Buck-Hungry Unknown Tosses In Gauntlet

Lence, who has Patterson lined up for the title defence, said he offered Jackson 30 per cent of "everything"—gate, television or theatre-television—but that Jackson's manager insisted on a guarantee of $150,000 plus $25,000 for training expenses.

"Whoever heard of a challenger demanding a guarantee for a chance at the title," said Lence. Lence said he didn't know what his next move will be.

Cus d'Amato, manager of Patterson, has said the champion won't fight for the International Boxing Club.

And to add to the comic opera atmosphere of heavyweight boxing, Archie McBride has come out of nowhere to challenge s hallenger Jackson.

Archie, a 28-year-old refrigerator machinist when he's not fighting, leaped into the limelight by decisively defeating Germany's Willi Beamanoff at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

McBride, Trenton, N. J., hadn't won since May 11, 1955 when he outpointed Bob Satterfield there then he's had only three fights — with Patterson, Eddie Machen and unbeaten Alex Miteff of Argentina—and lost them all.

Beamanoff had a winning streak of 13 snapped. The pudgy, 34-year-old German was ranked ninth among the heavyweight contenders.

Archie's record is only a mediocre 21-12 but he's lost to the best, including two decisions to Jackson, the No. 1 contender.

"I thought I beat Jackson both times," said Archie. "I'm ready to fight him next."

"If Jackson, we'd like Willie Pastrano," said manager Sammy Richman. "Pastrano ducked out of a fight with him in Chicago last year."

Belgium, Denmark, Poland and Italy have won the last four berths in the quarter-final lineup of the European zone Davis Cup tennis tournament.

The four nations will join Mexico, Britain, France and Sweden, each of whom qualified earlier, in the European part of the competition to determine a challenger to the trophy held by Australia.

At Manila, eastern zone eliminations ended with Philippines winner over Japan. The Philippines will face the American zone champion—probably the United States—for the subsequent winner playing the best of Europe.

The Americans have qualified with the semi-final series with Venezuela, beginning at Caracas next Friday.

Govt., Boxing Pause for New Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club and the U.S. government retired to realign their forces today in preparation for another head-on clash.

The IBC already has been found guilty of a monopoly in the promotion of championship fights. Now federal judge Sylvester J. Ryan is hearing arguments from both sides before deciding what penalties to inflict on the IBC.

The government decreed on Monday's opening session that the only solution was "dissolution and divorcement," meaning that the IBC must be broken up entirely.

William J. Elkins, the department of justice trial attorney who was handling the government case, added that any other remedy would only allow the defendants to "retain and continue to enjoy the benefits obtained through the illegal activities of the conspiracy to monopolize the boxing industry."

Thus the government made its case quite clear. It is shooting for everything.

The IBC, on the other hand, apparently has only one goal in what to do. Rather, it is threatening—by implication—to get out of the boxing business entirely rather than submit to a proposed trusteeship of its box office stock, a proposal of Judge Ryan.

Bold Rulers Given His Head Whipped Liege in Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — They let Bold Ruler run his race Saturday in the 81st Preakness Stakes and the Wheatley Stable colt bombed around Pimlico's fabled track to trounce Liege in Maryland's great three-year-old classic.

Eddie Arcaro, Sunny Jimmy Fitzsimmons and company thus got partially even for the licking Iron Liege handed them two weeks ago in the Kentucky Derby. Not since 1948 has a Derby winner won the Preakness.

A crowd of 32,856 screamed with excitement as Bold Ruler led the parade home by two lengths over Willie Hartack and Iron Liege in the $113,800 gallop.

Iron Liege almost didn't save second money of $25,000. A 50-to-1 shot, Inside Track, closed with a rush and finished third only a neck away from Iron Liege. Inside Track, a fugitive from the claiming races, had never started in a stake race before, but he battled down $15,000.

This was the sixth Preakness victory for Arcaro, the fourth for the 52-year-old Sunny Jim and the first for Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of New York and Palm Beach, Fla.

The time of 1:56 1-5 on a fast track didn't menace the Pimlico track record of 1:54 3-5.

Bold Ruler paid $4.80, $2.60 and $2.40, while Iron Liege, sent off as the 6-5 choice on the board, returned $2.40 and $2.20 The surprising Inside Tract was $4 to show.

Promised Land was fourth, Nah Hiss fifth, Inswept sixth and Federal Hill last.

Wins Ontario Chess Crown

SARNIA (CP)—Geza Fuster of Toronto, former Hungarian chess champion, successfully defended his 1956 Ontario crown Monday by winning the title play-off match in the tournament here. There were 35 contestants.

Paul Dvoretsky of Hamilton, Canadian champion in 1953, was second.

WALES BEATEN

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's national soccer team defeated Wales 3-1 Sunday in a world championship elimination game.

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN — Mrs. J. Nairn and Janice of Scotland, are holidaying with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Brooks spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brunt.

Donald Syrueton, Robert Newton, Ray Jordan and Terry Chapman, Middleton Park, Trenton, were weekend guests of Eddie Clapp.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis were Sunday night supper guests of their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes.

The sympathy of the neighborhood is extended to the parents and relatives of little Paul Ferguson, whose funeral was held recently at the Anglican Church in Frankford. Several of the Johnstown people attended. The school children of Glen-dell Miller were there in a body, in honor of their little friend.

Mrs. Hugh Burton and family, of Belleville, were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Harry were visitors of her mother, Mrs. H. Jeffrey, Stirling, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Soafte and family, Belleville, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Brooks called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers and Eddie recently.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Harder spent Sunday evening with his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham, Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. John McEwen and family were guests of her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Flagler, Peterborough, Sunday for dinner.

Mrs. Ridley, Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boate were Sunday supper guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stickle.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy of Toronto were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stickle, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Orr visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyers and Eddie recently.

Mrs. John McEwen has invited the Johnstown W.A. to hold its June meeting at their new home in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Harder attended the tool and machine show at the exhibition grounds in Toronto recently.

Mrs. Ted Underwood of the north country called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Brooks and children spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Will Black of York Road, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Howard of Frankford were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Ingram were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Milne, Port Hope.

Mr. Frank Brooks spent Sunday evening with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Will Black, York Road, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hart spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Arnold, recently.

On Mother's Day the Sunday School and church were combined as a Christian family day, the front of the pulpit was decorated with multi-colored flowers. The Rev. G. A. Pulenham spoke on the theme of the day, "Hope."

4th Thurlow

4TH THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ruckstuhl and children, Wooddale, spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ruckstuhl.

Miss Jessie Smithers, Toronto, is spending a few days with her friend, Mrs. Fred Hansey.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Charley Bruinsma on the arrival of a baby girl, Monday, May 13.

Family day was observed Sunday morning at Bethany with a good attendance. Mr. Herb Howes, superintendent of the Sunday School, was in charge and Mrs. R. J. McCrea delivered the message.

Mrs. William Calbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lamey, Centenary, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crown, Dale and Blaine, Picton, were entertained to Sunday supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz.

The Rev. R. J. McCrea, Mrs. McCrea and Kathleen were entertained to Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Howes.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden Forsythe and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ruckstuhl, Linda and Roger, spent Sunday in Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treverton.

The women of the Bethany W.M.S. spent Thursday afternoon entertaining several neighboring societies.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by FRANCES DRAKE

Wednesday, May 22, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —Start the day with purpose, enthusiasm. Be alert for new opportunities. Introduce new and progressive methods into work. Develop greater interest in current events.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) —Maintain a tempo consistent with demands. In free hours, replenish depleted energies for next activity later in the week. Don't let petty annoyances throw you off your stride. Be cheery!

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) —Decisive moves should be made only after careful analysis. Competition may determine the amount and quality of your efforts. Rather build your future on fused action, carelessness. Don't listen to get-rich-quick schemes.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —Be factual, specific and make use of all your talents in those fields where you excel. Don't back a losing proposition or a worthless program. Day favors those who are energetic and ingenious.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) —Note Taurus. Give each activity the attention it deserves according to its importance. Sidestep unpleasant situations unless principle is involved, then stand your ground.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Virgoans are noted for their endurance, but avoid tendency to overstrain. Emphasize your fine intelligence and versatility in shaping a pleasant and productive program.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Avoid Delays, confused action, carelessness. Don't listen to get-rich-quick schemes. Rather build your future on sound, tested methods.

(Scorpio) — Use your keen judgment and shrewd thinking to attain the top results you can have now. Waste no time on worthless propositions; instill in others the courage and confidence which are innately yours.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Bickering and dissension may be prevalent now. You've time to make plans to counteract them and proceed with a smooth, factual performance. Your innate sense of humor, diplomacy and tact should help you.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) —A dignified approach is your "ace in the hole" now. While others argue, you can advance quietly, consistently. Some friends help them in their problems.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — A lackadaisical attitude could ruin this fine day. While it may be difficult to apply yourself assiduously to tasks you'll feel better if you "do it now."

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Scorpio notations also pertain to you, today. Be ready to snare the elusive opportunity and make it work for you. Discretion needed, however.

Sign Gemini — always ready to go and do. You are often too demanding—of yourself as well as others. Be less restlessly active. Throw yourself sincerely into your life's work, yes, but also know when and how to relax, and permit others to do the same. Travel stimulates your mind, and you seem to have almost inexhaustible energy at this and other intervals. Just be sure you do not scatter your gifts, then toward middle life find yourself with no definite trend, but adrift. The elderly of this birth sector often make remarkable new strides.

USED SON AS CLUB

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say Ruben Ortiz, 20, used his 10-months-old son as a club to swing at a relative during a family brawl. They booked him for assault with intent to commit murder. Officers said Ortiz seized the baby by the head Monday and struck at Joan Maestas, a sister-in-law. Mrs. Maestas seized the child from him before it suffered serious injury.

Oxford, Cambridge to Confer High Honors on U.S. Poet

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — "I have never led a literary life," said Robert Frost on the eve of his departure for England to accept about the highest honors a man can earn by leading a literary life.

The 83-year-old poet with his shaggy white head, his bushy eyebrows, his meaty voice, went on: "I've never even had a typewriter."

In fact at the moment — in the rooms reserved for him at the local inn when he comes here for his annual sessions as the informal poet - professor at Amherst College — there lay on his bed a short painted shelf he had pried out of a closet to use as writing board.

"I always find some place to write."

And he always writes; a new book is due next season. Or he always talks; he may continue a lecture for minutes or for an hour beyond schedule and cast such a spell on his audience that it never budges.

TWO HONORARY DEGREES

Now he is about to get honorary degrees from both Oxford and Cambridge on a trip to England. It is his first visit since the late 1920s, and that in turn was his first since, as an unknown poet already nearing 40, he took his wife and family away from his New Hampshire farm and lived in England where in 1913 he had his first volume of poetry published: A Boy's Will.

He has taught school and worked on a newspaper, and grubbed for a living out of New England's rocky soil. The poems he wrote in those years, and couldn't sell, would go later into A Boy's Will and North of Boston and Mountain Interval.

"I was shy," he said, his memory swinging back nimbly over that distant past. "I ran away from a couple of colleges, (Harvard and Dartmouth). I ran away from the city, and from teaching. I couldn't keep on writing while rejection slips came in. Every one of those slips was hateful to me.

"But I knew in here"—tapping his chest—"I was sure. In England once sitting by the fireplace I got those poems out and sorted them over. This one wouldn't do, I would decide, and toss it in the fire. But 30, perhaps, seemed to go together. If I arranged them right, they had a sort of curve."

An English publisher saw them, and brought out the first volume.

MADOC

Hockey Club Entertained By Kiwanians

MADOC — At their regular Friday night dinner Madoc Kiwanians had as their guests the Madoc hockey club.

The guest speaker was Murray Henderson, former Boston Bruins player and former Hershey Bearz coach.

He was introduced by Dit Clapper, a former hockey player now of Peterborough.

During the evening solos were rendered by Raymond Smith. A presentation was made by the Kiwanis Club to four players, of cheques, in appreciation of their work in coaching and supervising youngsters at the skating rink on Saturday mornings.

Governor Jack Baker was present and spoke briefly, as did Alex McLellan and Harry Tufts.

HEAVY SENTENCE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For making two heroin sales that netted him $27, Gilbert M. Zaragoza, 21, must spend the rest of his life in prison. The sentence was imposed by federal Judge William C. Mathes Friday under a stiffened federal law that carries a possible penalty of death for selling narcotics to persons under 18.

You'd never guess from the rich, ready sports-car look of Plymouth's smart Plaza and Savoy Sixes that they're the lowest priced cars on the market with Thrill-Power GO. They're thrifty to buy . . . thrifty to run . . . thrifty in every way.

That's the real beauty of owning a new Thrill-Power Plymouth Six—you know it's got those helpful small-budget ways, the pep you want—and man, what a million-dollar baby it is for looks and performance!

Plymouth's big, silky-smooth Thrill-Power Six, for example, has a sixth sense for economy . . . peppery responsiveness . . . and a special brand of GO.

Another big plus: Plymouth's new Total-Contact brakes that stop you quicker and smoother than ever before.

Still another: Plymouth's revolutionary Torsion-Aire suspension system and all the wonderful new sure-footed road-sense and riding comfort that goes with it—the way it lets you corner like a sports car . . . glide over bumps as if they're velvet . . . stop without "nose-dive".

President Coty Tries To Retain Premier Mollet

Declines Resignation After Defeat in Assembly

PARIS (AP) — President Rene Coty began a long series of talks with French political leaders today before deciding whether to accept the resignation of Premier Guy Mollet.

Mollet lost a vote of confidence in the National Assembly Tuesday night, 250 to 213, and immediately offered his resignation. Coty declined it and political circles said it was doubtful if a decision would be reached today.

The Socialist premier, battered from both left and right, said he would quit anyway. He has held the job for a post-war record of 15 months.

He had demanded assembly approval of new taxes and budget cuts to pay for the bloody campaign against Algerian nationalists out of income instead of loans.

INSTABILITY TO RETURN

Coty decided to sound out all shades of political opinion on the chances of forming a new government before letting Mollet go, but another long period of political instability appears in prospect, with the likelihood that the assembly eventually will be another of the uneasy centre coalitions which has ruled France most of the time since the war.

Most frequently mentioned as successors to Mollet are Pierre Pflimlin, right-centre chairman of the left-centre Catholic Mouvement Republican Populaire, and former premier Rene Pleven, leader of a leftist splinter group.

It is thought either might win the support of both Mollet's Socialists and the conservative Independent Republicans whose opposition caused the defeat of Mollet's government. Because the assembly membership is divided among so many factions, any cabinet needs the support of both parties to command a majority in the chamber.

NO HOPE FOR PINAY

Normally Coty would call on the Independent Republican whose current premier Antoine Pinay, to form a new cabinet because his party has been Mollet's partner in government. But Pinay's chances of getting Socialist backing appeared virtually non-existent.

Seizing on the constitutional pretext that the government actually had not been voted out of office, Mollet did not accept the resignation at once. But Mollet, after his visit to the president, said he was determined to quit.

A. A. Alloway, Former Oshawa Publisher, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur R. Alloway, 67, for many years publisher of the Oshawa Times-Gazette, died today in Toronto General Hospital after an extended period of ill-health.

Mr. Alloway was a former president of General Printers Ltd., publishers of The Times-Gazette before it was sold to Thomson Newspapers in 1951.

Mr. Alloway's health deteriorated rapidly following a recent visit to Florida.

Survivors include his widow, the former Mary Sickle of Oshawa, two sons and two daughters.

LONG, VARIED CAREER

Mr. Alloway began a long and varied newspaper career as an apprentice printer with the weekly Sentinel in St. George, near Brantford, where he was born Jan. 16, 1890.

From there he went to the Methodist Book Room, near the Bay on Front, at Toronto and then to Gibbon's advertising agency. For a time he worked as a printer in Saskatoon and in 1913 became editor of Canadian Printer and Publisher of Toronto, a trade magazine serving newspapers and printing plants.

As business manager of the old Stratford Herald, he was a charter member of the Canadian Press, Canada's national news co-operative which was founded in 1917. He left Stratford in 1920 and became a CP member again in 1925, representing the Toronto Mail. He continued as a member from then on in the Oshawa Times. He was a CP director from 1929 to 1931.

From 1941 to 1946 he was an associate CP member representing the Oshawa Times and Gazette and served as a full member again from 1947 to 1953.

OPERATED WEEKLIES

He was manager of the old Edmonton Bulletin in 1924 and was connected with several weekly newspapers as manager or owner — The Toronto Courier Advocate, Whitby Gazette and Chronicle, Cobourg Sentinel-Star, Port Hope News and London Echo.

In 1932, he founded the Rotary Printing Company of Oshawa Ltd. later he was associated with the Mundy - Goodfellow Printing Co. Ltd. of Oshawa, one of Ontario's biggest printing establishments. He acquired control of this firm as well as the Times-Gazette in 1946.

He continued as publisher of the Times-Gazette for two years after selling it to Thomson Newspapers in 1951, retiring in 1953.

In Oshawa, he was active in community affairs serving as a director of the general hospital and on the executive of the Canadian Red Cross. He held several offices in the Ontario Provincial Publishers Association and was on the advisory board of the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A large area of low pressure from west of Lake Superior this morning is continuing to move northeastward. It is expected so it has spread showers into all Northern Ontario while in the southwest of this storm a strong southerly current of moist air extends from the Gulf of Mexico to Michigan and southwestern Ontario. Thunderstorms have been frequent during the night from Kansas to Michigan and Georgian Bay. The area of severe weather should shift east into southwestern Ontario as that rainfall amounts during the day at places such as Windsor and London are likely to exceed an inch.

EISENHOWER SEES DISASTER IF AID REDUCED

Demands for Cuts Persist in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demands for big cuts in United States foreign aid spending persisted in Congress today despite President Eisenhower's charge that economy advocates are gambling blindly and recklessly along a road to "disaster" for the free world.

The president striped of the "iron gloves Tuesday night in a television-radio appeal for support of the administration's $4,865,000,000 foreign aid program.

He spoke of "those blindly striving to save a few money that must be spent as the price of peace," and said he doesn't propose to "take that gamble."

Eisenhower went on the air after formally submitting his foreign aid program to Congress during the day. In a special message he said it would be "supreme folly" for the U.S. to cripple its allies "through ignorance or through an overweaning zest to scrimp."

Committees of both the House of Representatives and the Senate arranged to start hearings today on his proposals.

The Senate Democratic leader, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, took a cautious position, saying "the question of what constitutes an adequate program for aid can be determined only after a searching scrutiny of the details. . . ."

Canadian Girl Found Dead in Mattuck Forest

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — A 17-year-old Canadian girl who left home May 9 was found dead in Mattuck Museum forest preserve day night—four miles from the spot where eighty-year-old Brenda Woodcock was slain a week ago.

The body of Gaetane Boivin, formerly of Lac Megantic, Que., was badly decomposed. Police said she apparently had been dead about a week.

An autopsy was to be performed today to determine how the girl died. Police said they found no outward signs that she was slain, but did not rule out murder.

The Doucette girl was abducted on her way to school May 13. She was strangled and stabbed 22 times. Police have arrested an 18-year-old youth on a charge of murder. The youth, a neighbor of the slain girl, is being held in the Litchfield County jail.

Miss Boivin, who had been living with her parents three years ago from Lac Megantic, left home after writing a letter saying she was going to work as a housekeeper.

Tobacco Crop To Be Auctioned

SIMCOE (CP)—The call of the tobacco auctioneer will soon be ringing throughout the rich Virginia-Burley belt of Ontario's western Ontario.

Sales are scheduled two to one Tuesday in favor of auctioning their crops and scrapping the 21-year-old Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Association.

It will give 66.5-per-cent approval—60 per cent was required —to a marketing plan under which a man himself will be elected to replace the association's seven-man board of both growers and processors and set a minimum price as a basis for auctions.

The scheme is to be organized under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act. It provides for controlled acreage, construction of three warehouses and grading of tobacco by government supervisors instead of by the tobacco companies.

Spirit of St. Louis II Hops Ocean In One-Fifth of Lindbergh's Time

PARIS (AP)—There were no parades and no fanfare as well as no routine as Maj. Robinson Risner of the United States Air Force screeched into Le Bourget field in his Supersabre jet at Tuesday after crossing the Atlantic in one-fifth the time it took Lindbergh just 30 years ago.

Risner, six - hour, 27 - minute flight from McGuire Field, N.J., was believed to have set a U.S.-to-France record. It was the first ever over the route by a jet fighter.

But there were no crowds, no hysteria such as marked Charles Lindbergh's landing at the same field in his fragile Spirit of St. Louis in 1927.

The supersonic sabre fighter-bomber was called the Spirit of St. Louis II in the similarity of the two flights stopped right there.

For one thing, Risner had the far-flung technical and navigational services of the global U.S. Air Force at his disposal. Tanker planes refuelled him twice over the Atlantic.

Lindbergh lived on ham sandwiches during his 30-hour flight. Risner didn't eat—the trip was to short.

PM Challenges Diefenbaker, Frost to State Intentions

By CP STAFF WRITER

Prime Minister St. Laurent dropped hints in the Maritimes. John Diefenbaker promised in British Columbia, where Mr. J. J. Coldwell also appeared. Solon Low worked quietly in his own backyard.

But out of Tuesday's campaigning for the June 10 federal election came a challenge, too.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said he wants to know what Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and Premier Frost of Ontario are up to. He referred to his accusation last Friday at Belleville that the Conservative premier is backing Mr. Diefenbaker in the hope of getting a better federal-provincial tax deal for the central province. He had asked for "partners" what they have in mind but was still "waiting for an answer."

Continuing his sojourn in B.C., Mr. Diefenbaker promised that a Conservative government would extend benefits of the federal Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration to meet all such problems as flood control, water conservation and preservation of farmlands across the country.

He made the pledge at Chilliwack, as he toured an area of B.C. frequently threatened by Fraser River floods. The Conservatives had sought in Parliament to have the PFRA program extended to all Canada but had met "nothing but the strongest opposition" to the suggestion from the Liberal government.

CCF Leader Coldwell at a Vancouver press conference dismissed talk of a coalition between Social Credit and the Conservatives. "I have much more respect for the Conservatives than to think they would join with this Social Credit group.

Social Credit appeared to be "backed by, and is becoming the tool of, very big interests—supposedly B.C. interests" in the election campaign.

While Social Credit Leader Low remained in his northern Alberta constituency of Peace River, a party colleague, B.C. Attorney-General Robert Sommers, told a luncheon audience his party believes in trimming the national debt as paying as it goes.

"The problem of managing a business is not essentially different from the problem of managing a country," he said.

Doffing Trappings of Pomp Queen Sees Unique Brewery

COPENHAGEN (CP) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip doffed the trappings of royal pomp today and were cheered by the working people of Copenhagen on a unique tour of a giant brewery.

The visiting royal couple drove through the workers' districts of Copenhagen and then strolled through the vast complex of the Carlsberg Breweries which do more than beer.

As a foundation owned by the Danish state, the brewery represents a vast philanthropic enterprise which supports Denmark's highly respected science and culture.

The Queen demonstrated considerable interest in the background of how the original owners received the foundation with the idea that every giant of beer should mean that much more finfancial support to advance Danish science and art.

The Queen appeared especially delighted and sparkled in the sunshine when set off her apple green hat and light, loose-flowing coat. It was all her show, and Prince Philip and Frederik, the business suits remained in the background.

Crowds and risk of offending any sections of the British public in Denmark were not in sight as the Queen and Philip greeted her other fellow-Royal Opera House.

American Guided Missile Fails to Impress British

LONDON (Reuters) — British newspaper men have generally been be overawed by their first glimpse of the American Corporal guided missile, and have told their readers it is cumbersome, unwieldy and most likely to prove a "dud" in battle conditions.

The Corporal was displayed publicly for the first time Tuesday at a closely guarded guided weapons' range wing of the British army.

The American ground-to-ground missile, capable of carrying a nuclear warhead to a target at least 50 miles from the launching site, is being used to train British rocket regiments.

The News Chronicle's military reporter declares bluntly that the Corporal and its equipment make up "the most cumbersome, the most expensive, the easiest-identified target with which any army has ever been equipped."

The Daily Mail reporter regrets his doubt "that it will ever be fired in anger—it is unwieldy, costly and already outdated in the missile family."

The Manchester Guardian comments editorially that it is 'an unhandy weapon."

The military correspondent of button warfare is the wildest of speculations for the complex and often uncomfortable tasks that have in fact to be done."

The reporters admit they were impressed by the five-ton, 45-foot long bullet," its tangle of launching apparatus, its space-suited guiding crew and the mass of electronic guiding equipment.

They gasp at the thought that a single Corporal could hit a target with more destructive force than the biggest artillery barrage of last war.

But the News Chronicle reporter predicts that its warfare the size and complexity of the Corporal's equipment-convoy consists of heavy trucks and four trailers—is likely to immobilize it.

TEAMSTERS WORK ON PLANS TO REMOVE BECK

New Vice-President Says He Must Go

WASHINGTON (AP) — A teamsters union cleanup squad led by 68 - year - old John F. English, named late Tuesday as an AFL-CIO vice-president, mapped plans today to oust Dave Beck as teamsters president.

English planned an informal strategy session with fellow members of the teamsters executive board who, like English, determined that Beck must go. Their determination grew from United States Senate rackets committee charges that Beck helped himself to vast sums of union funds.

English has been general secretary-treasurer of the truck union for more than a decade, and a member of the union for more than half a century. He said a majority of the teamsters board members are behind him in a plan to demand that Beck call an executive board session to consider Beck's own status.

If Beck refuses, English said, his group will simply convene a board meeting on their own and consider demanding Beck's resignation.

GETS BECK'S POSTS

English was unanimously elected one of the AFL-CIO chiefs as vice-president and executive council member of the labor body. This put English in the AFL-CIO posts from which the federation ousted Beck last December for racketeering charges.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, predicted the teamsters will "get rid of Beck" and praised English as "a good old AFL-CIO leaders."

"We're going to wash our own dirty linen. You and the rest of American labor are going to be proud of us again."

It still remains uncertain whether, if the teamsters executive board demands that Beck resign and he refuses, English and his colleagues could compel Beck to quit. Beck might insist on formal charges and a union trial.

Asks Acquittals In Montesi Case

VENICE (AP)—The prosecution today absolved all but three principal defendants in Italy's notorious Wonder Montesi case.

Prosecutor Cesare Palmieteri asked a three-judge court to acquit Ugo Montagna, a favorite of Gianpiero Piccioni, jazz-pianist son of a foreign minister, and Saverio Polito former Rome police chief.

Palmieteri said three months of courtroom testimony had not brought out "absolutely no proof" against the trio.

The body of the 20-year-old Montesi girl was found on a tide-swept beach near Rome April 11, 1953. The case burgeoned into a national scandal when it was charged she died at a so-called orgy and sex orgy at Montagna's hunting lodge near the beach.

Weather Office Fears Tornadoes West Of Trenton

Twisters Hit Missouri Claiming 13 More Lives

TORONTO (CP)—The Dominion public weather office said today there is "a 50-50 chance" of a tornado striking some point in heavily - populated Southwestern Ontario before midnight.

It predicted a general pattern of thunderstorms and said it almost any one of them could give birth to a twister.

Fred Turnbull, chief meteorological officer at the Malton weather station in Northwest Toronto, said the 3,700,000 persons who live southwest of a line running from the Bruce Peninsula to Lake Ontario should keep an eye peeled for unusually cloud-formed if thunder and lightning begins.

If they see one, he added, "they should head for their basements and stay there until it's over."

He said there is no known method by which tornadoes can be accurately forecast, but "weather" could they be tracked.

"MARKED POSSIBILITY"

A 7:30 a.m. weather office advisory warning said: "A marked possibility exists that at least one of these severe thunderstorms may develop tornado characteristics." Mr. Turnbull said the forecast did not be changed because the general weather picture is favorable to the development of tornadoes.

The target area covered by the tornado warning comprises 25 counties and the metropolitan areas of Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor. Included is the Niagara fruit belt, much of the nation's automotive and steel manufacturing industry, Ontario highway-destrictor power plants at Niagara Falls and Queenston, and RCAF station, Trenton.

The area most likely to be affected includes all of Southwestern Ontario to the southwest of a line through Trenton and Wiarton," the weather office said.

Mr. Turnbull said a blanket of moist, warm air covers Southwestern Ontario and much of the eastern United States.

On top of it is a layer of cold air. The warm air is trying to rise and the cold air trying to descend produces the kind of turbulence in which tornadoes are born, he said.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tornadoes Tuesday struck a new death blow at Missouri in as many days, claiming 13 more lives for a toll of 30 dead and more than 270 injured.

The new rash of tornadoes dipped and skipped through southern and eastern Missouri while Tennessee still dug in the rubble of Kansas City suburbs where a tornado less than 24 hours before had claimed 27 lives and injured more than 200 persons.

Six persons were killed in a twister which levelled Fremont, a town of 207 which only 10 days before had been hit by a flood. Another person was killed at nearby Van Buren, and some 100 miles northeast six more perished in the Desloge area, 60 miles south of St. Louis.

Some 70 persons were injured by the latest disaster to strike Fremont. Hundreds were left homeless.

FOLLOWS TORNADO

The rapid-fire chain of tornadoes, spawned by the same sultry weather disturbance that gave birth to the year's deadliest tornado in Kansas City's outskirts at mid-afternoon Monday, struck with devious blow at Fremont.

The twister swooped down about 4 p.m. into the valley where the little town nestles. It sheared the steeple from the Methodist church, brick school building and then headed eastward.

Alvin Bell, one of the survivors, credited a radio tornado alert four days earlier with saving at least 100 persons, who took cover in basements, cellars before the storm struck.

Only seven homes at Fremont escaped. Left intact were business buildings and 40 homes were flattened.

Four Jordanians Publicly Hanged As Israeli Spies

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters) — Four Jordanians were publicly hanged today as Israeli spies.

The executions were carried out at dawn in Amman. Nablus, Hebron, Jerusalem and Amman agreed of the four. The bodies were left on the gallows for two hours after death.

The four were sentenced to death by a court martial last September. Evidence was that they had been delivering military secrets to Jordan after delivering military secrets to Israeli authorities.

Jordan newspapers reported meanwhile that the executions were carried out handed over to Jordan a number of "subversive elements" who escaped to Syria and then to Lebanon during recent trouble in Jordan. They will appear before military courts, the reports said.

Led by Blind Man Tapping Cane 605 Answer Billy Graham's Call

NEW YORK (AP)—Lies in business, a double sex life and obsession with money making; Billy Graham says, are some of the sins that "damn souls."

"You're too busy," he told 17,000 people in Madison Square Garden. "That's what's wrong with New York. You're too busy for God."

At the close of his sermon, Graham appealed to listeners to repent and "surrender your heart to Christ."

Led by a blind man, taping his white cane along the aisle, 605 men and women and young folk came forward at Graham's plea, bringing the total of such decisions to 4,524 in seven nights, Graham's sermon, the evangelist declared that lying has become a part of business transactions everywhere.

"Lies! Lies! Lies! They call it smart business to get so much advertising is a lie! God calls it by his right name. To Him, there is no such thing as a white lie. They are all black."

Greed and lust for money had so immersed the economic scene that "many men are ready to go to hell to get a better job."

Graham hit at what he said was the materialism of the day in movies, television and other entertainment to the point that they have folk no time for church or prayer.

City Manager Discusses Forms of Municipal Govt. At Kiwanis Club Luncheon

"If council keeps up its present attitude toward new personnel, we aren't going to get any. We need a pleasant climate and if the present one keeps up (in the city hall) new personnel will be stepping into a hornet's nest.

"If there is to be any discussion over personalities, it should be done at a private meeting, not at a public council meeting," said Dennis Herring, city manager, yesterday, referring members of the Kiwanis Club to the notice of motion at the May 13 sitting of council by Alderman Don Whalen, which called for the termination of Mr. Herring's present contract with the city.

"We are not creating a very enticing atmosphere for new personnel.

And city management is not spectacular. The only time it is is when you have fireworks, and we don't want fireworks in their civic administration?" he said.

The speaker thought yesterday was an appropriate time to discuss city management and council committee forms of government.

Council committee form of government administration was in vogue in Belleville before Mr. Herring was hired at $10,000 per year in 1956 until June 1, 1957, when he is to receive $12,000, to take over the reins and manage the administration of the city.

The committee form of municipal government is still common to many communities, he said the speaker, "the city manager form is spreading."

He claimed a tendency of the committee form, since some aldermen are members of several committees, is to "encourage politicking," because of the possibility of a "once a year" policy from one committee to another and administrative policy changing from year to year, as the committee membership is changed.

"The department head, who has to answer to several committees, was required to set a fine line to satisfy each and in turn none," he said.

CONSUMES TIME CLAIM

From an alderman's point of view, being on committees consumed time which could have been put to use on more important business.

"Cast in a role with which he might not be personally familiar would require that he suddenly acquire a lot of information in a short time in order to cope with common sense on the department's problem," said Mr. Herring.

In the council management form of government, the administrative committees are replaced by the city manager, who is responsible to council and the ratepayers.

One of the headaches of a city manager is to assume full control of discipline and efficiency and to discourage and eliminate "politicking" by staff who might, by going to an alderman, disrupt the work of the organization.

"You might say that he (the city manager) stands on his own feet and stays or falls by his decisions. Administrative decisions are made in co-operation with the staff," continued the city manager.

He emphasized that citizens can expect their problems to be dealt with in the council management government, from a business and not a political point of view.

"People in all walks of life and endeavor, having once proved the city manager's integrity and reliability to their satisfaction, can be satisfied that the reception of their problems and ideas will remain constant from year to year," he said.

WOULD HELP PLANNING

"From a standpoint of planning, the council management government permits the inclusion of long-range planning, with a very strong and continuous idea of adhering to those plans and providing a long-term policy rather than any other method," he said.

"Living and being associated with other problems month to month or year naturally better fits a manager to administer plans and also to provide advice and suggestions when it comes to planning," he said. Experience in his profession should provide him more access to sources of information from many sources. Being unpolitical, and if favorably known from the outset, he may perhaps obtain more confidence and co-operation from citizens than a number of those whose background is political and who are as yet unknown," he stated Mr. Herring.

REDUCES MEETINGS

For aldermen, the council management form of local government reduces the number of meetings they would otherwise be obligated to attend and the staff at city hall is responsible to one department head who dictates a given policy, he said.

Under the council management government centralizes purchasing and ensures that the maximum in quantity buying is accomplished.

Referring to the situation at city hall in Belleville, Mr. Herring stated, "It is important to an experienced eye that some under-staffing exists here. In our engineering department alone we are down to seven from what originally it was. This thing cannot vouch for the necessity of the original 14, the disparity of the present and the ideal is ample proof by itself that we are shorthanded. Belleville needs well trained and experienced professional engineer, who would be able to devote full time to the problems of administration, personnel and technical problems in the works department. At present our recently appointed engineering agent is also public engineer, accounting clerk and building inspector.

In conclusion the city manager said: "If the citizens of Belleville are in agreement with my desire the present form of administration, they should have an amendment to the city's present charter or charter constituting it as a councils-manager type of government. The present situation leaves too much hinging on the presence of one individual."

SPEAKER THANKED

Thanking Mr. Herring, the immediate past-president of the club, Mr. A. O. Drysdale said: "Your address today has been most timely and informative, particularly when there seems to be some lack of understanding of the difference between administrative and legislative matters and, in addition, some confusion by the apparent conflict between democracy and efficiency.

"However, as Belleville is known as the 'Friendly City', I am sure you will find enough mature people to work under the system of government, which you represent, the same considerations and encouragement they would give a child in learning to walk — and, after all, no one can expect a child to do that in five months."

Mr. Herring was introduced by Alderman Dr. John Stock.

RECORD ROTARY BALANCE

LUZERN, Switzerland (AP) — Rotarians meeting here in annual convention were told Tuesday that their organization is now financially than ever before. The financial report from Rotary International treasurer Richard E. Vernor of Chicago showed a balance and surplus operations at the close of the last fiscal year of $2,209,877, highest in Rotary's history.

3 Appointments Approved by School Board

Three teaching staff appointments to the Belleville public schools were approved by members of the board at their May meeting held Tuesday night.

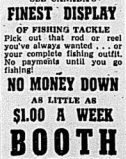
The appointments were, Mrs. Joyce Flindall, to the temporary staff, and Miss Roberta Raymond and Miss Vivian Schaaf, both to the probationary staff.

Attending the meeting at which only routine matters were discussed were board chairman James Ward and members Mr. Dorothy Tugnett, Bruce Bishop, William Ironside, L. Langabeer, Morley Lovelace, Don McKinney, George Olsen, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Mac Smith, Fred Symons and Gordon H. Trill.

Permission was granted to the Belleville Bicycle Safety Dealers to organize a bicycle check on the school grounds to be followed by a safety campaign and bicycle driving contest.

The tender of the Quinte Smith Coal Company was accepted for the supply of fuel to the school buildings for the year 1957-58.

The student accident plan sponsored by the Central Council of Home-and School Associations was approved for another year.



Demolition Work For New Federal Building Starts

Demolition work in preparation for the construction of the proposed new Federal building at the Pinnacle and Station street area, got underway today. It was reported by Frank S. Follwell, Liberal M. P. for Hastings South for the past two terms.

Mr. Follwell noted that the contract for the demolition of the several buildings on the site of the new federal building had been awarded to Percy Boulg, R.R. 4 Trenton at a price of $7,000. The contract includes levelling and fencing of the site in readiness for construction of the new building.

Completion of the demolition work is expected to be in about six weeks time.

MRS. HARRY WICKETT

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. Harry Wickett was held on Sunday afternoon, May 19th, in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, and was largely attended.

Her pastor, Rev. H. C. Secker, conducted the service.

The bearers were all nephews: Messrs. V. A. McMurray, C. A. McMurray, Gerald McMurray, Redginald Reid, Don Reid and Harold Reid.

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery under the direction of the Duffin Funeral Home.

ALEXANDER FRANCIS REID

Oshawa

Following a serious illness of two months duration the death occurred at the family residence, 76 Bond street east, early Tuesday of Alexander Francis Reid in his 81st year.

Born in Rawdon township, on May 28, 1876, the deceased came to Oshawa from Stirling 29 years ago and prior to his retirement about three years ago operated his own shoe repair business on Bond street east.

Mr. Reid was predeceased by his first wife, the former Emmeline Willman. He leaves his second wife, the former Mrs. Daniel Treleaven, a sister, Dorothy of Madoc; 10 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren; five stepdaughters and two step-sons.

The memorial service will be held at Simmons Funeral Chapel at 11 a.m. on Thursday, May 23, followed by interment in Stirling Cemetery. Rev. St. A. Bury, minister of King Street United Church, will conduct the services.

MRS. SAMUEL WALLACE

Jennette Linn, wife of the late Samuel Wallace, died on Wednesday, May 15th at Belleville General Hospital where she had been a patient for over five weeks.

The late Mrs. Wallace was born in Thurlow township, daughter of the late James Linn and Margaret McKenzie. She spent the Bay of Quinte district and was a member of Burnbrae Presbyterian Church and was interested in its progress.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Malcolm Hutcheon, Hagersville and Mrs. Alfred Parker, Seymour; five grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Boulter Johnston, Rawdon and Mrs. Robert Bell, Belleville; one brother, Alex Linn, Rawdon and four brothers predeceased her.

Funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon at Burnbrae Presbyterian Church by the Rev. J. McClelland of Trenton, assisted by the Rev. W. H. V. Walker of Stirling.

The bearers were Fred Thain, Carl Linn, Harold Linn, Alex Linn, James Johnston and Leo Fry.

Interment was in the family plot in Burnbrae cemetery.

HERBERT WALLACE LEAVITT

The funeral of the late Herbert Wallace Leavitt was held Tuesday afternoon from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home with service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Fred Ellis, Barney Smith, Gordon Russell, Robert Emerson, Jack Cook, and Wallace Leavitt.

Monday evening, The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, held a Masonic service at the funeral chapel. Taking part were Wilfred A. Mills, T. D. Stewart, R. H. Godden, Robert F. Gray, R. N. Plumpton and Ray Gunsalus, for payment.

BENJAMIN A. CLARKE

The funeral of the late Benjamin A. Clarke was held Thursday afternoon from the John J. Bush Funeral Home where service was conducted by Rev. R. J. McCrea. Interment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

The bearers were Arthur Buck, Clayton Sullivan, William Watson, Frank Whitney, Carl Thompson and Elmer Cross.

DANIEL GEORGE FREDERICK (DANNY) BELL

Deseronto

A sorrowing community paid final tribute Monday to two-year-old "Danny" Bell son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell of Deseronto as funeral services were held at St. Mark's Anglican Church. The funeral cortege proceeded from the White Funeral Home where service was conducted by Canon Stanley Coleman, assisted by Rev. R. F. Blachford of Trenton.

Interment was in Deseronto Cemetery.

"Danny" died on May 14 at Rochester, Minn., where he was taken by his parents for an operation to correct a defect in the heart. When doctors operated it was found the condition of the lad's heart was much worse than had been expected and he failed to survive the operation.

The boy's condition was made known last year following a family physician, Dr. D. C. McVicker who had known of the heart's condition from birth.

Besides his parents, he is survived by four brothers, Allan, Robert Borden, aged 14, and a sister, Mary Barbara Jean, aged 11.

Tyendinaga Twp Sets Mill Rate

A split tax rate with a spread of nearly five mills has been set by the Tyendinaga township council for 1957. The general rate for commercial and industrial property is 45.3 mills, up four mills from last year, and on residential and farm assessments, the rate is 40.6 mills, a drop of 7 mill from last year.

In addition to the general rate is the general school rate set by the public

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Amid the lowest trading in two months, the stock market today was irregularly higher. Industrials were strong but western oils lost ground. Base metals were mixed.

Trading was so slow that the combined volume of United Oils and Spooner Oils was one-quarter of total sales of 807,000 shares at 11 a.m. United Oils was off 60 cents at $2.30 amid a turnover of more than 135,000 shares.

Spooner was up one cent to 61 cents with a turnover of more than 70,000 shares. Home Oil B was up 1¼ points at 21¾ among highlisted western oils. Triad was off 10 cents and North Canadian up 20 cents but other price changes were narrow. The section's index lost more than one-half point.

Industrials had gains ranging to almost three points and their index was ahead more than three-quarters of a point. Trans Mountain Pipe Line, however, lost 4½ points at 131. MacLaren Power was up two points to a new high of 82.

Mines had few large price changes. Conwest had the best gain, up 20 cents to $6.50. Seniors were narrowly higher while uraniums had a few 10-cent gains.

Some Office Workers Laid Off at Arvida

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—The Aluminum Company of Canada has begun laying off some of its 1,600 office workers at its Arvida smelter as a result of the strike called by the National Metal Trades' Federation (CCCL).

Plant manager D. H. Ferguson announced Tuesday that lack of work has forced the company to lay off 200 office employees over the next two days.

There appears little prospect of an early settlement of the strike, according to James B. White, company general manager.

Mr. White said in a press conference in Montreal Tuesday that the company and the union are too far apart in basic issues of money and a master contract. Neither has moved towards resuming negotiations.

The Arvida smelter has been idle since 6,500 members of the federation walked off their jobs Friday after a breakdown in post-arbitration negotiations.

NO SHORTAGE SEEN

The smelter produced 1,000 tons of ingots daily before the strike, but Mr. White said he did not believe there would be an aluminum shortage.

The union is seeking a master contract to cover the company's nine Quebec plants, including power stations and railways, and also an immediate 30-cent-hourly wage increase.

The basic wage at Arvida is about 81.60 an hour.

Marcel Pepin, the union's technical councillor, said the company had agreed to a single contract to cover its workers at Kitimat and Kemano, B.C., and should grant a similar contract to workers in Quebec.

Suez Question Shelved by Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations Security Council president Tuesday prodded Egypt to clear up as quickly as possible all questions on operation of the Suez Canal. The council then put the controversial issue on the shelf pending developments. These moves came as the French National Assembly defeated the government of Premier Guy Mollet and undermined the French position here. The passing of the Mollet regime deprived Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of any power to deal further with issues here except as an acting minister.

Without taking a vote, the council gave assent to a statement by its president, U.S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge. Lodge's summary wound up a two-day debate with a call by the French demand for new negotiations for a permanent settlement of the canal questions.

Earlier Lodge made it clear the United States had refused to go along with the French proposal for new negotiations. He told the council the United States continues to hold the view that a declaration made by Egypt on April 24 does not entirely meet the council requirements but the United States still is willing to give it a trial.

Union Spokesman Says Tension Again Rising

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) A union spokesman says tension is again rising in this small community where a strike at Gaspe Copper Mines is in its third month.

Roger Bedard, representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), reported workers are disturbed by a letter sent Tuesday by the company to striking employees. In the letter, Gaspe Copper's Manager G. G. Brissenden said the strike "will not be settled with a contract between the company and-the USWA."

Commenting later, Mr. Brissenden said a return to work by the strikers will be the only way the dispute can be settled. The company, he said, maintains its original position that it will not negotiate with a non-certified union.

Last June 1 the union applied to the Quebec labor relations board for certification but Aug. 2 the company obtained a writ of prohibition restraining the board from acting on the union's application.

Mr. Bedard said the letter, which also was read on radio stations, raised indignation among the workers.

The letter also said that before long, with newly-hired men and returning strikers, the company will have sufficient workers. When this happens the company will consider as fired those who stay on strike.

The union says only about 80 persons are at work, of whom about 40 are returned strikers. The company says 200 are at work including 125 technical, clerical and administrative personnel.

Fined $15,200

TORONTO (CP)—A funeral director and his wife pleaded guilty Tuesday to suppression of income tax returns dating back to 1945 and were given one week to pay fines totalling $15,200.

George Gowan, a special investigator from the department of internal revenue, said in court that Frank and Angeline Lynett systematically failed to report $93,000 in income from their undertaking business.

He said tax payable from this amount would be more than $27,-000 plus interest payable forthwith.

Tender to Sod BCI Campus Accepted at Price of $2,100

The campus at Belleville Collegiate will shortly undergo a transformation from the present bare-like appearance to nice green grass.

At their May meeting Tuesday evening members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board accepted the tender of M. G. Leavey of Trenton to sod the collegiate campus. Mr. Leavey's tender was for $2,100 and was the lowest of several submitted.

A full attendance of 14 members was present at the meeting which did not end until approximately midnight.

The board authorized the hiring of an additional draughting teacher and also for a new machine shop teacher and electrical shop teacher to replace Mr. E. A. Weston, electrical teacher who has accepted a position with a university in Indiana, and to replace Mr. Norman D. Smith who is retiring due to health reasons. One of the new teachers will in all probability be named shop director.

A letter of thanks was authorized to be sent to the Kanapa Co. for the donation of a quantity of electrical equipment for the electrical shop.

Further investigation into the possibility of hiring a public health nurse for the two high schools, was authorized.

The Earle Grey players were authorized to stage performances of Shakespeare plays at both high schools this fall under the sponsorship of school organizations.

WILL EXTEND THANKS

Appreciation will be extended to the Cockshutt Company for the use of a tractor by the agricultural class during the past year, and also to the Massey Harris Company for a tractor, which will be used during the coming season.

Jask Sisson, teacher at Quinte Secondary school was given board authorization to attend an International Review at Atlantic City on June 24-25 where he will act as commanding officer of the Old Port Henry Guard at Kingston who will be attending the Review.

Wesley Boyle, science teacher at Quinte was authorized to attend a geological Northland tour on the weekend of June 21 while Ray Koenders auto shop teacher was authorized to attend a General Electric course during the week of June 24.

Changes in a storeroom entrance in the new addition to Quinte Secondary School were authorized at a cost of $3,700.

Purchase of a new power mower with accessories at a cost of aproximately $1,000 was authorized for Quinte school, while the grounds committee was given authority to purchase watering equipment for the new sod to be placed at the collegiate.

A contract for a new hydro lead-in at the collegiate was awarded to Frank Carrel of Campbellford at about $1,000. The new lead-in will be placed underground while a new location for the service pole will be provided.

TENDER ACCEPTED

Tender of George Bailey, Corbyville, was accepted for the installation of a new roof at the board room building on church street. And the tender of the Moira-Schuster Company was accepted for the supply of coal for the next heating season.

And high school teachers in the city are to be paid eleven times per year instead of the ten cheques which they have been in the custom of receiving. Teachers will receive their first cheque amounting to eight per cent of their salary, at the first of September. Then, the next nine cheques, also for eight per cent, will come at monthly intervals until the June cheque which will be for the balance of the salary.

Board officials stated this was the same schedule of salary payments which had been adopted by the public school board.

Teller Stages Fainting Act To Foil Holdup

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — An attempt to rob the east-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce was foiled Tuesday when an 18-year-old teller staged a fainting act, and the gunman fled.

Ludwina Wurm was waiting on a line of customers at the bank. When she looked up to greet the last man in line she found herself staring at a revolver.

A man "with dirty blonde hair and a green tradesman's uniform" pushed a small bag and a note towards her.

The note read: "Fill bag with large bills, do not follow, shotgun in car."

Miss Wurm said she dropped to the floor in a pretended faint, sounding the alarm as she did so.

The gunman apparently fled as soon as the teller collapsed.

Police organized a search throughout the Niagara Peninsula for the gunman.

Miss Wurm said the man with the gun appeared to be in his late 20s. She said she thought the man was a customer asking for a money order when he handed her the note. She had only to read the first few words to realize a different kind of money order was meant.

Police, in a cruiser only a block away when the alarm sounded, arrived at the bank in a matter of seconds.

CREDIT BUYING — PRO AND CON

The Canadian Welfare Council, meeting in Ottawa, has strongly criticized the growth of credit buying in Canada.

That excessive use of credit constitutes a problem is a contention which will be accepted by many, in spite of the fact that many merchants will maintain that our economic system has come to depend heavily on installment buying and that any attempt to reverse this trend would result in severe economic distress.

One point, though, strikes us. In the past, when credit was granted, it was the individual merchant who took the risk. Today most installment purchases are financed through loan companies. This has created a different situation for the purchase of some articles, it used to be possible to obtain a discount for cash. Today in many cases, a retailer will practically burst out laughing if one suggests that cash in the hand is better than it comes from the loan company or from the purchaser himself. In some cases, however, a few articles for which it was never the custom to grant a cash discount. In these cases, the cash buyer may now be gaining some benefits from the operation of loan companies since the elimination of bad credit risks should have made it possible for the merchant to reduce his prices, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say, in this inflationary period, to avoid increasing them by as much as would have been necessary if he had to continue to write off bad debts.

In most small towns there was always a certain class which expected credit to be freely extended to it. Some of the members of this class were notoriously "slow pay". If not actually poor credit risks. They made a merchant carried these people on his books, while demanding cash from the working man was adding to his cash price enough to cover the bad debts of the so-called "deadbeats." If the loan companies have done anything to remedy this unfair situation, it is certainly a point in their favor.

POLITICIANS DRAW BIG CROWD

It is doubtful whether either Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan or Ross Thatcher, the CCF-er turned Liberal, won many converts in their debate at Mossedale Bank, Sask., on Monday evening, but they certainly proved something. People are still interested in politics. The population of the little village was swelled from its normal 300 to 3,000 or so. Since the surrounding district is sparsely settled, by comparison with the sections of Ontario, it is evident that that crowd was drawn from a large district and that many members of the audience had motored for miles to hear the verbal duel.

A great deal of the interest can be laid to the fact that Mr. Thatcher has changed his political allegiance and is running for election against his former deskmate in the Commons, CCF-er Hazen Argue. The audience expected fireworks, particularly since Mr. Thatcher's opponent in the debate was the quick-witted and nimble-tongued Tommy Douglas.

Nevertheless, we should not be surprised if a great many of those present would have turned out to hear the debate even if the antagonists had been less widely known.

There is an appeal to a debate which our present-day election meetings lack. That part of this appeal is generated by the possibility of a first-class fight, even if only one of words, cannot be disputed. A debate, though, has an appeal, also, for those who are actually seeking knowledge. They get some assurance that statements made will at least bear some similarity to the truth, or that, if they do not, the accuracy of these statements will be promptly challenged. The net result may not be any great change in the manner in which the members of the audience intend to vote, at least the voters will have a more definite idea of where the candidates stand on the issues and of the arguments which can be advanced for and against the platforms of the contending parties.

If the debate between Premier Douglas and Mr. Thatcher did not serve this purpose as well as could have been desired, the fault would appear to be that it dealt not with the issues of the present Federal campaign, but with the operation of Crown companies in Saskatchewan.

The interest shown, though, suggests that debates between candidates, or between picked speakers of the opposing parties, might not merely enliven election campaigns but might result in the electorate being better informed when it goes to the polls.

Mossbank has shown us how the apparent lack of public interest in political affairs can be remedied.

SELF-QUESTIONING

Is the world a better place
Just because you're in it?
Will it have one touch of grace
You have left upon it?

Will there be a few to sigh,
By your passing deeply saddened,
To remember days gone by
When their lives your presence gladdened?

Homes of friends your smile has brightened,
And will any grateful heart
Tell of burdens you had lightened?

It's not easy to perceive
For what purpose you were sent here,
But what memories will you leave
For the years that you have spent here?

Sea Water Is Desalted

Owen Sound Sun-Times

A development, whose results are difficult to envisage and may well be without limit, is a recent announcement in Washington of a process by which sea water can be desalted. There have been methods of attaining that end before, but this latest one is said to be quite inexpensive and, therefore, opens up all kinds of possibilities.

Some extent of the need to use the huge water supplies which in the oceans may be realized when one considers that the United States needs for water have been increased six fold since the turn of the century and now stand at 250 billion gallons daily. Hence requirements are expected to double within the next 25 years, while development is being mainly exhausted in many areas because of lack of water.

If the new method proves successful and cheap enough great desert areas may be rendered liable to production in middle east areas as well as in some United States areas now stricken by drought. In fact such an event is regarded as a major factor in present world conditions and in the history which they are now making.

The government already has plans for a pilot plant to try out the process, and researchers have reason to hope it may be both cheap and practical. They figure its successful testing will lead to a major breakthrough in Uncle Sam's five-year-old program for finding an economical and flexible desalting process.

The pilot plant is designed to produce at least 25,000 gallons of fresh water daily. Since this is only a research model costs figures don't mean much. Officials have said, however, figures indicating that a full-scale plant, 10 times as big, produces fresh water for no more than 50 cents a 1,000 gallons. This cost is roughly one-fifth of the $2.50-per-1,000 gallon maximum that government officials believe the country can pay for desalted water.

Like all distillation processes, the desalting method is based on heat. The basic apparatus involved is a rotary still, in which thin jets of saline water are shot at high velocity into a spinning heat unit. The salt water turns into steam, and the vapor subsequently is condensed to form pure water. Scientists hope this distillation will prevent their chief distillation problem: The formation of scale, or salt, or crust which tends to clog the machinery.

The spinning unit is said to spread the salt into a thinner film than in other processes, and the use of lower temperatures than in other desalting apparatus tends to reduce the formation scale.

Latest Pill Talks Back

Carnwall Standard-Freeholder

The wonders of science are all about us, but sometimes they take a lot of getting used to. For centuries the man who swallowed a pill has had a certain feeling of finality. It might make him feel better, it might make him worse, or it might do nothing at all. But at least the pill wouldn't return to heckle him.

That's one of the problems of another color — pills that enter-a-dor which are being made fairly vibrate with critical comments on what they are doing to them. That mean well, of course, but some persons may have difficulty getting rid of a superstitious sense of being possessed by an unclean spirit when such pills, about an inch long, will contain a miniature FM radio transmitter after they have been swallowed, they will set out on a leisurely tour of the alimentary canal. Throughout the trip, they will broadcast on a modulated radio-frequency wave a running sightseer's spiel. If circumstances call for it, they may become guided missiles, steered by magnetic manipulated by a doctor.

So another of the scientific marvel has been created, thanks to Dr. Lloyd E. Zworykin and Dr. John T. Farrar, who cautiously refused to predict just what their new discoveries tool may accomplish. In due course, no doubt, it will be tried on many patients and the results recorded in medical journals.

And another generation may feel no qualms about swallowing a pill that talks back to it. Why should it? Its purpose, after all, is humanitarian and benevolent. Only the most hidebound of old fogies would think of suggesting that a properly trained pill should be swallowed and not heard.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANNGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 22nd., 1937

The Rev. I. B. Naylor has resigned as pastor of the Tabernacle United Church, to take effect June 30th, and he has accepted a call to Wellington Street United Church in Brantford. It is really an exchange arrangement as the Wellington congregation has extended a call to the Rev. C. W. McClintock, the present pastor of Wellington Street United Church, Brantford.

The Central Relief Office in this city is calling for clothing of all kinds which the officials state is greatly needed.

The manual sweeping of the city streets is considered superior to the work done by the sweeper. Ald. C. Clapp has greatly improved the condition of Front Street since he inaugurated the cleaning of the street by hand sweeping and daily flushing. Under this system the thorough cleaning and flushing of Front Street is completed daily at an early hour in the morning. Ald. Clapp is being congratulated upon the improvement he has brought about.

The J. and J. Cash Company is making an addition to its plant on Grier St. by the addition of a building at an estimated cost of $3500.00.

Mrs. Matilda Arthurs and Miss N. Arthurs, Ann Street, have returned home from Florida where they spent the winter.

30 YEARS AGO

Miss Margaret Tait, superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital has resigned. She held the position for four and a half years.

At a meeting of the members of the Board of Education which was held in the council chamber at the city hall last evening it was moved by Mr. Arthur McGee and seconded by Mr. Ed. J. Butler that the tender of A. B. Greenwood Company to build the Collegiate and Vocational School be accepted, it was the lowest tender.

Mr. Fred E. Osborne, mayor of the City of Calgary, is visiting relatives here. He is an old Bellevillian.

Mr. Edgar Bateman is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Hubert Jones motored to Toronto today.

Mr. Stanley Corman left today on a business trip to the Pacific Coast.

Many boat excursions were held from this port years ago. From our file copy at this time in 1897: "Take the steamer Hero for Picton and Kingston at 6 a. m." on May 24th. Big celebrations in each place. Return fare 50 cents.

The days of lumbering here. From our file copy at this time in 1897: The drive of logs down the Moira River is on in force. River drivers were working hard last evening in breaking up jams of logs. They had a large number of spectators.

Mr. V. P. Hunt left today for New York City where he will attend a meeting of the American Guild of Organists.

Mr. Walter Symons left today for the Klondike where he will join his brother Ernest in Alaska in return for a square mile of Eastern Russia.

"... and Canada," said Dulles, "has already indicated that it is sympathetic to the moving along those lines."

Since the initial shock has worn off, this proposal is not as revolutionary as the first glance of the aerial inspection plan must be remembered that the Russians took the same step in 1945 when they annexed a square mile of Eastern Russia.

Dulles mentioned, however, that this was only one of 13 different plans for different areas. Our report would include Northern Canada and Alaska in return for the same square mileage of Eastern Russia.

Christian Homes Bases of Christian Nation

The May meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, presiding.

May is the month we have "Mother's Day' and 'Christian Family Week.' Ex-President Truman said, 'A good family life, is the moral strength of the nation. To fortify or strengthen the home, is to fortify the nation. The influence of a christian family is unquestioned. A number of christian homes make a christian community and a number of christian communities make a christian nation, and a number of christian nations make a christian world.'

"It was the Canadian Council of Churches that arranged for the Christian Family Week and 15 radio stations in Ontario broadcast the subject by addresses and drama.

"The Little White Bow' is our emblem. It carries the prophesy 'The liquor traffic shall not ultimately triumph.'

"The objective of the W.C.T.U. is the building of public sentiment for total abstinence through teaching the relation of alcohol, to the mental, moral, social, spiritual, and physical well being of the nation and individual."

The devotional was taken by Mrs. E.C. Muscleow. Director of "Child Evangelism" who drew lessons from several mothers of the Bible, what kind of a home is mine? J. Edgar Hoover Director of F.B.I. said, 'Crime among boys under 21 years had increased 20 to 30 per cent over a period of years, but in the same period the increase in vagrancy and delinquency among girls, was even more shocking being 50 to 80 per cent among teen-age girls.' He did not blame them, but the adults. He said the Sunday school is the only place to combat the evil, youth camps are also a help.

Mrs. W. B. Vandervoort had charge of the study period, "Life Without Liquor," and said, in part: 'The skill of advertising and glamorizing strong drink there are millions who never touch it in any form, and find life enjoyable and satisfying. They are happy without alcohol. A large number of areas have cast a three-fifth vote against the sale.

"Abraham Lincoln, that great statesman had two ideals for mankind — 'where there shall be neither a slave or a drunkard on earth.'"

Miss M. Barnum reported the poster and essay contest -$32 was granted for prizes.

The financial campaign for the Consecon Children's Camp has been most gratifying. The newly appointed trustees are: Don Thompson, Prince Edward county: Ward Wartman, Lennox county: Bram Humphries, Hastings county: ladies — Mrs. A. Fleming, Wellington; Mrs. G. Hobbs, Belleville; also a central committee of directors: Quentin Minaker; Mrs. Don Wellbanks, and Mrs. A. Fleming.

Alcohol costs, greatly exceed the revenue. Liquor profits, poured $50,700,000 into Ontario's treasury during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1956. The third largest revenue producer.

Many people are led to believe this tax revenue is a great asset.

The state of Massachusetts appointed a commission to investigate its problem of alcoholism. They discovered that for every $1 revenue income from the sale of beverage alcohol, the taxpayer paid $4.82 to take care of the liquor-caused court costs; hospitalization and welfare-work. A similar condition is found in Ontario.

Holy Rosary PTA Installs New Officers

The May meeting of Holy Rosary P.T.A. was held at 8 p.m. in the school on Thursday last, with the president, Mr. Jack Barrett, in the chair.

The Rev. Sister Mary Evelyn opened the meeting.

Mr. Jack Darlington gave the treasurer's report after which Mr. Gordon Pogmett, membership chairman, gave his report.

Mr. Jack Barrett, the unit's representative to the 9th annual convention of The Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Association held in Toronto on April 22-23 gave his report and views on the convention.

Mr. Jim Colligan took charge of the program which consisted of each member being given a slip of paper with questions on how P.T.A. may be more helpful to the members, students and home environment, asking for suggestions as how the members might have greater enjoyment at these meetings and how more help might be derived from the meetings and conventions. This proved to bring out some interesting and helpful ideas, along with some amusing comments.

Mr. Colligan summarized the points brought out.

The next meeting was turned over to Mrs. Frank Mulvihill, nominating committee chairman, who had been assisted by Mrs. Frances McQuaid, and Mr. James Hulquist to bring in the following slate of officers for the coming year:

Rev. Sister Mary Lawrence's room won the attendance prize.

The Rev. Sister Mary Evelyn closed the meeting.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Baker (MOTHER OF 3)

Browsing through an article on baby sitting the other day, these safety measures for baby sitters struck me as being worth reviewing.

- Sitters should be advised not to open the door for anyone—unless person is known and expected.
- Parent should notify sitter if any calls or deliveries are expected.
- Sitters should be advised not to quote the expected return of parents if quizzed on the phone.

It's amazing how very quickly little ones learn that variety makes mealtime more interesting. That's why Gerber offers 3 good-tasting Baby Cereals — Rice, Barley, Oatmeal; Wheat and Mixed Cereals—to widen baby's mealtime horizon. Each one has a bland, but distinctive flavor, pleasing to undeveloped taste buds. And the creamy-smooth consistency babies prefer.

All are vitamin - and - mineral enriched and ready to serve with milk, formula or liker liquids.

Though the weather ways of May are usually balmy temperatures can play tricks on us. So when you're fresh airing baby, take an extra sweater or light blanket along, in case of a sudden temperature drop.

Short chest story. A regular colored pillow slip will pretty-up baby's carriage when used as a sheet. Just slip it over the little mattress. You'll find it fits almost perfectly.

Perennial favorite. Most babies dote on fruit and so can't them them. Especially Gerber Strained Fruits! For these fine, special-type pureed fruits have retained "cone-luther" colors and orchard-fresh true flavors that make one taste-tempt for another. 11 varieties, including such favorite stand-bys as Apple-sauce and Peaches, plus such unusual delicacies as Plums with Tapioca and Strained Bananas. WEDDINGS

GEHAN — MacDONALD

On Monday, April 22nd, at 10 a.m., in St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church, Point Anne, the reverend J.J. Buckley united in marriage Mary Alice Elizabeth MacDonald, of Point Anne, daughter of Mr. Walter MacDonald and the late Mrs. MacDonald, to Lorne Henry Gehan, of Point Anne, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gehan, of Tweed, Ontario, in a double-ring ceremony. The altar boys were Terrance Murray and Ian Whalen, cousins of the bride, and Tommy MacDonald, brother of the bride. The Reverend P. O'Neill, of Stirling, was present in the sanctuary. White Easter lilies and red carnations adorned the altar.

The church organist, Miss Gertrude Simmons, presided at the console of the organ for the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Andre Mercier, who sang "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Walter MacDonald, wore a floor length full-length bridal gown of nylon tulle over net and taffeta with a bouffant skirt, trimmed with scalloped inserts of lace. The fitted bodice was of matching lace over net with scooped neckline and elbow length sleeves. She wore matching elbow-length white mitts ending in points over the wrists. Her headdress was a Juliet cap of satin and pearls sending holding her veil of white tulle illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses centred with white tulle and tied with lavender ribbons.

Miss Sarah Lloyd, of Point Anne, was matron of honor for the bridegroom's sister in a street-length sleeveless dress of pale blue nylon, over taffeta and with white embroidered flowers, a matching jacket trimmed with lace at the sleeves and tiny, stand-up collar. She wore matching gloves, and hose, and the gown material, white gloves, and shoes, and carried a cascade bouquet of white 'mums with pale blue net and lace trimmings.

Mrs. Betty Jane Lefebre, of Ottawa, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Rose Marie MacDonald, of Point Anne, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids dressed alike in style and color to that of the matron of honor. They each carried cascade bouquets of white 'mums with pale blue net and lace trimmings, and were matching headdresses.

Miss Sylvia Lloyd, of Point Anne, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was sweet in her floor-length dress with pink sash and pink flowered headband, nylon, nylon net and white shoes. She carried a nosegay of white 'mums and pink carnations, and pink streamers.

Mr. John Gehan, Junior, of Tweed, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Gordon MacDonald, of Point Anne, brother of the bride, and Mr. Paul Lefebre, of Ottawa, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Golden Acre Inn, Belleville, where, the room decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers and white wedding bell. Spring flowers adorned the guest table. The bride's table was appointed with white damask; centred by a two-tier wedding cake topped with pink flowers, and misted about the base with pink and white tulle. The bridal bouquets and the tall pink candles lent a lovely nuptial touch.

Following the breakfast, the guests returned to the reception home to view the wedding gifts, and for tea.

The bride's elder sister, Mrs. Jeannette Barrett, received the guests, attired in pale blue and white with pale blue and white accessories and navy duster coat with corsage of pink, Sweetheart roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, wearing rose lace and crepe with fur stole, pink and white accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

For travelling to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Bel Air, Maryland, the bride chose a navy blue linen with matching jacket; pink tweed coat, pink and navy accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Gehan will reside in Point Anne.

Guests attended from Tweed, Ottawa, Rossmore, Picton, Bel Air, Maryland, Picton, Belleville and Oshawa.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored by a personal shower at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Michael Whalen, of Point Anne.

WEAGANT — CAMP

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, May 4, at 2.30 p.m. for a lovely spring wedding when Lois Agnes Weagant, of Belleville, R.R. 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lake Weagant, became the bride of David Charles Camp, of Trenton, Ontario, son of Mrs. William Camp, and the late Mr. Camp. The Reverend E. Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiated. Shasta 'mums and white snapdragons adorned the altar.

Mr. J. B. Hardman, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the choir of six boys who sang, "O Perfect Love," and "The Wedding Psalm."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Lake Weagant, the bride was radiant in her long bridal gown of white, Chantilly lace, fashioned with modified strapless bodice, and accented by a bolero with Peter Pan collar and long, fitted sleeves. The billowing skirt of nylon net over taffeta and nylon net underskirts was gathered to the bodice of matching lace. She wore a seed pearl tiara with fingertip length veil and a shower bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Roy Miller, of Trenton, as matron of honor, was gowned in green brocaded taffeta in ballerina length with portrait neckline and cap sleeves. The bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Camp, of Picton, wore a similar gown to that of the matron of honor, but in yellow. Both carried colonial bouquets and wore gloves. All carried Shasta daisy white 'mums mingled with yellow snapdragons and fern.

Mr. Donald Camp, of Picton, was groomsman for his brother, Mr. Victor Camp, also of Picton, and Mr. Lloyd Weagant, of R.R. 4, Belleville, performed the duties of ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beside a tiny altar adorned with white 'mums and silver candles. Silver appointments completed the table.

The bride's mother received wearing navy blue silk over taffeta in ballerina length with portrait neckline and cap sleeves. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in navy silk crepe with navy and white accessories, and pink rosebud corsage.

For the wedding trip to Cornwall through the Adirondack Mountains, Utica, Niagara Falls, and Toronto, the bride wore a light brown knitted suit, with dark brown accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds. Upon their return, the young couple will reside in Trenton.

Guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Picton, Farrington Point; Toronto; Madoc; Picton; Milford; Bloomfield; Trenton, and Wellington.

Two miscellaneous showers were given in honor of the bride, previous to her marriage, one at the home of Mrs. Roy Miller, Trenton, and the other at the home of Mrs. M. Gainforth, also of Trenton.

MAYNES — EMPEY

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, May 18 at 1:00 p.m. in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, when Marguerite Ann Empey, of Marmora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Empey, was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth Reginald F. G. Fleming, rector of the church. Robert Frank Maynes, also of Marmora, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maynes. Pink and white gladioli and white baby 'mums adorned the chancel, and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mrs. R. Shatford, soloist, sang "Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love," accompanied by Mrs. Roy Ford, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in white Chantilly lace and nylon illusion, fashioned in ballerina length with bouffant skirt elicited with seed pearls on the scalloped lace. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline outlined with scalloped lace and seed pearls. The long, lily-point sleeves were sheath-like. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was caught to a callot headdress, and she carried red Bettertime roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Kenneth Cannon, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, and the Misses Joan Hefferman, of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, and Shirley Francis, of Stirling, cousin of the bridegroom, were gowned alike in white organza in ballerina-length, embroidered in cut work motifs of pink for the matron of honor; blue for Miss Francis, and mauve for Miss Hefferman, with matching cummerbunds accented at the back with large bows and streamers. They wore floral headdresses matching their cummerbunds and carried nosegays outlined with white 'mums and centred by flowers matching their cummerbunds.

Mr. Eldon Killian, of Marmora, attended the bridegroom and Mr. Kenneth Trumble and Mr. Thomas Hanley, both of Marmora, were ushers.

The reception was held in St. Paul's parish hall, which the Anglican Guild catered.

Following the reception, the couple left by motor, for Washington, D.C., by motor, the bride travelling in a white and navy dress with white accessories, blue coat and pink rose and lily-of-the-valley corsage. She and Mrs. Maynes will reside in Marmora, where the bridegroom owns and operates the Plaza Theatre, and is manager of the theatre.

Guests attended from Peterborough, Belleville, Stirling, Havelock, Trenton and Tweed.

PETRIE — HARVEY

Pink tulips and white 'mums formed a pretty background in Holy Rosary Church, Belleville, on Saturday, May 18, when Mary Lillian Harvey, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John James Harvey, became the bride of James Petrie, of Wallbridge, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Petrie.

White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The Reverend Father Michael Simson officiated.

Robert Burke, soloist, sang "Ave Maria". "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" and "The Lord Is My Light, My Worthy," accompanied by Mrs. Grant, church organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. John James Harvey, was lovely in her bridal gown of floral lace over three-quarter length net underskirt, fashioned with molded bodice featuring a scalloped yoke accented with seed pearls and seed pearls and having long, pointed sleeves. The floor length skirt featured a twelve-tiered train. She wore a shoulder length, bouffant-bordered veil and tiara studded with rhinestones, and carried a white satin, Bible with sweetheart streamers. A necklace of white pearls completed her wedding ensemble.

Miss Helen Burd was maid of honor, attired in dark crystal over pink satin, in street length, with wide picture hat, matching in color.

The bridesmaids, sisters of the bride, the Misses Greta and Kay Harvey, were gowned in nylon eyelet embroidery over double-ply nylon net and satin, the former wore blue, and the latter, mauve. All attendants wore picture hats, matching gloves, shoes, rhinestone jewellery, and carried bouquets of summer flowers.

Little Cecilia Harvey, sister of the bride, as flower girl, was sweet in her floor-length frock of flower studded net over a three-tiered skirt of yellow taffeta, with floral bandeau.

Master Jeffrey Harvey, brother of the bride, was train bearer.

Mr. Harry William Cole, Jr. of Belleville, was groomsman, and Mr. Jerome Hall, and Mr. Leon Collins, both of Roslin, Ontario, were ushers.

The reception was held at the bride's home where a buffet luncheon was served.

The bride's mother, wearing fitted blue rayon crepe with lace inserts, white accessories, and corsage of pink roses, received.

For travelling to Toronto, Hamilton, New York, Montreal and Albany, N.Y., the bride chose a light blue, fitted suit with navy accessories and white hat. They will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Westport, Perth, Tweed, and residents of Belleville, Picton and Foxboro.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Probably women's clothes and hats have never been brighter, prettier, or gayer than they are this year; they are making a brave stand, too, but will not come into their own until the weather is warmer. The new colors, stripes and flowers will come forth with a burst; we hope it is not too long.

We are in the season of setting out plants, too, but cautious people are not rushing because of the very real threat of frost. May is usually the big month for asparagus but it, also, needs warmth like the hats to bring along a proper crop this year— T & T has its fingers crossed and neither comes a cropper.

The protein part of our diet should be well taken care of. Eggs are at their lowest price in years; fish is appearing ready prepared in more and more ways all the time. There is an unlimited supplies of all kinds of meat with good bargains in lamb at this time. Cheese and different types of cheese are appearing on food counters all the time. We think this is an indication that the consumption is increasing. This would be desirable in the interests of both personal and national health.

WHAT AGE FOR CHILD ATTENDANTS AT WEDDING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is now in the fifth grade, and I am to be married soon. In arranging for my wedding I am considering asking the parents of two of my 10-year-old pupils if they would like to have their girls be flower girls, and asking the parents of two boys if they would like to have these boys be ringbearers. Although these children are slight in build, I am wondering if their age might be a limiting factor. I know that flower girls and ringbearers are usually small children, but I do not know if they have to be a certain age. The children I am considering are most loving children and would be especially thrilled, I am sure, to have such an honor.

Would you think this plan undesirable? If so, would there be any other way in which I could have these children in the wedding party? Would the girls be too young to be junior bridesmaids? (Incidentally, I would pay all the expenses for the outfitting of these children, so as not to burden any of the parents.) I will be inviting to the church ceremony the entire class, as well as other pupils.

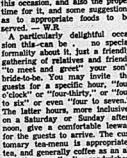
— Teacher

It's difficult to give a definite answer about having these 10-year-old girls as attendants in your bridal party, for they are really too old to be flower girls . . . flower girls are usually little girls between 4 and 8 years old . . . and they would be young and too small to be junior bridesmaids, who are usually between 12 and 16, although sometimes an especially tall 10 or 11. Since I judge you are not having any adult bridesmaids, perhaps under the circumstances, the better choice would be to have these two girls as junior bridesmaids, walking together in the processional, following the ushers. Then, instead of having the two boys as ringbearers (ringbearers should be little boys of 4 or 5) I suggest you call them pages (today pages are more usual than ringbearers) and have them walk together after your honor attendant and before you and your father or whoever is to escort you.

PROCEDURE FOR WEDDING-CONGRATULATION TELEGRAMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of the professional positions and the travelling we each have to do here in Canadian, we are quite sure that we will receive many telegrams of good wishes before and during our wedding reception. Neither of us is sure about the procedure of this. Who is responsible for these, the collecting and opening of them? Are they ever read aloud, or just given to the bride and groom to keep? — B.D.



Generally the best man is assigned this responsibility of collecting and keeping telegrams of congratulations and good wishes. He may also be asked to read them aloud if the bride and groom wish, and if there is really a sizable time between the bride's father takes over this telegram-responsibility. Warning: Since telegrams of this kind are very likely to be of a certain amusement to the wedding, don't have so many read that the guests may get restive, will prefer to resume the reception-festivities.

GROOM'S MOTHER PLANS TEA FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married next month, and I would like to give a tea for my future daughter-in-law. I would appreciate information concerning the formality of this occasion, and also the proper time for it, and some suggestions as to appropriate foods to be served. — W.R.

A particularly delightful occasion this can be . . . no special formality about it. Just a friendly gathering of relatives and friends "to meet and greet" your son's bride-to-be. You may invite the guests for a specific hour, "four o'clock" or "four-thirty," or "four to six" or even "four to seven." The latter hours, more inclusive, on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon, give a comfortable leeway for the guests to arrive. The customary tea-menu is appropriate: tea, and generally coffee as an alternative; small, slim sandwiches, of simple fillings, perhaps made of various kinds of breads, perhaps open sandwiches; for the "sweet course" small cakes, perhaps petits fours, and or small-size interesting cookies; perhaps nuts, all the kind or assorted kinds, and mints.

It is psychologically possible to "lower" a ceiling by conform with horizontal or vertical furnishing schemes by painting it a darker color than the walls.

TIPS FOR WEEK-END AND VACATION PACKING

Knitted garments pack easily, suds easily, are perfect for vacation wear.

With week-end and vacation packing very much on the agenda for the next three months, knitted garments edge nearer and nearer the spotlight. And not only for the lady of the house who wants to look her smartest, either. New knit playclothes have taken over the field for infants, toddlers, teens—every member of the family. They're perfect for vacation wear because they travel perfectly. Just fold 'em and there's not the slightest trace of mess or wrinkle.

Now sizzy sweaters with their lacy, ribbon-trimmed bibs and tabots are especially pretty. Junior's beach and play togs consist of knitted shorts and swim trunks, knitted pullovers, knitted zipper jackets. And you, mother, have a real fashion treat in the knit cardigans printed with the same floral motif that appears in the fabric of the dresses to go beneath them.

One outstanding example of this print treatment shows a nasturtium printed Orlon sweater over a cotton satin dress with matching nasturtium printed pockets. Wool knit tapered pants team up with bulky wool knit slip-on sweaters. Lacy-knit wool sheath dresses, sleeveless and scoop-necked, have smart little capelets to match.

And all, what easy fashions they all are to wash. No ironing, no wrinkling. Just suds them and wear them. What a boon on vacation days! The Orlons and nylons require no fancy washing techniques. And the wools, too, need just simple sudsing.

Of course, you won't wash your woolens in anything hotter than cool soap or detergent and cool rinses. Gentle handling keeps them soft and supple. So enjoy your care-free knits that have become vacation favorites.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HAVE THE COURAGE TO BE HONEST ABOUT THIS, MIKE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My problem may seem quite insignificant to you, but it's actually very real and terrifying.

A man who works down the street from where I live has become my worst enemy, and I know it's my own fault.

He was continually telling my parents lies about me that he had heard through the grapevine, and as a result I was punished for things I hadn't done. I was completely innocent. Then I discovered that he had been in jail for three years and that his daughter, with whom I attend school, was ignorant of this fact, and I saw my chance to get back at him. So I called him anonymously one evening and threatened to tell his daughter about his past, if he did not mind his own business.

It seems he found out I was the one who called, and one night he met me on my way home from the store. He grabbed me by the arm and threatened me. Since this has happened, and he told me that he would continue to scare me until I forgot the facts I knew about him. For three weeks he has had a man in a sling from the way he mauled me.

I'm too scared to tell my parents, for they'll punish me severely, and I know I deserve it. But what can I do? This man has told me he'll break my other arm if he gets the chance. Please help me. — Mike

Dear Mike:

I'm afraid you have no other alternative than to tell your parents exactly what has happened and let them take whatever action they feel is proper to keep this man from further abusing you.

You're quite right, of course, that you brought this situation on yourself, but the results have become something that you can't handle alone.

It's possible that the only way this man can be controlled is to report him to the police and have him ordered to stay away from you or get into trouble with the law. Since he has a prison record, it's hardly likely that he would want to put himself in danger of anything further along this line.

One thing that seems very strange to me is that your parents should have believed things this man told them he had heard about you. If, as you say, you were innocent of these things, what would he have against you and why should you place so much confidence in what he said to say that they would take his word against yours? This puzzles me.

In any event, you had better have the courage now to make a clean breast of everything. If you are absolutely honest with your parents, and talk to them in the right way, you'll come out of the whole thing better—even if they do punish you for having threatened the man over the phone. Than if you try to make up any story yourself to explain how you got into such a serious predicament.

Put Gelatine To Work For Your Salad Plates

By Mary Moore

In an effort to see how quickly and economically and successfully I could convert two tins of food into two tasty dishes for lunch, before breakfast one morning I put some gelatine to soak. One amount was for moulding some shredded beets; the other was for jelly-ing a can of salmon.

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY

Cream of Asparagus Soup (see Tuesday), Sliced Cold Meat leftover from Monday or Platter of Cold Cuts, Potato Salad, Radishes, Dills, Apple Cobbler with Pouring Cream or Lemon Sauce, Coffee.

I can't tell you the number of minutes to the second I spent opening cans, stirring gelatine, chopping olives, squeezing lemon juice, but believe me it wasn't many.

For speed, economy and lovely flavor with bright color for your summer salad plates try these moulds.

JELLIED SHREDDED BEETS

Drain the liquid from one 15-oz. can of shredded beets and in it soak one tablespoon gelatine for 5 minutes, then stir it over hot water until dissolved. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon MSG. Distribute the beets evenly into 6 individual moulds (I used demi-tasse cups because they are deep) and pour gelatine liquid over. Chill until set.

JELLIED SALMON LOAF

One can salmon (pink 53-oz. red 73c to 95c), 4 teaspoons gelatine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup vinegar from sweet mixed dill-taste

Child Is Busy Writing Letter To New Pen Pal

LONDON (AP)—Maureen Vernon, eight-year-old daughter of a London hospital porter, was busy during the weekend writing a letter to a new pen pal—Prince Charles.

Maureen opened her blue eyes wide last week when she received a letter from Buckingham Palace. It was signed "To Maureen, love from Charles."

Her father, Jack Vernon, is employed by a London children's hospital. Last week he was sent to dismantle some equipment at the palace, where the eight-year-old prince is recuperating after having his tonsils removed.

"Hello," said Prince Charles as Vernon was shown into his bedroom. "Have you any children?"

The porter told him he had two—Jimmy, 14, and Maureen, the same age as the prince.

"May I wrote a note to Maureen?" Prince Charles asked.

WOULD LIKE IT

Vernon replied he was sure Maureen would be delighted. When he came back to the room a few minutes later the prince handed him a letter, with the palace crest embossed on the envelope.

"Be sure Maureen gets it," he said. "Goodbye."

Maureen is thinking out what to write in reply.

"I shall say 'Dear Prince Charles, thank you for your letter,'" she said. "Then I'll tell him all about myself and my school. I shall ask him if he likes Davy Crockett, too."

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

The W.A. of Holloway Street United Church met Thursday with Mrs. Noble Brown presiding. Opening a short devotional period was a musical reading, "Mother O' Mine," and an invocation, Mrs. Brown called for the minutes of the April meeting and a recent executive meeting. These were accepted as read by the secretary, Mrs. Symons. Mrs. Arnold Campbell brought a financial report.

Mrs. Cook read the monthly correspondence and Mrs. F. Scott the report of the flower committee.

The roll call was answered by the groups headed by Mrs. Outingdyke, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Parks, Mrs. Sinfield and Mrs. Mitchell.

A nominating committee was appointed including Mrs. G. Coulter, Mrs. Outingdyke and Mrs. F. Wilson. Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. Scott were appointed auditors.

The following three vice-presidents were chosen, first, Mrs. F. Wilson; second, Mrs. Ellis, and third, Mrs. Tucker.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend was appointed delegate to the W.A. convention in Trenton, May 30. Plans were made for a joint meeting with the Evening Association in June.

After the offerings were received by Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Kingston and dedicated by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. R. Parks and her group took charge of a worship service, opening with a hymn and the reading of Prov. 31 by Mrs. Scott and a meditation on mother love by Mrs. Laughlin. Mrs. M. B. Weese led in prayer and Mrs. O. May sang "Home, Sweet Home."

The Rev. T. F. Townsend was the guest speaker, using as his subject "Home Problems." The legend of the lark who sent out searchers for the most beautiful thing in the world brought out the beauty character, spiritual hope and faith exemplified by true mother love.

Referring to and drawing lessons from Shakespeare's drama "The Taming of the Shrew," Mr. Townsend, with considerable humor but with a strong challenge to meet difficulties of life with self knowledge, self reverence and self control, said men need religion to guide their emotions—to build up sane, wholesome, happy thought habits. People need to meet life every day with courage in their hearts and a song on their lips.

Mrs. Clifford Smith made an expression of appreciation to the speaker and all joined in singing.

The group in charge served refreshments and all spent a social hour.

Corporal Kowal Addresses Bethel, Zion W.I.

Mrs. Carleton Cronkwright was hostess for the May meeting of Bethel-Zion W.I. at which Mrs. E. Tufts presided. Mrs. W. J. Tufts, Foxboro road, a life member installed the officers for 1957.

Mrs. F. Wellman read the minutes and gave the financial statement. The roll call was answered by payment of fees.

The motto — "My Mother's Hands" was given by Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson.

Mrs. D. Sills read a poem, "My Mother", and Mrs. Wellman gave a reading "A Parable on Mothers".

The guest speaker, Corporal Ray Kowal, of Ontario Provincial Police gave an educational and interesting topic on the community and the police force.

After the fine address, Corporal Kowal answered many questions.

Mrs. L. Ketcheson read an article on responsibilities in the home and later outside life.

The delegates, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson and Mrs. E. Sayers were appointed for annual at Melrose June 4.

A social half-hour was enjoyed.

SAILOR SUIT

By VERA WINSTON

This belted model in navy blue crepe offers a smart variation on the sailor suit theme. The collar is sailor in back, notched in front. There is a fill-in shield that is optional and the jacket fastens with brass buttons. Slit pockets are placed diagonally at the hips. The straight skirt has a kick-pleat in back. Very lightweight wool makes this type a good choice.

MIDGET SUB DAMAGED

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—An explosion damaged about five feet of the bow of the United States Navy's experimental midget submarine X-1 Monday night. Two of the vessel's five-man crew were aboard, but no one was hurt. The X-1, designed as a harbor penetration vessel for use with underwater demolition teams, is 30 feet long, has a seven - foot beam and displaces 25 tons. With periscope down her height is only 11 feet. The navy did not disclose the cause of the blast.

Hungarian Pulis Quiet, Obedient Says Mistress

MONTREAL (CP)—Hungarian pulis must never be taken out on busy streets, says Montreal's blonde Mrs. R. D. McLellan.

A puli is a shepherd dog that looks like, in the words of one authority, "a cross between a rug and a black bear." Mrs. McLellan owns two pulis and as far as she knows there's only one other in Canada.

These dogs are as nervous as they are shaggy and rare.

"They don't like noise and crowds," Mrs. McLellan says. "The puli has been a lonely sheepherd dog for centuries, used to sticking close to the sheep and his master. I take them for walks only on Mount Royal."

German - born, Mrs. McLellan married her Canadian husband in Germany eight years ago and moved to Montreal bringing along Adolar von der Heringsburg — whom her husband promptly nicknamed Pooch.

Now 11 years old, Pooch has a son, Czikos. Czikos is due to be mated to a puli named Bojti, owned by recent immigrant Dr. George Nagrady, as soon as Bojti gets out of customs quarantine.

Mrs. McLellan deplores the use of dogs as whipping-blocks for children and fashion accessories for women.

DEPLORES CLIPPING

Poodles, like pulis, are by nature hunting and fighting dogs and are miserable if treated differently.

Poodles clipped to the skin, tinted in pastel shades and decorated with bows and rhinestone collars are mockeries, she says.

Lady Asquith Show Winner

LONDON (AP)—Lady Asquith, 70, has won £3,200 ($8,960) in a television quiz show.

She collected Britain's richest TV cash prize Saturday night by correctly answering six - part question on the novels of Jane Austen in the 64,000 Question, screened over the independent television network. Top prize in the program is 64,000 shillings—£3,200.

"It makes a fool of him to treat a dog this way," Mrs. McLellan says. "The pull is getting the same sort of treatment in the United States although to a lesser degree. His coat is pulled out to leave only the soft undercoat. American pulis look like kerry blues."

Dogs, she asserts, should never be subjected to the mauling little children give them.

She doesn't have this trouble with her pulis. Most children are afraid of the lumbering "big bears." Most dogs are afraid of them, too.

Hungarians aren't. Lately, she says, she has been meeting many Hungarian immigrants during her walks and they are all delighted to see the dogs and mystified as to where she got them.

Despite their rough looks, the pulis are excellent companion dogs, quiet and obedient.

The huge hat hasn't taken over, but the hat of generous lines appears in every collection. A large hat must be well proportioned to succeed and be pleasing. Many models give the impression of being of generous dimensions, due to skillful design. One such is this cloche of fine yellow ballibuntly straw, a design that Walter Florell terms "chrysanthemum." It really does resemble this flower, a resemblance improved by a brim laded with fluffy silk-and-velvet petals. A soft bow of yellow velvet ribbon ties up the whole hat.

Mother, Past, Present' Topic at Club Meet

The May meeting of Prince Edward - Bellleville Club was held at the YMCA with Mrs. [illegible] presiding and welcoming members and guests. Mrs. Abendroth was due to be [illegible]

Mrs. C. Ackerman presided at the piano.

Since the last meeting the club has lost one of its valued members, Mrs. J. Arbuckle, who for 13 years had attended every activity, assisting in many ways. Above all else, gladdening hearts with her cheerful smile and kindly ways.

In her memory a minute's silence was followed by all reciting the 23rd Psalm, and by "Abide With Me." "One by one soon we shall gather, not for we have gathered here, bowed and broken, but the rather, eternal glory there."

Letters of sorrow who are seriously ill were given and sunk expressed by cards and flowers sent.

Mrs. Williams' and Mrs. Gordon's group took charge of the meeting with Mrs. Gorsline presiding.

Mrs. Baird read a paper written by the late Mrs. Olibert Church, just before her death and brought to the club many lovely and lasting tributes to mothers."

GUEST SPEAKER

In introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, a glowing tribute was paid to the outstanding service in Queen's Institute work, having held the offices of branch president, district president, convention area chairman, board director of the Federated W.I., and for two years as provincial president of Ontario Federated W.I. and later, holding the office of treasurer of the Dominion board.

Locally Mrs. Holmes is secretary of the Children's Aid Society, has also filled many offices in Holloway St. Church, the W.M.S. Presbyterial and is active in fraternal societies.

Her message, entitled "Mother, Past and Present", was most interesting and inspiring — a strong challenge to all homemakers—for higher standards of home and community life.

The club was greatly pleased to have present Mrs. Ed. Hubbs, who was formerly Elizabeth Potter, of Mountain View, and now of Howard Street, in Belleville; a well known and gifted pianist and active in all musical circles in the city.

Mrs. Hubbs was pianist in all community songs and accompanied the guest soloist, Miss Jean Barber, of Mountain View, in two fine solos.

Miss Barber is a granddaughter of Mrs. Will Barber, one of the club members.

Mrs. Gorsline thanked all assisting.

The meeting closed with a social half hour, with refreshments served by the group in charge.

Mrs. Allen Van Every Addresses University W. C. on Education

The May and annual meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and district was held following a dessert party at the home of Mrs. Robert Pringle, Trent Road, with out-of-town members acting as hostesses.

Mrs. P. T. Seibert, president, conducted the business meeting after expressing the appreciation of the club to Mrs. Pringle and the out-of-town members for the enjoyable dessert party held in such a gracious setting. The president also expressed her pleasure at the success of the "Spring Fair" and stated that it was due to the efforts of all the conveners and assistants who worked together under the planning and organization of the general convener, Mrs. J. E. Pugh.

Mrs. Seibert announced that a telegram of congratulations will be sent from the club to Professor Doris Saunders, president of the CFUW who is to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of British Columbia.

The club voted to increase the total scholarship award to $200. annually. One scholarship is to be named the "Manly MacDonald Scholarship" in appreciation of Mr. Macdonald's generosity which helps to make it possible for the University Women's Club of Belleville and district to finance this scholarship.

BOOK SHOWER

Mrs. Seibert explained that the book shower was held to help start a library in an outpost town in Newfoundland. Although there are no facilities to educate the children of this area, one of the inhabitants will attempt to teach the children. Therefore the books are extremely necessary to bring some advantages to this outpost town.

Annual reports were given by members of the executive. These were of interest to the general membership as they revealed the scope and amount of work accomplished during the year. The president thanked each member of the executive for her support and co-operation throughout the year. Special thanks was given to Mrs. J. H. Bateman for her work on the posters which were entered on behalf of the club in the poster competition which is being held in conjunction with the regional conference at Peterborough.

Mrs. A. S. Lewis expressed to Mrs. Seibert the thanks of the executive and the entire club for her leadership and unstinted efforts during her term as president.

1957 OFFICERS

Mrs. A. E. May, chairman of the nominating committees presented the slate of officers for 1957-58. This slate was accepted by unanimous vote. Officers for the coming year are as follows: past president, Mrs. P. T. Seibert; president, Mrs. John Haig; vice-president, Mrs. C. E. McArthur; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bateman; corresponding secretary, Miss Muriel Gibson; treasurer, Mrs. J. Nelles; program convener, Mrs. J. E. Pugh; (co-convener, Mrs. J. L. Acton); membership convener, Mrs. J. A. Jarvis; publicity convener, Miss Anne Sommerville; Federation Representative, Mrs. Douglas Burr; hospitality convener, Mrs. A. S. Lewis; and members - at - large, Mrs. M. Morton and Mrs. W. Van Steenburgh.

The meeting was later turned over to Mrs. Haig, the incoming president. The guest speaker, Mrs. Allen Van Every was introduced by Mrs. D. L. MacKinnon who has had a long personal association with her. Mrs. Janet Van Every is a lawyer, who herself practised four years before she gave up her career to marry a lawyer. She is the mother of three small boys with interests in her community including the church, ballet, music, drama and particularly education. She is chairman of the Constitution Committee of Consumers, chairman of the board of education for South Peel and chairman of the publicity committee on Education for the CFUW.

Mrs. Van Every chose as her topic, "Education", with the idea of presenting facts that might enable the University Women's Club to form a study group on this most vital subject. The speaker pointed out her practical interest in the subject, first as a parent, and then as chairman of the education committee of the CFUW. She stated that the first conference on education will be held next February in Ottawa. Many organizations in Canada representing industry, labor and women's groups will be present. University Women should study topics on education that will be discussed at the conference. The Regina Council will make recommendations.

Mrs. Van Every suggested topics for study by the club next fall. These are outlined under the program commissions of the Canadian Conference on Education. First is "Organization and Curricula". Under this heading are many complex questions and varied opinions. The speaker felt that Grade XIII is too stereotyped and does not adapt students for university where they suddenly encounter freedom regarding study and conduct. The type of examination which should be given and the subjects which should be taught make a topic worthy of consideration.

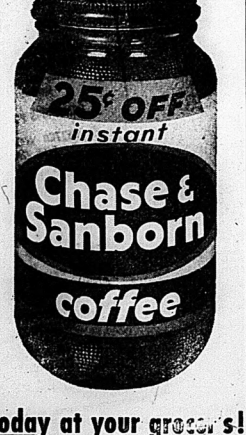
Secondly, the "Teacher" situation merits study. Salaries have not risen greatly in comparison with the increase in the cost of living. It is only recently too that teachers have achieved professional status. Mrs. Van Every stated that perhaps more training schools for high school teachers should be made available through the universities. This would probably encourage more students to enter the profession. In addition, more loans and bursaries for this purpose would also help.

The "financing" of education is of prime importance. Recently, industry has been showing a decided interest in aiding promising students, particularly engineers. This type of aid should be encouraged. Although taxation is high, only 30 per cent goes to education while considerably more is spent on highways for instance. Many feel that the proportion spent on education is not adequate. The speaker felt that some of the expense of education could be defrayed by the use of larger lecture rooms for larger numbers of students. T. V. and audio aids could also be used to help the teacher shortage. If such large scale teaching took place, students wishing to specialize could be taught in seminar groups.

It is possible that this fact could contribute to an increase in the number of students taking advantage of a higher education.

The role of the home is extremely important and the 'Home and School Association' should be considered a vital function. Parents are the motivating factor for higher education and therefore should not promote too much extra-curricular work. A happy medium, ensuring activities show that broken homes contribute to children leaving school.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL NEEDS



The "Special Needs" of certain children must not be overlooked. The slow learning and the gifted child both need a special type of program. However, a study program must be instigated in order to know how to meet these needs to assure the physical well-being and mental health of the child.

The speaker concluded by saying that adults must themselves be familiar with the problems in education in order to bring pressure on the government to meet these needs. The concerted efforts of many groups is most effective. Women must take an active part on the board of education, the public library are more concerned with proper education and this interest will be beneficial in many ways.

Miss J. Tickell thanked Mrs. Van Every for her informative talk. She expressed the appreciation of the club for suggestions which could be used in setting up a study group on education.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon outlined the program of the Peterborough Conference.

They will stop off at Chatham and visit his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan DeNure and also his brother, Mr. Lyle Wight and Mrs. Wight.

Gardenville

GARDENVILLE — The United Church at Carrying Place was filled almost to capacity on Sunday afternoon for the Mother's Day service in which the Sunday School pupils took a prominent part. Bud Hart read the Prayer of Invocation; Nelson Sundstrom led in the responsive Psalm; Stanley Green read the Scripture lesson; Fred Robertson and David Green received the offering; Linda Steenburg, Jimmy Vader and Elizabeth Sundstrom recited the special verses in honor of "Mother" and Rosie Brown read an impressive story, showing what influence one life lived truly for God, may have. This native boy led his whole village to accept Christ by his witness, while dying, that there is no fear, when the love of God enters a soul.

The junior choir took the leading parts in the anthem of faith and trust and the Reverend E. V. Cook climaxed the lovely service with his message on the day's theme of Motherhood.

Cut daffodils, narcissi, tulips and apple blossoms added their beauty and gave a silent tribute to the love of God.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker spent Sunday in Elgin, guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Halliday and also called on Mr. and Mrs. L. Seaman.

On Monday they visited with Mr. and Mrs. K. Runnings of Brighton.

Mrs. D. Sine has returned to her home here, after spending several months with her brother, in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gunsolur, Barbara, Rae and Drew of Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baxter and Susan on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Brough were Sunday guests at the same home.

Mrs. Harold Baxter, Mrs. Jack Vader and Mrs. Jack Baxter called to see Mrs. Mary Bonter on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Jack Baxter was happy to receive a letter from her cousin, Miss Edith Burke, a missionary in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Africa, who, at 86 years of age, is still active in teaching, preaching and visiting. At present she has a class of 22 Moslems.

Mr. J. A. Dymond has not been feeling too well this past week. All trust he may be soon restored to a measure of health.

Mr. Tom Young is a patient in one of the Kingston hospitals. Friends here wish for him continued progress.

Mr. and Mrs. George Osborne of Shannonville, were Saturday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vader.

To all Canadians voting for the first time, here's why...

YOUR FIRST VOTE should be LIBERAL

THE LIBERAL RECORD

FAMILY ALLOWANCES
OLD AGE PENSIONS
ANTI-DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT because of race, colour, religion or national origin.
PENSIONS FOR THE BLIND
BETTER WORLD TRADE FOR CANADA
RECORD INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION
HIGHEST EMPLOYMENT
HIGHEST WAGES AND SALARIES OF ALL TIME
FLOOR PRICES FOR SOME AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS
UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE
STRONG NATIONAL DEFENCE
HOSPITAL INSURANCE

The intelligent use of your vote cannot help but make a difference in your future. The purpose of this election is to choose men and women we can trust to take care of the affairs of Canada for the next four years.

These affairs may mean peace or war, employment or unemployment, prosperity or depression for you and your family.

So, before you use your vote . . . consider the things the Liberal Government has done to help give you, and other Canadians like you, a better future.

With a Liberal Government, employment in Canada has increased each year. There are more jobs, and better jobs, than ever before.

With a Liberal Government, wages and salaries have also increased each year . . . more than doubled in the past 10 years alone. Floor prices have been established for some agricultural products; more are being added.

With a Liberal Government, the industries that make the new or better jobs have grown and expanded as never before.

With a Liberal Government, security for every family has been assured. Family Allowances to help growing children, Old Age Pensions, Aid to Medical Research and health, like the recent polio immunization, and many more social welfare measures, are the direct result of Liberal Government.

With a Liberal Government, the future of every family has been made better. Family Allowances to help growing children, Old Age Pensions, Aid to medical research and health, like the recent polio immunization, and many more social welfare measures, are the direct result of Liberal Government.

With a Liberal Government, Canada has had better trade with other countries . . . has earned the respect of other nations . . . and has been a leader in world peace.

So the question you must ask yourself is—do you wish this good way of life to be continued?

If you do—the answer is—do your part and vote Liberal. For that is the only way of making sure that it will be continued.

We in Ontario can only prosper as Canada Prospers.

Russia Promises To Tear Down Iron Curtain

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia promised Tuesday to do its best to tear down the Iron Curtain and announced establishment of a new government agency dedicated to this aim.

The new agency will operate directly under the council of ministers, the executive branch of the government. It is called "the state with foreign countries." The chairman is Yuri A. Zhukov, former assistant editor-in-chief of the Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Zhukov presided at a press conference where it was announced the problem of reducing East-West barriers will be attacked in two ways:

1. By doing everything possible to develop cultural and other exchanges between countries.

2. By giving foreign correspondents in Moscow every facility—"short of the moon" — to help them gather "genuine and objective" news and information about the Soviet Union.

The announcement, celebrated with champagne, generally was regarded a sanother move in the Kremlin's latest peace offensive.

Haiti Faces General Strike

PORT au PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti's new military regime today faced a general strike in this capital and the threat that the work stoppage might spread to the rest of the turbulent Negro Caribbean republic.

An army spokesman said troops would be used only if disorders developed, and no action would be taken to prevent strikes.

It remained to be seen whether Haiti's politicians, whose rivalry for the presidency has kept the country in turmoil for six months, could again paralyze it.

Business establishments and the post office closed down in Port au Prince Tuesday shortly after the army chief, Brig.-Gen. Leon Cantave, took control of the country.

STIRLING

Personal Cards, Gifts Mark 90th Birthday

STIRLING — A large number of neighbors and friends from Stirling and Springbrook spent a recent afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. A. MacConnell, Front Street on the occasion of her 90th birthday anniversary.

She was the recipient of many greeting cards and numerous personal gifts.

In the evening a family party was held when the children and grandchildren gathered to express best wishes.

Mrs. Lorne MacConnell, Toronto, spent last week in Stirling and was hostess for the birthday parties, assisted by Mr. Ross MacConnell and other members of her family.

Mrs. O. A. MacConnell has two sisters, Mrs. John McKeown (Florence), Springbrook, and Mrs. Lillian Garrison, Les Vagos, California.

WORRIED TO DEATH

NEW YORK (AP)—Two squalling baby bears squeezed through the bars of their cage at Brookyn's Prospect Park Zoo Monday for a look at the outside world. Policemen swiftly lassoed the two while mama bear watched nervously. But the excitement finally proved too much for the 300-pound mother. She collapsed and died.

MAY VISIT CANADA

TOKYO (Reuters)—Koichi Uda, Japanese minister of atomic power development, will leave June 4 for an inspection tour expected to carry him to the United States and Canada. A spokesman for the Japanese atomic energy commission said the minister also will visit Norway, Sweden, West Germany and Britain.

BURY WHALE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — British troops who used dynamite, 200 gallons of kerosene and three tons of wood in an attempt to blow up or burn a 20-ton whale washed ashore on the island's north coast, have admitted defeat. The whale was buried today. Bulldozers were used to excavate its tomb.

WINNER AND LOSER IN LOVE BATTLE

The paying customers at a performance of the Italian national circus in Munich, Germany, got an added chill as they watched the tiger act. As the trainer was putting the big cats through their paces, four-year-old Bengal tiger "Gagnes" suddenly turned in a jealous rage on his rival "Bombay" and a real jungle duel was on. The trainer managed to escape and the Munich fire brigade was called to water down the enraged animals, but "Bombay" could not be saved. He was killed by Gagnes for the love of the tigress "Delhi," background. This scene shows the victor Gagnes beside the body of Bombay as the trainer tries to calm him and get him out of the cage.

"IT LOOKS MUCH HIGHER WHEN YOU'RE ON TOP"

That was Johann Pirkheim's comment after being trapped atop Siwash Rock for more than an hour. The 70-foot, sheer-sided rock is in Stanley Park near the first narrow entrance to Vancouver Harbor. Pirkheim got up without a rope but couldn't get down without one. A friend called park police who brought ropes. Here a policeman watches Pirkheim descend. The rock is cut off from shore at high tide. (CP Photo).

WEATHER

"If it starts to thunder and lightning, watch the southwest sky," he said. "Even if someone hasn't seen a tornado, he's not going to miss it if it shows up."

"It's a weird sight. The funnel looks like a grat piece of stove-ripe or rope hanging down from the cloudz. It's very black. It looks as though someone were sitting up above swinging the pipe or the rope back and forth.

"A tornado is a sort of giant vacuum cleaner. The winds at its base are well over 100 miles an hour but it isn't the wind that causes the excessive damage when a tornado strikes—it's the vacuum or suction.

"The base gets around a house, for example. The pressure outside the house falls below the pressure inside and the place just explodes outward."

He said the electric storm pattern in the general area is expected to be "just about as severe as it can get."

The Ontario weather chief said situations like the current one developed "one day a year or even less frequently" in the southwestern part of the province.

COVER SMALL PATH

Despite their solid punch, tornadoes cover relatively little ground, Mr. Turnbull said. Usually they carve a path about 200 yards wide for no more than a mile.

At Toronto, civil defence director William Koopman advised citizens to get into their basements if trouble developed. He said they should shut off water, electricity and gas if they had enough warning.

At St. Catharines, civil defence co-ordinator Walter Sharpe said he had told people requesting advice to get into cellars if a tornado struck.

Tornadoes seldom appear as far north as Canada but four years ago one wrecked $15,000,000 worth of damage to the Sarnia district, site of an oil-refining and chemical industry—and also in today's forecast district.

FRENCH AMBUSHED

ALGIERS Reuters)—A strong insurgent band Thursday ambushed a French column in the forest-covered mountains south of Algiers, killing six and wounding about 12. Another six men are missing. French planes and reinforcements rushed up to help the ambushed column, killed 20 of the attackers.

TWISTERS

At Desloge, witnesses said the residents were lucky to escape with only three dead as a twister cut a path of havoc six blocks wide.

DESCRIBES NOISE

O. M. McLeod, a miner, said it sounded like "a steam engine with burned-out bearings pulling a string of freight cars."

The twisters did many strange things. One picked up Bobby Tidemann's two - storey frame hottle and turned it completely around before setting it down 200 yeeds from its foundation. It was unoccupied.

Only an hour before the storm struck some 400 students at the Desloge high school had completed their classes for the day and had been dismissed. Only the walls were left standing.

The twisters bounced around on both sides of the Mississippi River south of St. Louis and continued to strike long after dark.

BOAT CAPSIZES, NON-SWIMMERS SAVED

Eight persons were rescued from the cold waters of Lake Ontario's Hamilton harbor by police boat after they had clung to the sides of their overturned launch for half an hour. The eight persons clung "like grim death" to the sides of the boat helping each other as waves threatened to release their grasp. Here the police boat docks with the capsized launch in tow. None of the eight could swim.

Women Friends Make Gift Of Luggage

STIRLING — Recently 25 women from the east end of the village gathered at the home of Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Mill Street, to spend a social afternoon before her departure in June to reside in Toronto.

Mrs. Frank Harding and Mrs. Elizabeth Foster convened the party. Selections were read by Mrs. Hiram Rodgers, Mrs. Ernest Wanamaker, Mrs. Roy Eggleton, Mrs. Harper Rollins and Mrs. E. Bateman.

Two contests provided a bit of humor.

An address of appreciation was read by Mrs. E. Foster. Mrs. F. Harding made the presentation of luggage and a set of large bath towels.

Mrs. Rodgers thanked her friends for their kindness to her while she lived on Mill Street and invited them to visit her in Toronto. The group sang "God Will Bless You and Take Care of You Till We Meet Again."

The committee served refreshments and a social hour was spent.

BUSY MAN ENJOYS TEA BREAK—Here's a man who has found a cup of Tea works wonders when the pressure mounts.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking and thinking, and he said, Oh well, such is life. I might as well shrug it off and light up another cigar, he said.

Goodness, what happened? ma said, and pop said, On my way to lunch I looked in Harris and Hicks' show window. They're the most expensive joolers in town, he said.

I should say they are, if that's any consolation to people in our confined bracket, ma said, and pop said, Well there was a pair of earrings that sparkled like diamonds. The pair was marked 300 dollers, and the thought that I couldn't walk in and bring them home to you almost spoiled my lunch, he said.

But William, for land sakes who could blame you for not having 300 dollers to squander on diamond earrings, even for me? ma said, and pop said, Oh, that was not the problem. I know of several banks that would be glad to help me out if I put up enough collateral. The big stumbling block was, I suddinly realized your ears have never been pierced for earrings, and you'd be in a constant state of jitters for fear they'd fall off. Of course it's not your fault that your parents weren't foresighted enough to have your ears pierced when you were a child, but little things like that make a be said.

Oh you're a crusty sweet thing, ma said, and pop said, I believe you're right, and I'll prove it by locking you to any movie you say as long as it's got as many horses as it has women.

The result being ma said Love in the Bad Lands.

TRIED TO JUMP, FELL IN SHAFT

Bright-eyed Benny Hooper, who was rescued from a well shaft, is shown resting quietly in hospital out of the oxygen tent. The seven-year-old boy was pulled out of the hole, frozen but alive, almost 24 hours after being trapped 21 feet below. Benny told his father he tumbled into the shaft in the back yard of the Hooper home in Manorville, N.J., while playing with a playmate. He wanted to show that he could jump over the mouth of the hole. "I jumped and fell into the well," he said.

Election Campaign

Diefenbaker Says Liberals 'Running Scared'

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)—John Diefenbaker, sounding optimism for the election chances of his Progressive Conservative party, says the Liberals are "running scared."

He based some of his optimism, in a speech here Tuesday night, on the size of his audience. Some 3,800 of the 115,000 population of metropolitan Victoria turned out on a damp, drizzling night to hear the fit-year-old party leader as he reached the westernmost point of his tour.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals are campaigning on the basis of a $6 increase in the old age pension, to take effect July 1, after the election. And recently Prime Minister St. Laurent had promised "happy days" after the June 10 election to the federal civil service in the form of a pay increase.

"Ladies and gentlemen, they're running scared at the present moment," he said.

SAYS PUBLIC AROUSED

Across the country he had found "aroused public opinion everywhere" against the Liberal government, and the government was beginning to realize it.

He hammered at his theme that voters who want to turn out the federal government can't do it by voting for "third parties"—the CCF and Social Credit.

Most of the audience in this city's big arena stood to applaud as he began to speak. He said the day Maritime campaign at Campbelton, N.B., Tuesday and worked his way down the eastern coastal region to the heart of Nova Scotia.

Travelling under sunny skies, Mr. St. Laurent was in jovial mood, joking with station crowds as "whistle" stops about his age.

He drew repeated laughs when he stated that his opponents had labelled him an "old wreck" and an "old man" and he wanted Canadians to see for themselves what he actually was.

At an open meeting in Moncton he repeated his charge that Premier Frost of Ontario had linked up with Mr. Diefenbaker to get a better tax deal for Ontario. It would mean either higher taxes for the whole country or less federal payments to all provinces except Ontario.

He had challenged Mr. Diefenbaker Friday to say which course he would follow and he was still waiting for an answer.

At Truro, a town of 13,000, some 1,000 turned out at the CNR station and street corners as Mr. St. Laurent's motorcade, led by the Moncton Citizens concert band, wove through the streets.

Premier Stanfield Winters, who introduced him at the evening rally, estimated the federal government has poured $40,000,000 into Nova Scotia for every $1 it took out in federal taxes.

LEAVES FOR CANADA

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crabalis, chief of the general staff, Canadian Army, sailed for Canada Friday night aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain. Graham arrived in Britain this week after a visit to the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group in Germany.

Prime Minister Sees Golden Age For Maritimes

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says Maritimers need not be pessimistic about the future. There was a "golden age" ahead in which all provinces would share and with it might come some vast projects for the Atlantic region.

One, he intimated, might be development of the proposed eight-mile causeway to link the mainland with Prince Edward Island, a project which some have estimated will cost $50,000,000 or more.

The Liberal leader, speaking before some 1,000 in a school auditorium Tuesday night, said his government would have to consider the project on its merits. But engineering studies were encouraging and he was not over-looking the attraction it may have for the tourist trade.

He had noted that John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader, had stated at Midland, Ont., that he was a born pessimist. But Mr. St. Laurent felt sure that when Mr. Diefenbaker completes his Canadian tour he will have changed his mind, except on the Conservatives' chances of forming the next government.

"The golden age lies straight ahead for Nova Scotia and other provinces. It is the way of Conservatives to look to the past. The Liberals look ahead."

FOUR-DAY INVASION

Mr. St. Laurent opened his four-day Maritime campaign at Campbellton, N.B., Tuesday and worked his way down the eastern coastal region to the heart of Nova Scotia.

Travelling under sunny skies, Mr. St. Laurent was in jovial mood, joking with station crowds as "whistle" stops about his age.

He drew repeated laughs when he stated that his opponents had labelled him an "old wreck" and an "old man" and he wanted Canadians to see for themselves what he actually was.

At an open meeting in Moncton he repeated his charge that Premier Frost of Ontario had linked up with Mr. Diefenbaker to get a better tax deal for Ontario. It would mean either higher taxes for the whole country or less federal payments to all provinces except Ontario.

Choice of 'Queen Elizabeth' For Name of New Montreal Hotel Causes Controversy

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Controversy seems likely to continue indefinitely over the choice of "Queen Elizabeth" as the name for the Canadian National Railways' hotel now under construction here.

The 21-storey structure which is to open next year is called the largest hotel in the Commonwealth.

Critics who want a French name would like it to be called Chateau Maisonneuve, after Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, who in the 17th century founded the tiny settlement of Ville Marie which grew into the city of Montreal.

STUDENT PARADES

And they do not hesitate to show their feelings. Just a few weeks ago some 400 shouting University of Montreal students paraded with Chateau Maisonneuve placards before CNR's headquarters here and tore in effigy of CNR president Donald Gordon.

Earlier, workmen were called out to remove 25-foot Chateau Maisonneuve banners stuck on the structure's grey walls by other students.

Nil only youths back the name change campaign, however. The Societe St. Jean Baptiste, largest and most influential French-Canadian cultural organization, approves the campaign.

Some French-language newspapers never refer to the hotel by its given name, but only as the Chateau Maisonneuve. In nearly every major centre in the province, Chateau Maisonneuve petitions, published statements and pin down politicians for their views.

CLAIMS UNITY

Mr. Gordon, supporting the hotel's name before a House railway committee March 20, said it would be both French and English —Queen Elizabeth-Le Reine Elizabeth. Only a vocal minority, he said, is against the name.

It was picked in 1953 as the best way to symbolize the unity of French- and English-speaking peoples and CNR has no intention of changing it, he said.

The Societe St. Jean Baptiste of Montreal disagreed with a statement that it has no intention of ever giving up the fight to get the name changed.

The local Chateau Maisonneuve committee said there is more than a minority plugging for the name change since a petition presented to the Commons by committee brought here the signatures of 200,000 individuals and 500 municipal governments.

The committee says it intends no disrespect for the Queen, but would fight just as hard against a name like Paul after any English person, "be it King or Gordon."

English names already predominate among the better - known Montreal hotels. Only two — the Laurentien and De LaSalle — are French extraction. Others are the Queen's, Windsor, Berkeley, Mount-Royal and Mount-Carlton.

These are privately owned and the public has little to say about their names. But Maisonneuve's supporters claim the publicly-owned CNR should recognize Montreal's French character when it named its hotel.

Even Le Reine Elizabeth gets its arguments. Some authorities say it should be La Reine Elizabeth, feminine instead of masculine.

CNR asserts, on the contrary, that the article "le" refers not to the Queen, but to the hotel, which is masculine.

Le Reine Elizabeth, they say, is merely a contraction for L'Hotel Reine Elizabeth.

Politicians, pressed for their views, seldom come out with supporting or dissenting statements. Some say that because royal assent for use of the name has been given, CNR would find it embarrassing if the name were changed.

More than pure sentiment is involved in the agitation for a French name.

Recently, the Montreal tourist and convention bureau was told that everything possible must be done to preserve the French language and French customs in Montreal.

Visitors come to Montreal, the speaker said, because "it is different" and the French atmosphere of this country."

It was easy for the CCF and Social Credit to promise pensions of $75 and $100 a month, he said, but had no hope of coming to power.

"I'm not here to turn this into a political meeting at your expense . . . my idea of politics is that promises should only be made that can be effectuated."

A Conservative government would cut unnecessary taxation to promote production which would help meet the threat of inflation. Last year the government had overtaxed Canadians by $500,000,000.

Colombia, Cuba, Argentine, Chile in State of Unrest

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

The army's seizure of power in Haiti is the latest in a series of major crises in Latin America.

Unrest has hit not only Haiti, a tiny country, but also Colombia, Cuba, Chile and the Argentine, countries with a total population of more than 48,000,000.

In addition a border dispute between Honduras and Nicaragua resulted in armed skirmishes and was placed under the mediation of the Organization of American States.

Such a rash of apparently unrelated incidents is unusual even for Latin America, traditionally an area of violent passions and power jealousies.

Brig.-Gen. Leon Castanva, army chief of staff, has emerged as Haiti's strong man after wrangling for six months among 10 presidential candidates since President Paul Magloire, elected in 1950, was thrown out of power in December.

Magloire's downfall came when he tried to succeed himself to the presidency despite a constitutional guarantee against just that.

In Colombia, it was a similar attempt by Dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla that brought the country to the edge of revolution only two weeks ago.

Rojas was finally banished to Spain but unrest lingers in Colombia, with constant acts of terrorism against a military junta which is feared by many civilians.

In Cuba, riots flared in the streets when the government, battling Castro, put into force a program of austerity. President Carlos Ibanez recently dismissed his cabinet—the fifth in his four years of office—because of an internal struggle.

Guerrilla bands are waging war against government troops in the mountains of Oriente province, an open talk of revolution. There the opposition appears to be political, as sugar, on which the island republic's economy rests, is riding a boom.

Dictator Fulgencio Batista, who originally assumed office by military force, is the target of much political bitterness, but an abortive revolt against him failed in March.

In the Argentine, provisional president Pedro Eugenio Aramburu, striving to undo the havoc wrought by former dictator Juan Peron, is under pressure for early elections but claims the country is not yet ready for civilian rule.

The military government recently made many arrests after charging that Peron, from his Venezuelan haven, tried to organize a simultaneous invasion and uprising in regain the power he lost in 1955.

Union Nationale Ministers Enter Campaign to Assist In Fight Against Liberals

QUEBEC (CP)—Three top ministers in Quebec's Union Nationale government and at least four of the party's legislature members entered the federal election campaign to support candidates in Quebec ridings.

Transport Minister Antoine Rivard and Colonization Minister Joseph Begin made weekend dependent and a Progressive Conservative candidate respectively and Roads Minister Antonio Talbot and Labor Minister Jean Lesage members who have entered the campaign in provincial autonomy, the Union Nationale's perennial platforms in Quebec elections.

The Union Nationale party has always refrained from participation in federal elections but some ministers and members take part each time on a personal basis.

Candidates opposing two federal cabinet ministers have the support of Premier Duplessis' stalwarts.

In Montmagny-L'Islet, Independent candidate Laurent Orlin has the support of both Transport Minister Rivard and Dr. Fernand Lizotte, legislature member for L'Islet. In his campaign against Northern Affairs Minister Lesage.

In Lotbiniere, Union Nationale legislature member Rene Beaudoin is supporting Raymond O'Hurley, Progressive Conservative, against Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe.

Mr. Talbot is arain supporting Independent candidate Paul-Emond Gagnon in Chicoutimi. Mr. Gagnon was a member of the last Parliament. No Progressive Conservative candidate has yet been named. Mr. Talbot said he has "always campaigned in favor of Mr. Gagnon."

ORGANIZER BACKS PC

Mr. Begin, who is the Union Nationale's chief organizer, is campaigning for Robert Perreault, Progressive Conservative organizer for the Quebec district, and a member of the last Parliament.

Participation in the campaign by Union Nationale supporters has also been noted in Kamouraska and Bellechasse counties.

In Kamouraska Alfred Plourde, Union Nationale legislature member, is campaigning for Benoit Chobot, Independent who is opposed by a Progressive Conservative candidate and the Liberal member of the last Parliament.

In Bellechasse Union Nationale legislature member Dr. Alphee Poirier is working for Paul Miquelon, brother of Hon. Jacques Miquelon, a minister without portfolio in the Quebec cabinet.

More Prisoners to Be Given Parole Under New System

OTTAWA (CP)—As soon as any of Canada's inmates feel they have stories gets a new prisoner his name is sent to a division of the justice department where a detailed file is begun on his life history.

This file is compiled by the staff on John MacLeod, director of the justice department's remission service, to help determine how and when the prisoner can be given a break.

The history of the prisoner, including his childhood, background, previous criminal record and a report from the judge who sentenced him, is kept up to date with reports of his progress in penitentiary.

"All these details are taken into consideration when a prisoner comes up for ticket-of-leave," said Mr. MacLeod, a lawyer from Sydney, N.S., in an interview.

Mr. MacLeod, who also is head of the department's civil law section, is directing a stepped-up campaign to give the 5,500 prisoners in federal penitentiaries more opportunity for parole.

Until this year only Vancouver and Montreal boasted field offices of the remission service. This spring, such offices were opened in Winnipeg, Toronto and Moncton, N.B., and a sixth will be established later this year at Kingston, Ont.

More paroles are being granted and the parolees are getting more after-care by trained personnel, said Mr. MacLeod.

In 1952 only 792 persons were given parole. The figure jumped to 1,240 in 1955 and to 1,421 in 1956. Of the prisoners given parole last year, 1,091 were under supervision of trained rehabilitation officers.

Mr. MacLeod describes the parole as "a logical step in the reformation of offenders" in that it returns them to society "under appropriate restraint."

Prisoners can go to their parole officer for help in getting jobs and living quarters and "for somebody to talk over their problems."

"A freed prisoner needs somebody to talk over their problems."

"A freed prisoner needs somebody to talk over their problems."

"A freed prisoner needs someone he can talk to when the going gets tough," said the tall, grey-haired lawyer.

"If he has no responsible person to turn to he will return to friends on the wrong side of the law."

About 93 per cent of those paroled from penitentiary complete their parole periods successfully.

Mr. MacLeod, 36, a graduate of Mount Allison and Dalhousie Universities, entered the justice department in 1946. He helped to draft the new criminal code which came into force in 1955.

Three More Contaminated Cases Exposed in Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A man exposed to contamination in a research laboratory accident still complains of illness, has lost his job and couldn't be sold as a used house.

Meanwhile, a team of highly trained specialists is combing the W. M. Kellogg Co. plant here in a continuing effort to find additional traces of radioactive dust particles released March 13.

Four men were exposed to the radioactivity in the original accident. Company officials said three others were contaminated later.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission ordered the accident May 2. Kellogg officials said decontamination procedures were ordered 50 days before that, but said they made no public announcement "in the interest of public hysteria."

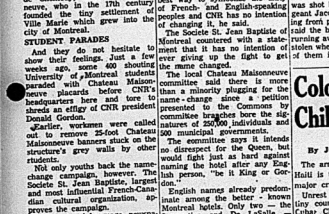
William B. Converse, manager of the firm's nuclear division, said irradiated pellets of a mixture of uranium and plutonium-192 aluminum powder broke while being removed from cans in the laboratory. The pellets were used in equipment in testing structural steel.

Converse said the nuclear products laboratory was closed because it was unprofitable.

The plant itself will remain open. The lab was in a separate building and the contamination had no direct effect on the rest of the plant, which is operating on a normal schedule, Converse said. Five of the first four men exposed, Harold Northway, former firmend manager, was released because of the decision to close the lab. The other three are working for Kellogg.

A plant superintendent said Richard Salmon and Vernon McCoy, employees of the construction division, were later exposed. After that, a carpenter showed up with a particle of radioactive dust in his ear. Converse refused to discuss the three.

Northway said he is still unemployed and is awaiting reports from his doctors.



"We'd planned to leave Houston but know there's no use to try to sell the house as long as this thing's before the public."

He said that since his exposure he was disclosed, only two or three persons — all members of his church—have visited his home.

Thinks Teamsters Will Oust Beck

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune quotes a high-ranking Teamsters Union official as saying that Monday's action of the AFLO-CIO executive council in removing Dave Beck as an AFL-CIO officer also "seals his doom as president of the Teamsters Union."

"As far as I am concerned, Dave Beck is through with the teamsters," The Tribune quotes William Lee, an international teamsters vice-president and member of the union's executive council.

"I expect our council to meet shortly to deal with the Beck situation."

And now I'm going to turn off The Snoozers and put on the fights, and the first time I ask you what round it is, or who hit who, you can have The Snoozers back, he said.

The result being he didn't ask her anything, and ma kept on sewing and making painful faces to herself at the fight.

Elsa Maxwell Answers Suit By Former King

PARIS (Reuters) — A court Monday referred until June 3 judgment in a defamation suit brought by former king Farouk of Egypt against American party-giver Elsa Maxwell.

Alleging "insults and defamation," Farouk asked 5,000,000 francs (about $14,000) damages and suppression of the passage alleged to be defamatory in a book by Miss Maxwell.

Farouk was not in court. Miss Maxwell was there, wearing a long black coat and a black toque and the Legion of Honor.

The alleged insults and defamation occurred in the French version of Miss Maxwell's autobiography, R.S.V.P.

In it, she said her reply to a dinner invitation from the ex-king was a telegram saying, "I do not keep company with buffoons, monkeys, depraved persons or wrongdoers."

5 Aboard Raft Safe After Gale

PARIS (Reuters)—The five men on board the bamboo raft Tahiti Nui in the Pacific radioed Tues. that they are safe and enjoying their first rest after being battered by heavy seas for three days.

A storm which had threatened to smash their flimsy craft has abated, they said in a radio message picked up here.

They expect to meet the Chilean frigate Baquedano, which was sent to rescue them, Wednesday night. The raft, which has been 6½ months in the Pacific, had been lashed by winds and was threatening to disintegrate 800 miles from the coast of Chile.

The crew, headed by French-man Eric Bisschop, is attempting to prove a theory about ancient migrations from Polynesia to the South American mainland.

NO NEGROES ATTEND

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — None of the six or more Negroes inadvertently invited to the all-white affair showed up Friday night as the Virginia Jaycee Chamber of Commerce held its "Distinguished Virginians" dinner. There was no reference to the incident by any of the speakers as the chamber dinner was staged as part of the 350th anniversary celebration of the first permanent English settlement in America at Jamestown. Chamber officials said the invitations slipped through a careful screening process. They were withdrawn.

Unemployment Shows Increase Over Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The government reported Tues. that since January there has been a gradual increase in unemployment compared with a year ago.

A joint monthly statement issued by the bureau of statistics and the labor department said this was caused "because the growth in the labor force was particularly strong while the increase in employment was moderated by weaknesses in the forestry and construction industries."

The bureau said an estimated 5,442,00 persons had jobs at April 1, up 89,000 from the previous month and 116,000 from the corresponding period in 1956.

SOME JOBLESS

On the same date 306,000 persons were without jobs and seeking work, about 37,000 fewer than in the previous month but 49,000 more than in April of last year. The April 30 figure for this year, however, was more than 20,000 below the total for April, 1955.

Registrations for employment at National Employment Service offices at April 18 totalled 545,500, a decline of 52,000 from 597,500 at March 14 but an increase of 56,000 over April 19, 1956.

The statement said the number of persons without jobs and seeking work and the number of registrations for employment were both a slightly larger proportion of the total labor force this April than a year earlier.

NATIONAL DECLINE

The decline in registrations for unemployment between mid-March and mid-April was common in all regions. They were down by 17-20% in Ontario.

The civilian labor force at April 1 totalled 5,748,000, as against 5,716,000 in the week ended March 16.

The total unfilled NES job applications in Ontario at April 18, with figures for March 14, 1957, and April 19, 1956, in brackets: 143,645 (161,114 and 110,845).

DENIES STORY

BOMBAY (AP)—Film director Roberto Rossellini has branded as "a fantastic nonsense" a story that he plans to divorce actress Ingrid Bergman for love of a beautiful Bengali script writer. His denial was coupled with one by Ingrid. The Swedish screen and stage star said in Paris, "There is no truth at all" in the report that Rossellini was living here with a married Indian woman and planned a divorce.

Madoc Junction

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE

MADOC JUNCTION — On Sunday morning the special Mother's Day service, with the theme, "God is Our Hope," was observed by Eggleton Sunday School. There were 37 members and four visitors in attendance.

The superintendent, Mrs. Warren Harlow, presided over the program, using the hymns on the leaflet with Miss Joanne Reide as pianist.

The responsive reading from Psalm 147 was read, following which the assistant superintendent, Mr. Thomas Bridges, read selected portions of Scripture telling of devoted mothers of the Bible.

Members of Miss Joanne Reide's primary class and members of Miss Thelma Freels's intermediate girls and boys class sang, "This Is Your Father's World."

Barbara Chambers read a poem, "Mother."

Paul Bridges and John Madill gathered the offering which was dedicated with prayer by the superintendent.

Mrs. Robert Danford and Mrs. Forde Stapley sang a duet, "Mother's Prayers."

Mrs. Harlow gave a short reading, "Pine Boy."

Members of Mrs. Maurice Clancy's girls' class sang, "My Mother's Bible."

A splendid missionary reading "Hope in the Gospel of Christ" was given by Mrs. Clarence Pitchett.

Members of the girls' class and Mr. Thomas Bridges' boys' class, sang, "The Cloud and Fire."

The service closed with the hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," and prayer by Mrs. Carl Bridges.

Two lovely bouquets of trillums, at the front of the church, added beauty and were later taken to two members of the Sunday School, who were ill.

BATTLE ICE-FLOES

MONTREAL (CP)—HMCS Wallaceburg and Sault Ste. Marie arrived here Saturday, reporting a tough encounter with ice-floes in the Canso Straits. The two vessels are headed for the Great Lakes to train reserve seamen and cadets.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop started to tern on the tee vee after dinner, saying to me, It is my tern to see the boxing at 8 tonight. You had The Snoozers at 9 last Wensday. But I'll be big hearted and look at The Snoozers with you. Maybe I'll fall under their misterious spell, he said.

How nice of you, William, ma said. Just tern them on and I'll settle down to a little sewing while I watch, she said.

Which she started to do, looking up every once in a while to see what she was listening to, and after a while she said, Who said that, William, was it the docter or was it Mr. Snoozer?

It was the parrit, pop said, and ma said, What parrit? Now William, you know there's no parrit.

Okay, it was Snoozer, pop said, and pritty soon ma said, Was that the son that just looked into the room, William? Does he know the docter is there? she said.

For Peet sake I thought you wanted to watch the show, pop said, and ma said, I do, I am forland sakes.

And after a while she said, O dear, what did Mrs. Snoozer do with the letter? Did she have time to hide it? Where did she put it?

She stuck it in her mouth and she's chewing it, pretending it is bubble gum when little peeces of it happen to leek out, pop said.

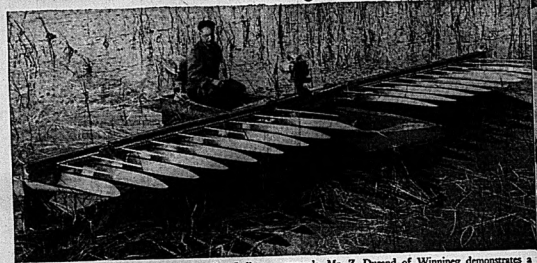
Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.



And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 20 years' standing.

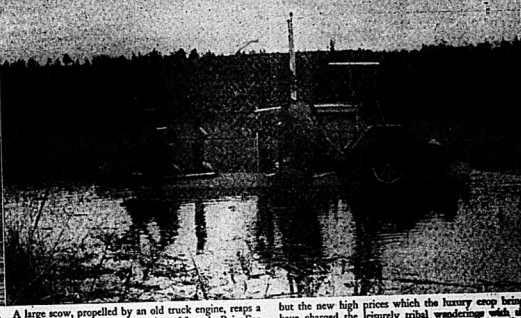
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous research institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Canadian Wild Rice Luxury Crop
Duck Food Fit for a King

Wild rice, once a staple food of North American Indians and later of pioneer adventurers, is today being grown in central Canada on an ever-widening scale. Slow-moving rivers, marshes and shallow lakes make the best planting grounds. Mr. Z. Durand of Winnipeg demonstrates a rice-harvester, invented and built by himself. Long slender scoops are set on a trough fixed across the boat; gently vibrating rods shake the ripe kernels from the plant.

The long, greenish-brown grains of wild rice are high in nutritional value. But the reason for its fancy price (it retails to epicure shops for about $1.50 a pound) is to be found in its tempting and exotic flavour.



Wild rice is a delicacy sought after not only by ducks and geese on their migration to and from the Arctic, but also by discriminating hunters who insist that it has no equal as a stuffing for wild fowl.

Some still harvest wild rice "Indian fashion"—knocking the ripe rice into their canoe with sticks. While not too efficient a method, grains that fall into the water simply grow more rice the next year.

Wild rice is harvested during a brief period in September. The crop is usually flown in from outlying areas by plane. Above, a Norseman ties down at Riverton, Manitoba, with its precious cargo.

A large scow, propelled by an old truck engine, reaps a crop of wild rice from the marshes of Lac du Bois. For hundreds of years Indian bands have moved across the country to gather the rice in remote lakes and rivers but the new high prices which the luxury crop brings have charged the leisurely tribal wanderings with the feverish activity of a "wild rice" gold rush.

Parent-Teacher Meetings Lead To Mate-Trading

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Two couples who changed their affections during two years of suburban activities such as parent-teacher association meetings traded mates Monday and fled from the public.

Both couples, residents of a San Francisco suburb, were divorced by the same Reno judge, both on the customary Nevada grounds: "extreme cruelty."

After Judge Grant Bowen had pronounced their marriages finished, Mrs. Betty Jean Schwartz, 33, and Martin Brooks, 35, slipped off to Carson City and were married by a justice of the peace.

Mrs. Betty Brooks, 35, and Dr. Frank Schwartz, 38, led camera men on a chase through Reno and then doubled back and were married here by another justice of the peace.

MUTUAL LAWYER

Then they disappeared and their mutual lawyer, Eli Livierato, refused to even hint at where they might be.

The couples from Millbrae, 16 miles south of San Francisco, met at a dance in 1955 and continued meeting at cub scout sessions, parent-teacher meetings and at Millbrae Community Methodist Church.

Schwartz, an eye specialist, and his wife had two children. Brooks, a garden store owner, and his wife had four.

KIDS STAY WITH MOTHERS

They found that Brooks and Mrs. Schwartz were sports fans, while Schwartz and Mrs. Brooks liked color photography and painting.

In April, the husbands made their decisions public. They said they would change houses, the women and children staying where they were.

Mrs. Schwartz and Mrs. Brooks came to Reno six weeks ago, stayed at the same motel, hired the same lawyer and continued their friendship while petting in the time necessary to gain legal status as Nevada residents.

Meek and Mighty Hear Graham

NEW YORK (AP)—From the great to the lowly, Billy Graham is attracting a wide variety of listeners to his nightly rallies.

They come from all levels, the mighty and the meek, the obscure and the famous, the rich, poor, Negro, white, old and young.

It's a spectrum of the city, a kind of crowd difficult to label.

They poured out of subways, wandered in off the street and stepped out of taxicabs and limousines Monday night, 16,000 of them in sleek finery and drab cast-offs.

Prominent folk like actress Greer Garson, movie mogul Adolph Zukor and singer Pearl Bailey have shown up at the huge gatherings at Madison Square Garden, but there are some that look as if they came off the Bowery.

Cherwell Again Criticizes Pope

LONDON (AP)—Lord Cherwell, former scientific adviser to the British government, asserted Tues. that Pope Pius is establishing a "dangerous precedent" by taking sides in expert disputes over the possible danger to humanity from H. bomb tests.

Cherwell told the House of Lords on May 8 that the Pope, in coming out against such tests, had been "taken in" by followers of the Communist party line. Cherwell's statement was sharply criticized two days later by the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano.

In a letter to The Times today Cherwell commented:

"The Osservatore Romano apparently objects strongly to my having expressed regret that the Pope had seen fit to support the views of the people agitating to stop our tests on health grounds.

"Nobody would challenge his right to state his views on moral or ethical matters. But it does seem to me a dangerous precedent for the head of the Roman Church even to appear to adjudicate on a scientific question in dispute."

Haitian Army Assumes Control To Halt Anarchy

Brig.-Gen. Leon Cantage, army chief of staff in this turbulent Negro republic, signed a proclamation declaring that the army would enforce military rule until a provisional president is elected who can guarantee "free and honest elections."

Cantage defied an order from the seven-man executive council Monday ousting him as chief of staff.

Not a shot was fired as the army rebelled against the council, which had been ruling by dictatorial decree pending presidential elections set for next month.

The decision by the army to assume control was taken at an emergency meeting of army officers Monday night after the council issued the Cantage ouster order.

The army move had been anticipated following defiance of the council by many segments of the population, and charges that the council was "rigging" the elections for favored candidates.

REBELS IN CONTROL

At Cap Haitien, 85 miles north of the capital, a "committee of public safety" declared it was in control of all northern Haiti. A similar rebel group ruled in St. Marc, 50 miles northwest of Port au Prince.

It was believed these groups would yield to the army.

The army has 2,500 men on active duty and reserves of 3,000 in this country of 4,000,000 persons.

Haiti has been in near - chaos repeatedly since December when strikes and demonstrations whipped up by leading presidential candidates forced out President Paul Magloire when he tried to prolong his time as chief of state unconstitutionally. Two succeeding provisional presidents were brought down by feuding among the candidates.

Leaking Gas Ignited by Firecracker

MALTON, Ont. (CP)—Children celebrating Victoria Day got more of a fireworks display than they expected when they dropped one small firecracker Monday night.

A five-foot tongue of flame whoshed from the ground. They fled in alarm. Firemen determined the 'cracker had touched off gas from a leaky drain. The gas company was called to repair the main.

Teacher Shortage Over by 1961 Says Federation

TORONTO (CP)—A committee of school trustees and teachers has estimated Ontario will have more elementary school teachers than it needs by 1961.

But 1,100 secondary school teachers will have to be recruited annually for the next 15 years, says a report prepared by members of the Ontario School Trustees' Council and the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

The report was approved by the trustees' council at its annual meeting here Saturday, but will be studied by local school board members before final endorsement.

The committee said a current shortage of 127 elementary teachers in Ontario will be decreased to Arthur in 1912.

93 in 1959 and 26 in 1960. By 1961 there would be a surplus of 20, jumping to 209 in 1964, 493 in 1963 and 1,137 in 1955.

The report urged that special certificates for unqualified teachers be reduced to a minimum and that the special summer courses designed to cut down the full one year course at Teacher's College "be discontinued as soon as possible."

Establishment of a teachers' college at Fort William was also urged. It would encourage teaching recruitment in Northwestern Ontario, said the report.

Stamps Sign 20th Import

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders have announced the signing of 34-year-old Jim Stehlin, six-foot ace quarterback from Brandeis University. He is the 20th import to be signed by the Western Interprovincial Football Union club.

A native of Allentown, Pa., Stehlin last year topped all U.S. college quarterbacks with 116 pass completions of 206 attempts for 1,159 yards and seven touchdowns. He was third in the U.S. in total offensive yardage with 1,468.

He also was selected to the All-East team twice.

Stampeder general manager Bob Masterson said: "He's the prize catch of the year. With him and Jimmy Finks we've got the best quarterback team in Canada."

It Is Bait Down Thisaway

SCHREIBER (CP) — Morrow Riddell, Schreiber school principal, landed a 27-pound two-ounce lake trout while fishing six miles west of here off the shores of White Sand Lake.

Using a white daredevil bait on a casting line he caught the 35-inch fish which had a 25-inch girth.

The world record lake trout hooked in 1952 in Lake Superior weighed 63.2 pounds.

Sugar 'Agrees' To Fight Carmen Basilio

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson has agreed "in principle" to a title defence against welterweight king Carmen Basilio in September, the International Boxing Club said Tuesday.

Robinson, accompanied by several members of his brain trust, conferred Tuesday with James D. Norris, president of the IBC.

Financial terms and other details will be discussed later when Basilio and his managers return from the Pacific coast, an IBC spokesman said.

Iharos Returns To Hungary

BRUSSELS (AP) — Distance runner Sandor Iharos and his wife, javelin thrower Ilona Lacso, both Hungarian refugees here, are leaving Brussels to return to Hungary today, according to the daily Les Sports.

Les Sports said Iharos declined to disclose when and how he will be leaving.

The Hungarian athlete was warmly welcomed and given a job here when he took refuge from Hungary. Recently Iharos said he would return to Hungary. He said he missed his family and his country.

SPORT IN BRIEF

OPTIONED TO ROYALS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday signed Bob Kennedy, veteran American Leaguer, for pinch-hitting purposes and sent Cuban pitcher Rene Valdes to Montreal Royals on option.

Kennedy, 37, a third baseman and outfielder, was unconditionally released by the White Sox May 14.

FEMALE BOUTS BANNED

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec municipal athletic commission has banned bouts by female wrestlers in the city.

Commission president Henri Gagnon said in a statement Tuesday a wrestling spectacle set for the Coliseum May 30 will be cancelled if the promoters let women wrestlers take part. He said they have been "advertising that women will participate in the show."

SETS SOVIET RECORD

LONDON (CP)—Radio Moscow said Tuesday Albert Ivanov ran a 50 kilometre race (18 miles, 1128 yards) in one hour 23 minutes and 33 seconds at a meet in Leningrad.

The feat set a new Soviet Union record. No claim was made for Ivanov's time bettering the listed world's best time of 1:33:02.6 set up by A. Vikkari of Finland in October 1956.

EX-CHAMPION INJURED

BARRY, Wales (AP)—Jimmy Wilde, once world flyweight champion, was reported "quite comfortable" today after suffering a brain concussion and facial injuries in an automobile accident.

The 65-year-old former fighter was injured when his car overturned on a curve Monday. Wilde held the flyweight crown from 1916 to 1923.

Plans of Pat Weaver Giving TV Something to Think About

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The plans of Pat Weaver are giving the television networks something to think about. As always, the ideas of the former NBC executive are big and arresting.

First of all, he and Sid Caesar have joined forces to work out a "new form of motion picture presentation for theatres" which will utilize the special talents of Caesar, who bows off network television after his NBC-TV show this Saturday. This means, a spokesman says, that Caesar will be seen in movie houses eventually—not in movie shorts but in a form approximating feature films.

In addition, Weaver and Caesar are going into the producing business together in a firm headed by Caesar. As an example, they have bought first rights for the movie, stage and television adaptations of the new novel by Sloan Wilson, author of The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit.

WORKING ON OWN NETWORK

But in another area, however, Pat Weaver's plans are of more immediate concern to television networks. He is, in a real sense, trying to develop his own network. This is how it will work:

Beginning July 1, if all goes well, Weaver's new organization will bring the award-winning children's program Ding Dong School live from New York five days a week to stations in eight cities. In October it is planned to extend the program, which has acquired a sponsor, to five other cities. Since NBC dropped Ding Dong School at the turn of the year, its conductor, Dr. Frances Horwich, says she has received letters from about 100,000 viewers protesting the loss of the program.

Now Weaver also has brought into his plans a five-a-week half-hour live interview and feature program conducted by Mary Margaret McBride. Although no contract has been signed, Weaver is in fact has been signed, Weaver is interested in placing a McBride program alongside Ding Dong School. Miss McBride has a large following acquired from her many years in radio, recently quit her regular NBC radio program.

If Weaver's plans develop successfully, it would be the first instance of live, regular, commercial interests broadcasting to any audience other than a constituted network.

AT THE PARK — Tony Curtis turns sullen when he thinks Gina Lollobrigida has fallen for another man. "Trapeze", in which the two star with Burt Lancaster, opens Thursday at the Park Theatre through United Artists release. On the same program and having its first showing "Stagecoach to Fury", starring Forrest Tucker and Mari Blanchard.

AT THE BELLE — Elizabeth Taylor, as Leslie Lynnton, is an unexpected visitor to the lonely shack of Jett Rink, portrayed by the late James Dean, in an exciting scene from "Giant", the George Stevens production from Warner Bros. Rock Hudson stars as Bick Benedict, in the filmitization of the Edna Ferber novel, co-starring Carroll Baker, playing tonight and Thursday at the Belle Theatre.

Many Stars Prefer to Go Where Careers Take Them

By ROB THOMAS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — What has happened to Hollywood, once the undisputed entertainment capital of the world?

More and more stars—like Marilyn Monroe, Ava Gardner, Stewart Granger, Jean Simmons, Joan Crawford — have moved their homes to other parts of the country or the world, coming "home" only to make occasional movies.

This is an important change from Hollywood of the '30s and '40s. I got some insight on the change from another of the famed evacuees, Tyrone Power. He has kept his Hollywood house because he wants a permanent home for his two children by Linda Christian.

But Ty prefers to go where his career takes him — to Paris and here for The Sun Also Rises, to London for some stage work. He also keeps an apartment in New York.

I asked why he, a long - time Californian, had virtually given up the sunny state.

WEATHER AND TRAFFIC

"One reason is the weather," he said. "When I was working at Columbia I discovered the smog really affected me quite badly. It's a terrible situation.

"And there's the traffic. I didn't realize how bad it had gotten. Drives that used to take minutes now stretch to 35 and 40.

"Another reason is what happened to Hollywood itself. There used to be a fairly well defined movie colony of people you knew. Now a lot of those people have gone away and others, not necessarily of the movie business, have come in.

"Movies used to be of supreme importance in Hollywood. Now they are just an adjunct."

NEW PEOPLE CHINTZY

"Granted Errol Flynn and I are aging," he laughed. "You'd think there would be young ones coming along to take our places. But the things the new people do seem a little chintzy."

He marvelled at the theatrical activity here — 30 companies. He has long been stage - struck and spoke of the enthusiastic audiences in Dublin and London, where he played last year.

"The theatre belongs to everyone over there," he said. "It's too bad that it's so expensive in the U.S. If it weren't for expense accounts, I don't know how it would survive. Most guys can't afford the theatre unless they can put it on the swindle sheet."

DIDN'T NEED TRIPS

LINDSAY (CP)—Richard Hylier, patrolling his farmland, peered into a hole in the ground. A growling black bear, unappreciative of the intrusion, peered back. Hylier quickly withdrew, then shot the bear with a 22-calibre rifle as it scrambled out of the hole. Hylier had his bear hide marked for mounting and found ready sale for three live cubs he found in the hole.

Little Benny's Notebook

Last night pop gave himself a black eye against a door in the dark, and this morning ma said, Excuse me for laffing, William, but you really look too funny.

I'd probably be a screem if I'd smacked the door with both eyes, pop said, and ma laffed again whenever she looked at him, and this afternoon I said, Let's take a Saturday walk, pop, maybe the air will be good for your eye.

It won't be good for my lungs, at lesst, pop said, and we started to take a walk, and Puds Bundidge's father went past, saying to pop, I say, Potts, it looks as if your wife can throw pritty strate.

That's where you're wrong, she was aiming for the other eye, pop said, and pritty soon Mr. Judge came out of Shorty's house, saying, I see you've been fighting again, Potts.

No, but I'm libel to start any minute, pop said, and he kept on going, saying, By golies I'm going to get in the next blow if anybody elts starts on me.

Which pritty soon somebody elts did, being Mr. Bundidge, pointing at pop's eye and starting to say something, and pop quick said, Did you borrow that red necktie from some hobo or has your just wearing it on a bet?

What's a matter, are you jellies or something? Mr. Bundidge said. This is a 4 doller tie, if you want to know, he said.

And he walked away mad, and pop said, Let's go in this movie where my eye will feel at home in the rest of the dark.

And we went in the Little Grand and saw the Saturday Kartoon Kid Show.

Being the happy end for me.

STANDING PAT

Pat O'Connor, the handsome hunk of New Zealand wrestling man who hopes to tenderize Hard-Boiled Haggerty here on Friday night was never touchier about the sports company he kept when a youngster down in Maoriland.

Pat loves to hunt. He was born on a farm near Rastbirt, which is near Wellington, New Zealand, He learned to ioin a rifle when he was taking the New Zealand equivalent of baby food, and he spent his early boyhood surrounded by hunting dogs, four species of deer, elk, chamois, mountain goats and wild boars.

Coming events didn't cast any shadows for Pat. While he was spending a carefree boyhood cavorting with the boars, deer and mountain goats, wrestling was the farthest thing from his mind, let alone a crack at the world's professional title.

Show pat a hunting rifle and he gets nostalgic. He has enough already to stock a small armory — but every new model he sights, gives him the urge to get back down under and take another crack at those wild bogs.

For Patrick has a score to settle with the untamed tuskers of his native New Zealand. What they can do to a dog or a man is what man can do to their tamed counterpart with a mincing machine. Only they use tusks—and do just as neat a ob.

Pat used to go a-hunting the piggies with one, two or more of his favorite dogs. One, a bulldog named "Nip" was Pat's pet. Unfortunately for the future of a number of these tuskers, "Nip" met a violent death while hunting with Pat a few years ago.

The pair came up with a particularly vicious type in a thicket one morning. Beady eyes glittered. Tusks flung around, the wild porker snarled in defiance. Come 'n get me." Nip rushed in for the kill, The dog was ripped open from stem to sudgeon with one slashing tusk.

While Pat is not an accredited member of the New Zealand Chamber of Commerce (Or is he?) he never fails to put in a good word for the old country, especially from a sportsman's angle.

"Great country, New Zealand," he says. "It's a paradise for game of all types—and almost unlouched. Deer, fallow, red Japanese and samba are so plentiful the covernment actually hires hunters to keep them thinned out."

"There's a year-round season on deer and no bag limit. Rainbow and brook trout abound in every mountain stream. The ocean is alive with game fish of all descriptions."

Pat had unlimited ability in other phases of sport. He was an accomplished rower, high jumper and football player. Rugby, that is. Once he tried amateur wrestling, and, as usual, made a success of it.

Then it was a band of travelling Americans interested in pro wrestling chanced to get first tasting around a few of his classmates. They liked his style, Here, they thought, was a potential champion, American style. They were right. They worked out with him and finally persuaded him to come to the United States.

But nbt before the O'Connor had nailed the British amateur championship flag to his mast of achievement.

There is pro wrestling in New Zealand, too. It is much the same as American and Canadian style only the bouts are divided into three-minute rounds instead of the 20 or 60 minutes time limits prevalent over here.

Lane Fights Toothpick Brown

DETROIT (AP)—An unranked Philadelphia lightweight who has put on tonight to puncture Kenny Lane's ambition of becoming the first southpaw champion in lightweight history.

Little-known Henry (Toothpick) Brown takes on 35-year-old Kenny in a 10-round match that will be televised nationally.

This will be Brown's first appearance since he broke his right hand in dropping an eight-round knockout verdict to Paolo Rosi last November. But Brown, whose nickname stems from his habit of toothpick - chewing rather than from his physical appearance, has shown he can punch effectively with either hand. His 24 victories include 18 knockouts. He has lost four times and been involved in two draws.

HAS WON 12 STRAIGHT

Lane is on a 12-fight winning streak and has won 45 of his 50 professional bouts. He has never been off his feet.

Ranked No. 1 challenger to Joe Brown's title, Lane is a quick, fisted southpaw who relies more on speed and boxing skill than he does on powerful punches. Lane has stopped only seven foes. He knocked out Frankie Hyff and Dan Davis in his only two 1957 starts.

Each fighter is expected to weigh about 135. Brown will have a two-inch height advantage over Lane, who measures only 5-feet-6.

Pierce Tosses Four-Hitter As Tribe Scalps Red Sox; Willie Adds to 'Thief' Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As Hank Aaron goes, so go the Milwaukee Braves.

This was never more apparent than it is today.

After a fast start in which manager Fred Haney's crew won 9 of 11 games in April, they have slowed to a 9-8 pace so far in May.

In their eight losses this month, the 23-year-old Aaron has gone hitless in four of them.

He is leading the National League in batting with a .360 average, and in home runs with 11 and is tied for the runs batted in leadership with Brooklyn's Carl Furillo with 29.

After Aaron, the Braves' average falls off like a kite in a downdraft. Joe Adcock is the only other regular hitting above .300. He has a mark of .320.

Eddie Mathews has a mark of (.272) after Braves and Philadelphia Phillies played to a 1-1 tie in a rain-abbreviated 4½-inning game.

In other games Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati 6-1 to climb into a second-place tie with Milwaukee, a game and a half behind the league-leading Redlegs. Chicago scored two unearned runs in the ninth inning to edge New York Giants 4-3.

Rain forced postponement of the Pittsburgh at St. Louis game.

Milwaukee's Gene Conley and Philadelphia's Don Cardwell went all the way in their abbreviated tie. Conley's single in the fifth drove in the tying run after Philadelphia had taken a 1-0 lead in the fourth.

PITCHES EIGHT-HITTER

Homers by Pee Wee Reese and Sandy Amoros backed up Johnny Podres' eight-hit pitching for the Dodgers. Podres didn't walk a man as he went the distance as the Brooks won their fifth in a row.

Dodgers belted 12 hits off three leading pitchers. They got the starter and loser Hal Jeffcoat for four runs and eight hits before he was lifted for Joe Nuxhall in the sixth.

Redleg catcher Ed Bailey poked his third homer of the season over the right field wall for his team's only score.

Two infield errors plus singles by Jack Littrell and Cal Neeman after two were out in the ninth gave Cubs their first home trip-up in nine starts this season.

STEALS HOME

Stu Miller apparently had a two-run victory all tied up on Willie Mays' theft of home in the eighth and his fifth homer in the eighth for a 3-2 lead.

With one out in the ninth Miller issued a walk and when Wally Moryn grounded to Red Schoendienst it looked like a game ending double play.

But shortstop Daryl Spencer threw wild on the relay to first and Moryn reached second. Jim Bolger was safe on Foster Castleman's bobble at third. Then Littrell slammed his second hit of the game to score the tying run.

Neeman popped to short centre and Sandy Consuegra who replaced Miller and the ball dropped between Schoendienst and Mays and the winning run crossed the plate.

Pierce Tosses Four-Hitter As Tribe Scalps Red Sox; Willie Adds to 'Thief' Mark

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago White Sox, with an eight game winning streak, a two-game lead in the American League race and their first triumph of the season over New York Yankees, are making manager Al Lopez look like a first class prophet.

In spring training interviews Lopez steadfastly disagreed with those who saw nothing but a Yankee runaway. He listed as serious contenders not only his White Sox but Cleveland, Detroit and Boston. He felt his team had the best chance to dethrone the Yankees because of its speed and pitching headed by Billy Pierce, his personal nominee to win 20 again this year.

Last May 25 after the Yankees had won a three-game series in Chicago to wrest first place from the White Sox, Lopez vowed his team would start another winning streak and regain first place. Before Tuesday night's game at Yankee Stadium, the smiling senor declared:

"The Yankees can be beaten and we're one of four teams that can do it. I think we have the pitching, speed, defence and sufficient hitting to win."

THREE GAMES BEHIND

It's a long way to October but Lopez has nothing to apologize for today. His White Sox are three games in front of the Yankees, who they swept in a doubleheader night and dumped into third place, a game behind Cleveland. The Indians have the second place edge with New York, defeating Boston Red Sox 8-2 in an afternoon game.

Detroit's fourth - place Tigers took a sizzling 16-inning 2-1 thriller from Baltimore to move within a game within two games of the Yankees. Boston is a game and a half behind Detroit. In the other game Washington shut out Kansas City 3-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Camilo Pascual.

Pierce, who Wilks Sox southpaw, handcuffed Yankees with four hits and struck out eight to post his sixth victory against two defeats. Billy did not permit a hit after the fourth inning, when the Yanks scored their lone run, and retired the last 16 Yankees.

Chicago got six hits off loser Whitey Ford, first of three New York pitchers. Two of these, together with a walk, sacrifice and a Yankee error in the sixth, accounted for all their runs.

FIVE BOSTON ERRORS

Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching and Chicago Cubs' mammoth grand slam homer highlighted Cleveland's victory over Boston. Red Sox helped the tribe with five errors, four in one inning, three of them by shortstop Billy Klaus. It was a wretched afternoon for Klaus, who not only banged into a double play with the bases loaded, but was forced to leave the game in the seventh when he was hit under the right eye by Al Smith's ground-out. Dave Sisler was the loser. The win was No. 5 for Early.

Reno Bertoia's single in the 16th scored pitcher Paul Foytack with the run that gave Detroit its 16th hour victory over Baltimore. Foytack, who had relieved starter Jim Bunning in the 14th, had opened with a single and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Joe Ginsberg and passed ball. Ray Moore pitched the first 15 innings for Baltimore, allowing only eight hits. He accounted for both his team's runs with a homer and a bases-loaded walk. Mike Fornieles, who took over in the 16th, was charged with the defeat.

Lou Berberet's sixth - inning homer, the first Washington hit off Kansas City pitcher Rinold Duren in his debut as Senators were held scoreless for 29 innings before their fifth shutout in the last eight games.

ROBBED OF RECORD

They chomped between 150 and 200 pounds of a fish Dr. Dean hooked while competing in the Bimini Big Game Fishing Club tuna tournament.

Gals Battle Over Boxing In Parliament

LONDON (Reuters) — Slim Dr. Edith Summerskill and burly Mrs. Jessie Braddock Tuesday night fought another round in the House of Commons in their periodic battle over whether boxing should be baned.

Contending that it should, Labor-ite Summerskill said Parliament should sympathize with those who felt that "unscrupulous promoters and managers are exploiting young men in the business of prize fighting."

Roberts said that after 50 fights the "softening up process' set in, she said. The fighter was unable to time his blows and he eventually got knocked out because his brain was damaged.

Laborite Braddock replied that Dr. Summerskill sometimes got "a little mixed up."

"Many people in the country like to watch boxing," she said, adding: "I do. It is only the voting in this house that prevents me from boxing regularly."

Earlier in the week Home Secretary R. A. Butler said the government would not ban boxing.

Cincinnati Redleg Hurlers Doing Good Job for Tebbetts

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—For an assembly job put together with used parts picked up here and there, the Cincinnati Redleg pitching staff is doing right smart business.

Pitchers such as Warren Hacker, Hersh Freeman, Brooks Lawrence, Hal Jeffcoat and Johnny Klippstein were obtained in deals with other clubs which must have considered them expendable.

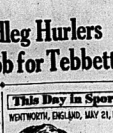
Yet thanks to these supposedly no-ex pitchers, and three or four others picked up here and there to deal with minor league clubs, the Redlegs as of Tuesday were leading the National League with a 21-9 record.

Inasmuch as the starting pitcher has completed his assignment in only eight of these games, the only conclusion is that Birdie Tebbetts is doing a magnificent job of handling his staff, taking out starters at the most opportune times, and having relief men who really are a relief.

The relief men either save the games for the starters, or stick in there and win for themselves. They very, very seldom blow a lead.

For years the Cincinnati club was in the strong bat, weak arm category. The Redlegs could knock your brains out with a bat, but when they won it usually was 11-10 or 12-13 or something like that. Their pitchers just had to have a fat outfield to run.

They still have that power, but if you relate pitching staff make for man with that of the Braves and Dodgers you'd have to rate it below these other contenders. But the club is winning.



Tebbetts always is a fellow to shun credit himself and he was strictly in character when he termed Bert Ferrick the best pitching coach in the business.

Which could be true, but the fact is the manager makes the pitching changes, he might ask the advice of his coach, but the decision is his.

Tebbetts is positively psychic in guessing the right time to make his switches. In fact, Birdie seems to have a little of the seer in him, and we wouldn't be surprised if he could peer out a window of his New Hampshire home on a February day and tell you just when the ice there would start.

Commies Plan Big Marathon

TOKYO (AP)—It's going to be a long, hard summer for Communist athletes in Asia.

North Korea's Pyongyang Radio today announced plans for an international relay race from Pyongyang, through Red China and Mongolia to Moscow.

That's 4,500 miles in a straight line through some of the most rugged terrain in the world. Chinese roads don't run in straight lines. And there aren't any roads in Mongolia.

The broadcast said relay teams will carry a baton with flags from the four countries concerned, and letters addressed to the nation's youth.

OFFER SEVERAL PLAYERS

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four say they have offered several players to Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union for Harry Lampman, Canadian end.

Tiger-Cats agreed to give up their No. 1 college draft choice for 1958 in Montreal for the right to negotiate with Saskatchewan for Lampman's services.

Bisons Trounce Royals 13-3; Leafs Nip Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, who floundered in the International League cellar last season, have announced noisily by way of a 17-hit attack they intend to stay in first place as long as possible.

Their first baseman Luke Easter the 36-year-old former Cleveland slugger, was the busiest Tuesday night with two home runs as Buffalo pounced Montreal 13-3 in a Jersey City type home game in Quebec.

Buffalo stayed a half game ahead of second-place Toronto, which rallied in the ninth inning for a 3-2 decision over Rochester Red Wings. Columbus Jets outlasted Miami Marlins 3-2 in a 16-inning game at Miami. Richmond and Havana were rained out.

In addition to Easter, Joe Caffie and Mike Baxes each homered for Buffalo as Walt Craddock allowed six hits and won his fifth game. He has one loss. The last time Buffalo made the first division was in 1953 when it finished third.

The game was the first of seven Montreal-Buffalo tilts to be played this year in Quebec. The Royals' parent club, the Brooklyn Dodgers apparently started a trend last season when they scheduled home games in Montreal.

Jim Rice singled John Powers across the plate in the ninth inning and a four hour, 52 minute game in Florida. The game matched a 16-inning affair also played against Toronto to open the season.

Rochester starter Dick Ricketts, former Duquesne U. All — American basketball player, allowed Toronto one hit—Lew Morton's sixth home run—in 8 1-3 innings before he weakened and was touched for three straight singles. The third single tied the score and ousted Ricketts, who lost his first game after three victories.

Reliever Mel Wright walked a man to load the bases, then induced catcher Bob Rosell to force in the winning run. Jack Crimian won the game, his first of the year.

Unbeaten RCAF Tops Quinte Soccer League

After the second week of operation RCAF remained the only unbeaten team in Bay of Quinte Soccer League, and finished the week in a first place tie with Batawa who have played one extra game.

On Tuesday evening Trenton and Belleville Northern played to a one-all tie on the Northern Electric ground in Belleville with the Trenton boys obtaining their marker during the dying minutes of the game.

At the Air Force station on Wednesday evening RCAF spoiled Batawa's record when they edged the Shoetowners by a three to two count.

In the other game played during last week Belleville notched their first win when they beat Campbellford on Saturday afternoon. The score on this occasion was two goals to nothing. Evans and Figgins, two new men to local soccer were the marksmen.

The standing in the League to date is:

	Played	Points
RCAF	2	4
Batawa	3	4
Belleville Northern	3	3
Trenton	2	0
Campbellford	2	0

This week games are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. On Tuesday Belleville Northern travelled to Trenton to take on the RCAF squad, whilst on Wednesday Batawa play hosts to Trenton at the Shoetown. Both these games are slated for a 6.30 p.m. kick-off.

On Thursday evening RCAF makes the long haul to Campbellford to take on the local Beavers starting at 7 p.m. and on Sunday afternoon Campbellford pay a visit to Bain Memorial Park in Trenton with the local Trenton boys providing the opposition with a 2 p.m. kick-off being the order of the day.

'Swaps' Worth Quarter Million

TORONTO (CP)—Rex Ellsworth breeder and owner of Swaps, said Tuesday night his mighty thoroughbred was offered for sale for $250,000 on the eve of the running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby in 1955.

Mr. Ellsworth, speaking to an annual horsemen's dinner, said a Californian bid $200,000.

He considered accepting the lower offer, providing he would receive the $150,000 purse if Swaps won. Difficulty in making telephone connections with the Californian later kept Swaps in the Ellsworth barns.

Swaps won the derby and Ellsworth later met the Californian who said he would have accepted Ellsworth's price had phone connections been made.

At the dinner, W. F. Morrissey's Bunty Lawless was named winner in the season award for being the leading sire in 1956 while E. P. Taylor's Bold Ruler was awarded a silver plate for being the leading broodmare.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Selka Song, owned by the Armstrong Stable of Brampton, ran the mile in 2:09 4-5 to win the $1,200 B trot at Richelieu Park Tuesday night. Harold McKinley was at the reins.

Bang Away Toronto was second and Rowe Riddell from Schomberg third.

In the $900 mile C trot Sis's Boy, from Owen Sound and driven by Wilbert Hopkins, was the winner in a time of 2:11.

Ontario horses won two $900 C mile paces. Pontiac Bob from Pembroke driven by Keith Waples took one with a time of 2:08. Carroll Hanover from Guelph with Bill Hadskirk at the reins was third.

The other C pace victor was Connie L. Adios from Newton Robinson with Percy Robillard in the sulky. Marion Counsel from Victoria Harbour handled by Waples was third.

In a $600 D mile trot Phyllis P. Prologue from Smiths Falls driven by Walt Grant was the winner. In third spot was Happyland from Vankleek Hill with Don Cameron at the reins.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Many catchers make the mistake of catching in the "signal squat" position because they see pictures of major league catchers posed in this way. However, this is just the favorite pose requested by photographers and not the position outstanding catchers use in receiving pitches.

In fact, it is impossible to shift quickly from the "signal squat" to catch wild pitches, to field bunts, or to catch pop flies. It is true,that some tired catchers stay down in this position when there are no base runners and they suspect the batter to be swinging for a home hit. But catchers who give this pep and energy into their play always catch from an upright position.with the weight on the balls of their feet and the body bent forward.

Major league catchers don't agree on the position of the bare hand,' but most of them feel that there is more safety in holding it close to the mask with the back of the hand toward the pitcher and the fingers cupped to make a smaller target for foul tips. Then the hand is in position to grasp the ball quickly for a throw.

As the batter swings, the catcher moves his arms and body forward behind the bat to be ready to catch foul tips. Moving forward is helpful to him in getting away thrown to the bases, too.

Press Boxes For Men Only Says Scribes

BOSTON (AP) — Ladies, take heed. The baseball press box will remain a male sanctuary — in Boston, at least.

A vote of the Boston chapter of the Baseball Writers Association Tuesday denied Doris O'Donnell of the Cleveland News admission to the Fenway Park press box to cover the Indians-Boston Red Sox game.

Instead, the attrective brunette sat in a rooftop box next on the left field side of home plate.

Miss O'Donnell, who holds some kind of distinction because she is travelling as a member of the Cleveland press on the team's cost-of-living road trip, commented:

"Why should things be any different just because this is baseball?

TESTED ARMY TANKS

"I've tested tanks for the army, I've ridden elephants in the circus. I've driven cabs. Last year, I went to Russia for the paper. And let me tell you that it was easier to get inside the Kremlin than it is to get into a baseball press box."

Cleveland manager Kirby Farrell has vetoed Miss O'Donnell's visit to the bench.

"It's no place for a lady," Farrell explained. "Somebody might use a few words slip. I know I've let a few words slip. I know I've lost a few new ones since I've been managing this club."

SPURS PLAY TONIGHT

WINDSOR (CP) — Tottenham Hotspur touring English club arrived here Tuesday from New York and will officially open their Canadian exhibition matches tonight against the Essex County All-Stars here.

They will play eight matches in Canada, in Toronto on May 23; Montreal June 5; Calgary June 26; Vancouver, June 1 and 3; Winnipeg, June 5; and Montreal, June 9.

Bauer Charged With Assault; Taken to Pokey

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Bauer, the New York Yankee outfielder, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of felonious assault—the result of a nightclub brawl early last Thursday—and released in custody of his lawyer.

Bauer will get a hearing on June 21 on the complaint by delicatessen owner Edwin Jones, who claims he was beaten up by the ball player during the fracas.

Bauer's lawyer, Sidney Friedman, pointed out that Bauer was "disappointed, mugged and arraigned in felony court as a result of a "citizen' sarrest."

"This is not an arrest by the district attorney or police authorities," said Friedman. "Both have refused to make the arrest. It is a arrest by a private person. Any person has a right to make a citizen's arrest."

WILL BE VINDICATED

"Mr. Jones has chosen to avail himself of that right," he continued. "I am confident Bauer will ultimately will be vindicated fully. In that case Mr. Jones automatically will become responsible to Mr. Bauer for damages for false arrest."

Bauer played his first game under her new status Tuesday night, the only other besides by Chicago Yanks were beaten by Chicago White Sox, 3-1. Batting in the leadoff spot and playing right field Bauer did not get a hit in four times at bat. He made one error in right field.

Bauer spoke only once during the court proceedings.

"I didn't hit anyone," he said.

The Jones party was celebrating the end of their bowling season, while Bauer and several team mates were observing infielder Billy Martin's 29th birthday. There were words between the two groups that exactly happened then still is clouded.

Hockey Greats Pay Tribute To Dick Irvin

TORONTO (CP) — They buried Dick Irvin Tuesday in the quiet of Mount Pleasant Cemetery in north-central Toronto, two miles from Maple Leaf Gardens where his nimble 170 pounds of rage moulded world-champion hockey teams.

Irvin, who died last Thursday in Montreal at the age of 64, was mourned by about 200 persons, most of them having past or present connections with hockey.

Rev. John S. McBride of Ephraim Scott Memorial Presbyterian Church, Montreal, conducted the committal service.

The pallbearers were Hap Day, King Clancy, Red Horner, Joe Primeau, Hal (Baldy) Cotton and Alex Bailey, all members of the 1931-32 Toronto Maple Leafs which Irvin coached to the Stanley Cup, highest accolade of the National Hockey League.

IN THE CROWD

Harvey (Shiner) Jackson and Alex Levinsky, also members of that team, stood among the crowd. So did Tim Daly, who trained the squad, and veteran Conn Smythe, who managed it.

Other hockey greats present included Syl Apps, Bob Davidson, Murph Chamberlain, George Parsons and Harry Watson, an ex-Leaf now with Chicago Black Hawks.

Irvin died at his home. He had been ailing since 1956 when he was forced to relinquish his post with the Black Hawks.

A master innovator and technician, he played from 1910 to the 1927-28 season when a skull injury ended his active career on the ice at 35 and turned him to coaching.

TO TENNIS POSTS

MONTREAL (CP)—Three former Davis Cup players have been appointed to administrative posts in the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, it was announced Tuesday.

Lorne Main of Toronto is first vice-president, Jim Macken of Vancouver second vice-president and Jack Spencer of Montreal chairman of the Davis Cup selections and national ranking committees.

Paul Haynes of the CLTA also announced that Jean Richer of Montreal, well-known former Quebec player, has been named honorary treasurer.

BELLEVILLE — KINGSTON

LOOK!

FOUR BEDROOMS

AND IN A BEAUTIFUL SETTING. Close to the trees in this back yard — the location just right for the needs of this type — not far from all the schools — the city limits and yet on a quiet residential street. That's a few reasons that one could move right into this 2-storey brick home. Has a full basement and is in good condition. The home is priced right for the right person and you will appreciate the decorating and the size of the kitchen, which is really also ample room for the requirements of a family. Three bedrooms upstairs and the second bedroom could be turned into a fourth if you would be large enough for the family to do a bedroom downstairs. Call us for a showing this evening. It has a 2-car garage. To convert and modernize what requires a move and transfer to a new home is one you should inspect right away. $2,000, down is required.

HANDY MAN

$1,000. DOWN

IF YOU CAN HANDLE A HAMMER AND SAW as well as paint brush we have a home for you at a full price of only $6,400. This home is on the outskirts of the city and has three bedrooms, living room, kitchen, utility room, completed basement, a fine oil furnace, modern kitchen with wood cupboards, hardwood floors throughout. Asking price includes a 220 volt space heater and a 200-gal. tank.

N. FRONT ST.

A FINE HOME AT $9,500. Full basement, oil furnace, garage, large lot, spacious living room, 3 bedrooms. A down payment of $2,500, is ok.

LIKE TO BUILD

OR have a reliable contractor build or you under the NHA whereby your down payment will not be too large. A home could be built for you on a fine lot on the East Side.

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING?

Then wake up the liver!

You know that sour, pale, complexed feeling? It may be caused by the liver. If your liver doesn't pour out up to two pints of bile a day your food may not digest properly. You feel that life's just not worth living. That's when the liver needs the help of Carter's Little Liver Pills. These vegetable pills help stimulate the flow of liver bile. Soon your digestion starts functioning properly and you feel better, look better, more cheerful. Don't ever stay sick. Always keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand.

DEPARTMENT OF LANDS AND FORESTS

NOTICE

RE: EXTENSION OF FIRE DISTRICT

The following townships have been taken into the Tweed Fire District, where the Forest Fires Prevention Act and Regulations will now be in effect:—

Admaston
Bedford
Hinchinbrooke
Hungerford
Huntingdon
Kennebec
Madoc

Olden
Oso
Sheffield
Sidney
Marmora
Kaladar

With the addition of these townships to the Fire District, Fire Protection Officials call attention to the Forest Fires Prevention Act and Regulations which will apply as follows:

Work Permits

Except where land is being cleared for agricultural purposes, a work permit is required before carrying on any logging, mining or industrial operation; right-of-way clearing, road construction or operating a sawmill, on Crown or Private land within the Fire District. Permits expire annually on March 31st, and new permits are required after this date. Application forms may be obtained from the undersigned.

Fire Permits

Every person setting out fire for clearing land, disposal of debris or inflammable waste or for industrial purposes on or adjacent to the Fire District during the period from 1st April to October 31st, shall require a Fire Permit. Permits may be obtained from the local Chief Fire Warden in each municipality.

Camp Fires

Every person setting out fire out of doors for cooking or warmth in the Fire District during the Fire Season, April 1st to October 31st, shall select a place free from inflammable debris, exercise every precaution and thoroughly extinguish the fire before leaving.

E. C. Fasmore,
District Forester,
Dept. of Lands & Forests,
TWEED, Ontario.

MIDNIGHT STROLLER

Michael Cook, 3, stands outside his Winnipeg home in night attire after he left his home in the early hours of the morning when his family was asleep, and walked a mile before an astonished housewife took him in. Michael's parents didn't know he was missing until his grandmother heard a radio broadcast appeal from the housewife. (CP Photo).

TENDERS

SECOND CALL FOR TENDERS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Sewage Treatment Plant, Machine Shop and Addition Consisting for Steam Generating Plant, Temperature Rooms, Agricultural Science Building, Veterinary Laboratory, Belleville, Ont." will be received in the office of the undersigned secretary, until 3.00 p.m. (E.D.S.T.) WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5th, 1957

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the offices of the Chief Architect, Public Works, Temporary Building, Ottawa, Ontario, the District Architect, Department of Public Works, 325 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont., the District Engineer, Department of Public Works, 1 Queen Street, Kingston, Ont., and the Post Office of Peterborough, Kingston and Belleville, Ont.

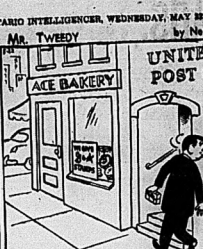
To be considered each tender must be accompanied by a deposit in the form of a certified cheque or bank draft, made out to the order of tender and made on the printed forms supplied for this purpose and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

The Department, however, does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender, and reserves the right to reject any or all tenders without assigning any reason whatsoever. Only those tenders received through the office of the District Architect, Department of Public Works, 325 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont., the District Architect, Department of Public Works, Kent-Aberdeen Building, 150 Kent Street, Ottawa, Ont., will support the tender deposit.

Failure to make the work on deposit of a tender in the form of a certified bank cheque or money order, or a RECEIVER GENERAL of Canada bond, will render the tender null and void.

On return of the plans in good condition within ten days after the receipt of tenders, a refund will be made on the deposit submitted. Otherwise the deposit will be forfeited.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.



By order,
Chief of Administrative Services,
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, May 17, 1957.

PM CHALLENGES

Setting his lines for votes in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, Mr. St. Laurent said the "headline fact" in the election scrap is the new firm of "Frost, Diefenbaker and Company." Under the Conservative government it would mean either higher federal taxes for the whole country or an increase in federal payments to Ontario and, as a decrease in those to other provinces.

CAUSEWAY POSSIBLE

The Liberal captain, following his "no nonsense—no promises" tack, hinted at Moncton, N.B., and at Truro, N.S., that the multi-million-dollar eight - mile causeway between New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island might one day be built.

It was too early to say what decision would be reached about the project, he said, but he was told that "so far the surveys and engineering tests have been encouraging."

He veered close to a promise when he said the Liberal government will do everything possible to have the Maritimes "catch up" with the prosperity in other provinces. But the Maritimes and other provinces want action, not time financially if the Conservatives came to power June 10.

7,000 AT RALLY

At Victoria Tuesday night, Mr. Diefenbaker told the largest audience—3,000—of his campaign so far that "an aroused public opinion" has the Liberals "running scared at the present moment."

Earlier, in easy-going fashion at Abbotsford, he contrasted the morning rain with dry times he'd seen in Saskatchewan "where were bulldrops six years old who hadn't learned to swim."

He also repeated his promise that a Conservative government would enforce tariffs against "dumping" of United States fruit and vegetables in Canada at depressed prices.

In Thorold, Ontario CCF Leader Hazen Argold accused Premier Frost of indulging in "cheap politics" at Barrie May 10. He said Mr. Frost was "very much in error" in his claims might spend a little time at here in Canada learning about the problems of the little people who have to pay the bills.

That, Mr. MacDonald told an election meeting, represented Mr. Frost's attitude to isolationism, shameful parochialism or simply "a cheap bid for votes by trying to arouse the prejudices of the little people who have to pay the bills."

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep; speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas; helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the stomach.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually reaches into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, Europe and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for IntraRUB. Only $1.39 a large tube. IntraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritic-rheumatism pains or your money back. *Reg. T.M.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday May 23, 1957 —

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Develop more perspective in planning present activities. Rid yourself of details which are uncessential and time-consuming. Heed advice of "knowing" heads.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't fall into a lethargic attitude. You'll only lose ground that way. Control emotions, making them work for, not against, you. Complete unfinished tasks now.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — If controversial subjects arise, be discreet, diplomatic. Study day's plans. Do they fill true needs? Once your goal has been determined, proceed with dispatch.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Check your performance regularly to determine how effective your methods. Your likeable personality is your best salesman. First impressions are lasting, so put your best foot forward and reap rewards.

July 24 to August 30 (Leo) — A moderate sort of day that can be good or otherwise, depending on your approach and handling of situations. Give your talents a thorough going over. Systematic and you will achieve.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — While planetary influences may aid, you can't leave everything to them. Switch from your easy-going normal routine to a go-getting pace. There's satisfaction in a job well done.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You should have little difficulty if you carry out duties in a conscientious, cheerful manner. Reading, research, study favored. Avoid waste motion, carelessness.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Do not let irritations deter you from completing assigned tasks. There's much to be accomplished. If perturbed, call on your common sense and humor to help you over the rough spots. Have cheer!

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Your aspects augur for success if what you attempt is reasonable, honorable. Do your best; family, loved ones are counting on you.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Give encouragement to those who are indecisive and wavering and you'll gain in the doing. The world is always looking for leaders. Be one of them and you can improve a mediocre day.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Results of efforts may not be immediately noted. Don't lose heart, however; press on more assiduously. Good effort, properly directed, is always rewarded eventually.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — With discreet, intelligent management your outlook can be favorable in both personal and business matters. Let no good opportunity get by. Stress essentials.

You born today are loyal, likable, dependable; a blessing to your community, a big help to those in trouble or illness. Never underestimate the good that true knowledge and further education can bring you and yours. Strive always after honorable attainment and don't neglect your own needs while helping others to a better life. Cultivate your talent for music, literature, acting, any of the arts.

THEFT BAFFLES POLICE

MONTREAL (CP) — A heavy steel safe containing $50,000 in cash, watches and jewelry was stolen during the weekend from the third-storey of a downtown office building, police reported Sunday night.

U.S. Believes Russia Really Wants To Disarm

New American Proposals Will Encourage Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials are beginning to believe that Russian leaders really may be prepared to drop some secrecy to get a limited disarmament pact.

This hopeful view will be put to the test in arms-control negotiations London hopes to resume in next week.

It now seems certain that Harold E. Stassen, US negotiator, will return to London during the negotiations in a new set of American proposals designed to encourage Western agreement. Final decisions on US policy in this respect are being made here.

The disarmament scheduled two disarmament meetings today, and Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem., Minn) said there are indications that "a genuine negotiation may actually be in the making" in the London talks.

CALLS TO TALKS

President Eisenhower called Stassen to a meeting of the National Security Council. Later, Stassen and State Secretary Dulles will report to a closed meeting of Senate disarmament subcommittee, of which Humphrey is chairman.

Eisenhower laid down two broad guidelines for disarmament policy at his press conference Wednesday.

He said the United States "must make it possible for others, if they are reasonable, logical men, to meet us half way."

He also declared that in dealing with Russia and its history of "breaking of treaties" the United States must be especially careful to obtain systems of disarmament and inspection "in which we can have confidence."

NEEDS INSPECTORS

Exactly what Stassen will propose remains to be disclosed. It is clear, at a minimum, it would require the presence of international inspectors in whatever areas of disarmament agreed upon.

For example, if the pact provided for a reduction in military manpower, the United States would want to ensure access for the inspectors to Soviet military establishments; if air arms reduction, access to Soviet arsenals.

Serious study has been given to the idea of establishing inspection zones for aerial inspection involving Russian and American territory and perhaps the territories of Communist and Western nations in Europe.

Frost Assails Federal Policy On Tax-Sharing

PORT HOPE (CP) — Premier Frost has accused Prime Minister St. Laurent of trying to set the provinces against each other over the question of tax-sharing.

Federal tactics are "to set province against province—to divide and rule," he said, referring to a recent speech by Mr. St. Laurent in the Maritimes.

"In New Brunswick he pictures Ontario getting rich at the expense of other provinces, when in fact Ontario has supplied wholeheartedly for a better and fairer deal for the Maritime provinces."

Speaking at a federal election rally in a golf club in this town 75 miles south of Peterborough, Mr. Frost also replied to statements by the prime minister concerning his support of John Diefenbaker in the federal election.

CAN BE SATISFIED

"Mr. St. Laurent is curious about my discussions with Mr. Diefenbaker and wonders what they are about. His curiosity can be satisfied. Everything I have said is public property. It is part of the record. It has all been discussed with Ottawa, with Mr. St. Laurent himself. It is simply a new and fair deal for all of the provinces.

"At Belleville last week Mr. St. Laurent stated that a better tax deal for Ontario could be accomplished in one of two ways, either by raising federal taxes by increased federal payments to all the provinces, or by giving Ontario a bigger share of the tax pot to the detriment of the other provinces."

The prime minister, said Mr. Frost, "has completely missed the point" of Ontario's tax-sharing proposal.

It would give all 10 provinces 15 per cent of corporate and income taxes instead of 9 and 10 per cent. And it could be done if the federal government vacated taxfields which produced an amount equal to about 60 per cent of the surplus this year.

"DO NOT SIT WELL"

"Surpluses of $500,000,000 and federal opulence do not sit well with provincial and municipal deficits and skyrocketing education costs."

The "progressive income tax" field belongs "equally by constitution to the federal and provincial governments," said Mr. St. Laurent seems to think it fair to give the province the municipality only the rents from the income tax dollar and keep 90 cents for the federal treasury," Mr. Frost said.

"He argues that Ontario is a wealthy province and can well afford to pay the staggering costs of education and development from revenue sources which must be charged against real estate and cost of living.

"This is unfair and unjust and unrealistic."

'FLU RUNS RIOT

MANILA (AP)—The death toll in the influenza epidemic sweeping the Philippines rose to 60 today but health authorities reported a decline in the number of cases in Manila. Forty-nine of the deaths occurred in the capital. The Manila health department said the city number of cases in the city dropped to 49,000 from 54,000.

CONVICTED SEX OFFENDER ADMITS KILLING GIRL

Will Be Questioned On Other Slayings

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — George J. Davies, already accused in the slaying of a former Quebec girl and a Waterbury, youngster, today faced questioning about the sudden disappearance five years ago of the granddaughter of former Wyoming governor Nels Smith.

The 38-year-old convicted sex offender admitted Wednesday, police said, that on that day he lured Jean Ann Bowin, whom he met through a job-wanted ad in a newspaper, to the Waterbury apartment he lived in Lac Magantic, Que.

Earlier in the week Davies confessed to killing eight - year - old Brenda Jane Doucette, abducted as she walked to school May 13.

BOTH SEX SLAYINGS

Police described both as sex slayings, although neither girl had been molested.

Connie Smith was 10 years old when she disappeared from a girl's camp in Salisbury, about 25 miles northwest of Waterbury.

She had been hitchhiking on a road near the New York state boundary on July 16, 1952. After that there wasn't a trace of her.

Police said Davies was convicted Sept. 2, 1952, of sex attacks on two young girls. He was sentenced to prison for three years but was paroled after serving a year a day.

Davies' second reported confession came after the finding of the decomposed body of the Bowin girl in Waterbury's Matta-bessett Park Tuesday night.

She had been choked and stabbed to death, police said, with the heart—with a screwdriver. That was the same instrument in the killing of Brenda Jane May 13.

Gaetane had placed an ad in a local newspaper, identifying herself as a "homeless girl" who wanted housekeeping work.

Police quoted Davies as saying Gaetane got in his car at 7:30 a.m. the day she was killed. The girl thought he was taking her to a new job, they said, but he took her into the forest and killed her when she fought him off.

Davies lived in a trailer behind the home of his parents, was divorced by his wife while he was in prison. He is the father of three children.

Screaming Girls Drop 3 Storeys To Escape Fire

LONDON (Reuters)—Screaming office girls dashed from a blazing office block to the roofs of a flat-roofed building on Oxford Street in the heart of London's main shopping district Wednesday.

Six women were taken to the hospital suffering from burns and shock.

One young woman hung by her fingertips from a window sill 30 feet above the sidewalk before dropping to a tarpaulin ripped by a passerby from a parked truck.

Doormats, dresses and all other materials available were used to cushion the trapped women's falls until the firemen equipped with nets hurried to the scenes from all parts of London.

Police, too, were out in the offices of a dress manufacturer.

Bond Increased

DENVER (AP)—Bond for Philip LeGros, dapper 44-year - old Canadian arrested here at the request of Canadian and U.S. authorities, Wednesday was raised to $50,000 from $10,000.

U.S. Commissioner Harold S. Entz ordered the increase at the request of federal officials in Newark, N.J., where LeGros is held as a material witness in a counterfeiting case.

Meanwhile, extradition proceedings were started against LeGros in Toronto, police said he still has been one of Canada's "10 most wanted men" since last year.

Toronto authorities said LeGros has been charged with receiving $10,000 in bonds, at least part of which was taken in several bank robberies. He was put on the "most wanted" list after fleeing Canada under $25,000 bond, police said.

Presbyterians Will Not Observe South African Church Apartheid

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — The general assembly of the Church of Scotland agreed unanimously today that it could not permit the church of the South African governments to debar anyone from public worship on racial grounds.

Presbyterian ministers and lay elders applauded as the crowded assembly approved the resolution.

Presenting a report on foreign missions, Rev. J. L. Kent of Glasgow said that if pending legislation to enforce racial segregation among churchgoers in South Africa became law, a situation would be created which would be of concern to the Christian conscience.

"It would mean that men of different races would be prohibited, at the point of the sword, from active affairs, from worshipping and taking the sacraments together in the so-called white areas, and from serving together in the administration of the courts of the church," he said.

"It means that freedom to assemble in public worship, or to receive the sacraments, or to attend to the business of the church, or not a natural right, but is the power of the state authority to give."

He said Presbyterians must "unreservedly identify ourselves" with moves to disobey the law in South Africa.

DENMARK'S KING GREETS BRITAIN'S QUEEN

Seen here with her host, King Frederick of Denmark, Queen Elizabeth arrives in Copenhagen aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia, to begin a three-day state visit. Accompanied by Prince Philip, the Queen is currently carrying out her third such visit in the past five months. The other two took her and her husband to Portugal and France where both were given a "royal welcome."

Adenauer Seeks Assurance U.S. Won't Neutralize Reich

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flies to Washington to the United States seeking hard and fast assurances that American policy toward Germany is unchanged. It is his fifth visit.

Despite assuring words from State Secretary Dulles, the German public still has an uneasy feeling the U.S. government is veering toward a disarmament deal with Russia at the expense of German reunification.

For Adenauer, it is of utmost importance in this West German election year to dispel this feeling. It supports opposition Socialist declarations that the United States is abandoning him and that his policy of close alliance with the West is a failure.

Thus the primary aim of Adenauer's talks with President Eisenhower and Dulles is to obtain a top-level reaffirmation that the many this year.

Former U.S. Ambassador Tells Whole De Valera Story

BELFAST (Reuters)—The wartime United States ambassador to the Irish Republic says there is evidence Premier Eamon de Valera kept Ireland neutral because he believed Hitler would win and reward the republic with British Northern Ireland.

David Gray denounces the republic's neutralism and de Valera's stand in an outspoken forecast to the book Ulster and the Irish Republic, written by a retired Belfast civil servant, William Curnow, and published yesterday.

Gray was U.S minister in Dublin between 1940 and 1947. De Valera, elected premier again last March, was head of the government during the war.

Since 1922 the six northern counties of Ulster have remained part of the United Kingdom and the south has been independent.

Gray supports the general Ulster position and represents American opinion before the election. He writes:

"The accumulating evidence supports the view that even before the fall of France in 1940 de Valera believed Hitler would win the war and that in payment for keeping the Allies out of Eire he would obtain Ireland on his own terms.

"When it became clear that he (de Valera) had backed the loser, he needed justification and a face saver.

"He advanced the proposition that he could not in conscience help the Allies whole this 'crime' against Ireland, the partition of the north from joining Eire."

Gray says "the truth is" Britain never prevented union, but the people of Ulster repeatedly have voted to stay in the United Kingdom.

Civil Service Pay Boost Becoming Election Issue

By CP STAFF WRITER

Trade Minister Howe said any policy John Diefenbaker can promise, he can promise, too.

Ontario Premier Frost, taking up a challenge by Prime Minister St. Laurent, said the Liberal federal government, in its reference to federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements, has shown "set province against province—to divide and rule."

The force that keeps the wheels of government turning once Parliament is dissolved for an election, are federal civil servants — also entered Wednesday's campaign for the June 10 election, including the armed forces, they number in the vicinity of 300,000, and they can vote.

Duncan, B.C., as he travelled to Vancouver Island, Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said the prime minister, by delaying until after the election a promised civil service pay increase, is holding out a "carrot" to benefit the Liberal government.

Mr. St. Laurent told a Halifax audience, meantime, that he will not increase civil service salaries before the election. He also said: Mr. Laurent's statement that he didn't want to increase civil servants' pay before election was to avoid influencing the result "gives high marks to the prime minister for what I will dignify as smugness."

He also mocked "the Liberal leader for describing Conservative election promises as 'carrots' and then himself making "a couple of simple ones" like putting better Maritimer voters a causeway to link Prince Edward Island with New Brunswick and a $1,000,000 causeway-dam at the Tantramar River near Sackville, N.S., to protect marshland from tidal flooding.

NO TORNADOES VISIT ONTARIO AFTER WARNING

Thunderstorms Stay South of Great Lakes

TORONTO (CP)—In spite of the weatherman's morning warning of a 50-50 chance of a tornado and the appearance of ominous dark clouds early in the afternoon, Southwestern Ontario passed the danger period Wednesday without even a bad thunderstorm.

Early in the day the Dominion public weather office warned thunderstorms were approaching with the "marked possibility" one might develop into a tornado in the 25 counties west of a line from the Bruce Peninsula to Trenton including the metropolitan areas of Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kitchener and Windsor.

Police and weather office switchboards were jammed with phone calls from anxious citizens. Some elementary schools sent students home early. Civil defence authorities through the press and radio advised people what to do if the tornado should strike.

But as the day progressed one area after another was officially declared out of danger.

The storms stayed south of the Great Lakes," said a forecaster. "As far as we know not one cannot touch down."

Tornadoes generally don't carry far. The one that struck but four years ago a twister carved a $15,000,000 path from Lake Huron oil and chemical proceeding city of Sarnia.

Won't Withdraw Statement Gregg Like Saboteur

SAINT JOHN, N.B (CP) — Provincial Conservative candidate J. C Van Horne says he will not withdraw a statement he made in Fredericton Wednesday that Clarence Gregg was "acting like a saboteur of the rights of the working man."

Mr. Van Horne, seeking to regain the Shediac-Memramcook seat he won in a 1955 by-election, was replying to a charge by Prime Minister St. Laurent* in Moncton Tuesday that Conservative leader John Horne had slandered the labor minister when he made the accusation in a campaign speech.

Mr Van Horne's reply was made in the statement released to a reporter here. He said he had made the same statement earlier in the public meeting.

The statement said:

"Mr. St. Laurent's comment about my accusation in the House of Commons of Mr. Greg working like a saboteur of the rights of the working man, meaning a person who deliberately interfered by the wheel, shows the PM's utter ignorance of the hardship, suffering and misery endured by thousands of workingmen's families during the unemployment and unjust regulations in unemployment insurance."

Clarence Gregg is running for re-election as Liberal candidate in the New Brunswick constituency of York-Sunbury.

PANTIE RAIDERS FOILED

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Wednesday night broke up a planned "pantie raid" by several hundred Columbia University students on the various women's dormitories at Columbia and adjoining Barnard College. Police squads were summoned by a university official.

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police said today that a street fight Wednesday night created a situation where it appeared a striking miners from Gaspe Copper Mines were trying to "take control" of the town but serious trouble was averted.

Lieut.-Gerard Tinslin, in charge of the 100-man provincial police detachment in this area, said he called on municipal authorities—the mayor and local police—to ask union leaders to intervene.

The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) heads were told to control their striking members politics would not intervene to take a hand.

A meeting was called, said Lieut. Tinslin, and union members were told to avoid violence. He said police did not intervene and there would be no arrests.

It was reported here that tentative arrangements had been made to bring in extra police and that a detachment was being prepared to leave Montreal when the situation quieted and the plan was cancelled.

Both police and union spokesmen said the town is quiet.

The tense situation Wednesday started to build up when company officials were informed suffered facial injuries in a fight on Murdochville's main street, one of the union's offices.

USWA spokesman Roger Bedard said four or five men were beaten, none seriously. He added they had "witnessed" strikers.

Lieut. Gerard Tinslin, head of the 100-man provincial police force sent here, confirmed three or four men had been beaten but none required hospital attention.

No arrests were made and police did not take any other action.

TO CALM WORKERS

Mr. Bedard said the three-hour meeting was called to calm workers. He had collected them from outlying districts to demonstrate against the company.

He added the men were disturbed by letters they had received from the company in which they were warned the dispute was not end in a contract between the company and the union.

Company manager O. J. Brisebois stressed the only way the dispute can be settled is by the workers returning to their jobs unconditionally.

Coty Hurries To Pick Premier

PARIS (AP) — President Rene Coty sent out word today he intends to nominate Premier-designate Guy Mollet within the next 48 hours in an effort to keep a date with President Eisenhower early next month.

Persons who spoke with the president said Coty hopes for swift solution of France's political crisis so that Mollet can arrive in Washington June 3 for a state visit.

But unless Parliament confirms a new premier soon, Coty will be unable to make the trip. He was forced to cancel his sailing on the de Grasse, because he ordered the plane to stand by for the flight to the United States.

Union Leaders Check Violence In Gaspe Town

Nigerian Leaders Open Talks on Independence

LONDON (Reuters) — Three leaders of Nigeria, largest British colony and largest state in Africa, today opened independence talks with the British government.

Nigeria seeks to follow in the wake of its neighbor, Ghana, as the second British-governed Negro territory to achieve political independence within the Commonwealth.

Ghana, which under British rule was known as the Gold Coast, became independent March 6.

Plane Stolen At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—Police are hunting for an airplane thief who made off early Wednesday in a single-engined craft and abandoned it undamaged 43 miles away.

The plane, owned by a Red Deer construction company, was taken from the municipal airport here and found on a small strip at Wetaskiwin, south of Edmonton.

Robert Layden told police he left the plane in front of a hangar Tuesday after competing a flight from Whitecourt, about 100 miles north of Edmonton. He left the keys in the four-passenger plane in case someone wanted to move it."

SOFTBALL GAME IS POSTPONED

The Belleville and District softball league game scheduled for Frankford last night between the Belleville Bobcats and the Frankford - Bata Shoemen was postponed because of threatening weather. No new date has been set at the present time.

A game between the Goyer's Marines and Trenton Legion Juniors, which was first scheduled for last Monday and then again last night, will be played at Trenton tonight at 8:15 p.m., weather permitting.

Point Anne and the Bobcats are slated to meet at the CNRAA Park on Friday evening at 7.00 p.m. sharp to round out the week's action.

SO-ED MEMBERS ENJOY HOLIDAY

Eighteen members of the Belleville So-Ed Club spent last weekend sightseeing and shopping in Syracuse, NY.

Highlights of the three-day vacation were a tour around the campus of Syracuse University and, on Sunday, a visit to a theatre where "South Pacific" was performed.

The next trip is scheduled for June 22, when members of the club will tour the Thousand Islands.

WRONG NAME USED

In Wednesday's edition of the Ontario Intelligencer appeared an item about five-year-old Gail Adams being injured when she ran her tricycle into the side of a tar-spraying truck on Herchimer Ave. The item erroneously indicated the truck was owned by Thurlow township. The vehicle was owned by Mr. Hastings, the accident occurring on the suburban road in Thurlow township.

Find Big Trout Hooked to Stick At Salmon Lake

A lake trout mountain came to an angling Mahomet the other day out Salmon Lake way.

It came ready-hooked and there for the taking.

Hauling it aboard climaxed the trout's desperate struggle for survival. It was badly bruised around the gills. Its dorsal fin was split, denoting successful efforts to disengage itself from an enveloping line.

It happened this way.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson and Mr. and Mrs. Don McKinnon of this city, were trolling in the lake. The lake was fairly calm—and luck not so good.

Then one of the party saw what appeared to be a branch of a tree doing query antics in the water. The piece of wood would suddenly up-end in the water, and then sink down disappear below the surface. This event was intermittently for a period of minutes.

Finally the party decided to investigate.

They found a piece of a cedar branch about five feet long, and an inch or so in diameter. As they looked it nose-dived beneath the surface, but bobbed up again.

Later it was revealed the stick had a piece of line, about twenty feet, attached to it. On the end of the line was a lake trout some twenty-six inches long and weighing 5½ pounds.

How long the struggle had been going on is not known. But the trout apparently had done everything in its power to shake the hooks.

"It was panting in a manner I've never seen before," Mr. Ketcheson said. "Its sides were heaving like a bellows. It must have been quite a terrific struggle and must have travelled considerable distance from the spot where it took the bait.

"There is nothing sportsman-like about this method of fishing," he added. "It smacks of brutality, and there is enough fish to go around without resorting to such methods."

LOVE STOCK DROPS

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Songwriter Sammy Fain, 53, was divorced Wednesday by his dancer wife, 25-year-old Jane Fischer Fain, by long distance. Mrs Fain is in New York, appearing on Broadway. She obtained a divorce in Santa Monica superior court with written answers to her lawyer's questions. Present as a spectator was Fain, whose song hits include Love is a Many Splendored Thing.

Two Candidates Join Forces to Stage Evening

The way to get people out to a political gathering is to give them a good time!

That is the consensus of Lee Grills and Grenville Milligan, Progressive Conservative candidates for Hastings South, and Prince Edward-Lennox.

And the turnout last night of close to 500 people at Tobe's County Gardens for the dance sponsored by the two candidates seemed to justify their opinions.

Election cards bearing pictures of the two candidates urged potential voters to vote for "Lee Grills" or "Clarence Milligan," while a huge stage banner "Diefenbaker for Good Government," provided a backdrop for the dance party.

Dreamy waltz music and lively square dance tunes by the Hugh Diggins' Orchestra provided variety for the large turnout and the dance continued until about 12.30.

Both candidates briefly addressed their guests with Lee Grills noting that he had been greatly encouraged by support from the younger people.

"And as regards the same younger people, many of whom are struggling to purchase their homes," Mr. Grills called for further income tax exemptions for home purchasers. Further, he said, he felt that the income tax exemption for single persons should be raised to $1,500 and for married persons to $3,000.

Mr. Milligan, after extending a welcome to the guests, dealt with the agricultural policy of Mr. Diefenbaker and the Progressive Conservative party.

Phil Dodds of Picton acted as chairman for the brief program of speech making with Norris Whitney, M.P.P., introducing Mr. Milligan and Jack Ireland of Belleville, introducing Mr. Grills.

Hope for Break In Long-Drawn Labor Dispute

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—President Gerard Picard of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor expected here shortly for joint assembly with a tap dance which was heartily encored. The entertainment committee was highly praised for the splendid dinner that was provided during the social evening and for the program that followed.

The Quebec aluminum industry looked to the coming meeting with hope for a break in the long-drawn labor contract dispute which resulted in the walkout May 17.

The strikers are members of the National Metal Trades' Federation (CCCL), which is seeking a master contract to cover Alcan's nine Quebec operations and an immediate 20-cent-hourly wage increase. The basic wage at Arvida is $1.50 an hour.

The company has offered a 47½-cent hourly increase spread over a three-year period while rejecting the demand for a master contract.

The company has laid off 200 of its 600 clerical workers here because of lack of work.

Mr. Picard was in Montreal Wednesday.

The stationing of a Canadian army detachment at Isle Maligne Que., where the company has a power plant prompted Mr. Picard to protest by telegram to the Canadian government.

He said Defence Production Minister Howe told him that the presence of the troops had nothing to do with the strike and would have nothing to do with it "unless there are serious disorders in the area."

IKE WELCOMES CANADIAN ENVOY

Norman A. Robertson, newly-appointed Canadian ambassador to the U.S., calls on President Eisenhower at the White House to present his credentials. Eisenhower told Robertson that the U.S. and Canada have created "an atmosphere of trust and understanding" in dealing with issues and questions that arise.

Obituary

MRS. MARY JANE (MINNIE) COLE

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane (Minnie) Cole was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. T. Hogerwaard conducted the services in the chapel and the committal rites in Salem cemetery.

The bearers were George Sills, Wilmot-Embury, Dorland Ross, Clifford Haggerman, J. Haight and Raymond Robinson.

Dinner, Dance Much Enjoyed

Members and their wives of the J. E. McPherson Council Pioneers of the Bell Telephone and Northern Electric Companies enjoyed the annual dinner dance held recently at Canoe Lake Lodge, Trenton.

Mr. Hugh Diggins' orchestra provided the music for dancing and a delicious turkey dinner was served.

Mr. Ross Wilson, Toronto, was the guest speaker. He spoke on the history of the Pioneers and the benefits derived from membership in the organization.

Mr. Wilson was presented with a gift by Mr. Jack Ireland, president of the Council, on behalf of the members.

Mr. Ireland also presented Mr. Joan Gander and Mrs. D. Garvis with prizes.

Three spot dancers, two door prizes and awards for the best game, played at all 5 tables, were given out during the evening. Bonnie Seward entertained the assembly with a tap dance which was heartily encored. The entertainment committee was highly praised for the splendid dinner that was provided during the social evening and for the program that followed.

Mr. Ireland in charge were assisted in the dance by fine prizes donated by Shaw's Men's Wear, Stroud's, Tip Top Tailors, Symon's Cigar Store, Corby's Ltd., and the Central Taxi. everyone voted the affair one of the best held by this organization.

Schoolboy Kills Mother, Sister Over Homework

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—A 14-year-old schoolboy shot his mother and older sister to death in a wild burst of rifle fire Wednesday night after quarrels with the sister over his homework.

The father, who hustled a younger son to safety and disarmed the older boy, collapsed from a heart attack after police arrived. He was reported in critical condition today in hospital.

The slayer, Andrew Casey, a high school freshman, was not held his mother and sister were dead. Police described him as "terribly sorry" for shooting them.

Slain in the gunfire—in which at least a dozen shots were fired—were Mrs. Dorothy Casey, 48, and Sheila, 20, an employee of the Rye National Bank.

The 50-year-old father, Gene R. Casey, is a public relations firm executive and a former reporter for the Boston Globe and Magazine writer.

The youth was charged with juvenile delinquency. Police said that because of his age this was the only charge that could be lodged.

Police Court

Gerald Davis, Willowdale, Ont., was convicted of careless driving in magistrate's court here this morning and fined $15 and costs of $11.

George Hook, Peterborough, told the court that a westbound car transport, driven by Davis, had forced him off Highway No. 2 early last month, while it attempted to pass two other transports in front of him.

O.P.P. Corporal Harry Barker testified that the same transport forced his black and white patrol car, which was proceeding east, off the highway near Dayside.

Edmond Lucier, Toronto transport driver, was fined $5 and $5 costs for following a second truck at a closer distance than 200 feet, the minimum required by law.

Hasty Pees Awarded 30 Battle Honors

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment can again lay proud claim to being one of the best fighting infantry units in World War II.

The Canadian Army has announced battle honors to four Ontario and Quebec regiments raising to 17 the number entitled to emblazon their World War actions on their unit colors.

The units were given last October a list of more than 160 battles, engagements and theatres from which they could claim honors. Up to 10 may be shown on the regimental colors.

The Hasty Pees top the current list with 30 awarded honors.

The Les Fusiliers Montmagny, get 20 honors and the 48th Highlanders of Canada, Toronto, 28 honors and the Toronto Scottish Regiment, Toronto, 21 honors.

Proudly adorning one of the walls in the Hasty Pees' officers' mess is a battle flag bearing the crest of the regiment and seven battle honors won by a predecessor regiment in World War I.

Queen Visits Church Founded By Grandmother

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth began the final day of her state visit here today by touring a church founded in the 19th century by her grandmother.

The Queen and Prince Philip were conducted through the grey stone church of St. Albans, founded in 1885 by her grandmother, Danish Princess Alexandra.

After on the Queen's agenda today were a reception at the town hall, a visit to the Canadian Embassy, a picnic lunch on the outskirts of Copenhagen with Danish King Frederik and Queen Ingrid, and visits to a Copenhagen porcelain factory and one of Denmark's newest schools.

After the end of the official visit the Queen and her husband will remain two additional days on an unofficial stop.

Elizabeth today met 65-year-old Danish author Thomas Dinesen, believed to be the only holder of the Victoria Cross outside the Commonwealth. He received it from King George V in 1918 for gallantry in France with the Canadian Army.

Police Blotter

Rear end damage of approximately $350 resulted in a 1957 model Peterborough owned auto this morning when it was struck from behind by a dump truck in front of the Starlite Motel on the Trent Road west of the city.

James Armstrong, route manager for a metropolitan newspaper, was driving the car into the motel driveway, when his rear trunk was bashed in by the following dump truck driven by Jerome Collins of Roslin.

Otherwise police and provincial police reported a quiet night.

One city resident complained of youthful stone-throwers breaking a cellar window, while in the Parkwood Heights district someone apparently had marked up the freshly applied plaster in a new house being erected for Provincial Police personnel occupancy.

South African Author Unable To Leave Land

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Harry Bloom, author of novels who wrote the novel Episode about racial unrest in South Africa, has been informed his exit visa has been refused by the department of the interior.

This means he is unable to leave South Africa—and cannot visit London to receive the British Author's Club prize for the best first novel of 1956, an award he won for Episode.

Interior Minister Johan Donges confirmed Wednesday that Bloom's application had been refused. The reasons for the refusal are not given in such cases.

LIABLE TO JAIL TERM

Anyone leaving South Africa without a valid exit permit or passport is liable on return to a minimum sentence of three months in jail.

It was also disclosed that the national chairman of the South African Labor party, Mrs. Jessie McPherson, has been refused a passport to attend next week's British Commonwealth Labor parties' conference in Britain.

Mrs. McPherson, a former mayor of Johannesburg, told a Labor conference in Durban in Britain in 1954 that her visit might be the last because "those of us in South Africa who are opposed to the government might find it impossible to get passports."

BIRTHS

DONOVAN—At hospital, Mrs. Terry Donovan, 260 East Dundas Street, wish to announce the birth of a son, Wednesday, May 22nd, 1957, at the Belleville General Hospital. A brother for Karen and Debbie.

HALIAM—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haliam, Jr., R.R. 4, Belleville, announce the birth of their son, Thomas Kyle, on Wednesday, May 22nd, 1957, at the Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

MOORE.—In loving memory of mother, Mrs. Lydia Moore, who passed away one year ago, May 23rd, 1956.
We do not forget her,
We loved her too dearly.
For her memory to fade
From our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak
When our hearts mourn sincerely,
We shall meet in heaven
Where all is calm and clean.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Dorothy, son-in-law Merle and grandchildren.

DOIG.—In memory of my brother, Jim Doig, who died May 22nd, 1951.
Sweet is remembrance of him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Sadly missed by sister, brother-in-law and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere thanks for flowers, gifts and cards received during my stay and while undergoing an operation in the Belleville General Hospital. My thanks also to Dr. M. Bonisteel, Dr. E. M. McDonald and the nurses and staff.

Six persons were killed near Sudbury on Monday, when a car cut back into line so swiftly after passing another car going in the same direction.

Nothing unusual about this accident is the number of the victims.

There are dozens of accidents every week which occur when one car passes another proceeding in the same direction.

These accidents occur for a variety of causes and therefore there is no simple remedy.

We have, however, one suggestion which might reduce the toll.

Very often, when traffic is heavy, the driver who wishes to pass another car has to make split-second decisions. If he guesses wrongly, he is likely to involve the driver of the car ahead in an accident, as well as himself and approaching traffic. The driver of the car being passed could help to make passing safe, if he knew what the driver behind was going to do. If, however, he slows down to let the driver behind pass, and the driver behind then decides he cannot make it and attempts to pull back into line, the first driver adds to the hazard by slowing down. Would it not be possible to devise some code whereby the drivers could help each other. A couple of short blasts on the horn could mean, "Slow down, I'm passing;" four short honks could mean "Speed up, I'm pulling back into line."

Perhaps the traffic engineers will find flaws in this suggestion, perhaps there would be too great a danger of signals getting mixed up, but after a few experiences of wondering whether the driver passing one will make it and whether one should slow down to help him pass, or speed up to let him get in behind, one may be pardoned for wondering whether any such danger could be greater than today's guessing game.

THIS OLD HOUSE—

None of us, they say, is indispensable.

Eulogies are for funerals; they are written in sand and the night wind erases them and presents tomorrow with an unmarked surface on which to record the day's events.

At work and at play, amongst our friends and even in the bosom of our families, time quickly fills the gap which death has made.

None of us is indispensable. That's what they say.

The old house doesn't think so. The old house is in mourning this spring.

Other springs it has greeted joyously, shedding the snow from its roof and the icicles from its eaves, smiling at the muddy lawn and waiting for the step of its guardian angel, not a bright young angel with wings, but an elderly one, armed with spade and hoe, with hose and mower, with patience and with love of the old house.

With these he has annually manufactured a miracle.

Faithfully he has come, an old man but not a weary one. He has cleared away the debris of winter, stirred the earth and prepared it so that the warm rays of the sun can penetrate deeply, watched the first green tips of shoots poke their way through the soil, tended the growing plants, trimmed them in season and then removed them to make way for the next platoon of bloom in the march through the seasons.

Between the bright borders of the flower beds, the lawn has lain smooth and thick, a green carpet spread in front of the house to welcome visitors, smooth and thick and trim, mown and watered and weeded.

That was in other years.

This year the house mourns. It is grey and drab. The forest has invaded the lawn, dozens and dozens of seedlings poking through grass which is tufted and soil which is bare. The border is untended.

The guardian angel is dead.

None of us is indispensable, they say.

The old house doesn't believe that. It mourns its dead.

LIGHT PENALTIES

Two Nazis, S.S. General Sepp Dietrich and concentration camp chief Michael Lippert, have been sentenced to jail for 18 months for aiding in the premeditated killing of Brownshirt leaders on the "Night of the Long Knives" back in 1934.

If these 18-month sentences are supposed to pay their debt to society after 23 years, one can only conclude that the Germans must have devised an "easy payment" plan with a phenomenally low rate of interest.

GOLF

The game of golf I once believed
Was sport designed for leisure.
That when they played all men received
A sweet reward of pleasure.
But, always when a round is done
In grief the players languish.
Instead of having any fun,
They've suffered bitter anguish.

The benches of the locker room
Are occupied with moaners.
No smiles can disdain the gloom;
No laughter stills the groaners.
Though 'twas for fun the game began,
Hope vanished like a bubble.
The sad report of every man
Is one of endless trouble.

I sit and listen to their woes
With patience never failing,
For I am one who truly knows
The reasons for their wailing.
Though golf for pleasure was begun,
Man's griefs it seems to double.
Though many take it up for fun,
They seem to end in trouble.

Grasshoppers Taste Nutty

By Harry C. Kenney in the Christian Science Monitor

There is something strange about eating fried grasshoppers and bumblebees—the first time, that is, and particularly if you know you are doing it. Grasshopers taste like a cross between salted nuts and popcorn.

The Japanese have been consuming these Oriental dainties for centuries and now are exporting them in large quantities. However, at the moment they do not threaten the peanut or popcorn market.

As for bumblebees, they taste well—like bumblebees. Popularly known as Yamatoni, they are sugared and plied in any bean sauce, all of which gives a little like a taste. Of course, only the young bees, not fully grown, are used.

Actually, Americans have been eating hors d'oeuvres with delight for years and always by knowing exactly what the tidbits taste like. The taste is, however, that-flirting with a canape tray today offers quite a challenge. The adventure-seeking guest for now tempts the fate-fixing the up-and-coming host or hostess is now running toward exotic delectables.

Just the other day for instance a bootleg sample of these tasty fat treats came under the watchful eye of Martin B. Dahlberg, president of the Foods Distr. He says "Foreign foods, from the world's four far-flung corners of the earth and from the seven seas as well, are not only romantic in origin and fascinating to see, but they are genuinely delightful to consume."

All the same, one doesn't eat a can of bamboo shoots or roasted locusts without some misgivings over knowing what's going on." So the Japan Trade Centre in New York was contacted. Back came the reply from Masato Yamamoto that Japan exports between 70 and 80 different kinds of fancy canned foods to this country and, he said, "We are sending you a few of these delicacies to taste." (That's how all this started.)

Well, an optimistic entrepreneur of rare, unusual and exotic delights knows that someone sea urchin or sea horse paste with gusto. It tastes like a cheese spread being thick with added salt to give it measure of tartness.

The smoked or broiled octopus meat, which tastes like salmon but is more chewy, is a fairly rapid-moving product and has long since left the Greenwich Village Italian Bohemian atmosphere. It has come into its own and is no longer "the conversation piece" it once was. For some strange reason there is not the "struggle" with the delicately flavoured octopus that there seems to be with some imported fancies.

Broiled eels are a real delicacy, completely at home in Japan as abayaki. The eel dines only on fish. Europeans, especially the Scandinavians, have always held this food in high esteem. By the same token many fishermen in this country, have long supplemented the larder with fresh and salt water eel.

Quail eggs are an old gourmet specialty in the Far East. They are mostly yolk and taste like egg yolk. They are gaining favor in many countries along with such items as silver whale skin, smoked rabbit, smoked oysters, smoked baby clams and tangy, salted cuttlefish.

There is a cherry blossom pickled in brine which delightful taste and fragrance. The blossoms are unopened and have been pickled in salt and water. For a single serving, two or three blossoms are placed in a glass and hot water poured over them. The blossoms will open producing the cherry aroma and a new and interesting beverage which is potentially popular during the summer months.

There are not trick foods, nor are they found just in food specialty stores, declares Mr. Dahrow points out that his shipment of Japanese delicacies will soon find their way to the party-foods departments in many fine food stores, stores, supermarkets and independent stores from coast to coast.

Just the same there is a great temptation to wonder what the Japanese consider the best to be American canned snake meat.

'Home Grown' Farmers Best

Windsor Star

An annual paradox is appearing this spring. While many urban workers are unemployed, farmers are having difficulty finding workers. So much so that some 800 are being brought from the Maritimes to Ontario.

It is not so strange as it seems. Many of the urban workers are waiting to get called back to their jobs. They took farm jobs only temporarily this spring to be satisfactory to the farmers.

More than that, however most industrial employees know they would not be much good on farms, even for temporary jobs. They don't know anything about farm work. There might be a few simple things they could learn quickly learn to do, but even a novice farmer knows there still would be greenhorns. They would perhaps be more of a nuisance than a help.

A good farm hand must be more skilled in many more ways than the average city worker. He must be able to "make do" with things without smashing it. He must be able to milk cows, by hand or machine. He must know how to plow and other forms of tillage. He must be able to harness a horse, or even a hoe, properly. He must be able to fix fences, and all sorts of jobs.

The best farm hand is one born on a farm, who has grown up knowing how to do the many things which must be done on a farm.

A greenhorn on the farm can scarcely earn his keep, let alone the wages his employer pays him.

Ideas Have Long Legs

Washington Post

There is poetic—and historic—justice in the news that a bus boycott in the Union of South Africa has ended with a moral victory for 50,000 Africans. Since last January, the Africans had refused to board the buses in the 10-mile run from Alexandria to Johannesburg in protest against a fare increase. Under the pressure of sentiment, the fair will remain 5 pence (6 cents), but the Johannesburg Chamber of Commerce will sell natives a 4-pence coupon worth 5 pence on the buses. The miracle is that despite 14,000 arrests, the white supremacy government could not crush the spirit of the strikers and force them to ride the bus. The boycott technique will remain to haunt the South African Government's time-honored tricks.

Jenkins has every reason to be proud of the summer hotel and the grounds." (Note 1957) Massassaga Park was a popular resort years ago. The hotel was attractive and well kept and people from the city, and distant parts in Ontario and the United States spent vacations there — some spent the summer there. There were rowing vessels on the front and sides of the hotel and it was pleasant to sit there and watch the boats and pleasure craft on the bay. The large Richelieu and Ontario steamer plying between Toronto and Montreal, through the Murray Canal, made an interesting sight as they passed the hotel. There was a large dock — a large dancing pavilion and numerous cottages were also occupied in the Belleville people. The fishing was good in those days. Young people could be met the city held dances there, making the trip to the park on the little steamer Greyhound or on private launches. Massassaga Park was a popular pleasure spot at one time, and was a favorite spot for Sunday school picnics.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Whatever Will Be Will Be

In my first year of horse-and-buggy practice in Penn Yan, New York, I answered a hurry-call out the Lake road. I found a patient just getting over a spell." Her father, a rich farmer, explained that their doctor was away. On being told about to leave he approached, taking out his wallet. What did I think was the matter? The young woman had been having "spells" for years. "Epilepsy", I said, astonished at the question.

"Wow! The man reacted as though I had said his ancestors never married. On reporting my visit to the family's own physician later, I learned something. He nodded and remarked that he had told the family it was "spinal irritation."

Just after I escaped the wrathful father, driving along the road toward home, my revolver suddenly stopped, arched his neck around and glared at me. I was in no condition to philosophize at the moment. I was out of the buggy and over the stone wall bordering the road before the horse could get into position to attack. But he didn't pursue me. He held his loose fore as I have been told, taxed and seemed gentle enough — I got back in the buggy and drove home without further incident. It was my one and only encounter with a bucking horse. A veterinary suggests balking is comparable to a form of epilepsy.

After all, the occurrence of epilepsy, cancer, rheumatic, migraine, diabetes, peptic ulcer, eczema, or dementia "attacks" is no stigma to the family. One another is bound to appear sooner or later in every family.

That Yates County farmer couldn't understand this. A lot of people today can't understand. For that matter, I didn't understand that balking horse. But the farmer was not only wrong — he was defiant.

Once more, dear editor, now deceased, magisterially explained to many millions of readers, that Mongolism, a type of idocy which generally occurs in families in which there has been no hereditary taint, is obviously a throw-back to maybe a Tibetan great-great-great-great-etc. This notion appeals to forty million moronsadult with mental development no higher than that of a normal 12year-old child.

So does the notion that a trace of Negro blood in the blood may be responsible for the birth of a baby with many apparently white parents. The phenomenon is limited exclusively to those who themselves tell. The-children of shy couple, one or both of whom actually has or have mixed blood, will resemble either or both parents in skin color or facial characteristics. Throw-backs do not happen in the human family.

Strength for The Day

NEW LAND and NEW LIFE

"Terah died in Haran." There is a whole complex of noble aspiration and stifling frustration expressed in those five words. Terah, father of Abraham, had left Ur of the Chaldees because he hated the idolatry of his fellow countrymen. He left this idolatry behind in Haran but stayed on the same side of the river as the city-dwellers because he loved people who half renounce their evils look back upon them with longing and in their unfaithful, and never really break with them.

Abraham is the father of all faithful men because he broke with an idolatry from which his father could not bring himself or even to get out for a new land and a new life.

Therein lay glory for him, and in such an attitude abides glory for us.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP LEARNING

We can never know too much. All life is a fabulous library with its books, essays and poems scattered everywhere. On the tombstone of the historian of the English people John Richard Green were these words: "He died learning." We may welcome much knowledge but we shall not be able to use, but it will be there for any emergency. Like a great library, it is a happy thing to know that we can consult it at will and at any time.

The greatest public building in any community should be a fine library. It can be the greatest investment against crime. Every day in the year people are visiting libraries all over this continent, just so that they may know more! I have been blessed in many a library in the many small towns and cities I have called hood days.

Hardly a day comes and goes that I don't learn something new, I am sure that this is the experience of many others. I told type to newspapers once. When my eyes-sight failed me I had to give up nothing interesting in it until he suddenly said: "Adams, you can never know too much about type!" That settled it and I learned about type and about the whole material over many years in my own business. We can learn much merely by browsing a bookstore.

Everyone should know about his country's history and also the history of it. It will mean more than words can express. Just to have been privileged during one day—the day that Lincoln was shot—and then during 35 years to write it into a book entitled "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." I love books, but when I read a new one that stimulates me, I want to know all I can learn about the author. People look different and often more enticing in paint or a biography.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Commander E. P. Pearce RCN inspects the armed guard at the Quinte, Navy League sea cadet inspection yesterday. With Commander Pearce is Sub. Lieut. Shandraw, officer in charge of the guard. In the background is Lieut. Col. E.S. Fairman ED, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

In their first public appearance, members of the Navy League sea cadets march smartly past the reviewing stand at yesterday's corps inspection. The youngsters were in their new uniforms, creating a favorable impression on inspecting officers and Navy League officials.

Quinte Navy League Cadets Earn Praise at Inspection

Trim in their respective uniforms, a composite corps of MMCS "Quinte" and Navy League sea cadets underwent their annual inspection here last night.

The inspection, march-past and demonstrations took place in front of the cadet barracks MMCS "Quinte" before the keen scrutiny of inspecting officer Commander E. P. Pearce, RCN, Hamilton, and his aide, Lieutenant Commander J. S. Gardiner, RCN, Toronto.

Later the cadets, some 85 all told, heard constructive criticism and tribute from Commander Pearce.

"You are doing a fine job," the inspecting officer told the cadets. "Your appearance is neat and you were steady on parade. Belleville should be proud of you and I hope you will keep up the good work." The commander also paid tribute to the corps officers and the League officials.

The inspection was carried out before a crowd that was much smaller than usual due, it was felt, to the threat of gales and thunderstorms. With the inspecting officer were Lieut. Commander Gardiner, Lieutenant Art Taylor, commanding officer of RCSCC "Quinte" and Lieut. Colonel E. S. Fairman, ED, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Inspection deportment was excellent with the cadets standing rigidly at attention during the tour.

MARCH PAST

Later, headed by the "Quinte" cadet corps' smart band, immaculate in blue and white "round rigs," both corps swung past a reviewing stand in column of route with Commander Pearce taking the salute. In the background were Lieut.-Commander Gardiner; Her Worship Mayor Jane Forrester, Mr. Charles Shaw, managing secretary of the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Branch, Toronto, and officials of the Belleville branch of the Navy League.

A feature of the corps was the smart guard of honor, neatly turned out with white accoutrements and rifles and which marched in a precision-like manner under the command of Petty Officer Ralph Boomhower.

Later the guard and the band under the direction of Drum Major Leading Seaman Bob Holgate gave demonstrations in front of the reviewing stand which drew the well-deserved applause of spectators and officials.

The Quinte cadets were under the command of Chief Petty Officer F. Shandraw with the Navy League cadets marching under Chief Petty Officer N. Richards.

Climaxing the inspection was a demonstration of seamanship which took place in the harbor waters at the rear of the barracks. Youthful cadets manned four dinghies in sailing manouvres while others formed the crew of a cutter in a drill display. Others manned a power craft. All boats sailed past the barracks where the salute was again taken by Commander Pearce.

"Evening Quarters" brought a close to the inspection, with the cadets being addressed briefly by Commander Pearce.

Officers of the Quinte Corps include commanding officer Lieut. Taylor; Lieut. E. J. Richards, executive officer; Lieut. R. Longhurst; Sub-Lieut. R. Shandraw; Sub-Lieut. R. Longhurst, division officers and Sub-Lieut. Taylor; Lieut. E. J. Richer. Those of the Navy League corps are commanding officer Lieut. G. Woodhouse and Sub-Lieut. P. Brown.

Officials of the Navy League and Sea Cadet Corps present included Mr. Shaw, Bill Bercsh, president Belleville branch, Navy League; Addison Lloyd, vice-president; Jim Morrow, treasurer; Earl Vandervoort, secretary; Dr. Jack Guthridge, past president; Captain J. Watson, director; Bob Lanning, chairman sea cadets; Ross Stiver, director; Bill Judge, chairman property committee, and Clarence Cook, chairman of the Navy League cadets.

Officials and special guests were hosted at a pre-inspection dinner at the Queen's Hotel. Navy League president Bercsh chaired the dinner welcoming such guests as Mayor Forrester, Mr. W. H. Morton, Mr. Abe Maser, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, and officers of both corps.

In a brief address Mr. Shaw congratulated the Belleville branch of the Navy League on the fine work it is doing in backgrounding its corps. He felt the league and corps were highly honored by the presence of the city's senior magistrate.

Mayor Forrester extended the official welcome of the city to the guests. She congratulated the Navy League in assisting in such a vital effort as the cadet movement. "Belleville," she said, "has a sincere claim to naval fame for during the war it had the honor of having the highest enlistment for an inland city. It also had the honor of having a corvette named after it, which surely makes it a naval town." She added she was proud to be a member of the city's power squadron where members receive education in the management and operation of their own boats.

TRIBUTE TO OFFICERS

Later at a reception held in the officers' mess of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, tangible tribute was paid to the officers of the corps by the Navy League branch here through vice-president Addison Lloyd the officers were presented with handsome engraved silver mugs. "These gifts," he said, "are in true appreciation of the work you have done and are doing with the cadets. We are sure it will be carried on with the same spirit and success next year as in the past."

Lieut. Taylor, speaking for the officers said, in appreciation, "We are fortunate in having such a splendid group of league men and we enjoy our work with. Our success has been due greatly to their assistance. They have stood behind us in all our efforts and we will do our best to make this year as successful as previous ones."

Fresh Support For Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration appears to have drummed up some fresh support and enthusiasm in congress for its $3,925,000,000 foreign aid program in the last 24 hours.

State Secretary Dulles carried the fight for the program to the Senate foreign relations committee Wednesday and won the praise of several senators for his "persuasive" presentation.

One of the committee members, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Ind.), stated that "for the first time in 10 years I am going to vote for and support this program because it is sound in principle."

However, the passage of the bill still faces a battle in Congress. Demands have been made for substantial cuts in foreign aid spending.

Dulles told committee members he still believes in the philosophy that if you don't spend money to help your friends abroad you may eventually "have to spend blood."

Four Candidates Debate Canada's Foreign Policy

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's relationship with the United States in foreign affairs was the bone of contention Wednesday night in an old-fashioned, four-party political forum.

Candidates from the Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties took part in the debate in Toronto St. Paul's riding sponsored by the World Federalists of Canada, an organization devoted to world government based on federalism.

A. H. Hollingworth, Liberal candidate for Toronto York Centre and the only speaker from outside St. Paul's riding, said: "Nobody can conscientiously say our foreign policy is made in the U.S. We are not a great power, we are still in the minor leagues, but you don't have to read U.S. magazines to know where we stand."

Roland Michener, Conservative candidate in St. Paul's, said his party is "alarmed" because "American military, social and economic dominance over Canada has grown increasingly in recent years."

CCF candidate Margot Thompson contended Canada's position on most foreign questions is either undefined or a mere echo of U.S. policy. "Canada has to make her own decisions," she said, "not wait for Britain and the U.S., then jump off the fence."

B. W. Ford, Social Credit, declared most of Canada's problems are dollar problems and there is little likelihood of free trade under the Liberal administration.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dunham, Harold, Ontario, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Shirley Isabelle, to Gordon Peter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osborne, Campbellford, Ontario. The marriage to take place Saturday, June 15th, 1957, at 2.30 p.m. in Grace Chapel, Stirling, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Empey have returned from a most enjoyable motor trip to the Adirondacks where they visited the "Land of Make Believe", the "Overlook" and Whiteface Mountain.

Weddings

GOODFELLOW — GILBERT

A pretty wedding was solemnized recently in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Belleville, by the Reverend J. S. Ashton, when Patricia Eleanor Gilbert, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Gilbert, became the bride of Lorne Raymond Goodfellow, of Oshawa, Ont., son of Mrs. Lena Goodfellow, and the late Mr. Goodfellow. Potted trees and yellow 'mums adorned the chancel rail, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Janet Spearman presided at the organ and rendered "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Earle Gilbert, the bride was lovely in a street-length gown of fine nylon net over taffeta, her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion caught to a braided nylon halo. She carried a nosegay of baby 'mums and sweetheart roses.

She was attended by Miss Joan Goyer as bridesmaid, who wore a street-length ensemble of pink and white ribbon nylon, with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Douglas Goodfellow, of Foxboro, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman with Mr. Earl Lattore, of Plainfield, and Mr. Edmund Hinze, of Belleville, as ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. The bride's table was centred by a three-tiey wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

A buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. William Gilbert, Mrs. Toronto; Mrs. Pete Gilbert of Kingston, sisters-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Douglas Kellar, of Wooler, sister of the bride, and Miss Linda Bushlow. Mrs. Sanford Hubble, of Belleville, great aunt of the bride, poured tea.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore navy blue with white accessories and corsage of red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother attired in toast brown crepe and lace with brown accessories and yellow rose corsage.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow left for Kemptville and other eastern points, the bride travelling in a two-piece gold crystalette dress with brown accessories and a shortie fur jacket with red rose corsage. They are residing at 151 Colbourne Street, Oshawa, Ontario.

Guests attended from Plainfield, Marmora, Foxboro, Cannifton, Corbyville, Belleville, Toronto, Wooler, Oshawa and Kingston.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a rhinestone necklace and matching earrings, and the bride's gift to her bridesmaid, a pearl necklace with earrings, to those who served at the reception, earrings, and to the organist, pin and matching earrings.

Will Accept Women as Taxi Drivers

KINGSTON (CP)—Women will be accepted for the first time as taxi drivers here because of a shortage of men.

The two major taxi companies announced Wednesday that the police commission granted them permission to hire women as taxi-drivers on a six-month trial basis. They will work during the day time until 6 p.m.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD KILLED

ELISPIDE (CP) — Margaret Taylor, 4, was struck by a dump-truck and killed Wednesday on her way to meet her sister, Mrs. Lorraine Taylor of Kilpride, 1 miles north of Hamilton.

Dr. Billings Addresses W.H.A. On 'Mentally Ill'

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. F. Finkle presiding.

Mrs. Finkle reported that the matter of the Summer Classes given by the Auxiliary to nurses – in training, had been received by the executive committee and she asked the general meeting to ratify the recommendation.

The membership convener reported that there were 99 paid-up members and each member was urged to interest more women in joining at this tremendously important organization.

The Coffee Shop convener reported that it was being carried on successfully and an increased number of staff members was willing itself of the service offered by the Coffee Shop.

Thanks were expressed for the continued donations of home cooked desserts.

The Community Shop convener reported a successful month and asked that it was being carried on clothes and used household articles. These may be taken to the Community Shop in the market square.

FREE PUPPETS

The Entertainment Committee convener reported that the cost of supplying the children's party and the free puppet show was met by private sale of puppets.

Mrs. Finkle thanked the committee for work done during the past month, especially those assisting at the Tea Room.

Mrs. John Buchan, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario, is attending the biennial meeting of the Canadian Federation of Hospital Auxiliaries of Canada in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. Finkle adjourned the business meeting and announced that Dr. Billings, Provens of CJBC would be the speaker at the June meeting and her subject "Public Relations."

In introducing Dr. Billings, Mrs. Finkle said that he was a noted psychiatrist and director of Mental Health Clinics of the Ontario Department of Public Health.

TREATMENT OF PSYCHIATRICS

In his talk, Dr. Billings outlined various specialties in carrying on the investigation, classification and treatment of the psychiatric patient. Much of the preliminary work could be done by trained people in social welfare, industrial programs, church and school guidance, and counselling services.

In summing up, Dr. Billings said he thought that one of the greatest services the psychologist had made in the past year, was the change in attitude of people towards consulting a psychologist or attending a Mental Health Clinic. The treatment of mental disturbances as any other disease is not a disgrace but is particularly useful and good for the community as patients are often cured sooner they have to go over to psychiatric hospitals.

Mrs. E. L. Scott thanked Dr. Billings for giving his valuable time in speaking to the Hospital Auxiliary and presenting such a helpful understanding of the "Treatment of the Mentally Ill."

The next meeting were present from Stirling, Hallowy and Hanover.

Club Activities

EGGLETON M.B.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Friday afternoon, the May meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school.

Allan Reide presided over the program which had been prepared by Garry Phillips, and John Madill and opened the meeting with "The Great Physician Now Is Near".

Shirley Frest read from the Scripture Lesson, Psalm 101.

An amusing reading "My First Hunt", was given by Allan Reide.

Sharon Reide, Audrey Stapley, Isabelle Prest, Beverley Stapley, Marilyn Stapley, Ivan Reide, John Madill and Grant Reide, contributed a song, which was greatly enjoyed. Annamae Clarke played their accompaniment on the piano.

The next meeting is to be held on afternoon of June 21st, at the school.

The secretary gave the roll call, showing 22 children and three adults present.

The offering was gathered by Beverley Stapley.

The Mission Band leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, gave the chapter from the Study Book "Ke Soni helps her mother". The chapter described how they made large jars of "Kimchi", their favorite kind of pickle.

An interesting little play "Songs on the Air", was presented by Annamae Clarke, Beverley Stapley, Gary Phillips and Allan Reide, under the direction of Mrs. Clancy.

Refreshments were served by Beverley Prest and Annamae Clarke.

Gamma Mu Names Year's Committees

The regular meeting of Gamma Mu Chapter Beta Sigma Phi was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. A. Pringle, Hastings Drive.

Mrs. J. C. McDonald, assuming her newly elected duties as president, opened the business meeting with a few remarks stressing the continued aims and ideals of Beta Sigma Phi.

The president announced the appointment of the following members to committees for the coming year: Mrs. J. L. Acton — program; Mrs. W. G. Cochrane and Mrs. Jack Sisson — membership; Mrs. C. E. James and Mrs. D. Boyce — social; Mrs. B. Bishop and Miss Margaret Peart — service; Mrs. W. L. Turner — publicity; Mrs. R. Brain — ways and means; Miss Alix Hastey — ex committee; Mrs. W. Hurlbise — telephone.

Mrs. R. Brain thanked the chapter for their kind assistance with the V.O.N. tea.

Plans were completed for a dinner party at which the husbands of the members are to be guests, and the "Girl of the Year" is to be chosen.

Mrs. J. Wolfenden, former social sponsor, was installed as cultural director. Mrs. Dan Mc-MacKinnon was made an honorary member of the Chapter.

Thanks were extended for the services the president presented Mrs. Wolfenden and Mrs. MacKinnon with gifts.

Miss Margaret Peart was in charge of the evening program, "Thought", and was introduced by Mrs. R. S. Morphy.

After her interesting and informative talk, Miss Peart joined the participation of the members in a "Psychological Test on Thought" which proved entertaining and amusing.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. J. A. Pringle.

Refreshments were served by the executive.

London Ready For Biggest Debutante Ball

LONDON (CP)—With the summer social season barely into its stride, London has been warned it's ready for the biggest debutante ball of the season.

It is scheduled for tonight at Claridge's, where some 500 persons are expected to attend the coming-out party of a dark-haired beauty named Patricia Rawlings.

The Daily Express implies that the ball is being given by Patricia's wealthy grandfather, William S. Boas identified as a Canadian "full of fun and generosity."

The paper, which does not give Boas' Canadian background, says Patricia called in a Rotterdam fruit firm, became a football referee in Europe and later made a movie with a German publishing house.

Bridge St. United Church W.A. Sponsors Delightful 'Spring Tea'

Yesterday afternoon Bridge Street United Church parsonage was gaily bedecked with spring flowers for the Women's Association annual "Spring Tea," convened by Mrs. D. J. Fuke and Mrs. D. Stanton.

Opening the door for the guests were Mrs. F. Adsett, Mrs. R. Mercer, Mrs. Ross Marsh, while Mrs. H. Davis, wife of the pastor, Mrs. A. Clare, president of the W.A. and Mrs. B. Cronk, received the guests in the living room which was most attractive with bouquets of fragrant lilacs which ranged in shades from the deepest purple to the double whites, intermingled with a variety of tulips in colors of brightest reds and yellows.

Inviting the guests to the tea room were Mrs. H. S. Robbins, Mrs. J. Demeza, and Mrs. W. H. Finkle.

Mrs. H. A. Parker, and Mrs. H. McBurney were treasurers for the afternoon.

BEAUTIFUL TEA TABLE

The tea table was exceptionally beautiful with its centrepiece of gay geraniums in a harmonizing and brilliant colouring, accented by the black bowl in which they were resting, and the black, flanking candlesticks.

Those presiding at the silver services were Mrs. H. J. Clarke, Mrs. C. Coleman, Mrs. R. Rowley, Mrs. C. Bateman, Mrs. H. Ackerman and Mrs. F. S. Deacon.

Among those assisting in the tea room and other capacities were Mesdames C. Hibbard, R. Dulmage, D. Scott, J. McArthur, W. Dallas, F. Winslow, G. Wellman, J. Dyble, W. G. Anderson, F. R. Wotten, C. Bateman, T. Hall, J. Loynes, L. Lewis, I. Dickens, O. Beer, C. B. Morgan, C. Rogers, D. LaFrance, N. O'Neil, E. Myers, J. Nelles, A. E. MacKenzie, P. Anderson, G. Summerhill, M. Hott, E. N. Sutton, E. Gurnett, D. Leslie, R. Warren, J. Pringle, F. Moore, T. C. Miller, W. Fox, H. Frances, C. E. Myers, N. Cathers, A. May, R. D. Arnott, A. Calnan, C. Morton, R. G. Walsh, A. E. Giles, W. Slade and Misses C. Giles, W. Allen.

WELL-PATRONIZED HOMECOOKING

The well-patronized home cooking table, under the convenership of Mrs. E. Denyes and Mrs. R. Bateman, with their assistants, Mrs. F. Revell, Mrs. H. Kells, Mrs. C. Massey, Mrs. K. Pinder, Mrs. J. Ireland, Mrs. H. P. Twiddy, Mrs. H. McEwath, and Miss Pearl Campbell, was replete with all the fine pastries, jellies, and delicacies, for which the ladies of the church are so well known.

The lovely floral arrangements were the result of the artistic talents of Mrs. H. Wray, Mrs. F. C. Miller and Mrs. K. Pinder.

To the convener, Mrs. Ron Stanton and Mrs. H. J. Fuke, goes a "well done" for a dainty and successful tea, and a "thankyou" to all who assisted in its delightful culmination.

Holloway EBWA Sponsors Fine Spring Tea

A delightful Spring Tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. O. Denyes, 74 Catharine St., sponsored by the Evening Group of Holloway St. United Church W.A. The president, Margaret Hutt, and Mrs. C. Coleman, graciously received the guests, who were then invited to the tea-room by the hostesses, Helen McKibbon, Marion Armstrong, Jean Digby and Dorothy Bowen.

The tea room was attractively decorated with spring flowers, and a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums and snapdragons and lighted candles adorned the buffet.

The serving plates were daintily decorated with flowers and ribbons, and looked most delectable with tasty sandwiches and dainty cookies.

Those serving were Rita Harland; Helen Joblin: Elizabeth Deline; June Sine; Marlene Coulter, and Irene Wilson.

Replenishing plates were: Ruth Lowther; Edna Dobbs; Gwen Kerr; Elfreida Vader; Jean Townsend, and Hilda Lawrenson.

Assisting Ruth Bailey in the kitchen were: Laura Martin, Eunice Stratton, Helen Harper and Ellen Wager.

Ethel Knight acted as treasurer.

The homecooking table held a delicious assortment of pies, cakes, tarts and cookies, which readily disappeared. Small boxes of plants could also be bought at this booth. In charge were Grace McAuley, Marion Richardson, Eileen Conley, Melba Demille and Eileen Moore.

A most delightful and successful tea, with many thanks being accorded Mrs. Denyes for so graciously opening her home for this occasion. Also to Laura Martin for the use of her home to prepare the fancy sandwiches.

CLAN CHIEF TO VISIT

TORONTO (CP)—The chief of the Clan Cameron, Lt.-Col. Donald Cameron, will begin a journey through Canada July 10 to strengthen the bonds that join the Camerons and to celebrate the wonders of his native land. Among the points he will visit will be Brockville, Ottawa and Toronto.

Girl Guides L.A. To Display 47 Demi-Puppets

On May 24th the local association of Girl Guides will present a collection of historical demi-puppets and dolls in authentic period costume, which will be on display in St. Thomas' Parish House next Wednesday.

This collection, made in England and which has been here as is of great artistic value, being authentic in every historical and period. It has toured Great Britain, when lent to the Girl Guides by the late Lady Wrench, who is the sister of Sir Evelyn Wrench, founder of the English Speaking Union, where it successfully raised funds for the Girl Guide Association. It has now been kindly donated to the Girl Guides of Canada by Miss Wrench, and after its present Canadian tour will go on to New Zealand and Australia, under the auspices of the Girl Guides of the two fellow Commonwealth countries.

There are 47 demi-puppets, shown in four cases, they represent ladies and gentlemen of the times dating from the 14th Century to Edwardian period, the whole brought up to date by a set of charming ladies, members of the Royal family beginning with a group of Queen Victoria and the Prince Consorts.

An interesting point is that, local ingenuity has been used to be taken as entirely correct in detail, material used, and ornamentation. Such as Queen Victoria's wedding veil, which was actually copied for costume play from a piece of the historical pageants. Notable are the beautiful colors of the early 18th century materials, which were, in some cases, original pieces, in others are being skilfully reproduced. Small boxes were specially woven and embroidered to the necessary proportions in pattern.

It is interesting to think that this exhibition of dolls, puppets and dolls will be viewed by many thousands of Girl Guides belonging to the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations.

The local association hopes the general public will avail itself of this opportunity of viewing this famous collection. In order to make it possible for many to see this collection it will be on display in the afternoon and evening. Tickets will also be used to entertain non-Canadian Guides who are being billeted in Belleville by local Guides, prior to going to the Centenary Jamboree held at Deer Lake, in August.

200 Attend Confirmation at St. Margaret's

Approximately 200 attended the first Confirmation Service on Thursday evening in the new church of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, when 26 children, four adults were confirmed, and three adults received into the Anglican Church, by the Right Reverend B. C. Swans, D.D., Bishop of Ontario.

Other clergy present were the Reverend L. Arthur Page, rector of the church; the Reverend C. F. Heaven, Bishop's Chaplain, and the Reverend E. P. Smith, assistant rector of Christ Church, who brought one candidate, Mr. William Gibbs, of Christ Church. The wardens and members from Shannonville were also present.

Adults: Charles William Fraser, Clifford Lattue, Thomas Andrew Stark and Ruth Marshall Jones.

The following were received into the Anglican Church: Robert McIsaac, Arthur Cody and Robert Bailey.

Following the service, a social gathering was held for the confirmation delegates and their relatives convened by Mrs. William Parish, assisted by Mrs. Robert Bailey, Mrs. R. G. Barns, Mrs. F. Murray and Mrs. G. W. Spring.

TORONTO (CP)—Four-year-old Sandra Lynn Foster died en route to hospital Wednesday night after being hit by a car in the south-western end of the city.

Holy Rosary CWL Holds Annual Communion

Holy Rosary C.W.L. held its first annual communion breakfast at the K. of C. hall last Sunday.

There were 46 ladies present, and each one received a holy water font as a remembrance on the occasion.

Guests included the Reverend Sister Mary Evelyn, principal, Holy Rosary School; Mrs. R. Logan, president St. Michael's C.W.L.; and Mrs. Hanley, president of St. Joseph's C.W.L.

Mrs. Irene Smith, president of Holy Rosary C.W.L. introduced the guest speaker, the Reverend Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy. Her topic was "Devotion to the Mother of God." Sister traced the history of this devotion, showing its continuity from the earliest centuries of Christianity to the present day. She dwelt particularly on the historical facts connected with the devotion to Our Lady of Good Counsel, a title ascribed to the Blessed Virgin, which has particular significance for the Catholic Women of Canada.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Basford Mabley, spiritual convener.

Grace was said by the Reverend Sister Mary Andrew, bringing a most enjoyable breakfast to a close.

PINNED IN WRECK

HAMILTON (CP)—Dirk Devos, 22, was pinned in his wrecked automobile for almost an hour and a half Tuesday after a head-on collision with a transport in which his two-year-old daughter Ricky was tossed through the windshield into a field. The two are in hospital with possible head injuries.

NEW PRODUCTS SIMPLIFY HOME PERMANENTS AND SHAMPOOS

A new applicator for both wave lotion and neutralizer makes home perms easier, faster.

With more and more women giving themselves permanents, any product which tends to make the job easier is received with hurrahs of delight. One which we think will appeal to you has just been put on the market by one of the leaders in the home permanent market. Essentially, it is a new applicator which can be purchased with the perm kit. Called "double-easy" because it applies the waving lotion and the neutralizer directly to the hair, doing both jobs easier and faster than ever. It also puts an end to messy waving, since dipping with cotton and fingers is entirely eliminated.

The pink plastic applicator bottle holds all the lotion and neutralizer you need for a complete wave. The applicator sponge top is the exact width of a curl and it spreads on the waving lotion smoothly, in one clean stroke, without combing or squirting. Then, after your curls are wound, you simply fit the bottle with neutralizer and remove the sponge top. Slight tiny sprays beneath it inject the neutralizer inside the curl where neither your fingers nor cotton can reach.

This " "double-easy" applicator and the new "evening-waving" lotion take all the guess work out of permanent waving. The applicator bottle stands upright when not in use so you always have your hands free for curl winding. Best of all, you get the most even wave ever. You can't over-wave and you can't under-wave, thanks to this new controlled method of applying waving lotion and neutralizer. What's more, you can reuse applicator whenever you wave.

Incidentally, this same firm has a new crystal clear liquid shampoo that lathers beautifully and rinses out twice cleaner than you ever imagined, leaving your hair with the high polish which is naturally its own. Because it deep-rinses, this new liquid eliminates the need for an "extra" rinse with lemon or vinegar to cut residue and dulling film. It contains neither color additives nor thick oily cling stuff sure to dull the hair and mask its natural highlights. We think you'll like it.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE THIS WIFE SHOULD CONCENTRATE ON HERSELF FOR AWHILE

Remember the young wife who wrote me recently that her husband was always grumpy and he never said a word of appreciation about his well-kept home, his well-cared for children, the wife who worked hard to keep things running smoothly, never showed her any affection and didn't nothing whatever to make him happy? To top it all off, he was rude to her family and didn't even want her mother to come to see her during the day, when he wasn't home.

In short, he took everything she did as a matter of course and gave nothing in return except financial support.

In commenting on this letter I suggested that possibly this husband might not be well physically so that he was too exhausted after his day's work to do anything but sit around silently in the evening. I asked if he had changed a lot since they had been married and I wondered if the wife had done everything possible to make him feel important in the home.

I've now had a second letter from this 34-year-old wife, written after she had read my remarks about her situation.

She tells me that the family physician says her husband's health is excellent; that her husband took her out and was affectionate to her before their marriage but changed in these respects after the honeymoon. She has tried, she says, to make him feel important at home by consulting him on everything, but "he is very domineering and feels that as long as he is earning the money he has 99 percent control over the household." She wants to know if I have anything further to suggest.

Well, perhaps instead of trying to show her husband that she loves and appreciates him, it's time she did something to make him love and appreciate her. If that's possible.

What I'd suggest, therefore. Is that, instead of devoting every moment of her day, and every bit of her thinking, to making sure that the home is comfortable and the atmosphere pleasant for him she should make up her mind to devote a reasonable amount of her time and thought to herself. She can make me believe that, in her effort to solve her problem, she's given up all outside interests, and here is the place, I think, she should start to work on herself.

She has small children, it's true. But, unless her husband keeps such a tight hold on the money that she can't squeeze out enough for a baby-sitter, she should be able to manage some free time for herself so she could get out with her friends and share their activities. So next time the children are taking naps, and she has a period of temporary quiet, let her sit down with pencil and paper and list things she would enjoy doing outside her home. Then let her get busy and plan how she can get in at least some of them regularly.

I realize that this sounds like a very small attempt at solving a very big problem. But it's entirely possible that her preoccupation with the problem has resulted in her becoming such a woman no one idea that her husband no longer finds her interesting, and so doesn't bother to make himself interesting to her. If she'll try out this program I've suggested and recapture some of the vivacity and enthusiasm she no doubt had before her marriage, she may be surprised to find that, little by little, her husband begins to take a very different attitude toward her. I believe it's worth a try, anyhow.

Handsome Tote Bag

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here is a bag that is certainly a traveller's choice and is just as welcomed by busy shoppers and career girls with most of their business in hand.

This one is a large oversized satchel made of beige homespun with blond leather trim including the two double handles that make it so convenient to hang over the arm. Sturdy gold plated hardware adds an elegant touch.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GROOM'S NAME ON WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just received an invitation to the wedding of my cousin I was surprised to see that on this invitation to the church ceremony "Mr." is engraved before his name. Shouldn't the "Mr." have been omitted, and only his first and last names used?

— Dorothy B.

On a formal wedding invitation "Mr." is engraved before the groom's name:

Mr. John Peter Hall

HOW TO ANSWER FORMAL INVITATION TO COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me how to reply to a formal invitation to the Commencement Exercises of a large private school. The invitation asks for a reply ("R.s.v.p."), and my husband and I will accept the invitation. Also, should I address the reply to the Faculty and the Senior Class or to the school itself?

C.M.

On the first page of double-sheet letter-paper or note-paper write:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall will accept with pleasure

the kind invitation of

The Faculty and the Senior Class of the Grace School to the Commencement Exercises

on Friday, the seventh of June

at eleven o'clock

If, as is customary, the invitation is worded from The Faculty and the Senior Class, you word your acceptance to them (as suggested above), and you address the envelope of your reply to them.

WHEN BRIDE HAS BOTH MATRON OF HONOR AND MAID OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to have both a matron of honor and a maid of honor. My sister, ten years younger than I, will be my matron of honor. The maid of honor will be a very close friend of mine of my age.

(1) To which one should I give the greater honor?

(2) What would be the position of each in the processionals?

(3) Do their gowns have to be the same style and color, or is that at the discretion of the bride and the honor attendants? — A.

(1) Since your sister will be the matron of honor you would naturally choose her as a witness, and you would assign to her the delightful responsibilities of arranging your train and veil (before you start up the aisle and as you turn to go down the aisle after the ceremony) and of holding your bouquet during part of the ceremony and returning it to you after the ceremony.

(2) If your honor attendants are to walk separately up the aisle (the better plan, I think, particularly in your case) your maid of honor, your friend, would walk first, and your sister, matron of honor, would walk in the position of greater honor, directly preceding you and your father, or whoever is to escort you.

(3) It is you who make this decision. And I advise you to follow today's usual idea, to have the attendants, in the artistic plan for uniformity, dressed alike, dresses of the same style and color, same headdresses, same design and color of bouquets.

Alberta Entry Highly Praised By Adjudicator

EDMONTON (CP) — Sweeping praise of everyone and everything in the Medicine Hat Civic Theatre's Stalag 17 came from adjudicator Robert Speaight at the Dominion Drama Festival Tuesday night.

The London director and author found himself with "practically nothing to say by way of criticism" after he and a full house of 2,700 had watched the three-act comedy-melodrama about a Second World War German prison camp.

"I have not in my experience in Canadian festivals—a not inconsiderable experience—seen a better all-round performance," Mr. Speaight said. He adjudicated the 1946 final and 1949 regional festivals.

Performances of the all-male cast of 21 were "all adequate and in some cases distinguished" in addition to revealing a "considerable achievement of character."

Director Henry Allergoth had maintained a flawless rhythm and tempo in the play—"I couldn't see any point at which his direction was at fault."

Mr. Speaight said the Medicine Hat group—which won five of the seven awards offered in the Alberta regional festival—had made the play a "team play" wherein the burden was placed "very evenly on a very large cast."

Most of Mr. Speaight's praise went to John Komanchuk, a big man who played the colorful Stosh by being "large but not heavy." Mr. Komanchuk was a "delight to watch," Mr. Speaight said.

Today, two plays were scheduled.

L'Union Theatral de Sherbrooke, Que., is to present as a matinee Yvon Theriault's translation to French of the morality play Our Town by Thornton Wilder.

Tonight, the University of New Brunswick Drama Society is to present J. B. Priestley's Dangerous Corner.

Spring Song

By ALICE ALDEN

The whisper of taffeta rustles through the spring sartorial symphony. Nat Kaplan uses inky black silk taffeta for a most attractive two-piece dress with touches of white for an added attraction. The skirt is a full swirl of knife pleats slightly rounded over the hips. The molded jacket is double collared and cuffed with richly embroidered white organdy. A beautiful idea for important occasions such as a wedding and perfect for important late-day dates. Delightful too, in navy blue with white.

Couples Tell Formulas for Married Bliss

TORONTO (CP)—Eight Ontario couples who have celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries have told their formulas for married bliss.

They were guests at a luncheon Tuesday to mark the inaugural ceremonies of the third phase of the Regent Park South low-cost housing project in east - central Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilliat of London, Ont., advised a system of "give and take."

Mr. Gilliat said "don't boss your wife at home and don't let her boss you at business."

A retired newspaper man from London, England, Mr. Gilliat said he's become domesticated since he and his wife came to Canada eight years ago. Mrs. Gilliat retorted that "this means drying the dishes."

HUMOR HELPS

Married 69 years, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frizzell of Toronto said they believed married people have to be broadminded and above all have a sense of humor. Mr. Frizzell is a retired 90-year-old railway man.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. James Machin of Toronto regret one day of their 61 years of matrimony. Mr. Machin recommended that prospective husbands should treat their wives with gentleness. He said "my hobby is loving my wife and I'm not going to stop."

Mr. and Mrs. John Clemis, Toronto, suggested that young people should live according to their income and even below. The Glenies agreed that money problems are the chief source of unhappiness between couples.

Luncheon guests also included Mr. and Mrs. William Boddy, Oshawa.

Wants Driver With Both Hands On Wheel

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP) — Local beauty queen Lilliane Lavallee, 22, says she'd rather drive with a boy who keeps both hands on the wheel than with one arm around her.

"Show-off drivers really make me mad," she says.

Since she holds these convictions, officials look to her as an efficient mentor of the provincial roadeo to foster safer teen-age driving, scheduled for St. Lambert on June 1.

At this safe-driving exhibition boys who have previously won driving contests in their communities will compete for a gold cup and a $100 prize for skill and safety on the road.

The teen-age roadeo was begun two years ago and provincial officials hope that youngsters taught safe driving habits will retain them as they grow older.

Miss Lavallee thinks that reckless drivers impress very few girls on a date.

"If boys realized this, I think a lot of dangerous driving would stop," she says.

Apart from speeding, bad driving habits which she frowns on include lighting cigarets while driving, "tourist-guiding" with attention of the driver fixed on anything except the highway, and talking over the shoulder to someone in the back seat.

"I don't want to be an accident statistic," says Lilliane.

I Baked A Cake

By Mary Moore

What I wanted was the best possible layer cake with the perfect filling and the perfect frosting, that would satisfy my severest critics.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY
(French Cured Supper)

Jellied Salmon Loaf (see Wednesday), Asparagus Golden Rod (see Wednesday); Mixed Sweet Pickles, Tossed Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Cheesed French Loaf, Lemon Meringue Pie, Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Shoulder of Pork with Dressing, Compote of Red Apples or Spiced Applesauce, Lima Beans with Sour Cream (see Saturday), Parsley, Carrots, Fresh Strawberries, Feathery Spice Cake, Coffee.

It was to pass on for a demonstration to one of our readers whom I believe is too modest to be named.

Suffice to say then that the 2-layer cake I made came up to all specifications. Try it and tell me if it meets your idea of a prize winning layer cake.

Prize winning layer cake (with fresh grated cocoanut or chopped nuts.)

One cup butter (or half butter an half shortening), 2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanille, 3 cups sifted cake flour, ¾ cup milk. You may use your electric beater at medium speed for creaming the butter, sugar and eggs. If you are using a wooden spoon be sure you beat until they are light and whipped. Measure butter into beater bowl and beat till very light and fluffy, then gradually add sugar while beating. When sugar is all beaten in and mixture is very light in color and texture, beat eggs into mixture, one at a time until all four are beaten in thoroughly. Sift the flour, and measure it by spooning it into a measuring cup and levelling off top with handle of spoon or straight knife. Sift it again with the baking powder and salt. Measure the milk and add vanilla to it. Now add the flour mixture 1/3 at a time, alternating with the milk. 1/3 of it too, at a time. But fold it in now - if using the beater for the better-egg mixture remove it from the beater now and finish by folding in the flour and milk until batter is just smooth. Turn into 3 8-inch layer cake tins which have been buttered on the sides and bottom and sprinkled with flour which has been knocked out of the pan when it is coated. Or use 2 9-inch layer cake tins and 7 muffin tins for the excess batter. Bake in preheated oven at 375 deg. F.hr. for about 25 minutes. The 3 8-inch layers require only about 23 minutes in my oven. Allow to stand 3 to 5 minutes before turning out on cake racks to cool. When thoroughly cool put together with -

CUSTARD CREAM FILLING

One-half cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour, shake of salt, 1¼ cups milk, 2 egg yolks slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla. (Save whites for frosting.) Combine in top of double boiler the sugar, flour and salt and when mixed add milk and yolks stirring well. Stir over boiling water till thickcoats a silver spoon - cooking about 10 minutes in all. Cool. Add vanilla. Spread when cool between three layers or if cold may be used for one layer of filling, that will be thicker.

SEVEN MINUTE FROSTING:

In top of double boiler combine 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1½ cups sugar, 5 tablespoons water (level), and 1½ teaspoons corn syrup. Place over boiling water and beat with rotary beater 7 minutes or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from heat, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread. Sprinkle top and sides with either freshly grated, very fine cocoanut, which has been removed from the shell and all brown skin peeled off or sprinkle all over with finely chopped hickory or black or English walnuts or pecans.

A lovely picture and a baker's delight ! !

NOTE:

This Custard Cream Filling is wonderful for Cream Puffs or Eclairs.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

BONARLAW W.A.

BONARLAW — Mrs. George Wellman was hostess to the ladies of the W.A. for the May meeting.

The litany and prayers were taken by Rev. J. Fleming. Mrs. Fleming read the Scripture.

The secretary read the diocesan board letter, also one from Mrs. J. Baker for plant received and a thank-you from Mrs. S. Matthews for a remembrance while in hospital.

The Dorcas secretary reported on the bale sent to the Indian school.

A pot-luck dinner and quilting will be held in the basement of St. Mark's on June 5th.

The rector closed the meeting and Mrs. Wellman served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

HILLIER W.A.

HILLIER SOUTH — The members of the Hillier United Church Women's Association entertained at Hillier Church on Wednesday afternoon the members of either W.A. groups from Salem, Melville, Rose Hall, Concession and Wellington.

The president, Mrs. Monahan, presided and welcomed the guests and announced the opening number, the theme song followed by Scripture reading and prayer. Mrs. C. Clapp was pianist.

The Hillier group presented the worship service, Scripture reading was by Mrs. Gerow and message given by Mrs. MacGregor.

The program consisted of one number given by each visiting group. Miss C. Cleave favored with a piano solo and Mrs. J. DeVieres, a piano accordion solo.

At this time, Mrs. Cook was called to introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. R. Bush, who thanked Mrs. Cook for the kindly introduction. Mrs. Bush gave an interesting and timely message, delighting her listeners.

Mrs. J. Taylor, on behalf of the group, thanked Mrs. Bush for the splendid discourse.

Mrs. Hardy Melville gave a reading and the program concluded with the singing of the hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be."

Dainty refreshments were served with Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. Cook pouring tea.

Mrs. L. Weeks, on behalf of the groups, thanked Hillier for the afternoon entertainment and social time enjoyed.

AUTHOR AND LIBRARIAN

HAMILTON (CP) — Cecil Williams, 66, author and for many years chief librarian at the Hamilton Spectator, died Tuesday. Mr. Williams, who suffered a heart seizure a week ago, was author of The Foundations of Intelligence, a scientific report on the pattern of proper thinking. He had been a student of psychology for 40 years.

Club Activities

NEIGHBORS' AID

2nd. THURLOW — The May meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix on Wednesday afternoon with about 35 adult members and 17 children present.

The president, Mrs. M. Mitchell, presided and after opening in the usual manner, welcomed all, especially the visitors and thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

Mrs. M. Dent read the minutes and correspondence while the treasurer, Mrs. H. Thomson, reported the expenses, and money on hand. It was voted to give $10 and a quilt to a family who were burned out in Trenton recently. Some money was also donated and clothing is to be sent later.

Mrs. Robt. Atkins thanked the ladies for the fine response for the girl "Ranger" cookie sale on Saturday as over 70 dozen were sold, which was gratifying to the girls and their leader.

Mrs. Stewart Ray was in charge of the following program which opened with community singing with Mrs. George Ashley at the piano. Little Gail Dent gave a recitation, entitled "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go", also one by Jimmy Thomson "When I Was A Little Boy" and one by Linda Ray, all of which were enjoyed. Readings were given: "Mothers," by Mrs. Doxtator; by Mrs. A. Mitchell: "Deafness of Husbands"; by Mrs. C. Howard, "Monkey Face". Also some helpful household hints and riddles were enjoyed. Mrs. A. Mitchell also had several catchy riddles which also caused some fun. Community singing concluded the program.

Mrs. Ray thanked all who helped and the president thanked Mrs. Ray for arranging the program.

Mrs. Robt. Atkins brought a basket of gladioli bulbs, which were sold and funds donated to the Aid.

Some old minutes of 1937 were read by Mrs. D. Atkins, which revives old times and memories of the past, especially for the older members.

Mrs. Logan donated money for the Trenton family who lost their all by fire.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. Greatrix.

Mesdames J. Chumbly, F. Doxtator, Thos. Portt, Charles Kleri, were the cooking conveners for the May meeting.

Mrs. Arnold Mitchell invited the Aid to her home for the June meeting.

The baking conveners will be Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. O. Stratton, Mrs. W. Gray, Mrs. R. Jeffery.

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW W. I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. Ridley Wallbridge, of Trent Rd., kindly opened her home to en- the members of Moun- View Women's Institute for the May meeting.

The meeting was opened with the new president, Mrs. G. Neal, presiding. It was decided to send a donation to aid in the hospital fete at Picton.

A sing-song was enjoyed by all and Mrs. Ben Anderson read an article on helping the mentally ill. Duss were paid by all.

Mrs. Clark Sprung made a presentation to the past pres- dent, Mrs. Stanley Barber.

Mrs. James Wallbridge thank- ed the hostess for her kind hos- pitality.

Mrs. Wallbridge, with several ladies assisting, served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed by all.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Stan- Barber in the evening.

ROSLIN W.I.

ROSLIN — The May meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Don Chisholm with 31 ladies present.

The new president, Mrs. Don Chisholm, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "Don't wait till Tomorrow."

Correspondence included an appeal from the Salvation Army to which it was decided to send $10. A local leader training school will be held in the county this year, with two leaders from each branch attending. The sub- ject chosen for this year's course is the making of lamp shades. Leaders chosen were: Mrs. J. D. Empson and Mrs. H. Chis- holm.

The district annual will be held on June 4th in Melrose United Church commencing at 10 a.m.

For the summer months the W.I. meetings will be held in the evening commencing at 8.30 p.m.

The district director, Mrs. W. Slingerland, reported on the re- cent district meeting held in Belleville.

The leader, Miss Alice Wilson, conducted the program, the theme of which was "Empire" giving the history of the British Empire — the largest empire of the ancient or modern world. The first great period of Eng- lish colonial expansion occurred in the 17th century, with the chartering of the British East India Company, The Treaty of Westminster in 1931, formally ended the British Empire and officially made it the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Mrs. Earl Gray favored with and instrumental "Canadian Capers."

The topic, "Rural Homes in Different Lands," told of home life in Ceylon, Australia, Swe- den, The Netherlands, England and Wales, also the reading of Home!"

and essay, "What Makes a Rural Miss Alice Wilson gave a poem, "What Makes a Nation?"

The convener for citizenship and education, Mrs. W. H. Chis- holm, gave a report on the na- tion and the home closing with a poem, All joined in singing, "Home Sweet Home."

A splendid report of the Guelph conference was given by Mrs. Don Chisholm, who re- ported that the 60th anniver- sary films are available now. She spoke of the National open con- vention in Ottawa, in October. She added that the first reso- lution ever passed by the Insti- tute was a motion that bread be wrapped.

After the close of the meeting, the hostess and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. E. Logan Named President Of Catholic Women's League

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's Catholic Women's League was held Wednesday evening with Mrs. B. E. Burley, acting president, in the chair.

The Very Rev. L. B. Garvin opened with prayer. Mrs. E. Logan read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved. Then the director installed the new slate of officers:

Director, Very Rev. L. B. Garvin; past president, Mrs. B. E. Burley; president, Mrs. E. Logan; first vice-president, Mrs. T. C. Young; second vice-president, Mrs. R. Ackerman; third vice-president, Mrs. D. Rorabeck; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Rashotte; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Bell; treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Boyd. Councillors (Foster Ward): Mrs. A. Wanthaugh, Mrs. J. O'Connor, Mrs. G. Cooney. (Samson Ward): Mrs. J. Sheridan, Mrs. A. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. J. Ethier, Mrs. F. Rawson. (Ketcheson Ward): Mrs. R. Galbraith, Mrs. A. Bigonaise, Mrs. K. Soden. (Baldwin Ward): Mrs. E. McCallum, Mrs. H. Jones, Mrs. R. Burley, Mrs. T. Clancy, Mrs. J. Sweeney. (Bleecker Ward): Mrs. L. Daley, Mrs. J. Dorlen, Mrs. E. Bourcette, Mrs. G. Faux. (Coleman Ward): Mrs. J. Lupinette, Mrs. L. Masterson, Mrs. J. Doyle, Mrs. J. R. Kelly. (Murney Ward): Mrs. G. Hitman, Mrs. S. Kvarda, Mrs. C. Reed, Mrs. M. F. Kelley.

Bazaar convener, Miss Lillian Courneyes; tag day, Mrs. M. F. Kelley; citizenship convener, Mrs. R. E. Barrett; spiritual convener, Mrs. D. Rorabeck; membership convener, Mrs. C. T. Young; education convener, Mrs. R. Ackerman; Guides and Brownies convener, Mrs. J. Walsh; hospital visitors, Mrs. M. Trudeau; V.O.N., Mrs. J. E. Boyd; hospitality conveners, Mrs. D. Moran, Mrs. F. Domenico, Mrs. J. Perrault, Mrs. J. H. Cowan; Blue Army of Mary convener, Mrs R. Ackerman.

Mrs. Logan gave an inspiring talk asking for co-operation from each and every member and a good attendance at each meeting during the year. She also asked every member to keep this list of officers for future reference.

Mrs. C. T. Young, first vice-president and membership convener, reported on Sunday, May 5th. Three ladies received membership fees at each Mass. This was very successful with a total of $132 being collected. This will be repeated one Sunday in June and then the councillors will be on their own to increase membership.

Mrs. M. F. Kelley, tag day convener, asked co-operation from all members for taggers on Friday, May 24th, from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, May 25th, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mrs. Kelley feels the early morning hours are important.

Mrs. C. T. Young, in the absence of Mrs. Marie Bell, corresponding secretary, read the following report: Four get-well cards; two baby congratulations and two sympathy cards had been sent and one letter to Mrs. L. B. Fonger acknowledging the invitation to attend the May meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Belleville General Hospital. Thank-you notes were received from Mrs. T. Hutchinson Sr. and Mrs. Mary Domenico, also one from Mrs. B. Burley for the silver flower bowl given her for her untiring work for the past two years. Rosaries were said for Mrs. Henery and Mrs. J. Bennett.

Hospital conveners Mrs. J. Sheridan and Mrs. F. Belisle made 160 visits to patients during the month of April. This was a record high so far.

Mrs. B. E. Burley made a motion that $5 be sent to Hastings Mental Health Association.

Mrs. Logan suggested a pot-luck supper be held in September this year instead of February.

A motion was made by Mrs. J. E. Boyd for a tea to be held at the rectory on June 18th.

Mrs. Boyd read a letter from Father Oliver of Wikwemikong, Ontario, thanking everyone for the used clothing sent.

Diocesan convention will be held June 3rd and 4th in Kingston at the Cathedral school. His Grace the Most Rev. A. J. Sullivan will be present at the banquet. The guest speaker will be Rev. M. G. Meehan, CSSR. The theme will be "Our Lady, Queen of Home." Everyone is welcome.

Mrs. M. F. Kelley moved adjournment after which refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

MARMORA — The May meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held in the church parlor.

Circle 2 was in charge of the devotional period. The lesson thought "Forgiveness" was read by Mrs. V. Glover and the Scripture Matthew 18, was read by Mrs. G. Meiklejohn who also gave a reading, "Dedicated to Grandma."

The business meeting followed. It was decided that the W.A. purchase nine New Testaments for the new church members.

A paper on 'Christian Citizenship was given by Mrs. Prentice.

Mrs. Murphy, president of the W.A. thanked all who had helped make the bazaar a success.

Plans were discussed for reorganizing a C.G.I.T. class and plans were also made for those wishing to attend the W.A. convenino to be held in Grace United Church, Trenton, on May 30th.

Pine Grove W.I. Invited to B.G.H.

The May meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Coulter, with 13 members and three visitors present.

It was decided to give a donation to the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield was appointed delegate to the district annual meeting at Stirling, June 6.

An invitation was read from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Belleville, to attend their May meeting at which a specialist will speak.

The branch is sending Mrs. Alex. Tanner, leader, and Mrs. Grace Partindale, assistant leader, to the local training school for its two-day session.

Mrs. Ross reported on the annual W.I. convention, which was held at O.A.C. in Guelph earlier this month.

Mrs. Finkle thanked her for the complete report.

Two contests were enjoyed, following which the meeting was adjourned for refreshments.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Congratulations are extended to Miss Joan Shoemaker, who was successful in passing on her year's work at Peterborough Teachers' College. Joan returned home on Friday.

Choir practice was held at the home of Mrs. W. Jeffery on Thursday evening.

Miss Pearl Nicolson is holidaying with her mother, Mrs. Everett Nicolson, and sister, Mrs. Victor Halsey.

An executive meeting of Bayside Home and School Club was held at the school on Thursday evening.

Mr. Fred T. Tweed, of Ottawa spent the weekend with his brother, LAC. and Mrs. George Tweed and family.

Sunday service was held at White's Church with Mr. Robert Percival using as his text, "For I Know the Thoughts of Peace and Not of Evil." Mr. Percival announced classes for young people wishing to unite with White's Church, commencing on Thursday evening, May 23, at the parsonage at 7 o'clock. Classes will be held for adults wishing to unite with White's Church.

Miss Beth Palmer and Mrs. Floyd Sandercock are patients in Trenton Memorial Hospital. Friends hope they will soon be able to return home.

DANGEROUS!

Governor-General Massey brings a shocked expression to the face of N. H. Bouck, vice-president of the Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada Limited, when he puts his hand in a barrel of toxic uranium oxide during a visit to the mine at Elliot Lake, near Deep River, Ont. Mr. Massey, now on a tour of the Maritimes, was not harmed by the chemical. (CP from National Film Board).

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mr. and Mrs. W. Ancorn, of West Hill, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber.

Mrs. E. Anderson, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson were entertained at a turkey dinner at the home of Mr. John Anderson and Miss Lillian Anderson, on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Sprague, of Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague.

Mr. Fred Lauder, of Oshawa, spent a recent weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. Burkitt and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Minaker and children.

Miss Yvonne Poste, of the Bell Telephone staff, Belleville, who is relieving in the Napanee office for several weeks, spent Victoria Day at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waterling and family have moved into their new home recently purchased from Mr. Charles Sprague.

LOWER NATIONAL DEBT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government Thursday paid off more than $1,000,000,000 of the national debt. It now stands at just under $272,500,000,000 — about $1,505 for every man, woman and child in the country. This is the lowest point since Feb. 1950, when the debt was $257,357,352,351.

MARMORA

Music, Picnic Planned by H-S

MARMORA — The Home and School Association met in the new public school building for their May annual meeting.

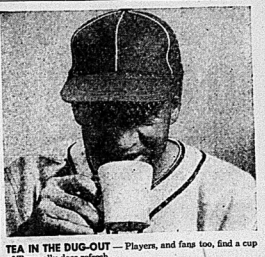
In the absence of the president, Mrs. Meiklejohn, occupied the chair and the meeting opened in the usual manner.

Plans were discussed for the coming music festival and annual picnic.

A sextet of girls, Mary Lynd McGinnis; Joyce Campion; Bonnie Johnston; Beverley Embleton; Linda Meiklejohn and Jane Glover, rendered a vocal selection in harmony.

Mrs. A. Lorenson gave a reading.

Reports from the president, secretary and conveners of various committees were given concerning the closing year's activities.



Mr. Prentice declared all offices vacant and presided for the election of the following officers for 1957-58:

President, Mrs. T. Pearce; vice-president, Mrs. Meiklejohn; secretary, Mrs. C. Bedore; treasurer, Mrs. Armstrong; executive: Mrs. Bloch, Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Lorenson, Mrs. C. Neal, Mrs. Bobyk, Mrs. E. Leonard, Mrs. Manchester. Officers were installed by Mrs. Chrysler.

Mr. Watson's room won the banner for the highest percentage present.

The meeting closed with "God Save the Queen" and refreshments were served.

Mr. Marett discussed the new building and its present needs. Everyone made a tour of inspection and expressed compliments concerning the successful efforts of all those involved in its erection. The official opening has not yet taken place although two grades are in session.

TORNADOES TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF LIVES, HOMES

souri towns wrecked by tornadoes in two days left a death toll of over 50 and scores of debris in place of snug homes.

An alert sounded four hours before the last tornado struck, allowing many to find protection in storm cellars.

CPR and Firemen's Union Still in Firm Disagreement After Diesel Issue Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—Firm disagreement still separates the CPR and union as its firemen's union after almost three months of royal commission hearings on the diesel issue that provoked a nine-day tieup of the railway in January.

The CPR insists that, generally, diesel firemen are useless. The firemen say they are not only useful but necessary.

The whole question of the use of firemen on diesel-powered trains in both Canada and the United States could pivot on the battle between the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) before the commission under Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Railroads and unions in both countries are following it closely, looking on the eventual finding as possible bellwether.

CPR PROPOSAL

The issue in Canada hinges on: a CPR proposal to eliminate—over a time—firemen on yard and freight diesel engines. They would be retained on passenger diesels.

All of the railroads in the major railroads in the U.S. and Canada—including this country's two transcontinentals—have opposed last year that firemen be reduced in diesel service.

All except one eventually capitulated, despite the management view that in diesel engines the diesel fireman's job is just "featherbedding". The one exception: Not the employment of men—usually at union insistence — not needed for a job.

Canada's publicly - owned CNR was among those yielding to the union.

The lone holdout has been the CPR. It went through the strike, followed by appointment of the royal commission that is to make recommendations — strictly advisory—to the federal government.

ISSUE A PROBLEM

What will happen to the royal commission's recommendations is problematical. The CPR wanted to have them made binding on both disputants. The union demurred. Prime Minister St. Laurent has said they should have such potency that either side could turn them down. The CPR later stated it will accept them

It appears he leave it up to the union as to whether a new strike threat develops out of it.

Meanwhile, there appears little chance that this could come about until late this fall.

The issue the minister has stated that there is a government-union-company agreement that the royal commission's findings should be received by Oct. 6 There now is no prospect of this.

The draggingly - slow hearings began March 3 and promise to go beyond mid-June. They have certainly precluding the chance of a report by the end of May, as minister. Late October or early November would appear now to be the earliest time for presentation of a report to the government.

ANOTHER QUESTION

What the government, if re-elected in the June 10 election, would do with it then is another question. Presumably, the report would not call for direct government or parliamentary action. Mr. St. Laurent's original idea appeared to be that it would concentrate some force of public opinion towards a settlement of the scrap. Just how is not certain.

At the moment, the commission is in recess in hearings here for a week, due to resume Monday until mid-June and then to take a tour of Ontario and Western Canada. It offered a hearing in the Maritimes, but found no takers. All hearings so far have been in Ottawa.

Here are the currently - planned dates, subject to possible changes, away from the capital:

Toronto, June 18-20; Winnipeg, June 27-28; Calgary, July 3-5; Vancouver, July 13-15.

First-hand inspections of diesel operations on the road and in yards will be interspersed among these hearings. The commissioner is expected to return here in early September for final hearings.

STICK TO THEORIES

So far, the antagonists of last January's strike are sticking by their basic theories, though the CPR has offered before the commission a long-term proposition to soften the blow of getting rid of its freight and yard diesel firemen.

The CPR says it would cost the company $38,000,000, when stacked against such savings it could make by doing this immediately. The union has been non-committal, at the hearings.

The CPR plan:

1. Firemen who joined the CPR before April 1, 1953—of these there are 2,450—would continue to ride freight and yard diesels with their seniority rights protected should they take a course leading to engineer.

2. About 465 firemen who entered the service between March 31, 1953, and April 1, 1956, would get a secondary right of protection, with guaranteed pay whether or not their type of work is available.

In the evidence before the commission, the union has brought witnesses—firemen, engineers and men working in yards—to say that the fireman is necessary in the cab with the engineer.

UNION VIEWPOINT

They have stated that the fireman acts as the eyes of the engineer on the left-hand side of the cab, apart from doing periodical checks of the diesel equipment. Some have given evidence that the lookout of firemen has averted accidents when the engineer's attention either was necessarily distracted or he could not see to the wards the left side of the track.

The CPR has stated in rail executives from Europe and some U.S. railroads to substantiate its claim that firemen are not needed on yard and freight diesels. Evidence of this, it says, has been that they keep firemen on, not because they are needed for efficient and safe operation of trains, but because in the last round of negotiations they had to agree to get a better union contract generally.

The publicly-owned CNR also provided a witness who said the railway had line feels firemen on road and freight diesels are unnecessary.

Atomic Physicist Develops Scientific Interest in Diabetes

TORONTO (CP) — An atomic physicist who developed a scientific interest in diabetes after discovering he had the ailment is heading a group of experts in experiments at the Charles H. Best Institute here.

Dr. Best and the late Dr Frederick Banting, co-discoverers of the insulin treatment for diabetes, were able in experiments 36 years ago to demonstrate the role of insulin injections in controlling the disease. But no one yet knows precisely how insulin acts to lower the excessively high blood-sugar level in diabetic persons.

Now Dr Gerald A Wrenshall has developed a system of using radioactive particles to measure the effect of insulin on the rate at which blood sugar enters and leaves and after the injection of insulin.

NEW APPROACH

Previous attempts to measure the effects of insulin involved comparison of different subjects with and without insulin. The new work provides researchers with a dynamic picture of insulin action as opposed to a static one.

Dr Wrenshall is one of few medical researchers who possesses a combined knowledge of medicine, physics and mathematics He has a degree in physics from Yale, and in physiology from the University of Toronto.

By using radioactive isotopes and tracing them with a geiger counter it is possible to make quantitive measurements without disturbing the system's normal functioning, Dr. Wrenshall explains

Part of the group's recent work has centred on the difference between the pancreas of diabetics and non-diabetics. This gland produces digestive juices and delivers them into the small intestines. In some diabetics it contains little or no insulin, while in others it is present in large amounts.

Dr. Wrenshall's group at present includes such research workers as Dr. Margaret Bates, Dr Margaret Henderson and Dr G R Williams

Taxes Unchanged

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld (CP)—The budget speech read to the Newfoundland legislature Wednesday by Finance Minister E. S. Spencer revealed the—province has exhausted its cash reserves and needs a $16,695,000 loan to continue its capital program. But taxes were left unchanged.

Mr. Spencer budgeted for a second current account revenue of $48,962,000 for the financial year between April 1, 1957 and March 31, 198. Current expenditures of $48,874,000 would leave a $79,000 surplus.

MEXICAN QUINTS DIE

CULICAN, Mexico (AP)—A report from the isolated mountain village of Cosala says a 14-year-old Mexican girl gave birth to quintuplets recently but that all five babies are dead. The mother was Juana Gomez Alfaro. Three of the premature babies were born dead and the other two died shortly after because they did not have proper medical care.

PC Leader Spells Out Program Of National Development on Swing Across West Coast

By ALAN DONNLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

COURTENAY, B.C (CP)—The Progressive Conservative election platform of national development under private enterprise has been spelled out by John Diefenbaker on the eve of his return swing eastward across Canada.

The Liberal government's trade and economic policies are leading the country "on the road to economic serfdom," the Conservative leader said here.

"You can't build a nation where everyone is a leaner on the state" he said earlier at Nanaimo. Where in the world trade last year imports exceeded exports by $450,000,000. The trade deficit with the United States alone was $1,200,000,000.

"How long can that go on? How long in your own home can you go on spending more than you take in?"

Canada had among the greatest natural resources in the world. To strengthen the country in a competitive world, secondary industry should be developed to process more raw materials, instead of exporting them.

United States capita Investment possessing under U.S tax laws an advantage over Canadian capital, was flowing into the country.

When a country lost control of its economy to foreign interests it would lose political control. Just as Canada asked immigrants to become Canadian citizens, it should see that foreign investment was carried out with Canadian aims in view.

Appeal Turned Down

KINGSTON (CP)—An appeal by Local 518 of the American Federation of Musicians that reporters be barred from meetings of the Kingston labor council has been turned down by the council.

A letter from Gilbert Snowden, secretary of the local, said that he objected to a story a reporter had written about a meeting of the council. He said that as long as there is a reporter in attendance there would not be a delegate from the musicians' union.

Dwight Storey, council-secretary said the council's constitution provides various clauses which offer speakers protection in keeping their statements from the press. He said Mr Snowden had not used these clauses and in the main the reporter's accounts had been accurate and fair.

WILL RUN AGAIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Mayor Jean Drapeau announced at a press conference Wednesday that he definitely will be a candidate for re-election at the municipal elections next Oct. 28.

employees now and not wait until after the election. The Conservatives would not criticize if that were done.

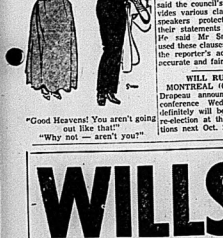
And at Nanaimo he spoke optimistically of "a tidal wave coming" to buoy up his party's chances in the June 10 election.

"I've been across this country—I've seen men and women now turning to us."

CRITICIZES TREND

Here he criticized the present trends of Canada's trade and industrial development.

He said the country Is developing haphazardly without a plan. In world trade last year imports exceeded exports by $450,000,000. The trade deficit with the United States alone was $1,200,000,000.



"How long can that go on? How long in your own home can you go on spending more than you take in?"

Canada had among the greatest natural resources in the world. To strengthen the country in a competitive world, secondary industry should be developed to process more raw materials, instead of exporting them.

United States capita Investment possessing under U.S tax laws an advantage over Canadian capital, was flowing into the country.

When a country lost control of its economy to foreign interests it would lose political control. Just as Canada asked immigrants to become Canadian citizens, it should see that foreign investment was carried out with Canadian aims in view.

Chicago Water Diversion Bill Passed by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to permit Chicago to divert more water from Lake Michigan.

Canadian officials have said the project could adversely affect Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River shipping.

The vote Wednesday followed a vigorous fight against the measure by congressmen from other Great Lakes states and warnings that President Eisenhower would veto the measure for the third time, Identical bills were vetoed in 1954 and 1956.

Representative J. Harry McGregor (Repr. Ohio) moved that the bill be returned to the public works committee until the state department completed water diversion negotiations with Canada The motion was defeated.

When Eisenhower vetoed a simular bill last year he stressed Canadian objections to the proposal.

CREATE DIVERSION

The measure would permit Chicago to divert an additional 1,000 cubic feet a second from Lake Michigan into the Illinois waterway, part of the Mississipi River system which drains into the Gulf of Mexico, Diversion has been limited to 1,500 cubic feet a second by a 1930 Supreme Court decision.

McGregor urged the House not to "slap our Canadian neighbors in the face."

"I am certain that this diversion will be agreed to by the Dominion of Canada and will be signed by the president," replied Representative Barratt O'Hara (Dem. Ill.).

Representative John A. Blatnik (Dem. Minn.), who heads the public works committee and harbors subcommittee which approved the bill, said the measure would mean a net loss of about $600,000 to hydro - electric facilities in the United States and Canada. He called the amount "inconsequential."

Representative John W. Byrnes (Rep. Wis.) said the measure might lead to Canadian diversion from the Columbia and Kootenay Rivers and hamper big hydro-electric projects in the West.

TV HITS NAPLES MOVIES

NAPLES (Reuters)—Neapolitan movie theatre owners will close down every Wednesday after June 5 because, they say, "television is sharply reducing our box-office takings." Television came to Naples a year ago. In other Italian cities, movie houses met the challenge by installing TV sets and showing the most popular TV programs at intermissions.

St. Laurent Not to Announce Promised Pay Hikes to Civil Servants Before Election

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says he intends to treat civil servants fairly but he will not bow to demands that he announce salary increases before the June 10 federal election.

Winding up his Nova Scotia tour, the Liberal leader here Saturday night referred to letters he had received asking that the announce pay hikes immediately instead of waiting until after the election as had been suggested he would do last week at Cobourg.

Any increases for federal employees—averaging about 130,000 or more—would have to wait until the next government was formed. The boosts were not intended as a "vote buyer" or "bribe," the Liberal did not think he would do an honest job after the election if he "turn to someone else."

He made this reference to the pay issue in a speech before some 1,800 persons rallying at an evening meeting, following his day-long, 160-mile auto tour through the Annapolis Valley. He had made speeches during the day in his appeal for the Maritime vote.

SHOUTS AT HIM

As he completed his Halifax Forum address, an unidentified young man yelled his way through the crowd, shouting at the prime minister and demanding to know the future of his job. Mr. St. Laurent said he could not discuss the matter at the moment. The young man persisted, was grabbed and led out by police. He visits to Saint John, N.B., Charlottetown and Fredericton. He will be back in his home province of Quebec Friday with a meeting scheduled at Sherbrooke.

Mr. St. Laurent appeared to have enjoyed Nova Scotia's balmy weather. In his Annapolis Valley tour, he stopped to chat briefly with Negro schoolchildren lined up before their country schools. He held outdoor meetings at Windsor and Hantsport and an indoor rally at Kentville.

He continued his arguments that there will be no nuclear world war; that the Atlantic provinces must share in Canada's prosperity; and that the link-up of Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker with Premier Frost of Ontario may lead to reductions in federal payments to other provinces.

"DANGEROUS THING"

At Halifax he reopened his attack, saying:

"We think it would be a very dangerous thing for Ontario and for Canada as a whole to create fear for the Atlantic provinces and the prairie provinces—if the Conservative party was allowed to upset the present tax-sharing arrangements with the provinces."

He suggested that higher taxes may result if Mr. Diefenbaker is elected to office. The policy of the Liberal administration was to reduce taxes year by year and he intend to keep that policy because we believe taxes should be reduced whenever they can be.

He estimated that the federal government distributed some $900,000,000 a year in family allowances and old age security payments. He stated that when Hon. George Drew, former national Conservative leader, was Ontario premier he had fought hard against the measure and he had support from the then Conservative leader in the Commons.

"So you think that any Canadian party can win through an election with a program directed against the family allowances act?" Mr. St. Laurent asked.

CIVIL SERVICE ISSUE

While he kept concentrating on Maritime advantages in the federal system, Mr. St. Laurent reiterated pledges to have the Maritimes "catch up" to Canada's general prosperity, the big local issue appearing to boil up considerably civil service pay increases.

Ken Green, vice-president of the Civil Service Association, told a meeting of local members here last Tuesday that members should demand of Mr. St. Laurent an immediate decision on requested pay increases.

"We are not a bunch of fish who need an artificial lure to get us to bite," Mr. Green said.

Edmund Morris, Halifax Progressive Conservative candidate, also asked in a campaign radio address Wednesday that Mr. St. Laurent announce increases immediately and not engage in a "partisan misuse of the civil service" in delaying the announcement until after June 10.

Mr. St. Laurent said no "lure" or "bribe" was intended. The government had already announced increases for 7,000 technical personnel.

DESERONTO

Town Refused Withdrawal From County System

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the town council was held Tuesday evening with all members present.

Reeve B. J. Twiddy reported regarding the delegation, which had waited on Hastings county council about the town withdrawing from the county road system and advised that the county would oppose the withdrawal, However, as result of the delegation, the county road committee and the Prince Edward road committee are to meet with members of parliament to discuss the promotion of a bridge connecting Hastings and Prince Edward.

Letter were received from two parties for the purchase of the same lot on Edmund street and the matter was referred to the property committee.

Council granted permission to the fire department to attend a firemen's parade at Dexter, N.Y., on May 31.

It was decided to take out more comprehensive accident coverage and the matter was referred to the finance committee with power to act.

At the request of the assessor council agreed to a six months trial of notices of changes in ownership as supplied by the county registrar.

A letter from Tyendinaga township regarding fire protection was referred to the fire and police committee. At a special meeting council had agreed to a standing fee of $150 per year plus an hourly charge for the use of the apparatus.

A letter from the insurance adjusters was received advising they were holding the town responsible for loss occurred by Mrs. B. Kelly. Council advised their solicitor to notify the adjustor that the town was not responsible for the loss.

As a result of discussion it was decided to advertise in the local paper warning unauthorized persons from using the town dump and to equip the dump with a strong gate and lock.

Mr. A. C. Burley was allowed to exercise his option to purchase lots 13-13-14-15 on Main street at the foot of George street for the erection of a coal yard.

Councillor Twiddy, chairman of finance, gave a summary of expenditures to April 30 and compared them with the committee appropriations.

There was some discussion regarding the installation of a light to notify the night constable when he was required to answer the phone.

Some discussion regarding the collection of garbage brought forth a motion that the streets committee meet with the town foreman to settle certain arguments.

A suggestion by Councillor George Knight that the town install their own gas pump was discussed to some length but no action was taken.

Councillor Walker gave a report on the meeting of the Lake Ontario Development Association. He advised that it would be a waste of money to publish a booklet which would only duplicate the work of the Association.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was writing down figures and adding them, and she said to pop, William, the amount of money you pay into inflated barber shops every year is rediculisa, considering that the amount of your hair is conspicuous by its absence. You have no idea, she said.

I have an idea that we settled that question, pop said.

Meening the question of ma cutting his hair for him, and ma said, Now William, I could cut your hair with 10 snips of my scizzers, and at the end of the year you would be 48 dollers richer, including tips and everything.

The prospect is alluring, pop said. I could do a lot with 48 dollers, if I spent it all in one place, but dont you think it would be rather unfair? he said, and ma said, Do you meen unfair to me?

I meen unfair to the barbers, pop said. I admit they only need about 5 minutes to tidy up my scanty locks, but on the other hand it sometimes takes them a half hour to give a trim to a man with a thick tangle of unruly hair.

How does that concern you for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, I'll explain how. I'm an important link in my barber's law of averages. He ballences the fleeting seconds he spends on me against the half-hour he gives the other man, and that's what keeps him contented with his job.

William, I have a lurking siapicion that you dumb my self as a hair cutter, ma said, and pop said, My dear, you reed me like a book.

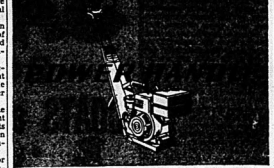
Meening he would just as leaf not save the 48 dollers.

AND THE CAMERA NEVER LIES

Although the government of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista has denied existance of guerilla bands, this photo was made by a U.S. television cameraman in the insurgents' mountain stronghold. Fidel Castro, head of the revolutionaries, is shown leading his men in a rousing cheer. The men were said to be well-armed and well-organized.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

W.A. Votes $200 To Church Fund



WHITE'S DISTRICT — The May meeting of White's Women's Association was held at White's Church on Thursday with the president, Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson presiding.

Business regarding the tea and sale was discussed. Work is being done on White's Church so the ladies voted $200 to be paid to the building and repair fund. It was decided to buy a gas stove for the church, and Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson, Mrs. Jack Glydon and Mrs. Walter Jones were named as the buying committee.

Delegates to the W.A. convention at Grace United Church on May 30 will be Mrs. William Yateman and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson.

A committee of Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, Mrs. L. Hunt, Mrs. W. Jeffery, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. L. Young and Mrs. Jack Glydon met at the home of Mrs. Jones to plan for the tea and sale on Thursday, May 23rd.

Gave President Car in Derby, Took It Back,

WINNIPEG (CP) — Legion Branch 141 Fishing Club Sunday night gave its president, Peter Sie a new automobile.

A half-hour later, the club took it back. And 150 other prizes, ranging from outboard motors to fishing reels, were recalled by the fishing club executive.

The rules for the club's annual fish-a-car derby said the heaviest fish in relation to the world record weight for the species (23 pounds, four ounces for pickerel and 46 pounds, two ounces for northern pike) would win. That is, a pike had to be a little more than twice the weight of a pickerel to take a prize.

The executive had obtained a conversion formula to work out the catches.

Dozens of entries Sunday varied no more than a few ounces in weight. The secretary toiled over his conversion tables, equalizing the pike and pickerel entries. Then prizes were awarded.

One contestant, checking out results later, found Mr. Sie's carwinning pickerel weighing two pounds 8¼ ounces had beaten out a five-pound, 12¾ - ounce pike which won sixth prize.

A recheck showed the conversion formula was in error. All prizes were recalled.

A chartered accountant will decide who finally gets the prizes.

SURPRISE TO OWNER

STRATFORD (CP)—Mrs. Janet Smart discovered about $2,400 in bonds missing from a strongbox in her home after provincial police visited her Tuesday to check on bonds registered in her name which they found in a car they had stopped for investigation. The car, containing two Stratford men, was reported to have been halted near Cobourg.

To Those Looking for Something Better

Christian Science has come to show that life, as God has given it to us, is in reality wholly safe and harmonious.

However dark or difficult things may seem, this truth is practical and provable now. The sure path of deliverance is revealed through thoughtful study of the Christian Science textbook

SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy

This truly Christlike path is open to all through scientific prayer. Such prayer brings joy and peace and freedom, as many grateful students testify.

Science and Health will be sent postpaid, on receipt of $3 by HORACE J. CABVER, Publishers' Agent One Norway Street, Boston 15, U.S.A.

This book may be borrowed from Corby's Public Library or Christian Science Society, 121 Foster Ave., Belleville, where services are held Sunday at 11 a.m. Testimonial meetings on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 8.00 p.m.

FRENCH MISSILE PASSES BATTLE TEST

This is the S-S10, a sensation new French guided missile, which was battle tested against Soviet-built tanks by Israeli forces in the Sinai peninsula campaign last fall. According to an official French military source, the 12-pound conventional charge in the surface-to-surface weapon renders the slow heavy tanks useless because they can all be destroyed. The missile, shown in its packing crates in Bourges, France, which also serves as its launching platform, is said to have a record of 90 per cent of hits. The U.S., Sweden and West Germany have ordered a total of 2,400 of the S-S10's with most of them going to the U.S.
